Judge Forsyth agreed, saying "All I have to do is give them a copy of the evidence. I can't do anything else."

Said Mr. Robinette:

"I think the most dangerous thing for you to pass judgment on anything. The matter is becoming a bit of a political issue and it is not desirable for your honor to become involved."

Roy Kellock, special Metro council counsel, disagreed.

"This commission has no business speculating on the outcome of the Grey Cup game whether it is being played in Vancouver or Toronto."

Montreal Mayoralty Candidates Using Bitter Words in Campaign

MONTREAL (CP) — The campaign for Monday's municipal election developed into a mud-slinging contest Tuesday night at the meetings of two mayoralty candidates.

Ex-mayor Jean Drapeau, who heads the Montreal Civic Movement, said Mayor Sarto Fournier "has no manners" and insulted royalty and other dignitaries who had visited Montreal.

He said Senator Fournier, who ousted him in the 1957 election, had "thrown smoke in the face" of Queen Elizabeth during the royal visit to Canada and had made ta-las to the television audience" while dancing with her husband, Prince Philip, at Expo 67.

He said that when a princess died in Montreal, Senator Fournier looked her over and "made a pass" at the princess.

"He told a movie actress (Gina Lollobrigida) that his chair would provide a special service because she sat in it."

Sen. Fournier had done nothing in the administration of the city's affairs "except to participate in scandals."

His comments were a reply to Sen. Fournier, who had earlier called Mr. Drapeau "the world's hypocrite in all history."

Moderate Drop In Unemployment In August, Sept.

Above Any Previous Sept. in Post-War Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada dropped moderately between August and September to a seasonally adjusted 327,000 but was still higher than any previous September in the post-war years, the government reported today.

Using Canada's new and official unemployment standard for the first time, the government said the labor force was 181,000 higher than a year earlier, unemployment was 91,000 higher and unemployment was 102,000 higher.

There was a drop of 25,000 among people "out of work and looking for jobs" between mid-August to mid-September.

	Sept. Aug. Sept. 1960 1960 1959
Labor force	6,474 6,623 6,293
Employed	6,147 6,321 6,096
Unemployed	327 332 225

TREND REVERSED

The drop in the September unemployment total reverses a trend of rising unemployment in the previous two months.

The government report—a joint release from the labor department and the bureau of statistics—said the figures "reflect in unemployment both growth in the Canadian labor force and seasonal automobile workers going back to their jobs for new-model production.

"The new jobless measure, this adds "does not include those and seeking work" to workers on temporary layoff up to 30 days, placed 1 per cent of the September labor force in the ranks of the unemployed. This compares with 3.3 per cent in August and 4.8 per cent in September, 1959.

Against this national average, the unemployment rate was the highest in the Atlantic, Quebec, and Pacific regions, but considerably lower in the Ontario and Prairie regions, the report said.

The report, based on the labor force survey of 35,000 households, also contains a breakdown of the unemployment rate by industry, age and sex.

Among the findings:

Unemployment in September, 268,000 were men, 59,000 women. Seasonally adjusted, necessary layoff—22,000—was relatively high for men this time of year, the report said.

However, there was little change in the duration of unemployment between August and September. Nevertheless, the total have been out of work for less than four weeks rose 1 per cent for four to six months and 15 per cent for more than six months.

UN Assembly's Disarmament Debate Begins

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The UN assembly's annual disarmament debate opens in the assembly Wednesday with no real signs that either the United States or Russia intends to give ground on their rival proposals.

With the world's two big powers expected to be locked in their obviously fixed positions, there was little hope of any break in the East-West deadlock that since June has prevented actual disarmament negotiations.

Metro Council Votes to Fire TTC Members

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto council voted Tuesday night to dismiss the five-man Toronto Transit Commission and replace it with another five-member body.

Metro Chairman Fred Gardiner called for the move on Council's decision, he said in an 11-to-10 vote, will be submitted Thursday to the Ontario government for approval. If the decision is upheld, the commissioners are dismissed effective Dec. 31.

Council voted to reconstitute the TTC after Jan. 1 as a five-member body, with one commissioner also being a member of council. Members would be appointed by Metro council.

However, it was decided to stagger their initial terms of office with two members affected for one year, one for two years and two for three years. Subsequent appointments, other than that of the council member, would be for three years. Council would appoint its member annually.

Council decided that a commissioner's term could be ended at any time on recommendation of the executive committee through a three-quarters majority vote of council members.

Mayors, Reeves Say Meeting Was Boring

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Mayor Frank Sykes of Belleville, conference on civil defence in Edmonton was a bore if that mayors and reeves attending had a hard time staying awake.

Mayor Sykes, city council that, because of untrained lectures had not been effective. He said a Canada and Rescue Alignment of Burnaby, near Vancouver, was appointed to express the group's dissatisfaction.

Mayor Sykes said the lectures lasted 3½ days and the meeting lectures for most of us very boring.

One cause was that these lectures had not been given by persons were army or air force or navy officers who had been invited and put into these jobs to try and get some enthusiasm for civil defence in Canada."

Joseph L. Coupal, RCAF Trenton, has been charged with careless driving following a collision of his car with a school bus on No. 2 Highway east of the air station.

Scouting at the Ontario School for the Deaf brings to the boys the same opportunities which are likewise provided to every Cub and Scout, a chance to develop their skills, self-reliance, initiative, comradeship, leadership qualities and a host of other good things which go to make a useful and respected young citizen.

O.S.D. Cubs and Scouts participate in activities similar to those that might be found at any Belleville pack or troop meeting. Since their program is similar, deaf Cubs and Scouts can take part in the accomplishing similar goals in Scouting, even though their handicap means added effort, time and patience, to succeed.

Participation in an annual hobby show, inter-visitation with other packs or troops in the Belleville area, competing in the spring Cuboree, assisting in O.S.D. Field Day and taking part in church parades all help to make Scouting at the O.S.D. boys with those in other districts. This participation is evident to dear children that they can participate in normal activities, can do a good job in their community and at the same time obtain enjoyment in the diversified activities.

Scouting at the O.S.D. helps to provide a home atmosphere, since many of the boys would have opportunities to join a pack or troop at home if they were available. Many of the last some of the 18th Belleville boys take part in camp activities sponsored by a group in their home town during the summer. Even the school's treasure to receive letters from Scouters in other parts of the province, commending the manner in which Cubs and Scouts of Cubs have taken part in summer camping programs.

It is most unfortunate indeed that the 100 Cubs and Scouts at the O.S.D. are not able to participate in Belleville's Scouting program.

The Belleville Boy Scouts Association is a member of the United Appeal which currently is seeking to raise $80,000 for distribution to its 11 participating agencies.

Motorists Will Be Requested To Assist in Traffic Survey

How many trips are Belleville motorists going to make about the city during the three-hour period between 10 o'clock and 1 o'clock on Friday afternoon, October 28?

That is the information being sought by Lenz, Cather and Company of Toronto, consulting engineering firm, now doing a traffic survey for the city.

To get this information without disrupting traffic, or the motorists, special green business return cards are now going out to Belleville and Quinte Friendship Chapter, after Grand Honors were accorded to the Grand Z. He took charge of the chapter.

In addition to his sincere appreciation for the welcome extended to him as a Companion, Grand Z specially touched he said as he was coming home to his own chapter.

To commemorate this history making event in the forty years of its activities, the chapter made a gift to the Provincial Grand Chapter of Ontario.

MASONIC CREED NEEDED

Most Ex. Companion Smith pointed out to the assembled companions that if Royal Arch Masons were to try and practise the principles upon which the Craft is founded they would be a great force for better living in the world. He said, sadly, that occasionally take stock of themselves and see if they were living up to the tangibles of Masonry. At the present time nothing is needed greater than the Masonic creed of "the fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of man."

Fire Destroys Three Cottages At Belmont Lake

A blaze fire believed started from smouldering stump roots which flared into flame after the recent rainfall, early yesterday afternoon destroyed three vacation summer cottages and a boathouse in the Belmont Lake area.

The fire departments from Belmont, Havelock and Marmora, assisted by dozens of volunteers fought the blaze, which threatened to spread to other cottages.

Over the weekend in a fall clean-up operations cottagers in the Belmont Lake area had been burning piles of rubbish and it was thought the fire were completely out, underground roots continued to smoulder and yesterday flared up and set the dry grass alight.

The blaze raced through the cottages, fanned by strong winds. Expensive boating equipment in the boathouse was also destroyed.

Suggests Wild-Fowl Feeding Through Licence Would Halt Illegal Baiting Activities

A change in legislation whereby wild-fowl feeding is permissible only by permanent residents would go a long way as a remedy for illegal baiting in eastern waters, it was suggested by a number of officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, during a recent 300 members of the Belleville Fish and Game Club.

Mr. Osmond headed a panel consisting of Dr. Jim Forrester, Bob Phillips and Douglas Bateman, which discussed the situation that resulted in the posting and closing of Bay of Quinte duck haunts this season.

RCMP Corporal R. E. Muir augmented the discussion with an outline of the rules, regulations and revisions of the Migratory Birds Act.

Present were Russ Whitfield, William Biddle and Gordon Dornan of the staff of the Trend division, Department of Lands and Forests, game conservation officers Claude Winters and Everett Pringle.

Feeding through licence only would cause would-be "feeders" to stop and be content to just start pre-season activities, Mr. Osmond said.

"There is no law against baiting but shooting over bait is an offence, regardless of who is doing the shooting," he said. "THEN STOP FEEDING"

The most pressing need for the improvement of duck production, he pointed out, is an inventory of production areas in eastern Ont., conditions of each and other information is a vital necessity, the speaker asserted, to preserve by securing this information.

"This is very important item and through it we hope to benefit waterfowl as well as the people of ducks in the province."

LIMITED FEEDING

Mr. Bateman felt that feeding ducks in July was not a good idea, but it would be good, inasmuch as it would draw ducks here. Fishermen are the best duck hunters!

He said he would like to see a comparison of costs of the various governments in relation to the acquisition of marsh areas and improvement of hunting, and the amounts spent in the fisheries program.

"We need improved nesting areas here," he said, "and to do that we must feed the ducks. Then they will nest here. They offer cover to nesting ducks and young ducklings. Then there would be a difficult proposition.

Mr. Forrester was strongly in favor of wholehearted co-operation from the provincial and federal governments.

"All groups have a part to play," he said. "Together they should think of something feasible and could enlist the help of fish and game clubs."

He felt that owners should show a little discretion in renting their hunting areas and not be like the one who said "they have been poaching for years, now they can pay for it."

"Renters go in a lot of expense" he said "Most of us obey the law and a little co-operation between hunters would go a long way. If we are to have good hunting here we must improve feeding as much as possible within the law."

"This solution rests in complete co-operation of all bodies. This year there has been a lot of misinterpretation of the law."

IMPROVE NESTING

Replying to the panel suggestions, Mr. Osmond said he agreed that improvement of nesting habitats would be the best answer locally.

He said there was no comparison between the cost of duck and fish production. A great deal of money is spent in fish hatcheries but because fish population is easier to expand. The problem of producing ducks is much more difficult. They cannot be domesticated.

He said the first requirement for the increase of game birds is more water, proper soil and shelter. Wild life crops depend on what grows in the marsh, he said. Part of the problem is that the soil type for game bird feed is also requisite for duck production.

In answer to the suggestion that the Belleville club open a meeting day to get the persons responsible for illegal baiting, Mr. Osmond said Ontario Provincial police officers had no choice in closing the baited areas.

"Corporal Muir, in this instance is the spokesman for the entire department in the carrying out of the law. The service is greatly understaffed."

George Whitman told the panel that Sheffield marsh had been depleted of wild rice and wild celery food by carp. He asked if it were possible to have the water levels to keep the fish out.

Mr. Osmond said it would be very difficult. The first thing to do is clear the creek of remains of the old dam, he said.

The growth of wild rice and celery is affected by water level fluctuations, he said.

Service Station On North Front Street Gutted

Early this morning local firemen were called to the Jim Burkitt Sunoco service station on North Front street where a fire had broken out in the stock room. The fire proved to be in the area in which the Belleville Fire Department has handled on some four fires in flames rapidly spread through the stock room to the building, creating a blaze sufficient to blow the windows out of the building.

The potential ferocity of the fire was considered by firemen to be such that firemen were able to move a tank truck loaded with gasoline from the area just out of the garage before the flames ignited its contents.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance stated this morning that damage was considered with a large amount of stock being consumed by the fire. Damage was done with a quantity of money which had been left in the building overnight and extensive damage to the building, the interior having been gutted. Damage to the actual financial loss involved had not been determined as of this morning.

During their two and a half hours on the scene the holocaust the lot of the firefighters was raised somewhat by the provision of hot coffee by Jack Cole, local contractor. Mr. Burkitt and his staff set up the station about eight o'clock.

Bridge Club Holds 'Stag' At Shrine Club

The Belleville Bridge Club held their opening night at the Shrine Club on Tuesday evening to officially start another season of the duplicate contract session. The twenty teams that will compose the league for the attendance and Doug Black, the social chairman, welcomed all and especially the new teams in the league this season. The secretary, Doug Black, then went on hand collecting fees and handing out the schedule of games.

The evening was spent in the teams playing together for the first time in preparation for the season. The results have been helped to get everyone interested by giving all different tables were able to meet other players more intimately. As well the play in many instances was real close but some good scores were made.

Joe Allard and Jim Aiken had the highest scores for the night with Eric Shulman and Jim Walker next in line. Doug Black and Ken Hollowell were in the third spot followed by Jim Bell and Gordon Burgess, Harold Mott and Homer "Red" Townsend were in fourth. Fred Bennett officials among the visiting delegations will be W. H. Shortt, Grand Counselor George Gladue of Penetanguishene, Grand Counselor W. P.S. Board to Get $5,000 More in Grants From Dept.

Resulting mainly from a request on the part of the local public school board for a better deal in annexation grants, Belleville public schools this year will receive approximately $5,000 more in grants than was anticipated at the time the year's budget was set.

Total public school grants for this year according to a third-quarter financial statement received by the board amount to $323,077.45.

Included in the year local board members felt the city should receive more in annexation grants and board chairman James Bitcher also with another board member went to Toronto to make the request. Since then some changes have been made in the annexation grant structure, resulting in the additional $5,000" being received by the local board.

This week's meeting of the board saw little business of a major nature, but much routine business was cleared up.

TO FENCE LANEWAY

Title to a laneway between Bayview School and Munro Park, used by children, was transferred to the school board and with the future acquisition of an additional small amount of property the laneway will be fenced. It is hoped to have been in use by school pupils for a number of days.

A request from the Bayview Home and School Association for an ice rink to be set up this winter in the school grounds was referred to the recreation committee with the explanation that district residents have complained about surface water running from school property. This will be a factor in whether or not the rink is made available.

Final approval for the construction of an elementary school at J. Clarke School in East Belleville has now been received from the Department and commencement of construction now is the first approval from the Municipal Board.

LESS THAN ESTIMATED

Contract for the construction of the school has been awarded to T. A. Andre and Company of Kingston at a figure of $233,777, which is about $15,000 less than the amount anticipated. Construction will commence immediately upon receipt of Municipal Board approval.

The new school will consist of seven regular classrooms, each with auditorium and special facilities for home economics and industrial arts.

Those present at the meeting, totalled $75,461.46.

Attending the meeting along with Chairman Bitcher and Mitchell were board members B. Bimbo, Mrs. C. H. Hutchinson, Mrs. Langsbere, M. Lovelace, N. McKibbon, Dr. J. Russell Geary, Jack Sproule, W. Townson, G. Trill and J. Valcamp.

Competitors Getting Stronger Every Day, Sales Club Told

Members of the Belleville Sales and Service Club last night were given a glimpse into the "exciting" 60s by John Pauley, senior accounts executive of McKim Advertising, Toronto.

Mr. Pauley, a graduate of the highly competitive advertising business, said more creativeness must be used in selling today as "we are to stay on our feet."

The "fabulous 50s saw more changes than the world had ever known, but the "incredible 60s in their debut early in the 50s in many cases had become staples by 1960.

"The 1960s will be even more challenging," he said. "But if we don't stay on our toes we'll end up on our backs. Competitors are getting stronger every day."

Mr. Pauley said five basic factors are at work in the country and everyone in the buying and selling business must consider them. He cited the growth of population, urbanization, mobility of the public, education and income as factors which influence the market.

"Canada, I understand, today is the world's fastest growing country and in such a small population increase of 22 per cent in the next 10 years," he said. "But the birth rate is not expected to account for any appreciable increase in population."

A "slip in the baby market" already has been felt in some industries, he said, in the next 10 years, 750,000 more children will be attending elementary schools than in 1960. "The schools aren't going to like it but the candy makers and soft drink manufacturers are going to like it."

NEED SELECTIVE APPROACH

There will be a "much greater" share for teenagers by 1970 and this will mean more food, clothes and luxuries aimed at this market or set will be in demand. But these same teenagers will not be "big spenders" and think manufacturers are going to like it."

NEED SELECTIVE APPROACH

There will be a "much greater" share for teenagers by 1970 and this will mean more food, clothes and luxuries aimed at this market or set will be in demand. But these same teenagers will not be "big spenders" and think manufacturers are going to like it."

There will also be a marked increase in the working ages, between 20 and 65 years of age, he said. These people will have their demands, too.

Now more than two-thirds of the people are living in urban areas and by 1970, said Mr. Pauley, 75 percent will. This already has had a great influence on Canada's economy. In this part of the province and farther west in it, the tendency no longer is to speak of the Toronto market/Province people now are more apt to speak of the Toronto market, a subtle encompasses also cities around Lake Ontario. This means that a selective approach is necessary in selling.

T.H.S. Principal Criticizes Tendency to 'Baby' Students

TRENTON — In an address to the Rotary Club Monday night, Dr. Donald Cameron of Trenton High School, decried the modern tendency to "baby" adult students. He said this was actually a cruel practice leading to the student's disillusionment in later years when he must learn to cope with life's problems.

The student should develop a sense of perfection about his achievements", he said.

Mr. Houston divided his address into "images" of education, outlining the teachers' responsibilities, the student's responsibilities and the school as a whole.

He said that teaching at its finest is a great art. An expert teacher could well have the command of language of an orator, the scientific skill of a surgeon, the great lawyer, the personal appeal of a movie idol, the personality of a brush salesman and the patience of Job. He must be able to inspire as well as teach.

There is a gradual drawing-out process between the teacher and the intelligent pupil. On the disciplined side there is the ever-coping with students with lazy or inadequate minds and the equally sapping task of trying to toss task of correcting examination papers until 3 a.m. on. This is often a dull job, broken only by the discovery of a student who is "funny" or a flash of brilliancy of reasoning. This discovery makes the teaching profession worth while.

Speaking of students as individuals, Mr. Houston said that although the manner of dressing has changed there is the same person of today has a different outlook than his father did. The world has remained much the same throughout the years. He must still master the basics of language, both oral and written and the basic principles of arithmetic mathematics and uses these skills to acquire knowledge and to master more complex skills which will enable him to live successfully in this ever-changing world.

He must add to his knowledge by reading and observation and be willing to devote the required time to home-work and reviewing.

DAILY EVILS

The principal and the teaching staff of any school must cope with the daily evils and occasional evils. There are changes in the habits and life of the student brought about by the introduction of such items as television, hi-fi, spectacular magazines.

School life, he said, must compete with community life with its sporting events, social distractions as movies, organized sports, spectator sports, and the soda fountain and smoking.

To the increasing burden on the school are added new fields of knowledge, the expanding content of the guidance and specialized the curriculum to include such subjects as home and economics, shop, physical education and games.

Mr. Houston expressed himself as opposed to the efforts of the "new math" now being taught in the secondary schools. He said this would lead to economy and a lack of selection of some minority groups. He also said that he was against such subjects as sex education and driving instruction being taught. Such subjects should be taught in the home, he said and not left up to the school.

"The task of the teacher," he said, "is to impart accurate knowledge to the student, and I think we are very fortunate in the calibre of teachers that we have in Ontario."

Navy Cadet Band Will March Nov. 6

TRENTON—For the past few weeks the docks of the good ship RCSCC Trent, on the top floor of the Community Gardens, have resounded to martial music played by the recently formed naval corps trumpet and drum band.

Members of the band, under the leadership of RCAF Cpl. Bob Pare, have been asked to participate in the Nov.6 church parade of the Trenton Legion Branch.

While band practice is the paramount activity of the corps at the moment, rigorous training in other phases of naval cadet work are also being carried out. Training encompasses seamanship, signal practice, wireless telegraphy, rules of the road, rifle drill, field gun drill, boat work, compass and chart training, and the practice of knot tying and splicing.

The boys carry out training manoeuvres under the direction of Lt. G. M. Parc, Lt. B. H. Wade and Lt. R. H. Wright.

Mayor James MacDonald, chairman of the Navy League of Trenton, said he was very pleased with the corps.

On Sunday, Oct. 23, the corps will take part in an inter-corps church parade at Belleville. The parade will proceed from the Armouries at 10:15 a.m. to Christ Church and St. Michael's Church. Following lunch, the boys will participate in a comprehensive sports program at the Armouries and the YMCA.

Fire Destroys General Store At Glen Miller

GLEN MILLER — Fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed the general store and residence of Mr. and Mrs. Dean VanCliet on Highway 33 here. Loss was estimated at $25,000.

The fire was spotted almost simultaneously by a passing motorist and the two VanCliet children, aged 8 and 9, who were watching television in their father in the family apartment upstairs. The alarm then was believed to have started in the store.

Firemen, who fought the fire for more than three hours, said the children saw the first signs of the blaze but thought nothing of it. They were watching cartoons. At almost the same time, a passing motorist alerted the three-year-old Mrs. VanCliet has for some time been in hospital.

Firemen called had difficulty in phone line was laid across a ditch and water drawn from the canal.

Also destroyed in the fire were two gasoline pumps in front of the store and a nearby hydro pole. Underground gasoline storage tanks did not explode, and although the fire also broke some hydro wires, there was no power failure in the community. Firemen moved

CHRIST CHURCH

On Sunday evening the 2nd Belleville group attended Evensong. To those of us who have privileged to be there it was a beautiful service.

The stately colour party with Troop, Pack and Union Flags led the parade, followed by a procession of marching Cubs and Scouts properly uniformed and looking very smart. Auxiliary ladies and committee men formed the rear guard and completed almost a full attendance of Christ Church Boy Scouts group.

Ven. Archdeacon J. B. Creegan conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Everett Smith. The Archdeacon in his sermon to the boys reminded them that the badges they wore with justifiable pride were symbolic not only because of the honest effort expended in the studies and work put in to gain them.

The congregation was unanimous in its praise of Akela Margaret Kemp, Scoutmaster Lionel Bisker and their assistants for bringing the troop and pack to the excellent degree of perfection that they have attained. We are all very pleased to be associated with this efficient, and happy group.

Significant Facts

The other day The Ontario Intelligencer carried a brief five-inch article on life insurance held by Canadians.

Seldom have so many significant facts been packed into such a short article. It would require many columns of space—and a greater knowledge of economics than we possess—to outline all the implications.

For instance, it was stated that in 1959 payments to policy holders and beneficiaries were more than double similar payments in 1950. That payments should jump in this fashion in nine short years is truly amazing. The explanation is that not only has life insurance ownership in Canada increased but policies in force have aged. In other words, we are now benefiting from the financial wisdom many Canadians first displayed when they originally purchased policies several years ago. Only an actuary, armed with up-to-date life-expectancy tables and with complete information on all the life insurance in force, could come close to predicting what amount of stimulus life insurance policies will give to the Canadian economy in the years ahead. Even he would be faced with a number of unknowns, such as the purchasing power of the dollar in future years, the population of the country and the type of options which policy holders will select in drawing their benefits. One thing, though, appears certain. Life insurance payments are likely to become more and more than a less, important factor as years pass.

Another point is that Canadians, although they are piling up high figures for consumer credit—or debt—are still saving something for the future. Canadians' income after taxes increased six-fold since the mid-twenties, but the amount of life insurance in force has increased nine-fold. Once again this is not the whole story. It needed to be necessary to have become a some weary chapter.

This is why the world has always had a double attitude toward the artist. On the one hand, appreciation and respect; on the other, envy and resentment. "Making a career is easy," Cocteau said, "the difficult thing is one that is so devilishly hard." One false step taken by a "hero" and he is dragged into the abyss of oblivion.

Is Housing Sound?

Kingston Whig-Standard

Are too many expensive houses being built on speculation and are there certain uneconomic aspects of the industry which are giving private lending institutions qualms about many mortgage loans? In other words, is something other than high interest rates and high costs holding back house building?

Exchange Professors

Heightened international tension has served to obscure the fact that the Iron Curtain has become porous.

To listen to most speakers, from President Eisenhower and Chairman Khrushchev down, one would think that contact with the opposing ideologies would be avoided like the plague.

It is, therefore, surprising to learn that during the next two years Russians will be teaching in universities in the Canadian provinces of Manitoba and Ontario and Canadians will be instructing Russians at universities in Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and Tashkent. Altogether twenty Soviet and American professors will be involved in the exchange. The Soviet teachers will give Russian courses in American institutions, the American teachers will teach English to Russian students. It is difficult to believe that there will not inevitably be some exchange of ideas on questions other than those relating to Russian and English grammar.

A Sydney aviation journal, discussing instrument flying, says ". . . the instrument approach may be very difficult to accomplish with attendant risk of ground contact by some part of the aeroplane other than the landing gear and at a place at variance with the pilot's wishes" . . . Ah, yes! In our flying days this phenomenon was called a crash! (Peterborough Examiner.)

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE ALL HAVE ONE

Ralph Waldo Emerson became bearing some burden. We all very forgetful in his old age. It embarrassed him greatly that he could not remember people's names, so he had a technique by which he tried to hide the fact that his mind was losing some of its vigor. He would extend his hand to the person whose name he could not recall and as he shook hands with him would say "How's the old complaint?"

He knew everybody had one. Such a thing as getting through life with no complaint to haunt us is practically unknown. In all this wide world there is not a person living today, nor has a person ever lived, who is not have a complaint of some kind. For many people it is physical. Backache is said to be the most widely spread complaint among mankind. We are all sorry or ashamed, or perhaps both, of things we have said and done. Think what opportunities we have missed! Think of the things we said which should have been left unsaid! Complaint, complaint, complaint — life is full of complaint. We all have some complaint gnawing away at us.

So Emerson's remark sometimes used to hail the stranger with the query, "How's the old complaint?"

What's yours?

Stirctly Personal

True Praise Symbolizes Character

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I know many persons who pride themselves on their symbolic word—neither misfortune, and they take a great satisfaction in their failure. But "feeling sorry for" is one of the cheapest substitutes and most self-ful-filling of emotions.

What is much rarer — and what is, to me, the mark of a genuinely high character — is the ability to applaud someone else's good fortune. Especially that of someone we know.

"Anybody," as Wilde observed in one of his plays, "can sympathize with a friend's misfortunes, but it takes a very exceptionally fine character to sympathize with his success."

We are eager with condolences when a friend suffers a loss, but our congratulations are always streaked (or at least tinged) with envy and competitiveness when he achieves a dazzling success.

A part of us begrudges him his good fortune, waits for him to fall, and begins a search for flaws and faults, and changes for the worse in his attitude. Any such assumption of superiority on his part can infuriate us to a murderous degree.

It is no trick to be generous to the unfortunate, or to live easily among our peers. But when one of our fellows shows us — through a sudden promotion, or a substantial increase, or a marriage that makes our lookin and lusterless — that we are not the center of the ultimate of our generosity of nature.

I have felt this (and felt) and I shamefully include myself in this large category. We are strong enough to extend a friendly arm to those weaker than ourselves, but to those who have become a some weary chapter.

This is why the world has always had a double attitude toward the artist. On the one hand, appreciation and respect; on the other, envy and resentment. "Making a career is easy," Cocteau said, "the difficult thing is one that is so devilishly hard." One false step taken by a "hero" and he is dragged into the abyss of oblivion.

Miracles of the Universe
The Sun

BY HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 2

Harlow Shapley estimates that there are over 100,000,000,000,000,000 (100 Quintillion) stars in the universe. These stars are large and small, hot and cold, pale, faint, light and dense, alone or in pairs or other arrangements, white hot and red warm, young and old.

Our Sun is a very ordinary star. It is a large ball of hot gas. The temperature in the centre of the ball is 15,000,000 degrees, at the end of the ball it is 6000 degrees, and out in its atmosphere several hundred thousand miles, it is 1,000,000 degrees.

Our Sun is not young and it is not old. Estimates of its age vary. It is middle-aged — perhaps from 4 to 5 billion years old. Some stars are older and some are much younger than the Sun. Some stars have died and no longer shine. Some stars have exploded in a state of excitement or depression and have blown their bodies out in a new universe. (In later articles on stars we will discuss these matters).

Our star is an average size star. Its 865,000 miles in diameter (the earth is 8,000 miles in diameter). The smallest star is said to be 1,585-6 near Sirius which is 2,000 miles in diameter. The largest star is about 1,800,000 miles in diameter.

The Sun is 100 times as big as the earth in diameter and the star Aldebaran is 100 times larger than the Sun.

The Sun weighs 2,200,000,000-000,000,000,000,000 tons which is 330,000 times more than the earth. Some stars are 15,000 times as dense as the Sun. Some are so light in weight that a cupful would weigh eight to ten tons on earth.

The Sun has nine planets revolving around it. Some scientists believe that likely there are between 100,000 and 1,000,000 other stars which have planets which like earth, support life, also revolving around them.

The Sun is 93,000,000 miles away from the earth — therefore the Sun is the only star close enough to earth to permit a detailed study of it.

HOW FAR NEIGHBOUR

The next nearest Sun (or star) to earth is Alpha Centauri which is 23,000,000,000,000 miles away (25 trillion miles). Travelling at 670,000,000 miles an hour it would take four years to reach it.

Recent discoveries by telescope seem to indicate that travelling at 670,000,000 miles an hour, it would take you approximately 6,000,000,000 (6 billion) years to reach the nearest star. (So pack a few provisions along — there are some nice clean gas stations en route).

The Sun gives off light which travels at 670,000,000 miles an hour and takes therefore eight minutes to reach the earth after it starts out from the Sun.

Some estimates have been made that the Sun will last another 50 billion years. (It is thought to be between six and nine billion years old now). (But the universe may not last another 39 billion years).

The Sun's surface is composed mostly of the atom hydrogen (75%) but it seems to possess most of the other atoms in its composition. It is suspected that the Sun is younger than many stars, and likely possesses some elements which have evolved from an exploding star (perhaps uranium and thorium for example).

Great tongues of luminous gas (say 100's of thousands of miles) up into the space from the surface of the Sun sometimes which with Sun spots, we will discuss in a separate article.

The Sun rotates on an axis as does the earth. The Sun being composed of the continents rotates at different speeds at different latitudes. The equator of the Sun it rotates once every 25 days, at 30° north and 30° south it rotates once in 27 days. Near the poles the surface rotates once in 35 days. Thus, as Dore Mehlin says "Thus the sun is seen to 'flow' around, with equatorial regions moving ahead of the polar regions in much the same way that the current in a river moves more rapidly than the slower water near the bank".

The Sun rotates at its equator at 1400 miles an hour, while the earth rotates at its equator at 1000 miles per hour. (So the Sun rotates faster at its equator than does the earth).

The earth rotates counter-clockwise as does the Sun and all its planets but one. Venus is one of the complicated facts to explain in the origin of the solar system.

The Sun continually generates 400,000,000,000,000,000,000 horsepower and consumes 1,250,000 tons of its mass every second to produce this energy. Each square yard of the Sun's surface radiates 70,000 horsepower continuously. Yet, even at this rate of consumption of energy, it has a probable life of years before the Sun dies.

Historic Hastings

Early Plea for Reading

(Article 126 in the series prepared by the Hastings County Historical Society)

As we remarked in the last column, the Thurlow Circulating Library was founded in 1811 was possibly the earliest library in the area.

The library board's report of its first year's operations noted the extreme difficulty of commencement. Subsequently the report continued:

"We also consider it a duty which we owe to this neighborhood, to endeavour to impress on its inhabitants the great value of mental improvement—fifty years ago this section of the country was nothing but log bowling wilderness, the habitation of savages and wild beasts—now every part around us bears the impress of civilization and presents a most favorable contrast. While everything around us is improving, shall we only remain stationary?"

A good question! And the library board has had some further thoughts along this same line to defend the youthful institution.

"You are doubtlessly well aware that scientific improvement judiciously applied to agriculture, causes the land to yield more, the quality of the grain to be greatly meliorated, enhances their value in the market; so it is with mental improvement; but if the spring put forth no blossoms, in summer there will be no beauty and in autumn no fruit; so if youth be trifling away their precious moment, manhood will probably be contemptible, and old age miserable.

"It is a consideration of no small weight that reading furnishes materials for interesting and useful conversation. Those who are ignorant of books, their neighborhood, the state of the times, the news, the report, the tale of scandal, the foolish story; those make up the circle of their conversation; the whole topics of their conversation, because they know nothing else, because they know nothing else, because they know nothing else

Improved Forestry Practices Add to Wealth of Tweed Area

By J. W. KEENAN

This week has been declared National Forest Products Week in recognition of the vital contribution of the forest industry to the Canadian economy.

The forest industry in the Tweed Forest District had its recorded beginnings in the year 1790 when the first sawmill was established, in conjunction with a grist mill, on the lower Moira River. Since then, the forest industry has grown with the country and, over the years, has with agriculture been the backbone of our rural economy.

The early forest industry, in this area with the exception of lumber production for the local market, was primarily concerned with logging square timber from the virgin white pine forests. These great hand - hewn timbers were driven down the York, the Madawaska, the Bonnechere and the Moira Rivers on the first leg of their journey to overseas markets.

This was a period of great waste. Only the choicest trees were good enough for square timber. As a result many fallen trees with a minor defect were culled out and left as waste, their rotting hulks of many of these giants can even now, 100 or more years later, be seen where they were felled.

During the period from 1850 to 1910, the pine lumber industry was at its peak. Names such as Rathbun, Gilmour, Gillies and Bronson were prominent in the industry. Millions of board feet of lumber flowed from forest to mill to markets overseas and in the United tates. The utilization practices of the logging era had somewhat improved by this time but a general carelessness with fire more than offset any gain in this direction. Mute evidence of this failing are the fire - scarred hills along No. 7 highway.

In the year 1871, the town - ships of Kaladar, Elzevir, Sheffield, Hindhinbrooke and Kennebec yielded an aggregate of over 48 million board feet of pine sawlogs. Compare this with the volume of timber being logged from this same area today — probably not more than 2% of this volume. And yet given adequate protection from fire — This area would today have been carrying a stand of mature pine.

In the early part of this century, our vast hardwood forests began to come into their own. Early operations logged only the choicest of trees but here again, over the years, utilization has gradually improved.

Today, approximately 126 sawmills, two veneer mills and one pulp mill are active in this district in the manufacture of primary lumber products. A host of secondly wood - using industries, both urban and rural, remanufacture the primary products into a variety of items for the consumers market.

In the forest, almost all species of trees can be utilized to advantage. The recent hard - wood pulpwood market permits the utilization of much lowgrade material not suitable for sawlogs. Excellent fire protection measures, and proper silvicultural management of the forest guarantees the perpetuation of the forest crop.

The Tweed District offers an excellent opportunity for a soundly based forest industry. The forest sites are very productive, the native tree species are valuable and markets are close. Industry in this district will continue to contribute, towards a national industry which accounts for one out of every seven dollars worth of commodities produced and for nearly 30% of Canada's domestic exports.

MODERATE DROP

slick, which for the first time has formal, government approval, is based on a bureau-of-statistics survey of 35,000 households across Canada. It changes some definitions slightly and adds people on temporary layoff to the jobless total, but does not upset the basis of the survey.

In Ontario unemployment declined from August to September but remained higher than last year. There were 109,000 people out of work in September, compared with 124,000 in August and 73,000 in September last year. A drop in housing construction accounted for much of the year-to-year increase in unemployment to 4.8 per cent of the labor force from 3.3 per cent.

A seasonal drop of 41,000 reduced the September estimate of people with jobs to 2,262,000 - largely because students and other summer workers left the labor force with the end of harvesting and the tourist season. Production was resumed by the auto and allied industries and employment levels in canning and preserving and in food-processing plants reached seasonal highs.

Slowdowns occurred in certain parts of manufacturing, notably iron and steel, heavy electrical equipment and shipbuilding.

Govt. Probing Series of Fires In Nicolet, Que.

MONTREAL (CP) — The provincial government says it is investigating a series of fires in Nicolet, Que.

Informed sources said the government regards the investigation as just a job. But Presse, the Montreal daily, said some things that have been happening in the little town belong in a crime novel.

La Presse said annual fire loss in the town of 5,000, 70 miles northeast of Montreal has averaged $200,000 annually for the past 10 years but previous investigations have never turned up anything unusual about them. In the early winter of 1958, a coal - fire gration burned out the town's business section.

The newspaper said the current inquiries are the result of "extremely serious" information concerning an alleged conspiracy to set fire last winter to a rooming house where 30 people lived.

La Presse said that some of provincial police files in the rooming house case are missing. that Nicolet's active deputy police chief has been fired and that persons visiting Nicolet who are inquisitive have been quietly asked:

La Presse said that reforms evidently being carried out in the fire commissioner's office are overdue and that in Quebec in 1959 "due to the inefficiency of the service" insurance companies paid out $7,500,000 damages on fires of doubtful origin.

NATURAL GAS

Canada had more than 1,000,000 users of natural gas in 1960, 92 per cent domestic consumers, about four times as many as in 1951.

A plaque commemorating a pioneer Church of England clergyman, the Rev. John Stuart, was unveiled on the grounds of St. George's Cathedral in Kingston, recently. This plaque is one of a series being erected throughout the province by the Department of Travel and Publicity acting on the advice of the Archaeological and Historic Sites Advisory Board of Ontario. Participants in the ceremony, shown left to right, were: The Hon. W. M. Nickle, MRE, QC, Ontario's Minister of Planning and Development; the Most Rev. W. L. Wright, DD, DCL, Archbishop of Algoma; the Very Rev. A. T. Briarly Browne, DD, Dean and Rector of St. George's Cathedral; Alderman Edward Watts of Kingston; Prof. G. F. G. Stanley of the Royal Military College, a member of the Historic Sites Board, and Mr. R. W. Trumpour, secretary of the Kingston Historical Society.

The surface is not of uniform brightness.

The Sun shines not because it is burning, but because of nuclear reactions which we shall deal with in another article.

This, then, is something of the Sun. It will occupy our attention in many succeeding articles because it is such an evergrowing fact. How was it born? Why does time pass slower on the Sun than on earth? How does the Sun keep the earth in an orbit by gravitation? What makes the Sun shine?

WOULD BE 'DISASTER'

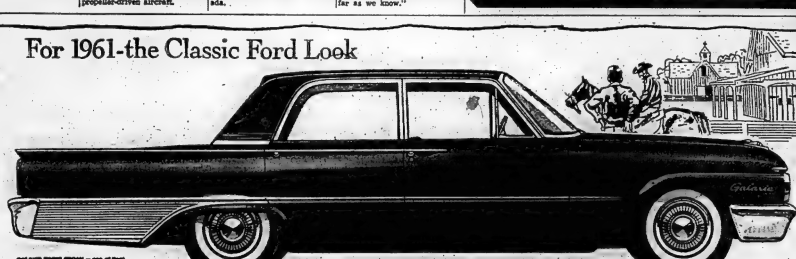
SALISBURY (AP)—Sir Edgar Whitehead, premier of Southern Rhodesia, declared Tuesday it would be "disaster" if the Rhodesian Federation were—broken up. Opening Southern Rhodesian parliamentary debate, he said that secession by Nyasaland or Northern Rhodesia could have almost adverse effect on Southern Rhodesia's economy.

Marmora Municipal Committee To Meet Diefenbaker Nov. 1st

The Marmora district municipal committee formed to see what action could be taken to prevent the closing down of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company at the end of this year, will meet with Prime Minister Diefenbaker, and department ministers in Ottawa on November 1st.

Committee chairman Reeve William Shannon of Marmora said the Nov. 1st date for the delegation to go to Ottawa had been confirmed. More than 25 persons, including committee members, are expected to make the trip to Ottawa.

Rodney Webb of Norwood, M.P. for Hastings-Frontenac, did much to arrange the meeting with Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The meeting had been scheduled for earlier in October but Mr. Diefenbaker was suddenly called to his mother's bedside in Saskatoon. W. Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West, earlier arranged a meeting in Marmora when provincial officials met in Marmora with committee members.



One of the oldest industries in the Central Hastings area, the Deloro firm is being forced to close down because of falling markets and lack of cobalt ore for processing.

SUSPENDS SENTENCES

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — An appeal court Tuesday suspended the prison sentences of half of the 146 Negroes who went to police stations last March 21 saying they did not possess obligatory identity documents and demanded to be arrested. The 146 originally were sentenced to pay a fine of £30 (|84) and to be given three years in prison. The appeal court upheld the fines but suspended the prison terms.

GROSE — RITCHIE

Christ Church, Bellerville, was the scene on Saturday, October 8, for a very pretty wedding when Barbara Anne Ritchie became the bride of Paul Reginald Grose. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ritchie, of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. M. Brown, of Belleville, and Mr. G. Grose, Archdeacon C. B. Creegan, officiated at the ceremony and at the nuptial mass. Lovely baskets of white 'mums, and gladioli adorned the altar, and white satin bows marked the guest pews.

Mrs. Lloyd Sargent, Mr. John Croyden Withers, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the choir of ten boys in their rendition of the 23rd Psalm, before the ceremony and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" while the register was being signed.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her bridal gown of white chiffon taffeta, fashioned with pleated bodice having an exquisite lace collar slightly draped over the shoulders forming a sleeve effect and extending at the back into a deep V point of lace at the waistline. The full skirt was in ballerine-length. She wore a headdress-type headdress adorned with seed pearls and silver leaves and shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion edged with rolled edge and carried a nosegay of red Sweetheart roses with white baby 'mums and white satin streamers.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of wedding bells, and misted about the base with white tulle and miniature rosebuds. White candles in tall holders and the bouquets of the bridal attendants made an extra nuptial accent.

Walter Cassel, Baritone, Heard At First Community Concert

By EUGENE LANG

The 1950-51 series of presentations by the Belleville Community Concert Association was inaugurated last evening in the Collegiate Auditorium before a large audience made up of old-timers, regulars and newcomers, who were present to hear the distinguished baritone of both the Metropolitan Opera Company and the New York City Opera Company, Walter Cassel, in recital here.

Since making his "Met" debut in 1943 Mr. Cassel has appeared with numerous major musical organizations in both the U.S. and Canada and is steadily in demand for concert engagements, both in person and on radio and T.V. He also has starred in musicals and operettas and has made many operatic appearances abroad. Two years ago he set a record by singing three difficult baritone roles at the Metropolitan Opera within the short space of only twenty-four hours. Mrs. Cassel appeared here many years ago with the small vocal group at a Community Concert presentation, so is not exactly new to Belleville audiences.

The program chosen by Mr. Cassel (or his management) was more of Town Hall calibre than that which would lend itself easily to listeners in the smaller towns. This is not to say that Belleville audiences are unappreciative, but one must admit that with two exceptions numbers on the program did not ring familiar bells in local ears. Perhaps two or three selections of more universal appeal would have sufficed better, thereby making musical thirsts instead of just dampening the tongue.

Works by Handel, Gay, Respighi, Giordano, Faure, Debussy and Massenet made up the first part of the recital and in each of these numbers the soloist showed remarkable flexibility of timbre and a formidable degree of characterization, imparting into each offering a thorough sense of dramatic projection. "The Omnipotence" of Schubert proved majestically soul-searching in Mr. Cassel's masterful interpretation, even though sung in English. The only unknown Handel arias were delightfully different and welcome for their spontaneous charm and lyrical affluence.

The two operatic excerpts were sting with intense feeling and again gave the singer further chances to exhibit his vocal capabilities in his delineation of these respective roles.

Numerous opuscula, mostly of recent American vintage, made up the second part of the program. The Arden-Wile numbers seemed to have won affection in the hearts of the audience, as witnessed by the applause following these selections. The LaForge songs were character studies of great emotion, but of very little musical worth. Arthur Somervell's "Kingdom by the Sea" was very carefully delivered by Mr. Cassel in a manner that added to the impact of the song.

Three encores were given, to the delight of the audience, with Oley Speaks' "On the Road to Mandalay" thunderously intoned and thunderously applauded.

The Accompanists, Mr. Archibald Black, added greatly to the performance by his nicely shaded pianistic stylings, also with his two solo ventures into the realm of French piano music of intermission.

The final total — a good recital, an excellent baritone, but a concert which could have been improved by a change of program content, which to be blunt, was far from pleasing.

Following the concert Mr. Cassel and accompanist, along with workers, members of the executive and Board of Directors of the local Association, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Black on MacDonald Avenue.

A READER DISAGREES

The following letter from a reader pleased me very much. It's a healthy reaction when a person takes me to task for something I have said with which she does not agree!

She is taking exception to my comment that gifts should not be taken when paying a call or when you are a guest in someone's home for dinner. I quote:

"It's possible that out of millions you are right and they are wrong! I am almost sixty years old and as long as I can remember I have been on the receiving end of gifts. If a friend of my husband's called, he always showed up with a box of candy. Or a friend of mine that I have not seen for twenty years would bring me a lovely piece of costume jewellery. My cousins also may bring a large chocolate cake. So please don't try to change a custom that started even before the 'Wise Men visited the Manger' carrying gifts. Let the givers get some happiness out of giving!"

I'm very much afraid this lady misunderstood me! I'm all for the giving of gifts in circumstances such as she has mentioned. When I said that gifts should not be taken when making a call, I meant that it was not necessary to do so when making a formal visit or when calling on someone whom you do not know well. This only brings embarrassment to the recipient who has no reason to expect it and who may feel that she should repay in kind.

Having received several letters from readers who said that they had attended luncheons and dinners and had had some of the other gu orhandsbou other guests had brought gifts, I answered their question, which in ri cases was "Is this a new ruling? Should a gift be taken every time we are invited to someone's home?"

My answer was that I did not know where this odd idea got started. O course it is nice, and thoughtful, to take flowers, candy or maybe a book when visiting an old friend, if you wish to do so. But isn't it stretching things a little far to be obligated to take a gift every time you are a guest in a friend's home?

It would certainly seem so to me. In my opinion, a gift should never be expected unless the party is a special celebration, such as a birthday, bridal shower, baby shower, or a housewarming.

"A Penny Saved Is A Penny Earned"

By Mary Moore

Somehow we women in Canada have to do something about our current unemployment situation. Mr. Diefenbaker called some of the best brains in commerce and industry, and journalists to Ottawa to give their ideas on solving unemployment. But do you suppose one of them will enlist the help of women?

If we girls economize that amounts to the same thing as "a penny saved is a penny earned." It means too that we will think and work harder with the happy result that we will have some surplus housekeeping money. Canadians are buying Canadian products. If our women-buyers, about four million strong, did this, it would be a basic move in strengthening our economy and harnessing our work forces.

Dinner Menus

WEDNESDAY

Barbecued Spareribs or Pork Chops; Baked Potatoes with Sour Cream with Chives; Green Peas; Waldorf Salad; Plum Puff; Coffee.

Entertaining does not have to be curtailed necessarily, for you can use such hearty dishes as Stuffed Cabbage Rolls for buffet or chafing dish specials. Actually today I am giving you the recipe for Stuffed Cabbage Rolls because I enjoy them so much. These amounts serve 8. If you have a small family, Stuffed Cabbage Rolls improve the second time they are served, so make up the whole amount and serve the leftover rolls two days later, reheated.

STUFFED CABBAGE ROLLS

12 to 14 large cabbage leaves; 2 pounds ground beef; 1 cup finely rolled crumbs (shredded wheat or triscuits are recommended) or 1 cup partially cooked rice; 1 cup chopped onion; ½ teaspoon dry mustard; ½ teaspoon pepper; ½ teaspoon basil; 2 eggs, well beaten; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon garlic salt.

Soak cabbage leaves in boiling water for about 2 minutes. Drain. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Spoon about 4 tablespoons of mixture into centre of each leaf. Fold over envelope style. Secure with toothpicks, if necessary. (Millie Day says if you arrange them open side down toothpicks are not necessary). Place in shallow baking dish. Pour sauce (see below) over cabbage rolls and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. ¾ to 1½ hours. If desired, trimmer to drain fat from a party.

SAUCE:

Heat together 2 cups tomato juice, tomato catsup, 1 cup chili sauce and 1 tablespoon horseradish.

Another dish that may be concerned readily for guest meal service is a Meatloaf Ring, for you can turn it out on your best round serving plate or platter, and fill the centre with fluffy mashed potatoes and garnish the outside edge with colorful creamed vegetables.

MEATLOAF RING

2 pounds ground beef; 1 cup crackers, crushed; 1 teaspoon thyme; 2 tablespoons each parsley; 1 small onion, chopped; ¼ cup ketchup; 1 8-oz. can mushroom stems and pieces; 2 eggs, beaten.

Mix all ingredients. Pack into lightly oiled 1-quart ring mould or loaf pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 40 to 50 minutes. Turn out on serving plate. Fill centre of ring with mashed potatoes and garnish edge with colored vegetables. Makes 6 servings.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is the opinion of one member. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and committees.

VIOLET M. — I don't want my mother to visit my school.

MRS. W. M. — She wants me to look like Rosalind Russell.

* * *

VIOLET M. — I'm 14 years old and attend high school. We're having Open School Week next week and I'm in social dread my mother will come. If she does, I'll never live it down.

Don't get me wrong. I know my mother is a wonderful woman. She's kind and good. And she'd love to talk to. But when you see her you'll know what I mean. She just doesn't give a hang how she looks.

I've seen some of other mothers, especially those of my best friends. They're slim and they wear girdles. They keep their nails polished, use pancake make up and eye shadow and really look smart.

My mother always looks as though she just finished scrubbing the floor, which she doesn't even do. We have a maid.

* * *

MRS. W. M. — I believe in being myself and people can take me or leave me.

My husband likes the way I look and so do my friends. I'm a part-time bookkeeper in an insurance office and no one there has ever objected to my appearance. My clothes are clean and they suit the occasion and the weather.

I'm not interested in following all the whims of fashion. When I read a paper or a magazine I skip the stuff about the new shoulders and the old hems. I save my eyesight for more important news like the new books, new inventions, new ideas about health and peace.

Right now Violet seems all mixed up about what really matters. I try to show her that it's the kind of people and the outside that she should pay attention.

Of course I'm going to her school. I'm sorry if it embarrasses her, I am hurt and disappointed by her attitude.

* * *

THE COUNCIL — In her personal battle against regimentation, this mother seems unaware of her adolescent daughter's agonizing need for conformity. Or if she is aware, she doesn't see why she, as Violet's mother, must "match" the other mothers.

Of course she needn't goose-step. But there's no point in going to the other extreme of proclaiming her individuality via unkept hair, weary, silly face, shapeless clothes, and — what Mrs. M.'s best friends may not have told her — body odor — etc. There are so many other ways of being "different" — constructable and admirable ways — that Mrs. M. would be wise, and a better mother of a teen-age daughter, to capitulate a bit in the matter of appearance. Even Middleton 15 additional minutes a day devoted to grooming and freshening would indicate a normal — not a vain — pride in the picture she presents to the world.

Even then, Violet may be critical or, in Mrs. M's opinion, hypercritical. But realizing the period of life Violet is passing through should prevent Mrs. M. from feeling "hurt" and should evoke maternal sympathy.

To an insecure teenager, externals are all. Note the hitching of pals, all with scuffed saddle shoes, all with tan polo coats with six, not five or seven, large white buttons in front! This group, believe. They accept me. I'm one of them." Hence the misery of all but the most strong minded when, through lack of money or parental edict, they can't "go along."

Some day Violet may be ready to accept her mother's sound counsel on real and more lasting values, on the intangibles and invisibles. But right now being part of the crowd is the most important thing in her life.

During Open School Week, Mrs. M. can dress carefully, meet the other mothers and the teachers on the basis of their similar interests, and then — perhaps — be "herself" by accepting a place on a busy committee and contributing her fresh and original thoughts.

MOUNT PLEASANT-RAWDON W.I.

RAWDON — The Rawdon-Mission Band of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church convened in the church hall with the leader, Mrs. Harry McAdam, and 23 children in attendance. Joyce Conway presided and all sang "Jesus Loves Me."

The Scripture lesson was read by Betty McAdam followed by the meditation.

Mrs. Harry McAdam outlined the study story on the theme, "The Kinds of Fear". The scene of this story was in the French Cameroon in Africa. Work among the people who have leprosy occupies an important place in medical missionary work throughout Central Africa. Doctors are happy that, at last, they have medicines which make it possible for many leper people to go back and live with their families. The medicines do not completely cure the patient, but the disease becomes inactive.

This particular family lived near a leprosy colony where the father was given good care and at the same time he was able to learn a trade.

The Mission Band thankoffering was gathered by Jose Jeffs, and Lorraine Jeffs and dedicated with "The Lord's Prayer", and the special prayer was given by Doug Potts.

Barbara Williams gave her report.

Piano selections were given by Brenda Campbell, Sally McAdam and Carolyn Merrick; a vocal duet was given by Brenda Williams and Bonnie Williams; Linda Sommerville a selection, and Joyce Conway sang. Kenneth Smith conducted a contest. The next program committee will be Shirley Potts and Douglas Potts.

The service closed with a hymn of thankfulness.

On November 23rd of this year, the Neighbors' Aid will have been organized 30 years. A program and pot-luck supper is to be arranged for the members and their husbands. The chairman of members is to look after the arranging the program for November 23rd. Toronto Plant Experiments With Freezing Coffee Beans

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—When frozen peas first appeared on the market people thought they were hand-painted and when frozen French-fried potatoes were introduced "we were jeered," says Howard Chambers, owner and operator of a frozen food company.

Homemakers have come to accept the bright green peas, frozen French fries and dozens of other items. Experiments are going on to try out new frozen foods every day, Mr. Chambers says. At his Toronto plant, workers are conducting experiments with frozen raisins and coffee beans.

Although the industry has improved immensely since it started about 25 years ago, Mr. Chambers says the industry must still upgrade itself.

SPECIAL VARIETIES

"We have some people with all the ballyhoo over the vegetables being just the same as those picked from your garden. They weren't, although they were better than dried or canned varieties," he said. The amount of time from cropping to freezing must be shortened and varieties of produce grown specifically for freezing must be found, he said.

Nearly everything except salad vegetables can be frozen. The root vegetables can be mashed and frozen but they usually keep well in their natural state so there is little advantage in freezing. Most salad vegetables have a high water content and collapse when they thaw.

Mr. Chamber's sales manager Nicholas Nash, said tomatoes can be frozen for a short time. Asparagus freezes them quickly, then skin and return to the freezer.

Cantaloupe is a favorite at his house. The cantaloupe is cubed and put in special freezing cups. Cover with ginger ale and freeze. "The ginger ale gives a beautiful taste," Mr. Nash said.

Soup stock made from bones can be frozen in ice cube trays and the sections used as required.

Fresh peaches were better frozen at home than done commercially. The delicate taste of the peach was preserved by the quick action of the homemaker in peeling, coring and freezing the fruit.

The main thing to remember when freezing food is to squeeze as much air as possible from the package before sealing.

Meat does not have to be uniform before cooking, according to Mr. Chambers. Experiments at the University of Pennsylvania have shown that roast can be re-frozen successfully. When cooking frozen meat, allow 7½ to eight minutes extra cooking time for each pound of meat.

WALLBRIDGE W. M. CLUB

The second meeting of the Wallbridge 2 club women was held at the home of the assistant leader, Mrs. Don Shorey. The project this year is "Work-in, with Wool," and each member answered the roll call by showing a sample of material and explaining why she thought it was wool.

"Wallbridge Woolliesettes" was the name chosen for the club. Leaders discussed using the style, design and the wool for the skirt, type of clothes to be worn with the skirt, choosing color and design and choosing a pattern.

Group work consisted of taking body measurements of each member.

For the next meeting each member is to have her sewing box, pattern and material.

St. Andrew's Guild Plans Future Events

WELLINGTON — The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Guild was held recently at the rectory. The president, Mrs. B. A. Evans, opened with prayer.

Thirteen members and two visitors answered the roll call. The treasurer gave a most gratifying report. The collection was taken for the flower fund, also several dues were paid. There was no correspondence. Cards are to be sent to Mr. Edgar Matthews, ill at his home, and Mr. George Guernsey, in Kingston General Hospital.

A busy business session followed; a discussion re catering for the W.A. Deanery luncheon to be held later in October, Mrs. Evans asked for a committee. It will be the officers, and Mesdames Davern, Lavender, Boyle, Harrington and Read. A second discussion re decorating the rectory study and dining room, which was decided upon.

There are still a number of church souvenir plates to be sold for $1 each.

The annual tea and bazaar to be held on November 10th. This will have the usual tables. Tickets are being sold on a hamper of groceries.

The following convenors were named: tea tables, Mrs. Lavender, Mrs. Colin Lane; homecooking, Mrs. Davern, Mrs. Read; sell and Mrs. King; fancy work, Mrs. Sid Broadridge, Mrs. W. F. Thompson, Mrs. Don Morden and Mrs. Arthur Hedges; tuck-shop, cake table, Mrs. J. Tripp and Mrs. G. Upton; fish pond, Mrs. R. Reed; kitchen, Mrs. D. Murphy and Mrs. W. Alcorn.

Mrs. Post moved that $13.50 be given to the Women's Institute towards a tank of gas for the stove in the kitchen — carried.

The president closed the meeting and the hostess, Mrs. Rogers, served dainty refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Post and Mrs. Upton.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon, Marks 77th Anniversary

IVANHOE — 77th anniversary services were held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon on October 16th.

The guest minister, the Rev. D. C. McLelland, M.A., of Trenton, delivered outstanding and timely messages, both morning and evening.

To recognize this anniversary, occasion the sermons for morning and evening are related:

Morning, "The Meaning of the Church In Our Day". Text, Isaiah 2: 2. "And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountain, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow into it."

"Isaiah speaks of the mountain of the Church of God, and we picture the church as a great mountain in today's world. This mountain points people to God, and each church is a reminder to some people of the mighty power of God's hand, the magnetic power of God's presence and the merciful power of His love."

EVENING MESSAGE

"The Meaning of Church Membership in Our Day." Text, Hebrews 8: 7: "But into the second went the high priest alone once every year, not without blood which he offered for himself and for the errors of his people."

"A church is more than a building, a church is only a church when two or three meet together to worship God.

"Church membership means we follow certain lines of thought. One specific duty of the church is to teach that we have a number of appointments to keep with God.

"Throughout the Bible, trees have an important part to play. The first appointment we must keep is at the tree of Calvary on which Jesus Christ died for our sins. In faith we are indebted to that tree and to what it means to a Christian."

SECOND APPOINTMENT

"Second appointment—"It appointed unto man once to die. Let us not view this as a tragedy, but be wise enough to set our house in order and make our peace with God.

"Third appointment is at the throne. Here we are to be held accountable not only for our own actions and habits but also we must be mindful of our relatives and strangers in need. Whatever we have done or refused to do must be answered for.

"While many people choose to ignore these appointments, the person who understands them, keeps them and rejoices in them, will have a happier life now and a great life in the future."

Special music, under the direction of Mrs. A. Hassall, with Mrs. Lindsay Sills at the piano, included:

Morning—Solo, "The Stranger of Galilee", Mrs. A. Hassall; anthem, "There's a Song in My Heart".

Evening—duet, "The Lord is My Shepherd", Mrs. William Donnan and Mrs. A. Hassall; anthem, "God Will Take Care of You."

Among the lovely autumn flowers decorating the church were baskets of mums and snapdragons placed in loving memory of Mr. William Shaw by Mrs. Shaw and family and in loving memory of Mr. J. C. Sills by Mrs. Sills and family.

ADVICE TO NURSES

MONTREAL (CP) — Evelyn M. Pibus, retiring after 32 years' service with the Victorian Order of Nurses, advises young nurses: "Don't be too ambitious at first. Enjoy every stage of nursing." Looking back on her career, she added: "Hospital and medical people are wonderful to work with."

Historical R.S. Work Topic Ivanhoe W.I.

The October meeting of Ivanhoe W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Lindsay Wood with 18 members and seven visitors present.

The president, Mrs. B. Hagerty, opened the meeting in the usual manner and welcomed the members and visitors.

Correspondence was read and all bills ordered paid. It was decided to buy the meat for the pot-luck supper in November.

Mrs. Hugh MacMillan, convener of historical research and current events, took charge and opened her part of the meeting with community singing with Mrs. Ree Haggerty at the piano.

Mrs. Malcolm MacMillan gave a demonstration of the "Family Tree," telling of their family tree, how long it has been started and where.

Mrs. Milton Shaw favored with a solo, "There's A Gold Mine in the Sky."

Mrs. MacMillan introduced Mr. and Mrs. Boyce, of Belleville, members of the Belleville Historical Research Society. Mr. Boyce gave a talk on the work and showed many interesting pictures. He said its aim was to preserve many things of the past. There will be a county museum established in what is now the Registry Office. A column in The Ontario Intelligencer, "Historical Hastings," was much appreciated.

Mrs. Haggerty moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Boyce and Mrs. MacMillan presented him with a small gift on behalf of the members.

Mrs. Wood and her assistants served a dainty lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

SAGE CHEESE

A sage cheese is given the subtle flavor of herbs as a result of sage being added to the curd.

Mother's Helper

GOOD IDEA for Grandma's house: a set of special steel rails to change any bed into a crib or a youth bed for that visiting grandchild. And when the rails aren't working their useful magic on a bed, they'll do a good job of supporting the cushions on a studio couch.

Woman Painter Moves Into New Medium - - Plastic Windows

By JUDITH ATZE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Not content with portraits, landscapes and drawings, Canadian painter Mary Filer has moved into a new medium: plastic windows.

The material she uses is a secret, internationally-patented substance with the color incorporated in it.

Three-dimensional effects can be achieved this way and Miss Filer, talking to a reporter, went into raptures over the richness of color the synthetic can provide.

She was commissioned to do windows for St. Luke's Church in Prittlewell, and of the specified six, she has completed two. Each window has seven panels.

MURALS TOO

The Edmonton-born artist also did the ceiling for the church. It is a painting of 750 square feet, done in egg tempera on plaster in the traditional materials of mural paintings.

Around the 20-foot central figure of St. Luke—patron saint of doctors and butchers—are episodes from his life.

The whole ceiling took Miss Filer six days to paint. She had no help.

"The church authorities have given me a completely free hand and I did the sketches of St. Luke's life from my own interpretation of the gospels."

Although the New York Times is said her work has "Picasso-esque qualities," she describes herself as "a cross between Michaelangelo and Blake." It is characterized as "semi-abstractionistic."

MONTREAL WORK TOPS

Miss Filer considers her mural in the Montreal Neurological Institute her masterpiece. It depicts the history of neurology and was done in 1954. This, she said, gave her the impetus for future work.

Apart from artistic qualifications, this tall, fair-haired young woman, now in her 30s, has degrees in nursing, education and fine arts.

Next on her schedule in Britain, her home for the last four years, is a mural for a new London hospital for animals.

In November, she will return to Canada for a visit. She would like to remain and work there.

"I am just beginning to develop and get into my stride as an artist and there are many exciting new buildings going up in Canada to which I should love to contribute."

ROYAL GUEST

LONDON (CP) — Princess Alexandra, 25-year-old daughter of the Duchess of Kent will attend the Maple Leaf Ball given by the Canadian Women's Club in London Nov. 23.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It was rather a shock to see some boxes of Christmas decorations in a store window but then we reasoned that it was about from last year that had to be got rid of. It was rather unpleasant to see the orange and black decorations for Hallowe'en, the false faces, the crepe paper and all the trick or treat preparations. But Christmas came to the picture again when we ran across the Christmas cards already on display.

There are many sources for obtaining Christmas cards and many organizations use their sale as a project for making funds. We hope that a portion of your Christmas card allotment will go to the UNICEF cards so that the help and spirit of the Christmas message may be shared by children all over the world as well as the ones we know well.

You cannot open your eyes without being aware of the colour of the beautiful season, even though the leaves are now dropping in abundance. The Hallowe'en colors are fall colors that were introduced by the predominant nature around us. Pumpkins and apples, gourds and flowers show us the brilliant yellows and reds. It is this last thing that of color before the drabness of winter sets in.

Every one of the main considerations we use in everything we buy. The others are vitality, taste, lightness, touch and beauty. Every colour we make is for purchasing merges with everything we are. When a woman buys a hat or dress, when a man selects a tie, color has a tremendous influence in the choice. When a woman or a man shops for furniture, a hand is run over a polished wood surface and also the fabric of the upholstery. The influence of touch evident.

Every man will be looking for a new car interested in the power of the car and the vitality of it. Wh a shopper is looking for width without weight, it is the use of lightness which is the dominating factor.

When we think of choosing a jewel piece, the use of beauty is uppermost as is in the skill of a floral arrangement. We think first of the use of taste in the field of arts and letters. Yet all these actions intermingle in every purchase we make.

Somehow, then, color and its effect takes peculiar forms. The Brazilian government is dyeing some of its coffee beans an attractive yellow color in an effort to boost coffee sales. British bakers are selling loaves with pink, yellow and blue. Pole are buying potatoes in Kenya according to the natural coil of their skins, and Japan is dyeing eggs as we do here. We are told that the three most popular hues are pink, blue and black.

A rather sassy use of color is a Persian cat dyed in a town in Alabama were a man had his front door covered with green concrete to avoid having to mow the lawn. Let's hope this does not get a fad.

Fallacies About Cold Cures, Vitamins, Headache Remedies, Cosmetic Creams in Course

VANCOUVER (CP)—A chance to get the right information on two important subjects is offered to separate courses started for Vancouver persons this fall.

One is a night course given by the Vancouver school board entitled "Use and Misuse." The other, offered by the extension department of the University of British Columbia, explodes some old wives' tales on medicines and cosmetics.

The law course will make wives familiar with such things as purchasing property, making wills and civil rights. They'll also find out when it's time to take their troubles to legal counsel.

The UBC course — also given in the evening — is being handled by Dr. G. J. Groves of the faculty of pharmacy.

NO COLD CURE

The popular myths he's exposing in his lectures include fallacies about cold cures, vitamins, headache remedies and cosmetic creams.

"No cold cure, says Dr. Groves, aren't cures at all.

"They relieve the symptoms of a cold, so that the consciousness and discomfort of a cold disappear," he said in an interview. "But if you have a severe cold, the virus is still with you."

Vitamin pills: "I don't think their use can be overrated" he said, but he recommends following the manufacturer's dosage directions. "The body can absorb only so many vitamins and an extra dose is completely wasted."

Headache pills: "Because one is good it doesn't necessarily mean that more are better. We tend to think of headache pills as a common household remedy, but with indiscriminate use they can be dangerous."

Dr. Groves is high in praise of the new "moisturizing" cosmetic creams.

Commission on Publications Lays Down Heavy Schedule To Conclude Work in 1961

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on publications Tuesday laid down a heavy schedule of cross-country hearings aimed at concluding by early 1961 its study of foreign competition to Canadian periodicals.

Chairman Mr. Grattan O'Leary told a press conference following the commission's initial meeting that's he is astonished by the amount of work pouring in as the three-man investigating team sets up shop here.

"I had no idea there was such great interest in this question," he said.

Mr. O'Leary, flanked by commissioners J. G. Johnson of Toronto and Maurice P. Beaubien of Montreal, said the commission is approaching its task with a completely open mind, free of prejudice.

FROM OUTSIDE CANADA

Appointed last month, the commission was instructed by the federal cabinet to inquire into the position and prospects of Canadian magazines and periodicals with special attention to competition from similar publications largely or entirely edited outside Canada.

The commission is to recommend possible measures to contribute to the development of a Canadian identity of the periodical press without infringing on freedom of the press.

Mr. O'Leary, 70-year-old president of the Ottawa Journal, said the commission will interpret its terms of reference as broadly as possible in making a three-fold approach to the task.

"It already has embarked on a study of the present position and future of the Canadian publications industry. This includes tariffs imposed in the past and the special federal tax on advertising revenues of non-Canadian editions of foreign magazines, imposed Jan. 1, 1957, and repealed in June, 1958.

The commission also will examine "the advantage of advertising revenue to finance the Canadian industry." Then will come the contribution of foreign publications to that advantage.

SPECIAL EDITIONS

Mr. O'Leary said that this final step will involve consideration of special Canadian editions of foreign magazines, American advertising for publications circulating in Canada and splitrun and over-runs of foreign publications.

Some foreign publications split their printing run, mostly in the United States, to produce slightly - different magazine for Canadian circulation. Others ship to Canada the over-run of copies sold in the domestic market.

However, the inquiry will not be limited only to these questions, Mr. O'Leary said that since other media of communications, such as radio and television take a slice of the advertising pie the commission will also have a look at them.

The inquiry may also extend to the role of the federal government printing bureau which produces about 25 to 30 per cent of publications and books. Another aspect may be the preferences enjoyed by American publications in transit through Canada.

He said he expects the major Canadians will be heard at hearings here Nov. 14 - 18 and Nov. 28 - Dec. 2 and Dec. 12 - 16 in December. The Canadian periodical publishers, as the "plaintiffs" in the inquiry, will be heard first, followed by the Americans who are, in effect, the "defendants."

From Ottawa, the commission will go to Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver in November and December.

Other hearings may be held in Moncton, N.B., Quebec City and possibly in Regina, Calgary and Edmonton, depending on whether there are requests for them.

Nixon Would Use Veto to Block China from UN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Vice-President Nixon says that as president he would use the power of veto in the Security Council to block Communist China's entry into the United Nations, unless Red China first "purges itself of its offences against world law and the principles of civilized behavior."

The Republican candidate for president, in a wide-ranging 12-hour tour of Florida, also said the Eisenhower administration will take "very promptly the strongest possible economic measure to counter the economic boycott of Cuba's Fidel Castro.

"Because of Communist penetration, the Castro regime now has exposed itself within the western hemisphere as an intolerable cancer," Nixon told 10,000 persons at an American Legion convention here.

"It will endlessly foster unless we and the other freedom-loving nations in the western hemisphere move—and do so promptly and authoritatively—to prevent the Castro brand of penetration.

Nixon's statement later explained that formal action will be undertaken by the Organization imposing an embargo on the shipment of goods to Cuba. At first this will be American unilateral action with the hope that other countries will join in later.

No explanation was provided as to what specific steps would would "quarantine" Cuba from the rest of the western hemisphere, unless these other countries, such as Canada, Mexico and the United Nations nations took similar steps.

Nixon could be affected but only indirectly. If the U.S. imposed export controls, Canada might be obliged to respect those controls and resist any attempts to transship through Canada American goods through Canada. But it is not believed Canada has been selling its own merchandise to Cuba.

The timing of Nixon's announcement would seem to indicate the Eisenhower administration action would be of some help in the Republican campaign. The Democratic candidate, Senator Kennedy, has been keeping up a drumfire attack against the Republicans suggesting that somehow they were responsible for the emergence of Castro "just 90 miles off the Florida coast."

Hydro Workers Get Wage Boost, Shorter Week

TORONTO (CP)—Hydro workers in Ontario Tuesday won a substantial wage hike increases and a reduction in the work week to 40 hours.

Spokesmen for the Ontario Hydro Employees Union (CLC) said the four-year contract was signed with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. It was approved by an 83-per-cent membership vote.

The pact calls for a seven-cent-an-hour increase on the top rate for electricians, first-class machinists — retroactive to May 1 — with a similar move on Nov. 1.

The increases for top grade rate to $2.61 an hour. Lower categories will be increased proportionately.

For the 4,000 persons on weekly salaries, the union said, there will be a 1½-per-cent increase retroactive to May 1 and there will be cut in 36½ from 37½ hours a week and will be further reduced to 35 by next April 1.

Youth Freed On Rape Charge

KINGSTON (CP) — John C. Wright, 24, was acquitted Tuesday on a charge of raping a 17-year-old Kingston girl.

Three witnesses were ordered from the court room when a burst of applause greeted the verdict of an Ontario Supreme Court jury. Mr. Justice W. M. Barlow told the more than 200 spectators they should be ashamed of attending court just to hear such a trial.

"There are far too many in this courtroom, Scandalmongers, I presume . . . ," he said.

William Hay, pathologist, testified Monday that marks on the girl's throat indicated "a threat of strangulation." He said that the girl "would have died in five minutes" if strangling had continued.

Mr. Justice Barlow warned Dr. Hay about drawing conclusions not completely supported by fact.

When Dr. Hay had finished, Mr. Justice Barlow described his manner of presenting evidence as "the most grievous I have ever heard from a doctor."

UN Force Overcomes Threat Of War and Other Problems To Become Master in Congo

By DAVID MASON

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — The United Nations has for all practical purposes become its own master in the Congo.

Even a threat of warfare against the UN force in the Congo has failed to divert Western ministrators in the turbulent African republic.

The United Nations came to the Congo in July in response to an appeal from now-deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba to help protect the country.

Since then Lumumba and the Communist bloc nations have replaced him have at one time or another built up UN ire by interfering or stop mixing in the International affairs of the former Belgian colony.

UN officials here patiently but firmly keep replying that the UN has a mandate to keep public order in the Congo and to cooperate with Congo officials where they so request.

Most neutral observers agree it would be closer to reality to say the 28-nation UN force is firmly disregarding the protesting Congolese while slowly but surely moving ahead in its fight the country's economy and deal with an increasing health menace.

Some cases in point are these:

1. A sour-faced Russian diplomat Kasavubu and Justin Bomboko, head of the Congo's provisional government, demanded that the UN permit Lumumba's arrest for a long series of alleged crimes but mainly for political agitation. Army commander Colonel Joseph Mobutu, who set up the provisional government, joined in the arrest demand.

The UN firmly rejected the demand, even in the face of a warlethat by Bomboko.

2. Information chief Albert Bolela spoke slightly about kicking the UN off Radio Leopoldville for "misuing it for Congo's internal affairs." The UN calmly pointed out the agreement with a previous government and refused to give ground.

3. A demand by Kasavubu and premier - designate Joseph Ileo that UN troops from Ghana and Guinea "must leave the Congo by Oct. 1 at the very latest" was disregarded by the UN. Kasavubu and Ileo complained that Ghana and Guinea were favoring Lumumba.

4. The UN is launching a $500,000 public works program to ease retrenchment problems and unemployment.

The UN still is out in front, but with a current situation that Lumumba far from neutralized, it seems the UN still has many high hurdles in its path.

Vote for Prohibition or Face Hell Yamachiche, Que., Voters Warned

YAMACHICHE, Que. (CP)—A move to end 45 years of prohibition here ended Monday in a spirited campaign ever witnessed in this normally peaceful town of 1,100 people.

Mayor Napoleon Lemaisonnaity Roman Catholic and French-speaking, will vote Thursday on whether to retain or end prohibition, imposed in 1915 during the First World War. About 400 people will be eligible to vote.

Those campaigning for prohibition have themselves to believe that they may forfeit their chances of going to heaven and may damn themselves to hell by voting against prohibition.

The anti-prohibition fight is being waged by Mayor Emile Pellerin and members of the town council. Mayor Pellerin said he wants to legalize drinking and to wipe out illegal liquor stills and drinking establishments in the town, 65 miles northeast of Montreal.

The Sacred Heart League, a group of Roman Catholic clergies Lacourdaire, a temperance group, backed by Abbe Lionel Dubois, curate in Yamachiche, launched a vigorous campaign in favor of retaining prohibition.

HELL IS DOWN BELOW

Voters have received through the mail a sample of the ballot to be used in the referendum. The upper section showed where the voter should place his "x" in favor of prohibition. In the notation: "Don't forget heaven is above." Immediately below was the space for those opposing prohibition. It bore the warning: "Don't forget hell is down below."

Mayor Pellerin and his councillors have announced they will resign if the majority people oppose them in the referendum.

"It has been said that we are rebelling against the church," said Mayor Pellerin. "Those who have such a conception of liberty am not a rebel. I am your servant. I am mayor of the municipality. I am trying to make you understand that if you do not vote in favor of the abolition of prohibition you will remain 45 years behind the times."

Trade Minister Calls Gordon A 'Gloomster'

TORONTO (CP)—Trade Minister Hees has called Walter Gordon, chairman of the Liberal party's appointed royal commission on Canada's economic prospects, a "gloomster" trying to reduce Canadians economic expansion.

Mr. Hees, speaking to Osgoode Hall law students, said Mr. Gordon called for a reduction in foreign investment in Canada, retrenchment, and a slowing down in development during last summer's Kingston conference of Liberal thinkers.

"These gloomsters," Mr. Hees said, "should have so much faith in Canada as foreign investors who look at Canada with a cool, appraising eye. Let these gloomsters realize no other country has our resources and manpower and skills.

Kennedy Assails Nixon's Refusal Of Fifth Debate

NEW YORK (AP) — Senator Kennedy flew into New York City today on the first leg of a campaign visit which starts with a ticker tape parade up lower Broadway and ends with a television debate with Vice-President Nixon.

Thousands are expected to greet the Democratic presidential candidate as he moves from the Battery to the city hall, where he will be welcomed by Robert Wagner, Democratic mayor of New York.

While the fourth TV debate between the two presidential candidates will be held here Friday night, there now appears little likelihood of an additional debate, as requested by Kennedy.

SAYS NIXON UNWILLING

He said the American people are entitled to know "whether he is unwilling to meet a challenge on a single issue."

Kennedy's comment was issued to reporters after a three-hour round of foreign negotiations between him and Nixon's representatives in the Astor Hotel.

The antagonists lately have been trading charges on foreign trails without actually meeting. A Nixon addressed an American Legion convention in Miami Beach and spoke elsewhere in Florida Monday.

Nixon also was scheduled for appearances in and around New York today.

Kennedy said:

"The fact is that the closer a debate is held to the election, the more difficult it is for any candidate to engage in any questions-and-answer discussion which he may be called to account in a face - to - face encounter."

GETTING TOUGHER

In Jacksonville, Fla., the Democratic candidate, who earlier snapped, "I was not the vice-president of Cuba," criticized Nixon's statement that Cuba's internal affairs.

Coin-Operated Machines May Close on Sundays

TORONTO (CP)—Two $10 fines levied against a Sarnia business man could result in the Sunday closing of every coin - operated machine operating in Ontario throughout the country.

Lewis Gordon of Sarnia was fined $10 each Tuesday on two charges of operating his automatic coin - operated machine on Sunday, an offence under the Lord's Day Act.

Hugh Garrett, Mr. Gordon's lawyer, said with intimation that he appealed. If the decision stands, he said, it could make illegal "every juke box, coffee machines and even devices selling newspapers in the street on Sunday.

Toronto's Common. deputy attorney-general, agreed.

He said the ruling would cover every other slot machine except pay telephones, but he gave no further exceptions.

"However," Mr. Common said, "it would apply to the vending machines, bar for they wanted to go with prosecutions against the small vending machines for tea, candy, cigarets and so on."

Before appeals and possible prosecutions they would have to have the consent of the attorney-general's department."

Mr. Gordon was charged first before a magistrate, who dismissed the charge.

He was appealed by the attorney-general's department to the Ontario Supreme Court Judge Barlow ruled against him.

But the appeal court decided that Magistrate J. C. Dunlap erred in holding that Mr. Gordon was not guilty of the charge because neither he nor any of his employees were at the business on Sunday.

Secretary-Gen. Takes Sharp Issue With Nikita and Others On UN Action Taken in Congo

By JOSEPH McGWEEZY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It is probably just as well that Soviet Premier Khrushchev wasn't in the United Nations General Assembly to hear Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's latest defence of UN actions in the Congo.

Khrushchev went into a deadbanging rage Sept. 26 when Hammarskjold first rejected the demand that he resign immediately because he was guilty of acting as an imperialist tool in the Congo.

Hammarskjold said he would rather see his office "break on strict adherence to the principle of independence, impartiality and objectivity in full on the basis of compromise."

The secretary - general, although showing deep emotion, has a calm and correct way of speaking that seems to infuriate Khrushchev—as happened again Tuesday.

ASTONISHED AUDIENCE

Delegates listened in astonishment when Khrushchev advised them not to listen to the "clamorous phrases pronounced here" by Hammarskjold. The secretary was merely trying to "justify the bloody crimes perpetrated against the Congolese people."

Hammarskjold spent most of today to a defence of UN policies in the Congo was couched in terms of Khrushchev's assault. He took sharp issue with Khrushchev's charge that Hammarskjold have stressed isolated UN actions rather than turbulent republic. Principal among these actions was the UN's temporary solution of keeping Belgian and Congolese airports in defiance of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

In my perspective (there are) actions and details in a vast pattern of activity," Hammarskjold said. "Important actions in time may be in themselves, they are only highly - publicized events which have occurred when, in the course of political complica-

RCAF Personnel Will Soon Start Training on Bomarcs

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — About 300 RCAF personnel will begin training in the United States on operation and maintenance of the Bomarc-B surface-to-air missile, a defence department spokesman said Tuesday.

This will bring to some 1,500 the number of Canadians in personnel who have been trained on missiles of various kinds.

The Bomarc-B, now in production in the U.S., is scheduled to be installed and ready for operation at two bases in Canada by 1962.

The base at North Bay, Ont., will require about 250 personnel and the one at Macaza, Que., about 300. These figures include servicemen not directly connected with maintenance of the weapon.

Some of airmen already are taking a general course on the Bomarc at the RCAF's Rockcliffe station here. Others already have taken highly specialized courses at the University of Michigan, the RAF Technical College in Bilas, Wales, and the Convair plant in Fort Worth, Texas. A few are in training at the Boeing Airplane Company's Bomarc factory at Seattle, Wash.

SIXTH SUCCESS

The Bomarc-B was fired successfully for the sixth time over the Gulf of Mexico last week. It flew more than 345 miles to intercept a simulated target. Its speed was more than 600 miles.

The Canadian Army has had nearly 500 men trained on various aspects of the Bomarc ground-to-air missiles. Some 30 have already been trained on the Honest John rocket which the army is scheduled to get next year.

Several Canadian soldiers have been on courses in the United States that they have been sent to the U.S. and Britain as instructors.

Approximately 200 airmen and men of the Canadian navy have been trained in the operation and maintenance of the Sidewinder air-to-air missile used by the navy in its Banshee jet fighters. The Sidewinder is the only guided missile yet in use in the Canadian armed forces.

A small number of naval officers have been trained in the design and operational evaluation techniques of air-to-air and surface-to-air missile systems.

Teachers Will Soon Require Higher Standards

THORNHILL (CP) — Education Minister Robarts Monday night outlined plans for raising teaching standards in Ontario schools.

He told the York County Elementary School Trustees Association the emergency shortage of teachers has ended and from next year new teachers will require higher qualifications.

Mr. Robarts said in the last five years the number of graduating teachers had risen to 5,000 from 2,000 a year. Consequently summer courses would no longer be offered but those who did their first year this summer would complete their course next.

New principals of Ontario elementary schools of 300 pupils or more will be required to have university degrees or equivalent, and a first class teacher's certificate.

Lunch Counters In 112 Southern Cities Integrate

NEW YORK (AP) — Variety store lunch counters in 112 southern cities have been integrated since last March, four leading chain stores announced Monday.

A joint statement by officials of the four companies declared that in some 75 per cent of these communities there was no past record of picketing, sit-ins or other demonstrations.

The companies—F. W. Woolworth Company, S. H. Kress and Company, W. T. Grant Company and McCrory - McLellan Store Corp.—said discussions are continuing with community leaders, and may lead to further lunch counter desegration.

Starting eight months ago, Negro students began a campaign of sit-ins and picketing at numerous lunch counters across the South to protest against policy of service to whites only.

The variety stores whose lunch counters have desegregated are located in North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Texas, Tennessee, Missouri, Oklahoma, Maryland and Florida.

They said they reached their Integration decision after conferences with government, state and local authorities and other interested groups.

SOCCER FINAL SET

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian soccer championship between Westminster Royals and Toronto Golden Mile will be played in Empire Stadium Sunday, the B.C. Soccer Commission said Tuesday.

SURVIVED WRECK

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Roy Davies of Cobourg, Ont., got out with a small cut on his nose after his car tipped and rolled over four times on the highway, coming to rest on its roof. The car was wrecked.

Aces Trounce Buffalo 8-2

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces took over sole possession of second place in the American Hockey League Tuesday night, trouncing Buffalo Bisons 8-2 before a crowd of 6,457 at the coliseum.

The Aces spotted the Bisons a 1-0 first period lead, then came back to score three times in the second frame and five more times in the final game in the third.

Accounting for Quebec goals were Maurli Morissette, Jean-Marie Comeau, Orien O'Brien, Aldin Caron, Jackie Leclair, Michel Harvey and Norm Corcoran, who garnered two.

Flyers Tie Royals 6-6

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—In the first exhibition game outing of the Ontario Junior A Hockey season, the transplanted Barrie Flyers battled the invading Guelph Royals to a 6-6 tie Tuesday night in a rugged contest marked by 21 minors and five major penalties.

After just one week on the ice, the juniors showed surprising speed and five times during the contest had a two-goal edge over the Royals' farm hands, trading 6-4 in the final frame, the Flyers tired and Guelph counted goals by Dave McCombe and Rod Gilbert to get even.

Centre Jeannot Gilbert paced the Flyers with three goals while singles went to Billy Eakins, Bill Westfall and Nelson Leclair. two-goal efforts by McComb and Gilbert sparked the Royals with single counters by Gene Reielle and Barry Jakeman. Attendance was 1,000.

Soo Dumps Wolves 4-2

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Sudbury Wolves, the defending champions, we dumped into the Eastern Professional Hockey League basement Tuesday night with a 4-2 defeat at the hands of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds.

The win moved the Thunderbirds into fifth place in the six-team league, one point up on the Wolves and the same distance behind Montreal and Kingston.

The closely-knit T-Bird defence held the Wolves to only 22 shots on goaltender Dennis Delorty. Gerry McNamara in the Sudbury nets was laced with a 40-shot barrage.

Mail Ravlich scored two goals to lead the Soo attack and single goals went to Dusty Blair and Cliff Schmaus. Tom McCarthy, a former Detroit Red Wing, scored both the visitors' goals.

The Sault defence of Bob Wilson, Norman Guimond, Georges Roy and Guy Brassard played very well. Schmaus was the individual star of the game for his goal and two assists.

A crowd of 1,967 watched the contest and cheered the Thunderbirds to their first home victory. The Soo won its first game of the year in Kitchener Sunday after losing three straight.

Bruce Is Out

Riders Patch Injured

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders, mauled by Toronto Argonauts Sunday, are taping up what can be saved or soothed in an effort to regain a share of first place in their last encounter with Argos here Saturday.

Of the 19 casualties that limped out of the last game, only Canadian defensive end Lou Bruce is sure to be sidelined. Bruce has torn ligaments in his right knee. He will be replaced by Chancellor Joe Straziuk.

Back after being out several weeks with a shoulder separation will be Bill Sowalski, veteran Canadian end and corner linebacker.

Concern still runs high over the condition of import quarterback Ron Lancaster and Canadian centre Ron Stewart. Lancaster has a bruised throwing shoulder and Stewart a bruised heel.

With the season drawing to a close, coach Frank Clair has signed Canadian guard Bill MacDougall, formerly the property of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, for the 1961 season. MacDougall was traded to Calgary Stampeders and only played eight games as a lineman with them this season.

"Strangers When We Meet" Opens Monday (First Showings)

The always-absorbing theme of marital infidelity is explored with startling honesty and some explosive plain speaking in "Strangers When We Meet," which opens on Monday, October 24th, at the Park Theatre. This new Columbia picture in CinemaScope and Eastman Color stars Kirk Douglas and Kim Novak in roles which, according to Hollywood, are remarkably realistic, and they give performances which the cinematic "must-see" epithet possess an impact and an excitement that place the film high in gear.

Kevin Kovaks and Barbara Rush are also starred in the new Richard Quine production, Kovacs as a philandering novelist who commissions architect Douglas to build him a "dream" house; Miss Rush as Douglas' wife who sees their marriage falling apart and unexpectedly learns why.

In "Strangers When We Meet," Douglas and Miss Novak are neighbor neighbors who move from casual encounters—in a supermarket, at a bus stop—to secret, impassioned meetings. Their romance progresses in intensity, and so do their problems. In time, a neighbor discovers their secret and they suddenly must face the fact that two families, two homes and Douglas' own future as an architect all are headed for burning in their own private flame.

"Strangers When We Meet," marks Douglas' first modern-dress role in some time; he has most recently been seen in such films as "Spartacus," "The Vikings" and "The Devil's Disciple." His present is that of a man enmeshed in marital infidelity. Miss Novak, too, is said to be suberbly cast.

Walter Matthau tops the list of co-stars, as a conscienceless husband who also strays, to the bitter relief of his own wife, Virginia Bruce, returns to the screen in "Strangers When We Meet." Kent Smith is seen as Douglas' business associate and Broadway stage star Helen Gallagher makes her film bow as Matthau's embittered wife.

AT THE BELLE — Frank Sinatra and Angie Dickinson have a scene in a dramatic moment in "Ocean's Eleven", a fun picture, with a surprise ending that is outlandishly funny, in Technicolor, opening a one week extended engagement today at the Belle Theatre. Starring in the Warner Bros. production are Dean Martin, Sammy Davis, Jr.; Peter Lawford and Angie Dickinson, with guest star appearances by Red Skelton and George Raft. Glamorous Las Vegas is the setting of the film.

New Television Season Said Uninspired, Tardy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Almost all the older lawmen and hip younger of the law series have had their premieres and most of last season's survivors have returned from holiday or rerun.

The entertainment side of television's 1960-61 season shapes up like a vast sea of Grade B movie features, chopped down to TV size and time requirements. Most are turned out with the professional skill and surface gloss of Hollywood's experienced production lines. Most are uninspired and usually tired variations of the successes of past seasons.

Two shows with high potentials seem to have gone astray in their production. The Witness series is based on a swell idea—to review the career of a notorious rogue or rascal within the confines of a committee hearing room. The Flintstones is a cartoon situation comedy series for adults, but is brain-bended where it could be deftly satirical.

Checkmate, a new whodunit series, is up among the established popular shows in the ratings and it seems to be improving as the series goes along.

HORSE OPERAS

None of the new westerns seem to have brought anything new to TV. There's a continuing trend toward multiple heroes in these, well.

Producers Go to England To Save Money on Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Suddenly, Last Summer is a Tennessee Williams saga of sex and sin in the deep South.

So where was it filmed? England!

"Here was a story about American with American actors, which should have been filmed here. It probably would have been a better picture if it had, better in atmosphere and bit players. But it was filmed in England and Sam Spiegel probably made $1,000,000 more than he would have."

American companies today are shooting six features in England largely because the British government places a tax on features from all theatres. From this fund, the government grants a rebate to producers who make films in England with native talent.

OFFERS INDUCEMENT

The English-made picture also is assured unlimited playing time in Britain, while a foreign product is subject to quotas.

France and Italy offer similar inducements to Hollywood companies. So do other countries, either in outright subsidies or other means.

"Look, I'd like to keep this studio going. We've got a staff here to whom we owe some loyalty; we also have loyalty to the community to keep the studio business here. But we've got to have production to pay for the overhead.

"It is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain a schedule of productions at the studio. . . . And it is becoming harder and harder to compete with the advantages that foreign countries give to producers who will film over there."

Involve 20 In British Soccer Mess

LONDON (AP) — A list of 20 soccer players was drawn up Tuesday to be handed over to Scotland Yard in a report on alleged bribing and fixing of English league matches.

Leaders of the Football Association and the English Football League conferred on report confessions by some star players that they accepted bribes up to £500 ($1,400) to throw games.

The next move in the scandal that has rocked British soccer will be up to the government's director of public prosecutions.

The decision by soccer officials to turn their evidence over to the law was interpreted as a bid to restore public confidence before permanent harm is done to Britain's national game.

Name of the players have not been disclosed, but some stars already have admitted being involved.

British soccer players all are paid the same salary — $67 a week.

Think Rules OK

Als Reject Big 4 Meet

OTTAWA (CP)—Only three of the four Eastern Football Conference clubs will be represented at an emergency meeting being held here Friday at the request of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Ted Workman, president of the Montreal Alouettes, has informed Wes Brown, secretary-treasurer of the league, that he will not attend and does not consider this a proper meeting for clubs to consider a change in rules governing the determination of standing in case of a tie.

Riders insisted that in the event of a first-place tie with Toronto Argonauts, they would be voted the first place even if they held the games-won advantage 3-2 over Toronto.

As the ruling now stands, Toronto would take first place as long as they had the advantage in points scored in their five season games against the Riders.

The teams now have two wins each with Argos leading by 15 points in the four - game total. This means that Toronto could lose Saturday's game in Ottawa by 16 points and still retain first place if the teams end the season in a tie.

Toronto general manager Lou Hayman and Hamilton Tiger-Cat president Jake Gaudaur have also indicated they are not in favor of scrapping the league rules this late in the season.

Western Hockey

VICTORIA (CP)—Doug MacAuley scored his second goal of the night at 2:22 in sudden-death overtime period Tuesday night to give Victoria Cougars a 3-2 victory over Spokane Comets and leave them locked in a three-way tie for first place in the Western Hockey League.

Rookie Bert Fizzell scored the other Victoria goal. Max Bentley and Ching Johnson scored for Spokane.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There was a look of heartbreak on the old man's face as he slowly turned away. He had just heard pronouncement of doom come from his employers to whom he had given the best twelve years or his life, brought them ten pennants and eight world series.

This colorful character, this idol of baseball millions was discharged with a touch of ignominy because of his seventy years on this earth.

The New York baseball writers, who attended the press conference held by the Yankee brass where they made the fateful announcement, made no secret of their feelings.

Arthur Daley of the New York Times says:

"Nervously puffing on a cigaret, Dan Topping, co-owner of the Yankees with Del Webb, read a prepared statement at Tuesday's press conference. It was full of empty words, as barren of meaning as one of Casey's rhetorical flights into Shenjelese . . . After reading it, Topping added bits for background as if ashamed of himself. He should be.

"It's a shabby way to treat the man who has not only brought them glory but also has given their dynasty a firmer footing than it ever had. So long, Case. You gave us 12 unforgettable years."

Red Smith of The Herald Tribune writes:

"There was a half-hearted effort to imply that Casey despite more leisure to spend with his wife, but he (Stengel) found that odds and laid the responsibility where it belongs, with Topping and Webb.

"Wisely or unwisely, with or without good reason, fairly or not, they fired the man who has done more for them and their club than any other human, and probably has done as much for the game as anybody this side of Babe Ruth."

Sports editor Dan Parker of The Mirror:

"Losing the late world series was just a slight sticking compared with what happened to the Yankees Tuesday . . . . Officially Casey's sin was in reaching the age of 70 (decades of Cosmic Mischief . . In view of the unconvincingly reason for firing a genius, it was a wonderful break for the Yankee owners that the club lost the record series with Pittsburgh's Pirates."

Ken Smith of The Mirror:

"There is no joy in Mudville or New York—the mighty Casey Stengel struck out, victim of a fast curve by the front office."

And this may come as a surprise to Yankee fans. It was no secret around Cooperstown last back in August when the Bombers were staggering and stumbling in the pennant race, there were signs of unrest in the Yankee front office with the fans of the brass focused on one Mr. Stengel.

But what did the Oil Furnace do? He reached into that magic cap of his, and this time instead of a bird he came up with an amazing fifteen-game winning streak with which the Bombers made a runaway race of the pennant jaunt in the final two weeks. Then came the club's heroic but losing effort in the world series.

Bill Mazeroski's series-winning homer in the ninth inning of the seventh game did more than bring gold and glory to the Pirates. It created or renewed the rumors that Casey was on the way out. In fact one source had it he had resigned.

But pressure was brought to bear on the Yankee management by more or less powerful sources. The New York Baseball Writers petitioned the Yankee front office with Casey. Mayor John Wagner of New York, wired to the same effect. Influential followers of the Bronx Bombers echoed the requests. But they were wasted efforts.

Over in Pittsburgh the aftermath of the series was of a different nature. The city's horn-blowing, paper-tossing world series party left behind city streets ankle-deep in ticker-tape, torn newspapers and heaps and everything that could be tossed from building windows.

City officials said it would take ten days to clear away the tons of debris and bottles that littered the streets. Despite the jubilant all-night crowd police reported no accidents and only 26 arrests, mostly drunks.

One big Pittsburgh hotel, the Hilton, served over 2,500 meals during the night of celebration. All hotels, taverns and restaurants shared in the good times. Chamber of Commerce officials estimated that world series guests from out of the city spent between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 during their world series stay.

Senior Hockey League Opens Tonight

Ten Teams Face Barrier

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A completely revamped Ontario Hockey Association senior series opens tonight with the organization in a little shape from the pangs of birth.

The new 10 - team setup, an amalgamation of the old Senior A and Senior B circuits, will operate in western and eastern sections of five clubs each.

Tonight's openers has Stratford Rockets at Chatham Maroons. Last year Stratford won the B title and Chatham took the A crown, going on to win the Allan Cup, national emblem of amateur hockey supremacy.

The league begins in earnest this weekend with four games scheduled for Friday night, another Saturday night and one on Sunday.

Friday: Windsor Bulldogs at Woodstock Athletics; Chatham at Stratford Indians; Whitby at Belleville Mohawks and Oshawa Oaks at Welland Warriors.

NO FULL SCHEDULE

Because some clubs were unable to get starters right up to the last moment, a full playing schedule has not yet been drawn up. But here's the way the teams have been shaping:

West: Chatham, Stratford, Strathroy, Windsor and Woodstock; East: Belleville, Galt, Oakville, Welland and Whitby.

A St. Thomas entry was still in the league as late as last weekend when a decision was made with withdrew.

The pre-season favorites appear to be Chatham, Stratford and Windsor, runner - up to Chatham last year in the A grouping.

Other holdovers from the A group are Whitby and Belleville. All the others were in the B circuit.

Eight players from last year's championship club are back with Chatham which will be coached by Ted Power this season. Frank Boucher, who coached last year, ducked out when the club did not meet his financial terms.

GOALIES GONE

Goalie Cesare Maniago has gone to the Western Hockey League and has been replaced by Al Bennett, up from Wallaceburg Hornets of the B series. Several Wallaceburg players have joined the Chatham entry.

Coach Power figures "we will be in contention," but says he expects tough competition from Windsor and Strathroy.

Only one player have returned to Windsor and coach Rags Raglan, who took over this season from playing coach Jean Paul Lemirande, says the club is badly in need of help.

Without it, he says, "we'll be lucky to make the playoffs."

"We're not kidding anybody," Raglan fmitted. "We need help badly on the forward lines. Two centremen and a left winger are our prime necessities."

His holdovers are defencemen Lennie Specek and Gerry Servito and forwards Bob Brown, Lou Bendo, Joe Khaley, former National Hockey League player, Bill Mitchell who played with Toledo of the International League and Fred Hildebrand, an ex-Bulldog who retired last year.

SAY ENTRY STRONG

Most of last season's lineup is back with Strathroy and coach Lloyd (Apples) Baldwyn says his may be the club to beat. Guy Gendron, who played with the British League last year, has returned to join Jim Brown and George Coulter, Don Fulton and Stan Long on defence.

Up front, Strathroy will have Paul Oliver, Bob Geddes, Andy Gentilon, Jack McKnight, Jack Lane, Don Mayes and Willie Rass, scoring champ last year. Several players from the defunct St. Thomas Royals are being signed to boost this crew.

"It's just a matter of getting the boys to jell," Fishlewer says, "I think we've got the boys."

Jack Stoddard, new coach of Woodstock, figures his club to be "a couple of years" away. He was finished third in the B division last spring. After a 10-8 win-over defeated Charlotte Checkers of the Eastern Hockey League, 7-4, last week Coach Stoddard was "pleased and surprised" by his team's showing.

Four veteran defencemen—Red Novak, Syrie Rinder, Wray Fisher and Jack Carrow—are back. The forwards include Jake Kilrea, Bill Hamilton and Fred Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, Ken Ross, a recent acquisition from St. Thomas, and most of last season's crew.

Two experienced goalers, Bud Delirich and Ray Dunn, are contending for the job as Woodstock's first-string goaltender. Jack Reinhart also has a few more player deals hanging fire.

NEEDS DEFENCEMEN

The Belleville club has started working out a month ahead and says the players are in top shape for the opening schedule.

Most of Galt's club is back and coach Lloyd Rosebell hopes to add a few seven playing strength. Missing are, among them goaltender Bob Colvin, former defencemen Sly Sly and Ted Maki and forwards Ralph Boyle, Butch Martin and Bob McKnight.

"We feel that we have one of the best senior clubs in the province," says manager Len Gaudaur. "The only thing against this time is right for the revival of this caliber of hockey in Galt."

Gaudaur also hopes to have Don Rope, former Kitchener player now coaching high school at Galt, signed shortly.

The stiffest test Charlotte 5-4 Tuesday night.

At Stratford, coach Bill Woodhouse says he doesn't expect his team to be much better than Second place. He has lost eight players.

The key line of Bill Flick, Mickey Roth and Dinny Flanagan has been broken up with the retirement of Roth and Flanagan. And most of Woodward's big club have just lately brought up from the Stratford and St. Marys clubs.

Right now Shillington has 22 players on hand and doesn't expect to name his final choices for a little time yet. "I like the look of these boys and want to be absolutely sure before I cut anybody loose."

Oakville coach Gaye Stewart, formerly with Toronto Maple Leafs, got a lot last week when his club lost 5-3 in an exhibition with St. Michael's College Majors of the OHA Junior A.

Like the Galt club, it is built around most of last year's club which wound up fifth. Top newcomer is Roy Boomer who was the all-star goaler of the league with Galt last year. Others are Tommy Randall, formerly of Winnipeg Warriors in the WHL, and Mike Elik of Kitchener.

Key men for Oakville are defencemen Neil Buchanan, Ed Calhoun and Harry Neale and forwards Wally Maxwell and Billy Ford.

Rangers Use McCartan Tonight

Hall Is Goalie Sensation Of NHL

By ROGER THEBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The old saying — "A hockey team's success depends on its goalie"—is only a half-truth in this young National Hockey League season.

Chicago Black Hawks, Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers can lay considerable claim to the saying. But Montreal Canadiens, Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs haven't committed themselves yet.

Last season, the teams and their respective goalkeepers—with the exception of Glen Hall and Toronto goalies Johnny Mowers and Ed Chadwick—finished in the same order.

Hall was second last the Hawks finished third while Toronto finished second in the league standings and Detroit fourth.

HALL ON TOP

This year, Hall is the goalkeeping sensation of the league. In five games he has allowed only seven goals for an average of 1.40.

The team is one point behind the defending champion Canadiens but has two games in hand. Hall was second last the Hawks finished third while Toronto finished second in the league standings and Detroit fourth.

HALL ON TOP

This year, Hall is the goalkeeping sensation of the league. In five games he has allowed only seven goals for an average of 1.40.

The team is one point behind the defending champion Canadiens but has two games in hand. Hall was second last the Hawks finished third while Toronto finished second in the league standings and Detroit fourth highest in the league. But with Hall's sparkling record, it is good enough to put the Hawks in the championship picture.

Terry Sawchuk and the Red Wings seem to be the best followers of the leading.

Both are in third place. The Wings have won two, lost one and three ties in six starts and Sawchuk has won two, lost one. Bassen have allowed 19 goals, for the third-best average in the league.

The Wings have scored 18 goals, second-best output to the Canadiens.

WORK TOGETHER

New York Rangers and their six goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley, have been working hand in hand. Just after the season began, Rangers were in second place with two wins and one loss in three games. They had possession goals.

Worsley was third among goalers, behind Glen Hall and Canadiens' Jacques Plante.

Lately, Worsley's average has dropped considerably and the team is beginning to slip. He was bombarded with eight goals in Montreal Saturday and seven more by Toronto players Sunday.

New York has announced it plans to replace Worsley with substitute Jack McCartan for tonight's game.

McCartan played four games with the Rangers last year and allowed only seven goals.

With Montreal, Boston and Toronto, the teams and their goalkeepers are going along their own way.

PLANTE OFF FORM

Jacques Plante, five times winner of the Vezina Trophy—awarded to the goalkeeper with the team that has the best goals against average—is far down the goalkeepers's standings with a 3.66 average.

Montreal is riding high with the league lead, however, if its figures are well up in the standings.

The Bruins, on the other hand, are in last place and their goalie, Simmons Paul, has the second best average in the league.

In six games, Simmons has allowed only 12 goals, second to Hall, but the front line team mates have scored only 12 goals, lowest total in the league.

Toronto's Johnny Bower, who helped the Leafs considerably when they finished second last season, has also been let down by his teammates in early games this season.

He has allowed 19 goals, but his teammates have replied only 13 times.

Patrick Endorses

Goalie Platoon System

NEW YORK (AP) — General Manager Muzz Patrick of New York Rangers today endorsed hockey's platoon system for goalies while announcing Olympic Goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley will make his first start of the season tonight.

"McCartan looked good in yesterday's workout and he'll get the call," Muzz said tonight against the (Chicago) Black Hawks," said Patrick. "Gump Worsley is not too happy about being replaced, but we had to do something.

This is the first time in 13 years that the Rangers are carrying two goalkeepers. They had Jim Henry and Chuck Rayner in the 1947-48 campaign.

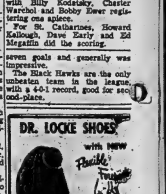
THE BEST SYSTEM

"This is the best system in my opinion," said Patrick. "Above it is just too much pressure for most goalies to stand up for a 70-game schedule. The forwards are shooting better, harder and quicker than they were in the past.

"Another thing, when a goalie gets hurt it's a sound idea to have another good one on the bench. Otherwise, it's liable to cost you a victory and top points

Welland Beats Teepees 5-3

WELLAND (CP) — Welland Warriors of the newly - formed Ontario Hockey Association Eastern Senior series took their first exhibition game in three starts here Tuesday night as they dropped the Junior A St. Catharines Teepees 5-3.



In the rather one-sided contest that saw the Warriors outshoot the Teepees 45-26, St. Catharines goalie Roger Crozier put on an outstanding show.

Welland scored seven goals and generally was the better team.

For St. Catharines, Howard Kellough, Dave Earty and Ed Megafin did the scoring.

Stengel's Pride Hurt Over Firing

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel, who managed New York Yankees to 10 American League pennants and seven world series victories in a 12-year tenure, was let out Tuesday because he is 70 years old.

Informed baseball man went ready to lay odds that Ralph Houk, 41, New York coach for the last three years, will succeed Stengel in 1961.

Houk, a former catcher with the Yankees who returned after a term as manager of the Denver club of the American Association, is expected to be introduced in his new capacity during a press conference today.

It will be no surprise if Yankee president Dan Topping, co-owner of the club along with vice-president Del Webb, has taken a more active part in the club's operations in recent months.

Unlike Stengel, who will serve his connections with the club when his two-year contract expires Oct. 31, the 65 - year - old Weiss will be retained in an advisory capacity. His contract still has several years to run.

OTHER CHANGES

Roy Hamey, 58, at present assistant general manager, probably will be named to succeed Weiss.

Stengel bowed out and Weiss will follow because Topping and Webb agreed "there should be an age limit." In the future the club will not employ a manager after he's 65.

Stengel, chagrined and bitter over his dismissal, intimated he would be amenable to an offer to manage elsewhere.

"My wife, Edna," he said, "would like me to get some money some place."

Stengel will get plenty of money when he officially leaves the Yankees at the end of this month. Besides his estimated $50,000 salary, he will receive a bonus of $150,000 as his share of the club's profit-sharing plan.

But no amount of money could salve his hurt pride, which he tried to protect by saying he would have liked to return as Yankee manager but not under the present conditions.

Topping was present at the 5 p.m. press conference which numbered some 150 reporters plus a half dozen newsreel, TV and movie cameras. Webb did not attend.

WANTS NEW BLOOD

"Webb has been letting Topping run the club," Stengel said. "Topping told me, and Webb agreed, that he's trying to rebuild the club and he wants to do it now while the club's still in the race."

Stengel asked whether he would be interested in managing San Francisco Giants, staked and replied:

"I am not yet ready to think about another job. I haven't made up my mind yet regarding my future."

Asked whether he thought a man of 70 was too old to manage, he said:

HOLDS SLIM LEAD

WINNIPEG (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos' Jackie Parker heeds into the final days of the 1960 WIFU season with a slim lead in his bid for two straight conference scoring titles, Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who won the scoring trophy in 1957, has scored 39 points in his last three games and now has 86. Parker, meanwhile, has scored only one touchdown in four games and has seen his lead narrowed to two points. Both players have single games remaining.

KEYOKE PINE

WINNIPEG (CP)—A $230 late-registration fine imposed by the University of Manitoba on a member of the Canadian all-star soccer team that recently toured Europe has been revoked by university President H. H. Saunderson. The fine to John Gawrylok, 21, goalkeeper on the team, was revoked because he had discussed his late return to classes with Dr. J. M. Brown, dean of education, before the tour.

Layne Tops U.S. Quarters

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterbacks Bobby Layne of Pittsburgh Steelers and Johnny Unitas of Baltimore Colts engage in passing duels this week in the dual for the National Football League's passing lead. Layne moved to the top, after a week in second place, with Unitas close behind.

The rankings are decided on a formula that includes completions, yards gained, touchdown passes, per cent completed, per cent touchdowned and average gain in yards.

Layne has completed 45 of 78 passes for a 57.7 average and eight touchdowns. He has an average gain of 15.38 yards.

Unitas has 50 completions on 117 attempts for 42.7 per cent completion average and seven touchdowns, with an average gain of 8.69 yards.

Lions Have Player Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions have a working agreement with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers by permitting bottom - placed clubs to draw on surplus talent from stronger teams.

A club spokesman said the plan has been well received by the Lions' players and coach Barry Sunday.

The plan would have each team allowed to protect 25 players from its talent roster at the end of the season. The remaining 10 would be placed at the disposal of the last - place team, which could pick up two from each other team, giving the club eight players for the following season.

The plan will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Canadian Football League next February.

Says Parents To Blame For Showing

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Olympic skater Anne Heggtveit Tuesday pitched squarely into the controversy over the responsibility for improving the country's performance in international competition.

Miss Heggtveit, winner of Canada's only gold medal in Olympic skiing, told reporters: "The country's lack of success against competitors can be traced back to the family.

"I started skiing when I was two years old," she said. "Every champion I know started skiing at a very early age and all had parents interested in sports and events. I think that encouragement is most important."

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Coup d'Etat, the consistent three-year-old filly owned by Mrs. Peter and Lou Lear of Calgary, scored her eighth win in nine starts here as she won the featured Sinator Purse at Greenwood Raceway. Coup d'Etat paid only $2.70, $3.40 and $2.80 and combined with Dancing Lass for the $1,000 fallsh second, for a quiella of $11.60. Dancing Lass paid $4.60 and $3.80.

Tuesday's secondary feature, the Toronto Turf Purse for 3-year-olds, was won by Foxy Chie. She defeated Airborne Charm and the favored Chops On.

Island Bought in 1930 Now Being Explored by Team Of Scientists from McGill

By GEORGE FRAZIER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AXEL HEIBERG ISLAND, N.W.T. (CP) — Canada bought Axel Heiberg Island from Norway in 1930. Today she is beginning to find out what she bought.

The island is being explored by a new type of Arctic exploration. Invaded by scientists of the hardy island this summer for a scientific blitzkrieg — a far-ranging, intensive, co-ordinated assault on the secrets of the ice age.

"The first of the key scouts are over," says Dr. George Jennings, Arctic communications expert who is a co-pensoner with McGill University of the three-year expedition.

"The lonely man with the faithful dogs, well, he could do an amazing amount of valuable work. But the man with the Fleet Cub, he can do a lot more."

MODERN APPROACH

"We're doing nothing more than using modern technology in a field that has had to be old-fashioned too long," says Dr. Jennings.

There have been explorers in the Arctic before — pathfinders and adventurers — but usually they have worked each in their own way. Never before have any of them been lumped together in a single team to pool their knowledge into a thorough, complete report on all aspects of a single Arctic island.

Axel Heiberg Island, 2,000 miles north of Winnipeg and 600 miles from the North Pole, was chosen because nobody had ever been there before.

JUNKYNE OF MOUNTAINS

The island is being plotted and mapped, and the island photographed from high altitudes. Until 1953, when Dr. Jacobsen flew in with a reconnaissance party, no one had set foot in the interior with its sweeping glaciers and horizontal bands of mountains.

The glaciers and the weird topography offered scientists a unique opportunity for original study.

"It has happened in the past," says Dr. Jennings. "that a scientist, let us say a botanist, has observed something and left it to the geologist to say, the ice age. But if he had consulted a geologist he would have found that from geological evidence that could not possibly have occurred in that era.

"Here, we have specialists in all the pertinent sciences sharing what they know."

SWEEP SEARCH

There were 34 in the 1960 expedition, led by Dr. Fritz Muller, Alpine guide and skiinstructor from Switzerland.

Dr. Richard Bechtel, Austrian-born botanist from Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., will spend the summer at the foot of the two glaciers Muller studied with his assistant Peter Lesko of McGill, post-graduate student.

Dr. Trevor Lee, Canadian-born geologist, was in charge of the general geology, and three graduate students with degrees in geology at McGill, made a sweep search for the island's glacial gypsum deposits.

The Canadian government co-operated by lending the expedition Bensol Robitaille, a veteran of 20 years with the department of mines and technical surveys, for the compilation of the land forms.

USE MOTOR SLEDS

The party co - operated by sending in a Lancaster reconnaissance plane to do low - level aerial photographs of the expedition's area.

Planes are the expedition's life-line. Two chartered Piper Super Cub ski-equipped ones have a yard wide that enable them to land on the glaciers and help bustle the scientists back and forth between their base camp Resolute and their field camp. They land anywhere, even on mountains.

On the glaciers themselves, dog-teams are used, and also, forth by motorized tobogan—a two-man, one - tracked vehicle which can climb a 45 degree cyclic.

The island has already yielded important scientific results, although all the data collected will be studied for a long time to come.

FIRST GYPSUM

Dr. Bechel, for example, believes he has disproved the theory that the island is a dividend of plant life, the lichens re-establishmentwise first, then the mosses, and finally the flowering plants. The flowering plants are just re-establish themselves first, he says, and the lichens last.

Hoon's thesis is to deal with the vast gypsum deposits. Gypsum has always been thought to be associated with salt, and normally occurs as the "cap" on top of a salt dome.

But in Axel Heiberg huge deposits of gypsum — 99 per cent pure-seem to occur without salt. Gypsum deposits a mile and even three miles in diameter have been found.

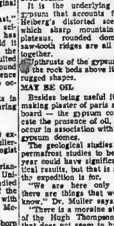
It is the underlying bed of gypsum that accounts for Axel Heiberg's distorted scenery in which sharp mountains, level plateaus, the towering plates and saw-tooth ridges are all jumbled together.

Outbursts of the gypsum tossed up the rock beds above it into the rugged shapes.

MAY BE OIL

Studies being useful itself — for making plaster of paris and wallboard — the gypsum could indicate the presence of oil. Oil does occur in association with salt and gypsum domes.

The geological studies and the permanent studies to begin next year could have significant practical benefits, but it is not what the expedition is for.



"We are here only because there are things they'd like to not know," Dr. Muller says.

"There is a moraine at the foot of the Hugh Thompson glacier that does not seem to have been formed by any method we know.

"It is not the usual type of moraine, a deposit that glaciers leave behind when they retreat. Perhaps there is some force active here which we do not know about, and we should.

"As long as we do this, as long as we think it is worthwhile that men should come here to find out something that we do not know, perhaps there is some hope that we are not all materialists yet."

Junior Game Close

Quinte, Moira Split Wins

By BILL BURLEY

The junior game started with Moira kicking off, and trapping Quinte within their 25 yard line. The rugged Quinte line held Moira's fast offensive for a number of plays. Quinte's Robert Baker of Moira booted a punt which was received by Quinte in their own end zone where it remained with Moira leading 1-0. Quinte's Alan Fair ran a first-yard dash with the Moira defence missing by 5 points as a result.

Quinte's Bob Ellis punted a rouge for one point. Early in the 3rd quarter Blaker of Moira kicked another point for Moira. Wayne Taylor, of Quinte, broke up this duel of kickers by making a T.D. pass to Quinte's Peter Lewis of Quinte returning. Moira's touchdown kicked with a run of 51 yards where he was stopped on Moira's one yard line. Then Blaker scored for Moira and as a final jest, kicked the convert to bring the score to 15-13. This game tied Quinte and Moira for second place. These teams play each other again next week with Quinte hopes to have her whole team out of bandages.

In the senior game Quinte rocked up 10 touchdowns; 5 conversions and 1 rouge, while Moira remained pointless and amazed.

The first quarter started with Ricky Leslie of Quinte kicking off to score the first TD of the game. Quinte was still a little uncertain if their lead was large enough, as "Flash Lucky" initiated the team by running another TD followed by a convert by Bill Green. Then "Hoover Ron Fluff", kicked and swayed among Moira's defence for a touchdown with a convert by Green assisting on the convert. Quarterback Bob Powell gave the ball to Ricky Leslie who scored the TD for Quinte.

Kicks for a TD for Quinte with Green-converting and Hull ran another touchdown, accompanied by Green's conversion.

After a little rest at half time Moira showed some fight but was hardly waiting for the kickoff, grabbed the ball from Fulwell, charged up the field for the TD. "Tons Green" then followed his teammates by running another TD and then kicked his own convert. Duffy Follwell kicked a rouge. Green then followed his other successes by scoring again and then Locke, to make sure of Quinte's position, scored again with Quinte winning 66-0.

CANADIAN WIN

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)— Canada picked up its first trophy, but the United States took over the team lead Tuesday in international jumping competition at the Pennsylvania national horse show. After three events, the team scoring was: U.S. 35; Canada 23; Ireland 19; and Venezuela 12. Mexico has yet to score

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT
Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile assists in digestion. It actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty meals, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.
In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty lumps. Bile breaks down these fats . . . and makes them digestible.
Carter's Little Liver Pills contain a combination of valuable ingredients to relieve irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.
So when you feel sluggish, headachy, and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Green's Soft Sell Seeks To Broaden Disarmament Try

Great Powers Bungle It, Need Small Lands' Aid

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Using the soft sell on a hard subject, Canada has called for a bigger and broader attack on disarmament without scuttling progress already made.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, in a major speech Wednesday to the 100-member United Nations political committee, eschewed name-calling and recrimination but he said in effect that the great powers have bungled disarmament.

They need help from the UN and from the middle and smaller powers, said Green, advocating stiff competition from the large advisory committees to work out the 10-nation East-West negotiating body which collapsed in Geneva in June.

Green spoke in the first day of real debate in the important political committee in the 15th session of the UN General Assembly. Others urged delegates not to throw away advances made by the 10-nation committee to build on them.

PROPOSES CHAIRMAN

He formally proposed the appointment of a neutral chairman for the committee — preferably a representative of non-aligned nations from arguing at "cross purposes."

The political committee—under the threat of a walkout by Russia—resumed its general discussions today to hear further disarmament debate.

As if to give point to Green's remarks Wednesday, the Soviet Union renewed its threat to walk out of the disarmament exchanges with the United States and Britain if it wouldn't be intimidated by such threats.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin told committee the threat by Soviet Premier Khrushchev earlier—said his delegation had accepted the committee's rules. the West insisted upon pressing the disarmament proposals in opposition to those of Russia.

U.S. COUNTERS

United States Ambassador James J. Wadsworth countered with a three-point statement of principles for disarmament: A fair balance between East and West in the number of military advantage; adequate inspection and verification early — not late in progress, building confidence so that the Soviet Union's new caught approach to disarmament can be made effective.

Green, in his afternoon speech, said Canada is not afraid of "awful" consequences of the arms race which would make war impossible and sacrifice are necessary to reach agreement.

Columbia Power Project Start Due Next Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Construction may begin next year on a $458,000,000 three-dam storage system in the Columbia River basin of British Columbia, Canadian-American agreement on the hydro and flood-control scheme was announced Wednesday.

The project will mean an estimated extra 1,675,600 horsepower for B.C. in the shape of power shared out of United States storage reservoirs by Canadian-stored water on completion of the 10-year construction program. Another $85,000,000 in cash will be paid by the U.S. as a half the flood-damage saving made possible by the dams. The power will be half the total made possible by Canadian storage.

The federal government has offered to put up half the $458,000,000 cost of actual construction or $172,000,000 in the self-liquidating project, said a statement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

B.C. CONSIDERING

A 60-year treaty was expected to be ready for ratification by Parliament and Congress at the end of the year, including a working plan of operating the storage facilities. However, the B.C. government has not accepted the federal offer, said Justice Minister Fulton who led a federal-B.C. negotiating team.

B.C. would have public hearings before issuing water licences for dam construction. Perhaps 1,000 persons may be pushed out by dam flooding.

Mr. Fulton said Canadian storage of 15,500,000 acre-feet of water will provide an extra power for downstream American generators and still leave the way clear for generator installations on the Canadian side at a later date.

He called it the best deal that could be made. However it failed to meet the standard of potential in benefits to Canada that some experts had suggested.

Chief example was the refusal of the B.C. government to agree to diversion of the Kootenay River into the Columbia on grounds that too-extensive flooding would result in the east Kootenay.

WIN ON LIBBY DAM

This opened the way for the American to wring Canadian agreement on the contentious Libby Dam question. The U.S. sought either Kootenay diversion or the Libby Dam in finding the flood-control benefits and gained a five-year option on Libby's construction.

Libby had been opposed by Canada because it ceases being economic taking into consideration below alternative use of Kootenay waters indicated by engineering studies.

Both Columbia and Kootenay rise in the southeast corner of B.C. The Kootenay then crosses the border, swings back into Canada and then goes across again. The Columbia goes north before curling back in a sharp curve to flow through the narrow gorges at Castlegar and on into an extensive U.S. chain of hydro stations.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Overcast weather has reached the lower lakes. With clearing skies expected tonight temperatures will fall to or below the freezing mark in most localities. Temperatures should hold to the low 40s today. Snowflurries will continue today north of Lake Superior but there will also be sunny intervals in northern and central Ontario.

HOG PRODUCERS ARE GOING INTO PACKING PORK

Will Set Up Plants Across Province

The Ontario Hog Producers' association Wednesday voted to integrate vertically into pig-pen-to-frying-pan operation by establishing a chain of packing plants across the province in competition with private firms.

A meeting of the association's county executives agreed to seek support of a debenture issue of at least $1,000,000 — preferably $3,000,000—to set up a chain of plants that would also handle beef, lamb and veal.

Delegates agreed there will be stiff competition from the large private meat-packing companies and sought support, without formal guarantees of protection, to the smaller firms.

Association President Charles Hallman said the initial plants raised would provide necessary data for the period when the large private firms, expected to offer stiff competition, might put on pressure.

The drive for funds began as soon as the vote was taken and Mr. McInnis said it will continue until the chain of abbatoirs and packing plants is set up and the HOGC (Farmers' Allied Meat Enterprises) opens on meat packages on grocery shelves.

Mr. McInnis, general manager of the Quebec co-operative Federation, said that although fattening houses be put up around Ontario, only the pork packing plant in the Toronto area.

He said the Quebec enterprise had shown a profit of more than $1,000,000 last year and backed up his confidence in the Ontario project with a $3,000 cheque for FAME debentures.

Kennedy Thinks Rockefeller, Nixon Distrust Each Other

NEW YORK (CP)—John Kennedy suggested politely Wednesday night that Richard Nixon and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller "don't trust each other—publicly or privately.

The two spoke before a posh audience at the Waldorf Astoria. They refused to shake hands for photographers.

Nixon arrived quietly for a three - day stay. He expressed hope that Kennedy's big city supporter, Mayor Robert Wagner, would also stage a ticker-tape parade for the Republican before the Nov. 8 election.

"I believe in equal ticker tape," the Republican presidential nominee said with a smile, well aware of the crucial position New York state holds in the election fight. New York has 45 of "the 537 electoral votes. A candidate needs 269 to win.

The joint appearance of the two candidates was the highlight of the annual $100 - a - plate Al Smith memorial banquet. Among the five-row head table guests were financier Bernard Baruch Mrs. Vincent Astor, magazine publisher Henry Luce and many others.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Catholic archbishop of New York who presided, described Nixon and Kennedy as men of goodwill, endowed with brilliant minds and dedicated to the welfare of America.

Kennedy, first to speak,

Hubby Had To Meet Wife On the Sly

LONDON (Reuters)—Leslie T. Daniels, who had to meet his wife with his wife on the sly, was granted a divorce Wednesday.

The court said that on three occasions Daniels had to meet him to his father-in-law's house, where his wife was living, to see the night with Mrs. Daniels.

Mr. Justice Scott-Gatty in the court continued, had to wait until his father-in-law, who did not approve of his wife, had gone to bed and then, creep upstairs.

The father - in - law caught Daniels the next morning on the stairs and ordered him from the house.

The court said Mrs. Daniels refused to stay with her father and had refused to join Daniels. The divorce was

KINGSEY, Que. (CP)—Provincial police today intensified a search for six armed and masked bandits who took over a tiny railway station here and robbed a CNR diesel train of $200 when it pulled up to the platform.

The bandits, staging a real-life drama to an old-settlers movie script, took only a few minutes Wednesday to conduct the entire operation. They fled in a panel truck after taking the loot—money from the train, bound for Quebec City from Montreal.

The robbers were armed with two .38-calibre revolvers, a sawed-off .45-calibre long-barrel pakv revolvers used in early western movies and a .38-calibre Colt revolver became fashionable.

One bandit also equipped himself with a Second World War Stengun.

The CNR said in Montreal that all the money was in coin. It was destined for Quebec City banks.

Police immediately set up road-blocks throughout the area, 70 miles east of Montreal, but said early today no arrests had been made.

The robbers fired several shots through the windshield of the diesel locomotive but no one was seriously injured. Engineer Wilfrid Arnold suffered cuts by flying glass.

Some 30 passengers were told to stay in their seats but no one was molested. No mail or baggage was taken.

It was the third time that trains had been robbed by robbers in the last 18 months.

Three men escaped with a safe containing $900 from a Delaware and Hudson train as it stood overnight in the CPR's Windsor Station in Montreal in January, 1959.

Seven months later three masked men were found hiding on a train in the CNR Central Station in Montreal an hour before it was to pull out with a large shipment of money for Halifax, N.S. The men fled when RCMP covered by a conductor.

Goals of Russian-Canadian Trade Pact Will Be Met

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade authorities here are optimistic that Canada's trade deficit with Russia will be met this year, despite a slow start.

Key to the new deal—which began in April — is the Canadian sales organization. For every $1 Soviet goods be buys, Russia has agreed to import twice as much from Canada. Wheat would make up half of Russia's purchases.

In the first three months of the agreement, Canadian imports from Russia totalled $1,400,000, with a large volume of the wheat crop entering Canada via other countries. The same period last year produced $765,000 in imports.

Major Russian import has been wood, a pitchwood or resinous product, used in Canada for manufacturing plastics. Other imports include Russian furs and small quantities of window glass and plywood.

Officials here are hopeful of an increase in both the volume and variety of Russian goods entering Canada. At the present rate, the Canadian import goal of $12,000,000 would not be reached.

Canadian businessmen are employing the field in Russia. An estimated 30 of them are inquiries to the federal trade department's representative in Moscow, William Van Vliet.

On the Canadian export side, shipments are down sharply, in the first five months—April to five months—April to five months—April to

All Prepared For Funeral, Wrong Body

RIDGEWAY, Ont. (CP)—The obituary was in the newspaper, the flowers were there and the pastor was saying the day when undertaker Brian Harris found out he'd delivered the body to relatives had the wrong body.

Only 24 hours earlier he had to have been buried what three relatives said were the remains of Tyrrell Andrew Conahan, Mr. Harris found that Conahan was still very much alive.

The body turned out to be that of Kenneth Golden Kelly, 56, of no fixed address, who was killed in a traffic accident in Hamilton Sunday. Ridgeway is 12 miles southeast of Welland. A policeman at the scene of the accident identified the victim as Mr. Conahan and a son and two daughters of the supposed dead man identified him as their father.

Mr. Harris assumed the costs of the coffin and of embalming.

26 District People Resume Normal Living

The Quinte branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is proud of its achievement in Belleville.

During the first six months of this year, sufferers from arthritis have received treatments, prescribed by their physicians, from the Society's physiotherapist. In all, 507 treatments have been given this year by the Society's staff in Belleville patients. During the six-month period, 32 cases were clinically arrested and 26 had received the maximum benefit to be able to resume normal living, after months and in some cases, years of crippling and suffering.

One such case is that of Mrs. A. Belleville Kinsmen Club who speaks highly of the help she has received from the Society's physiotherapist.

Mrs. S. is 50 years old. She has suffered from rheumatoid arthritis for the last six years. A year ago she was referred to the Society by her physician who prescribed physiotherapy treatments. Her joints were badly deformed, the fingers were twisted badly in one side and would not straighten or bend. Wax treatments and exercises were taught to her by the physiotherapist to be carried out daily. Splints, to prevent further deformity and to possibly partially correct the deformity, were made for her shoulders, too, required treatment. In two months marked improvement was noted.

Since Mrs. S.'s hands did improve she is now wearing the third set of night splints and after 30 treatments is able to do most of her housework—something she had not been able to for years.

The services of C.A.R.S. are available to all sufferers from arthritis and the rheumatic diseases on recommendation of the patient's physician. They are made possible through your support of the United Appeal.

Aspirin Used Extensively In Treatment of Arthritis

Opinion of Panel Discussion

If physicians had to choose only one drug from the whole pharmacopoeia for the treatment of arthritis, they would probably choose the lowly aspirin.

That was the opinion of a group of physicians, who last night formed a panel discussion at the Quinte Sanatorium. It was sponsored by the Quinte branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. Object of the discussion was to allay fears and misconceptions of arthritis, a disease which the early Egyptians knew as "the crawling of the limbs." More than 100 people attended.

Dr. James Loynes, of Belleville, chairman of the CARS branch medical advisory committee, was the moderator and panel members included Dr. Wallace Graham, an international authority on rheumatic illnesses and senior consultant at Toronto General Hospital; Dr. Bruce Young, director, Kingston Institute of Rehabilitation; Dr. Harold F. Willson, Belleville, and Miss Winifred Herrington, director of medical social work of the Society.

"The degenerate joint disease type is the most common form of arthritis, said Dr. Graham. It generally occurs in people past the age of 40. But even then, it doesn't necessarily incapacitate, although it is the most serious type of arthritis. It is associated with stiff joints and pain and is most often found in women.

"Perhaps the nicest thing we can say about it is that it responds to heat and to the afflicted he doesn't have a crippling or deforming disease," he said.

"He will be told to rest and take plenty of aspirin."

ASPIRIN GOOD DRUG

The only trouble with prescribing aspirin is that the people afflicted by it like it so much therefore, not effective enough in the treatment of the disease diagnosed by a professional physician.

They'd sooner pay 20 cents a day for something else," said Dr. Graham, who was referred to the good drug. It does not harm the liver like some of the other drugs can. We should forget about aspirin's bad effects on upsetting the heart. The only trouble is we can't get people to take enough aspirin, though it is cheap in price."

Many centuries medicine has been trying to annihilate arthritis. But it has been hampered by quacks and superstitions. It has only been in relatively recent years that the various types of arthritis have been prevented and cured in so many. An injury or infection of the joints, which is the cause, is always dependent upon the patient. Most types of arthritis vary greatly in their seriousness.

"They are different as black and white," said Dr. Graham, native of Madoc.

"It's a like when someone says they have a sure-cure for arthritis because no one treatment can cure all types. But with we could take all these so-called cures—including the bee venom, out into the middle of the Atlantic and dump them, it would be a very wonderful thing for humanity but hell on the fish."

Touching on an English woman's claim that she has a sure cure in bee venom for all types of arthritis, Dr. Graham said this was nonsense, but conceded that the injection of bee venom under direction, an old practice, can give relief for one or two days. But it is not a cure.

NOT LAST RESORT

Speaking on the surgical aspects of treating arthritis, Dr. Williamson said surgery is playing an increasing part in treatment of the disease, but it's a relatively new specialty."

"Surgery is not the last resort," he said. "It should be tried at an optimum time to prevent the progressive crippling of the disease. Other joints can be substituted to extraordinary result if surgery on some arthritic joints is not tried early. Before the other joints show signs of wearing out is the optimum time for surgery."

Although medicine cannot duplicate the joints Nature has made, it can replace them, if necessary, with artificial ones, made of metals.

"If the muscles remain functioning, or all of a joint can be replaced," he said.

Dr. Young, speaking from the viewpoint of rehabilitating arthritics, said physio - therapists and occupational - therapists go to work after a doctor has made his diagnosis, because we never know the cause which, in turn, will govern the kind of treatment we will use."

In some types of arthritis there is no joint damage. In others, joint damage is severe.

"Our job is to assist in gaining maximum function of the part when the stage of the disease has reached its plateau or end point," he said.

The physio - therapist works toward restoring muscles. But only the patient himself can carry out the exercises. The function is just shown you what to do and it is up to you to do it. The basis of an arthritic's future depends on the amount of balanced muscle power that can be regained."

JOB OF WORKER

Another member of the team is the social worker. Miss Herrington, who, for the past five years has been with CARS, said the social worker is concerned primarily with the problems, worries and difficulties that are normally found in families, where a member has arthritis.

"Where there are family troubles in cases involving arthritis, they are magnified in retardation," she said.

"It is the job of the social worker to help, not only patient, but his family as well on how to cope with the situation. Social workers can also help the patient in adjusting to their illness. Being unable to do the job they formerly chose is very discouraging and frustrating for people who previously led active lives.

Dr. Williamson, who came to Belleville in 1923 from the West described joints as "wonderful things." While everything else, eventually must wear out, they have been known to last for 100 years or more.

"Muscles," he said, "are the motors which cause the movement of joints. "I think muscles are the least important. That's why we emphasize the use of muscles during treatment."

When surgery is prescribed and replacement of one or more of a joints is necessary, one of the most recent advances in medical science has made it possible to "get a person out of bed and walking in just a few days a week." More recently, bowever, it has been the discovery that natural joints can be replaced by artificial ones which provide a relatively wide range movement. But this won't work if the muscle power degenerated."

GREATEST CRIPPLER

Dr. Young noted that in his experience in dealing with osteo-arthritic cases, those afflicted show generation after generation. Also, more victims have been found in the Prairie provinces and said obesity is "one of the greatest crippling factors" in treatment of this disease. You can say any person who is grossly overweight with the disease that he will not get well if he doesn't lose weight."

Dr. Graham said rheumatoid arthritis is the greater crippler and presented the problem in the family of rheumatic disease as "not a general systemic disease, not of the joints, but of the connective. It tends to strike people between the ages of 20 and 40, but only last week I saw an infant 18 months with it and I have seen people in the 70's with it."

Rheumatoid arthritis, however he said is cured in 1 night is little ball and snooping in his underground passages.

He is an air conservationist cutting down his intake to an average of one breath a minute. He doesn't grow a tinker's dam about chain-store stamps. He snores happily for weeks without eating.

Wisely he sets the burglar alarm before he dozes off. If during his sleep he has a danger of freezing to death, his protector Dame Nature will rescue him. But he fuels up before the long retirement. He eats four times his normal weight. That's seven meals on teeth and a saving on toothpaste. He has no dietary worries.

Even though he wakens every three weeks, he remembers what the doc told him about weight reduction and turns food during the period of temporary wakefulness.

As he awakens his body temperature rises from about 37.4 degrees to normal, around 98 degrees.

His heart, (he puts that in low gear, from 180 beats/min. the.sack), is beating 200 times a minute against a normal 60 beats, speeded up to above normal, gustling to from 25 to 30 gulps a minute before slowing down.

After all, it's a good life. No love affairs, permanent that is, no taxes, rent or fuel bills.

Meteorological Meatball Says Winter Is Near

By GEORGE H. CARVER

How are you fixed for oil, wood, shavings, fence posts, old mattresses, or whatever fuels your heating system?

Better take stock for one of the best weather prognosticators in the world just given notice winter is not far away.

Brother Groundhog, that meteorological fur - coated meatball, has removed himself from the countryside scenery, and gone underground.

Without the windy gusts of two-legged weather prophets who rent out "highs" in Texas and "lows" in Miami before coming to the point that it's going to rain tomorrow, Brer Woodchuck wordlessly gives out his warning.

But he'll be back. He'll come topside February 2, look around to see if Mr. K. has taken over, and if he sees his shadow dive back into hibernation for six weeks more.

That's a repeat prophetical action that winter will hang around for a month and a half.

Nobody sees him and concluding the doc has one world is a you can't blame him for curling up a snout and ducting back out of sight.

But what Woody doesn't know is that some snooping human has investigated him while he is curled in a little ball and snoozing in his underground apartments.

He has the answer to the high cost of living. He also believes in giving his physician's machinery a rest. No use wearing out the equipment when there's nothing coming in.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Gold prices rocketed on the stock market today as traders were caught in a swirl of buying.

Following the record prices being set on the London market, Canadian gold kibs bare opened at the new high of $37 bid, no offer, and quickly jumped to $39.

On index, the section was up 1.33 at 95.5 — the highest since 1953—and most senior producers recorded gains in the $1 range.

"We're being flooded with American buyers," said one Toronto broker, who saw the flurry as "baffling and unprecedented." Volume in Porcupine gained 1/4 at 30%, Dome 2 at 27, Hollinger 1% at 30% and Kerr-Addison 1% at 13% on sales of 92,000 shares.

The rest of the market seemed drab in comparison. On index, industrials were up .31 at 484.35, and base metals 1.44 at 132.24 but western oils eased .09 at 81.73.

The 11 a.m. volume was 2,315,000 shares compared with Wednesday's 485,000.

Noranda was strong to take base metals higher, up 1% at 41¼ while senior uraniums were narrowly mixed.

Western oils again were tied lower by a handful of penny losses.

McIntyre-Porcupine gained 2% at 28, Dome was up 3% at 25, and P a t e Yellowknife were ahead 1¼ at 13¾.

Trading provided the backbone of industrial slender index with Imperial Bank jumped a point at 45¼ and Bank of Commerce was up at 53½ and Royal gained ½ at 53¾.

Papers, steels and utilities all were mixed without outstanding features.

Among base metals, Geco and Noranda had 25-cent gains at 11 and 39½. Falconbridge was up at 33¼ and, among speculative issues, Rio Prospector Airways gained 18 cents at $1.40 on sales of 60,000 shares.

Western oils lost ground at the close.

ARMISTICE DAY IRB

To some of us the memories of November 11th, are still fresh. The fifties armistice at 5.00 a.m. and the cessation of hostilities at 11.00 a.m. A respectful silence was observed the world over into the hospitals and homes of the people assembly waiting, and a sense of pure gratitude filled everybody. Then the bells, silent for so many years, rang out in utter abandon in the relief of Conscience that so more telegrams would be received and the boys would be home soon — except those who had paid the supreme sacrifice. CANADIAN LEGION

The members of the Canadian Legion will again sponsor a Memorial Service at the cenotaph and we will all pay respectful homage to the memory of the brave boys whose names are indelibly engraved on the Cenotaph.

Scouts throughout the Commonwealth will attend the services, and a Scout Parade will run through their minds? Today we have to-day, but tomorrow we think about and peace seems far away. We are grateful to the Canadian Legion for keeping such memory alive and we hope they will always be permitted to keep this one day as a memorial Day so that we may pay our respects to those brave men who were willing to pay the extreme sacrifice and also to those who came back, many wounded and all with a part of their lives lost in the turmoil of war.

The young people to whom the wars are a glorious page in the history of Canada are filled with pride and gratitude. A personal sense of patriotic fervour is experienced. They are proud to belong to a race of people who fought so bravely to make Canada a better land to live in, a land of freedom and democracy. Our servicemen's publish all these events with pictures of veterans and columns of stories about them. After we have read about the long parades and with our ears still ringing with the martial music of the bands we turn the page to find our thoughts turned to disastrous period than all the wars combined — the highway traffic toll.

SCOUTS CAN HELP

Scouts from 8 to 80; Cubs, Boy Scouts, Rovers, Leaders, Commissioners, Cub Mothers, volunteers and brothers, can by example and precept, sometimes preaching of traffic accidents. Thousands of people are killed, tens of thousands injured every year in preventable accidents. Let us each one of us, start thinking of our "Glorious Dead" and wearing the Poppy of Peace, let us dedicate ourselves to the living, and show the people that the Boy Scout Movement has set a pattern to be copied that will prove once and for all, how Scouting produces good hard thinking citizens, gentlemen on and off the highway.

SAFETY AT JAMBOREE

At the 8th World Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, nearly 100,000 cars visited that huge camp. Hundreds of buses every day. Visitors from all over the world were driving through this temporary city of 12,000 carefree boys. An officer of the Ontario Provincial Police told me that during the two weeks the Jamboree was in progress not a single accident occurred on the roads. The camp was for a fifty mile radius of the campsite. Nobody hurt, no property damage, not even a fender bender! Why? The answer is simple. Because everybody was obeying the Scouh Law. Nobody broke it. We don't beat the system, bow or put on a show to impress! Why admirers?!)

Will you be at Niagara! We can do it in Belleville! We have a Scout Movement directly interested in the Boy Scouts Movement — enough to demonstrate good sense and good manners. Cubmasters should emphasize that Cubs are not little men, they don't ride their bicycles to school by themselves and all others on the road. Crossing streets with proper care saves lives. Scouts know traffic safety rules and knowing how small boys copy, should exercise particular care. Adults are of course the good, or bad, examples. What Dad does is right! Please stop! Scouts demonstrate how the Scouts Movement can be a power for good. We can do it If we all decide now to use good sense on the highways. Let us "crash the crash" and slow down the ever increasing "row on row of crosses." Selfishness can save lives and injuries — transform our present racing highways into pleasure drives.

Our local police will be overjoyed to offer their power to help you. If you want your boys to enjoy traffic there is a certain man who will be delighted to visit your pack, troop or group. The boys will really like to listen to this traffic expert, he likes children and they will like him. His job is to keep our children safe, and he urges our support! One man cannot do much, but with the active backing of 2,000 people our vital statistics will improve at once.

We proved this when we tackled the swimming situation. The results speak for themselves. Now we have the ambitious project of accident prevention. Now is the time to dedicate ourselves to this program of life-saving and you can be assured that in a very

Veteran's Death Believed Caused By Heart Attack

Believed to have suffered a heart attack as he was on his way home from a senior citizens' meeting at the recreation centre, Albert William Armstrong, 61 East Moira Street, died suddenly last night after apparently tripping and falling over a low retaining wall on a municipal parking lot on Pinnacle Street.

Mr. Armitage was found on the base of the wall by Mrs. Kelsey and her 13-year-old son Anthony as they went through the alleyway on their way to a store. The elderly man had left the recreation centre at 10.30 and was found a few minutes later. A postmortem has been ordered by Coroner Dr. Sam Orr, to determine the cause of death.

Born in London, England, 74 years ago, Mr. Armstrong is the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Armstrong. He had lived here 45 years ago. He was a retired railway engineer and worked as night watchman at the Alemite plant for a number of years.

He was a veteran of World War I, having served overseas in France and Belgium and was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal. He was a member of Branch 99 of the Canadian Legion and an adherent of Christ Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Isabel Ayers in 1945, by surviving son Albert Robert of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. Allan (Ivy Florence) Brown of Cronkhite, N.B., and Mrs. Isabel MacDonald of Montreal.

A brother Alex lives in London, England. There are eight grandchildren.

Rosicrucians Mark Birthday

Members of the Rosicrucian Order, Quinte Chapter, held their 30th birthday celebration in the Masonic Temple on Tuesday evening. It was their 30th anniversary for the Order in this district and a birthday party was held.

The special speaker for the evening was Frater Ralph Seymour from Hamilton. He is Past Master of Hamilton Chapter and Chairman of the Board of Directors for that subordinate body. Mr. Staynor's address, "Every Man to His Own Living," was of particular interest for those in attendance. "Positive thinking expands your life while negative thinking shrinks your life," he declared. The greatest asset one can have is the power to concentrate. The concentrate is the architect of our life and the concentrate is the builder, he said. We gradually come to be what we think. He also complimented knowledge within us and therefore are free to accomplish much in our lives. Mr. Staynor was extended a vote of thanks for his interesting address by Chapter member, Stella Burley.

The birthday party was then held and a social hour followed. Mrs. Staynor presided over the happenings within the Chapter during the two years she was active in the Quinte district.

10,000 Workers Demonstrate Against Plan

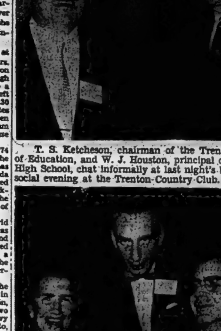
PARIS (AP)—Some 10,000 Renault workers in Paris demonstrated Wednesday against the auto firm's plan to lay off 3,000 employees.

The government - controlled firm, which is France's largest auto manufacturer, announced the cutback in its 60,000 - man work force last week. The company statement said a drop in sales, particularly in the United State and Britain, had forced a lowdown in production.

The demonstrators gathered in the street near the main Renault plant in suburban Paris, and marched to nearby Billancourt town square where they gathered in front of the prefecture.

A similar demonstration took place in London when employees of the British Motor Corporation, to the British Auto Show at Earls Court, struck for a "token hour" of 15 workers. They also complained that government restrictions on credit hire purchase is a drop in car sales.

Meanwhile, the demonstrators didn't recognize the man at the wheel of the vehicle they protest — Trade Minister Reginald Maudling — as he drove through the gates without being noticed. When the men realized what had happened, many of them dispersed.



short time the results will be gratifying beyond all expectations.

U.S. Misgivings

The United States has failed to persuade the world that it is a nation intent on peace," Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate in 1952 and again in 1956, recently asserted.

"The inconceivable fact is, indeed, that through large parts of the world the United States with its emphasis on military pacts has been regarded as a greater threat to peace than the Soviet Union," Stevenson continued.

When Stevenson made this observation, a short time ago, he would probably have considered it even more inconceivable that this fear of the U.S. would shortly be officially shared by a group of influential U.S. citizens.

The Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions has issued a report entitled "Community of Fear." It says: "As the Russian military position becomes more clearly dominant in the next decade, and as increasing psychological pressure is brought to bear on the Western position and morale, the likelihood of desperate, erratic, unauthorized action by U.S. and allied forces is much greater than the chance of similar breaches of discipline by the Soviets."

Of course, this is not the same as doubting that the U.S. is a nation intent on peace. But intent is not enough. We all recall what we have been told about the paving stones on the road to hell. Paradoxically enough, the most evil objectives need not alarm us greatly if they are paired with the ability to recognize that they are unattainable.

The report, "Community of Fear," was issued by the Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions, which was founded by the Fund for the Republic, which was established by the Ford Foundation in 1953 to promote the principles of individual liberty expressed in the U. S. Declaration of Independence and Constitution. Just try drawing a Red herring across that trail.

Always Being Tested

At the opening ceremonies for the Ontario Department of Transport's driver examination centre in this community last week Warden Earl Sager gave voice to an interesting thought. He stated drivers were being tested each time they were operating a motor vehicle just when they were applying for their operator's permit.

There is considerable merit to this thought and if drivers were to bear it in mind each and every time they took to the public roads many accidents and driving incidents could be avoided.

The slow driver would be safe himself if his rate of progress was holding up traffic, causing other drivers inconvenience and possibly forcing them to take chances in order to pass him, many accidents and accident-prone situations could be avoided.

If the fast driver were aware of himself if his conduct was endangering others on the road through having to cut in and out of traffic abruptly or cutting other cars off through dangerous passing procedures many more accident possibilities could be eliminated.

It all comes down to the fact that every driver must be conscious of others on the highways and streets and always be aware of the fact that they have just as much right on the road as himself and that they also have the right to expect him to operate his motorcar in a safe, sane and sensible manner.

It behooves every motorist to adopt this mental attitude for his own and others' safety.

Cost of Living

The cold statistics of the "consumer price index," better known as the cost of living index, generally show only a fractional change, usually upwards, from month to month.

It is well to remember that the index also measures cumulative change, and it is here that the figures are startling. The latest index of 128.4 for instance, means this:

A mixed package of consumer goods and services —food, clothing, laundry and many others—which cost the consumer $100 in 1949 would have cost $128.40 last month. (Windsor Star).

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ALL THINGS WELL

We often think that we should like to be able to look into the future and see what it has in store for us.

But think about this for a moment. Would you really like to have this gift? Suppose you first discerned far in the distance calamity for you or your loved ones? Every day from the point of that discovery until the calamity came upon you, or upon them, would be an agonizing period of torture. The horror of legal execution is not just that a man must suffer death, but that he remains for months, sometimes for years, looking to that day when the merciful will blade will open. That, not the actual execution, is the greatest punishment of torture.

No, let's not think that we could arrange things better than the Lord has in this life, if we had the chance. As the heavens are high above the earth so is God's wisdom and love high above our ignorance and selfishness.

Sometimes we all wish that we could look a little into the future and see whether or not something we are planning to do would turn out well. But this is only a passing and fanciful thought. If we ponder life to any degree we soon come to the realization that God has done all things well. We think a ridiculous mistake if we think we can improve on God and His methods.

Miracles of the Universe
Sun Spots

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 4

The Sun is a large ball of hot gas which gives off heat and light.

The Sun is the centre of the Solar System of nine planets and by its gravitational force keeps the earth and the other eight planets circling around it.

The Sun is yellow and middle-aged (about six to nine billion years old). The Sun is a star and is a very average one at that.

The Sun together with approximately 100 billion other stars form what is called our Milky Way galaxy (really a bowl full of stars).

The Milky Way galaxy is only one galaxy out of over one billion galaxies that can be seen through man's most powerful telescopes. Billion estimates run as high as 10 billion galaxies.

Therefore there are so many other stars in the universe that no particular significance can be given to the Sun except that upon its degree of life on earth. If the Sun was to die or explode, the earth was to escape out of orbit around the Sun, all life on earth would perish. The Sun provides the earth with light, heat and energy of the plant and animal life alike may live.

The Sun is very bright to the naked eye but from the planets Mercury, Venus and Mars it is much brighter because Mercury and Venus are much closer to the Sun than is the earth. The Sun is a little yellow dot as seen from the furthest planet in the Solar System. But in terms of absolute brightness that is to say the true brightness irrespective of the distance from the earth, the Sun is not of average brightness. Many stars are much greater in light, and many give off less.

AVERAGE SIZE

In terms of size the Sun is also very average. The Sun is the earth (over 100 times larger in diameter) but small compared to some super stars.

In the preceding article we discussed the Sun in a general way and left to this article the topics of Sun spots and prominences (great "flames" that leap out of the Sun into space).

The Sun is a large ball ($860,000 miles in diameter) of hot gas. The gas at the surface is composed mostly of hydrogen, and other elements are present. In fact, over 60 atoms common to the earth and other stars have been detected on the Sun by spectographic analysis. There are 92 natural atoms, and it is likely that the whole group could be found somewhere down in the Sun if the tests were more extensive.

The Sun at its inner core is about 15,000,000 degrees, at its surface it is 6,000 degrees and for 1000's of thousands of miles from the visible surface of the Sun, the temperature rises to 1,000,000 degrees. Why this change occurs in this way, no one can be sure!

Two interesting aspects of the Sun are its Sun spots and its prominences.

Sun spots are vast dark spots that appear on the Sun in cycles. The first telescopic observation of sun spots were attributed to Galileo who first used the telescope in the 1500's and since that time it has constantly went blind from looking at the Sun. The sight of the human eye will be damaged or destroyed by looking at the Sun with or without a telescope or binoculars unless one uses some means of reducing the Sun's brightness.

Sun spots vary in size, some less than 1,000 miles in diameter to over 30,000 miles in diameter (some times the size of the earth).

OCCUR IN GROUPS

Sun spots usually occur in groups. They start out as little spots close together and increase their size and distances apart sometimes within the period of a week, after which the spots shrink in size and disappear. Sun spots are followed by others which act in the same way.

The temperature of the Sun spots are about 4,500 degrees C which is cooler than the surface around them.

Sun spots vary in frequency but seem to run in eleven year cycles. At the beginning of a cycle the spots occur mostly in some distance north and south of the Equator of the Sun. As the cycle progresses, the succeeding spots are found closer and closer to the Equator until at the end of the cycle, they are mostly near and but not quite at the Equator. Another cycle is then started through the cycle the spots are the largest and most numerous. It is impossible to predict the cycle as some cycles are less than 11 years and some are more.

It is believed that the magnetic fields of Sun spots are several thousand times as strong as the earth's magnetic field. This may be the result of rapidly rotating gases.

Strictly Personal
Women Can't Be Treated As a Science

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

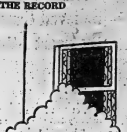
Some persons fancy that they have a large sense of humor because they laugh a lot; but the dynamics of laughter range all the way from low to high, and much of what passes for merriment is merely veiled hostility or boredom.

There seems to be no answers to fundamental questions because mankind (still in its moral and intellectual infancy) has not yet framed the questions properly; when we learn how to ask the right questions of life, the answers will seem stunningly simple.

Many of us are careful in avoiding calamities, but careless in avoiding annoyances; yet most calamities arise through a misuse of ordinary pleasures.

Sectarian quarrels among the organized churches always remind me of William James' story about the two clergymen asked by mistake to conduct the same funeral. One came first and had got no further than "I am the Resurrection and the Life" when the other seemed and cried, "I am the Resurrection and the Life." ° °

The foolish man tries to treat women like a machine, and is shocked and surprised when they fail to respond accurately to the "laws" he has formulated about them; the wise man treats women like an art, knowing that they follow only the laws of their own organic being which (like a work of art) is unique, unpredictable and impervious to any abstract generalization.



We refuse to get irritated is the mark of a rare and well-balanced character; but to get irritated and refuse to show it is the sure road to ulcerdom or high blood pressure. Both must be mastered must be expressed, or they will poison mind and body that harbors them.

Sometimes I wonder if a new "lost positive" in the language yesterday when, after I told him that I was writing a book on conduct, he changed his manner, said nothing and later, "Are you appointed now?"

Our definition of selfishness often runs like this: for, as Wilde remarked, "Selfishness is loving yourself more than me." It is asking others to live as one wishes them to live.

The most odious hypocrisy is that of shopkeepers who flagrantly overcharge you at the same time they are sympathetically agreeing with your comments about inflation and the rising cost of living.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 29th, 1940

September 16th, 1940, will live in British and world history as one of the greatest dates of the war for on that date Adolph Hitler was frustrated in an attempt to invade Great Britain. The man who trusted in his own squadrons of the air to quell the British, learned to his bitter chagrin on that day that R.A.F. superior spirit of the British airmen was dashed his plans.

For a month or more since then Adolph Hitler has been carrying his crushing defeat in his mind and now the world can study subsequent events in the light of that memorable occasion. What led up to the German frustration in the battery of eternal vigilance of the British people and all their services so that if an invasion attempt was to be made they would be ready. British people were ready as Hitler found out; his plan collapsed.

Everyone recalls from history how the winds and the waves smashed the remnants of the fleet that Philip of Spain, back in 1588, sent to crush the English people and which Drake had defeated. The story of the frustration of the Hitler invasion plan shows that Britain won the day decisively on September 15th when the Huns launched a Zerrific air invasion and lost 185 planes in the battle; and that the R.A.F., despite the heavier labors of that day, was able the next day to attack and smash the ship concentrations which Hitler had prepared, and to force disembarkation.

Now, it is not difficult to understand what Mr. Churchill meant recently when he said that Britain had maintained daylight supremacy in the air; no doubt he was thinking of events of September 15th and 16th.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INTRODUCING YOURS ELF TO YOURSELF

Just think what a wonderful world this would be if we could only introduce our honest self to ourself, and then speak to self to all we know and love. We distribute ourselves too widely.

The good friend is the All friend. No matter where you meet such a one, it's all the same. He is interested, and goes deep into the heart of that one. To do that, however, there must be a surrendering of oneself, but to no selfish manner.

Our best self is what we want known. We are students of the world, and it should be a demo-cratic world, for it is the only world that teaches that before it attempts to teach others.

All Nature is a great schoolroom. We are students with the birds, the squirrels, and the dogs, bless them! How much they add to each us.

The nearer we get to God's world the nearer we get to ourselves, and we developed new ing. We should be our own best friend. Reveal ourself to ourself, and the world may be our first visitor!

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

GONORRHEA STILL A DREADFUL DISEASE

"Dear Dr. Molner: In a recent discussion, I was told that before the use of penicillin, doctors never said gonorrhea was cured. They said it led to believe that in the future, before they say that, if a doctor pronounced a patient cured, he meant the case was not cured, not arrested. Am I right?—G. C."

Your question, Carl as easily answered as you might think. Despite all the efforts to stamp out gonorrhea, it still flourishes. It is, indeed, an extremely prevalent disease as compared with other common health perils.

In the past, it was always difficult for a doctor to be positive that a case of gonorrhea was cured in the sense that every last germ had been destroyed.

However, when the patients were men, it was usually difficult to give a verdict of successful cure for all practical purposes after a moderate time. With women, it was much more difficult to be sure that it was necessary to conduct bacteriological tests over a very long time, to give repeated evidence that the germ could no longer be found.

In earlier days it was common practice for doctors to tell patients to return for tests each week for a certain period from perhaps six to 12 weeks, before the doctors felt warranted in saying the case was cured.

Since penicillin, the picture has changed. Gonorrhea and syphilis treatment obviously is subject to exceptions, but therefore, the change is not entirely for the better.

Perhaps the trouble is that we all have fallen into the careless attitude that since the discovery of penicillin, everything is easy, and we don't have to worry about gonorrhea. Well, we do!

Today, penicillin works rapidly. And very well.

Unfortunately so well that too many people think the disease need not be feared.

Wild penicillin researches can be "eradicated" so quickly and inexpensively that the patient's return for several weeks of tests, to demonstrate cure, seems so quickly that the patient dismisses the disease too lightly. Then when gonorrhea appears, the doctors don't know whether it is a new infection or a reinfection.

I wish there were some way to impress on everyone that gonorrhea is a dangerous disease. It is one of the big statistics in any city health department. It is responsible for most of the highest of all "reportable" diseases.

Sulfa was a wonderful medicine for gonorrhea for a time. Then the disease germs developed a strain which resisted the sulfa and then suddenly swept back in full force.

If that ever happens—if a penicillin-resistant strain evolves —penicillin will become as useless as sulfa has become for this disease. Then we will be in trouble. This is a plea to all people: Don't use the word cured too lightly; don't risk gonorrhea casually because, at the moment, there is an easy cure. Avoid the disease like the plague.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My uncle eats honey every day and says it gives him a lot of pep. I am in high school and was wondering if I ate some every day, would I have a lot of pep?—L. G."

I wouldn't for the world interfere with your uncle's pet theory, but any other food with equal caloria and sugar content would give him as much pep. If you're in doubt, why don't you try it? Even if you're fat, a little honey every day certainly won't hurt you.

Letter To The Editor

Replies to Remark Of Magistrate Here

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

On reading your Friday issue, I would take exception to the derogatory remarks reflecting unions, allegedly made by a city magistrate in sentencing a Belleville youth.

I would be the last to say that unions and union members are lily white and Simon pure, but a statement such as I read in your Friday paper, is not quite fair to organized labor. I believe that today, practically all of which we all brag, is in no small part attributable to the unions and members of Canada.

If it is proper for judges to criticize if one reads the papers. In Friday's issue of the Toronto Star, it is reported a lawyer was jailed for faking passports. My life may not be worth much, but we say that all lawyers are crooked? Not me! A few weeks ago, an Ottawa paper stated that Supreme Court Judges are requested to resign because their pension now amounts to about $10,000 per year. Surely there must be others more in need than these. Also, we who are taxpayers, have the reminder of the mismanagement right here in Belleville in recent years.

Just closing, I respectfully submit, that discriminating remarks such as I read in your Friday issue, do not add to the position or stature of the individual.

Many Enjoy Automation

Montreal Matin

Automation is held responsible in many countries for the unemployment we are suffering now. We repeat frequently that the machine has replaced the forgetting nonetheless that when our ancestors confided in the machine it "inspired, we wouldn't hear of replacing the machine.

Down with automation — but don't lay a hand on our car! Down with automation — but make us return to the healthy pleasure of hurrying over large distances! Down with automation — but let us show of all sorts come to us via TV; we don't want to go to them! Down with automation—but there are households who would think of doing her washing by hand, piece by piece. Down with automation — but Monsieur this arrested revolution touches us! Such is human egoism. Such is human egoism.

One of the sadly comic spectacles of this life is the former bachelor and bon vivant, stuffing and tottering into his old age. Among my fellow students half a century ago was one, a well-connected young fellow we called the Don Juan not only of the local college but of the city. A handsome, swashbuckling young blade he trailed a cloud of girls behind him. He was the quintessence of cloak. And rumor had it that he was to be the first among his time dining with actresses. This was before the era in which we are liable to have actresses—at least radio and TV actists, in our own families. And so the shows of all sorts come to us via TV; we don't want to go to them! Down with automation—but there are households who would think of doing her washing by hand, piece by piece. Down with automation — but Monsieur this arrested revolution touches us! Such is human egoism. Such is human egoism.

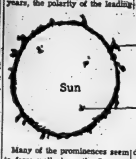
There are interesting magnetic effects associated with the cycles of the Sun's spots. The leading Sun spots in two hemispheres will have opposite polarity, i.e., one will have a magnetic field of south and it is known that the polarity of the leading spots in the two hemispheres of the Sun alternate in successive cycles.



In the present cycle all of the leading spots in the north hemisphere have a north magnetic polarity and all of the leading spots in the south hemisphere have a south magnetic polarity.

In the next cycle, which will begin in approximately five years, the polarity of the leading spots will be reversed.

INCREASES RADIO STATIC

Sun-induced radio static on earth increases as the Sun spot cycle reaches its maximum. The northern lights increase in intensity and frequency during the same period. (Northern lights are the gases in the upper atmosphere glowing with excitement from the high - energy radiated by the Sun). Also on the increase at this time are the magnetic storms which disarrange the earth's magnetic field and make magnetic compasses unreliable.

Solar prominences are vast tongues resembling flames which leap up from the surface into space around the Sun (called the Sun's Corona). These "tongues of flame" are up to two or three hundred thousand miles high.

Many of the prominences seem to form well above the Sun and then appear to fall down or pour down into it.

Some prominences have been seen to erupt from the Sun at speeds of 1,650,000 miles an hour, and rise over 1,000,000 miles. Some of these travel at a fairly constant speed and direction, then, suddenly, they change direction and speed. There is a magnificent film of solar prominences often shown to visitors at the Dunlap Observatory outside of Toronto, which is an experience to see.

Why solar prominences develop, no one can rightly say. They are common, however, and take on phantom and grotesque form as they leap into space.

Radio and TV Annual Fees To Be Increased

OTTAWA (CP)—An increase in the annual fees paid by privately-owned radio and television stations will be ordered before the end of the year, informed sources said Wednesday.

The increase could be substantial. The government's purpose is to collect enough from the private stations to pay for the services of the Board of Broadcast Governors and the technical experts in the transport department.

Subject to the fees are private broadcasting companies which operate 58 television stations, 201 radio stations and 29 FM (frequency modulated) radio stations.

The rental fees are not paid by the publicly-owned CBC, which has 16 TV, 27 radio and five FM radio stations.

Three years ago the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting recommended an increase to around 1½ per cent of the gross.

Any revision will probably see an upward extension of the revenue scale on which the fees are calculated.

At present, a TV station earning a gross $500,000 a year pays the same $6,000 fee as one of the big-city TV operations, which in some cases are reported to gross upwards of $2,000,000 annually.

Kiwanis Toy Restoration Project Begins

The annual Kiwanis Toy Project is now entering its tenth year of restoring used toys for distribution by the Belleville Fire Department at Christmas time. Eric Cooper, guiding light for this project, advises that any person—with used toys to contribute towards this work—may leave these toys at any local Shell service station, at the Kiwanis Centre on Dundas Street East or at either of the Fire Halls.

Any person interested in contributing one night's time a week to the work of restoring toys is requested to contact Mr. Cooper at WO 8-7676. The local Sania's helpers work at restoring from 2,000 to 5,000 toys a year at the Kiwanis Centre between the hours of 7:00 and 9:30 o'clock on Monday through Thursday evenings, each week from now until just before Christmas.

Black Diamond Cheese to Be Sold Direct to IGA Outlets

Donald Joss, president of Black Diamond Cheese Limited, announced the implementation of a program of store level service by his firm to retailers in Eastern Ontario Wednesday evening at a dinner held for over 80 members of the Ottawa Valley and Eastern Ontario regions of the Independent Grocers Association. The dinner held at the Quinte Hotel, was the final touch to a busy half-day in Belleville spent in visiting the new Black Diamond plant by the IGA people.

Mr. Joss also mentioned the problems of competition in the cheese business, pointing out that the Black Diamond firm was virtually the only 100 per cent Canadian cheese company and that it intended to remain so. "The firm intends to meet the competition," he said, "by selling cheese to the United States."

A brief history of the development of the firm was given to the visitors with Mr. Joss emphasizing that it was the first to market a branded Canadian cheddar cheese back in 1933. Since that time the company had grown and expanded steadily until it combined with W. S. Cook and Son, Ltd. last year and completed the erection of its new factory this year.

WILL MAINTAIN QUALITY

William D. Cook, vice-president of custom marketing for Black Diamond, spoke on the difficulty of obtaining first grade quality cheese of the calibre for which his firm is famous. He promised that this quality would be maintained.

Mr. William Taylor, who has had a long experience with Black Diamond, produced in his capacity as Canada's largest food broker, spoke of the forward look which the local firm has. He described the full range of products available to the retail grocer and remarked on the importance of mutual support between retailer and producer in the profit of both. Starting this coming Monday, he added, IGA retailers in Eastern Ontario and parts of Quebec could expect regular service from Black Diamond representatives to assist IGA members with the promotion of Black Diamond cheese.

Mr. Norman Lesh, director of retail operations for M. Loeb Ltd. in Ottawa, which is the IGA supply depot, mentioned that tourists shopping in IGA stores in his area had shown a definite preference for Black Diamond products.

FIRM COMPLIMENTED

He added that this preference complimented the tastes of the stores' regular customers.

Mr. Lesh complimented the local firm on its implementation of a retail store service and remarked that as long as the firm gave IGA retailers adequate service they would-be happy to promote the sales of Black Diamond cheese. He also thanked the Black Diamond people for their hospitality.

Mr. Harry Gilmer, an IGA retailer from Iroquois, expressed the appreciation of those present for the courtesies extended them during their tour of the Black Diamond plant, the civic reception by Mayor McLean Haig, and the dinner as guests of the local firm.

Indian Princess Married To English Missionary Helped Christianize Tribe

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP) — A grove of lilac and cedar trees, a log church and a ruined log cabin in a pasture overlooking George Bay are the memorial to an Indian princess who married an English missionary and helped him Christianize an Indian tribe.

He converted the 20-year-old princess to Christianity and then married her. They left York in 1843 and traveled to the village of Sydenham, now Owen Sound. There they spent the winter and in the spring settled with the Saugeen Nation Indians in nearby Saweak Township.

Accepted by the Indians because of his wife, Sutton was successful in his missionary work, converting many members of the tribe. A Methodist congregation was formed.

SUTTON A DOCTOR

Sutton also supplanted the medicine man, becoming the tribe doctor. In gratitude the Newash gave the Suttons 600 acres of land bordering Georgian Bay.

Sutton feared encroachment by the whites and, feeling that his wife's people were not keeping with the white men lay in agriculture, cleared some of his land and set up an agricultural college.

But in 1855 the government moved the Newash to a reserve at Cape Croker. Sutton accepted the 600 acres.

Indeed, a share of the treaty money, Mrs. Sutton sailed to England in 1860 to seek redress from Queen Victoria. The Queen was sympathetic but felt she was unable to interfere. Through the efforts of Quaker leader John Bright, however, 175 acres were returned to the Suttons.

After the birth of a son, named for Albert Edward, the Prince of Beauty, Brains Combine to Crowning Glory

The team consists of an electronic brain, a pair of police dogs, work five years ago, and its newly operator, Const. Kalk.

Formerly there were only two or three positive identifications a year, says Supt. Oliver Borland, chief identification officer, who helped develop the machine. Witnesses had to thumb through thousands of pictures to identify wanted men.

So far this year, 50 have been arrested with the help of the machine.

Witnesses give Miss Lolk detailed description and the machine eliminates cards that don't answer the description. Out of 1,000 cards it often selects just five or six for consideration.

There are between 30,000 and 40,000 cards in the machine's files.

"I'm so used to looking at pictures of guys now," Miss Lolk said, staring at people on the street-car and thinking 'I've seen your face before'."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Herbert R. — I admit my marriage holds no attraction for me. Mona and I married right after the war, 14 years ago. We hardly knew each other. Just wanted to settle down. Now we have two kids, a girl of 13 and a boy who's 10. And I'm just the guy who pays the bills. Mona's an iceberg to me and she has the kids treating me like a jerk.

But I believe in sticking to a bargain, even a bad one. OK, we have nothing in common. We can't even agree on where to take a walk. She wants the shop windows, I want the park. So one of us always comes back alone. Even so, there are the children. For their sake, Mona should keep this home together. It's hard for them to have a father around, even if they don't appreciate me.

Maybe we can get some help to find some good in each other and make this miserable life more bearable.

• • •

Mona R. — Our marriage was a terrible mistake. Now it's just an empty shell. This is no life for any of us and it certainly isn't a happy home for the children.

I try to be civil to Herbert in front of the children. But when we're alone there's either complete silence or angry, hateful words. And we're alone a lot because our friends are tired of acting like umpires between us when we argue.

At first I thought we could make a go of it, even though we couldn't see eye-to-eye on anything from house furnishings to cheques. We kept busy fixing up a home, caring for the baby. Then we moved and the second one came along. But after a while we had to take a good look at each other. Then I knew I had married a narrow-minded bore. And I realized he had no feeling for me.

Why keep up the farce? Maybe we can each find our real mate yet. Meanwhile the children should not be the excuse for chaining the wrong people together.

• • •

The Council: Since the reason for discord and the imminent separation of the R.'s is incompatibility rather than a "third party", we're inclined to agree with Herbert's proposal that they stick it out and seek counselling.

Staying together "for the children's sake" often, by dint of sincere effort, can lead to staying together for many other reasons. Surely there was some spark of friendship between Herbert and Mona which led them into marriage. A counsellor might help them think back to the days when each pledged to lead the other to a happier life. Despite the clinkers and ashes, there may be a chance or re-igniting that spark.

It sounds like an uphill job all the way. It will require, as Dr. Paul Popenoe counsels all husbands and wives, not going for 30-50 but 100-100 to achieve satisfactory marriage. But think of the prize!

A 20th wedding anniversary may loom on the immediate horizon instead of a doubtful first one with a new mate. Four teen years in Herbert's and Mona's lives will be rescued from the ash heap. Adolescent children will have the emotional support of a united family headed by a father and mother who have discovered the good qualities in each other and have accepted the quirks as part of the "for better or for worse" deal.

For Mona to consider separation and divorce, without seeking ways to repair her marriage, indicates that she doesn't know her own powers for changing her relationship with Herbert for the better. Also, that she doesn't realize how tragic and serious a step divorce often is. Recently a judge in Israel said the principals to a divorce wear black because it is a "sort of funeral".

Mortlund as this marriage seems, Herbert and Mona should be able to revive it, both for the children's sake and — as they may well find years hence — for their own.

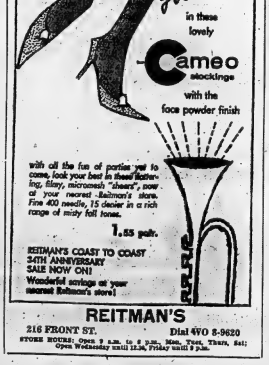
TABERNACLE U.C.

The Evening Auxiliary of Tabernacle United Church, W.M.S., met in the church parlor for its thank offering meeting.



Mrs. Garnet May was in charge of the study book: "A Home for The Homeless". A discussion took place to make the members more aware of what has been done, and what has yet to be done as the end of "World Refugee Year" nears completion.

In the year 1919, Dr. Adolph Keller was responsible for rousing the churches to act together. The Treaty of Versailles added millions to the number of homeless. During the Second World War the major task was providing spiritual comfort to prisoners of war. Later, it was necessary to provide homes throughout European congregations with temporary physical facilities for their programs. The service of Refugees now employs more than 500 workers in 43 countries. It has assisted in the re-settlement of over 100,000 refugees.

The World Council is shifting from relief projects to programs of self-help. But "no one year can bring the refugee problem to an end. There are a million refugees in the Middle East, and another million in Hong Kong, to cite two of the largest concentrations. This is indeed The Century of the Homeless Man".

Mrs. John Babiuk conducted the worship service, and used the theme, "It is good to give thanks to the Lord". This was followed by a prayer of Thanksgiving".

Celebrate Fish and Sea-Food Week

By Mary Moore

I stole my own thunder.

Here we are right in the midst of "Fish and Seafood Week" and I've been plugging Canadian fish for two weeks ahead of it.

Last weekend Pete was asking me for some economical menus for guests which he could prepare in a hurry after he returned from his hospital work. Among other things I suggested clam chowder. He wondered if chowder comprised a main course. Certainly it does — accompanied by a fresh crusty bread of good character and a generous bowl of salad. It is filling and good.

A chowder that is more economical than clam is made and enjoyed by our Maritimers. Do try this typically.

CANADIAN FISH CHOWDER:

1 pound fish fillets, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons cooking oil or butter, 1-3 cup thinly sliced onion, 1-2 cup sliced carrot, 1-3 cup sliced celery, 1 10-oz. can tomatoes, 1-3 cup uncooked noodles, 4 cups boiling water, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, finely grated Parmesan or old Cheddar cheese.

To serve 6, cut fillets into 6 portions of about equal size. Sprinkle with lemon juice and allow to marinate in refrigerator while preparing broth. Heat fat in a deep saucepan; add onion, carrot, and celery; cook over low heat for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add tomatoes, noodles, boiling water, salt and pepper. Bring mixture to simmering temperature, cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Add fish and lemon juice, again bring to simmering temperature, cover and simmer, without stirring, 10 minutes longer. To serve, place a piece of fish in each warmed soup bowl, fill the bowl with chowder and sprinkle with a little grated Parmesan or old Cheddar cheese.

Ever heard of Fish and Scrunchions? No? This dish is something like the Creamed Cod on Potatoes that my son-in-law Herbie likes.

FISH AND SCRUNCHIONS:

1 pound boneless salt cod, 4 medium potatoes, 1-4 pound fat salt pork, 3 medium onions, thinly sliced, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1-4 cup cream or milk.

Rinse cod thoroughly then soak overnight in cold water to cover. Drain, add fresh cold water to cover, and bring to simmering temperature over low heat. Remove fish from water. If it is too salty to the taste cover with fresh cold water and again heat to boiling point. Cut into serving-size portions. Peel potatoes, cut into quarters, and cook in water in which cod was heated. When potatoes are about half cooked add cod and simmer gently until potatoes are tender, about 10 to 15 minutes. Drain and place on warmed platter. Meanwhile, dice salt pork finely and fry until scraps are crisp and light brown. Remove scraps from pan, add onion to hot fat, and fry gently until tender. Stir in vinegar, cream and pork scraps. Heat sauce to boiling point. Pour over cooked potatoes and cod. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Mother Goose Tea Held at St. Andrew's

BANCROFT — The "Mother Goose" bazaar and "Penny Supper" put on by St. Andrew's United Church Women's Association and held on October 14th, afternoon and evening, was an overwhelming success. Over $100 was taken in with very little expense incurred.

The bazaar, afternoon tea and supper were held in the banquet hall of the new Christian Education Building.

Guests were met by the president of the W.A., Mrs. Granville Meiklejohn, who was gowned as Mother Goose. Assisting were Mrs. J. M. D. McLeod and Mrs. J. E. Glover, both in dated costumes.

One A Penny booth (bread and and buns), convened by Mrs. Roy Jackson in baker's hat and apron; Old Mother Hubbard was Mrs. Harold Nayler, apron booth; Mrs. Bob Mayson, as Little Bo Peep, convened woollen and knitted articles; Pat-A-Cake, convened by Mrs. Eldon Killian in costume; Sugar and Spice, cakes and candy, Mrs. George Davidson and Mrs. John Davidson were cooks; Little Jack Horner, Mrs. John Vanderburg sat in the corner with her Christmas pie, while assistants were busy with sales; Mary, Mary Quite Contrary had a lovely garden, where seeds, bulbs, plants, butternuts and two boxes of fresh raspberries from Harmon's garden were sold. Convener was Mrs. R. E. Neal, and assistant, Mrs. James Walker, both in Mary's costume.

The Three Bears — stuffed animals — convened by Mrs. A. Barnett, as Goldilocks.

The C.G.I.T. booth was convened by the leader, Mrs. D. Vilneff, and members assisted, where candy was sold.

Mrs. E. Manchester was in charge of the Parcel Post Office and Mrs. W. Ashton sold Christmas cake.

Tea was served throughout the afternoon with a musical background rendered by Mrs. Robert Sanderson and Alan Grant.

Visitors were noted from Stirling, Springbrook, Bonarlaw, Malone, Zion, Madoc and Queensboro.

ON WEDDING EXPENSES

Last week we discussed announcing the engagement. This being the harbinger of the wedding to come, the question now is: "Who pays for what" when this great event takes place? Traditional has decreed that the following procedures are the rule:

The parents of the bride bear the brunt of all-wedding expenses. The engraved invitations and their preparation for mailing, the reception, all plans for the service in the church, the organist, etc., — all are their responsibility. They even arrange for the transportation of the bridal party to and from the church, and on to the reception.

The floral decorations in the church and at the reception, and the bridal attendants' bouquets also are their obligation. The bride's bouquet correctly may be paid for by the bridegroom if, through sentiment, they wish it this way.

The bride presents a personal gift to each of her attendants, and of course the family pays for them. They do not purchase the gowns of the attendants. The bride selects the gowns they are to wear and the attendants themselves are responsible for buying them. Note to the bride: If she is thoughtful she will take into consideration the financial status of those who will serve her and take care not to specify gowns beyond their means. She also tries to choose a style that will be suitable for afternoon or evening wear later on.

If the wedding is to be a double ring ceremony, the bride purchases the groom's ring and he pays for hers.

The bridegroom hasn't much else to worry about! He presents his best man and ushers with boutonnieres, matching ties and gloves (if it is a formal wedding) and a personal gift to each. He may entertain them at a bachelor dinner, at his own expense. Many people think that the best man foots the bills for this, but he does not. The bridegroom should, aside from the bridal bouquet, send his bride a corsage for her going-away gown and he should send one to her mother and to his mother.

He should first ascertain the color of the gowns they are going to wear, so that the flowers he orders will enhance, not detract, from their ensembles.

He also presents a fee to the clergyman for his services. This he gives to the best man to be given before the services start. It is really not a fee, for there is never such a thing for a religious ceremony. It is a donation which the clergyman uses at his own discretion to present to charity.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

EGGLETON W.M.S. — W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — The October meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarence Pitchett.

The president, Mrs. Bruce Stapley presided over a Thanksgiving program which she had prepared.

The hymn "O For a Thousand Tongues to Sing," with Mrs. Maurice Clancy pianist, was followed by a prayer by Mrs. Stapley.

The Scripture reading taken from St. Luke chapter 17, verses 11-19 was read by Mrs. Seaborn Frost and the meditation on the lesson was given by Mrs. Murray Martin.

A splendid reading on Thanksgiving was given by Mrs. Dyson.

The secretary read the minutes and called the roll showing 14 adults and 1 child present.

Mrs. Keith Johnson gathered the thank-offering envelopes, which were dedicated with prayer by the pastor, Mr. G. Dyson. Mite boxes are to be handed in at the November meeting.

Correspondence was then dealt with; two "thank you" notes were read, also invitations to two bazaars, both on Oct. 19th.

Mrs. William McMullen announced that the W.A. Rally will be held at 1.30 o'clock on October 26th at Mount Pleasant United Church.

The W.M.S. Autumn Rally, of the Belleville East Section is to be held on November 7th in Canniffon United Church.

Mrs. William McMullen offered her home for the regular W.M.S. meeting on November 10th; Mrs. M. Martin and Mrs. R. Reddy were appointed to prepare the program.

Mrs. Stapley gave the chapter from the study book, "African Disturbed." There have been many changes in the lives of the African people since the Gospel has been preached to them. Their music was a five note scale — very flat sounding and formerly this music accompanied by dancing was used for all occasions — feasts, weddings, deaths. Now the church discourages the dancing, so they miss this method of expressing themselves. But the Christian Gospel has added greatly to making the life of the African of today much better than those of the older generations.

Mrs. Harold Chambers gave a reading on the work of Edith Clarke a missionary in Africa.

Mrs. Stapley thanked Mrs. Fichett for opening her home, and also all those who had assisted her with the program.

The meeting was dismissed with a prayer.

The hostess served lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

MT. PLEASANT - RAWDON W.M.S.

RAWDON — Mrs. Stanley Williams was hostess on Wednesday for the Thanksgiving meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society. There were 28 ladies in attendance.

The house was nicely decorated with fruits and vegetables which added to the service.

Mrs. Garth Joslin was pianist. The president, Mrs. John Mulherin, opened with a selection on the theme of "Thankfulness."

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report and 18 members answered the roll call.

It was decided to invite Carmel, Hoards, Stirling, Springbrook, Bethel, Wellman's, Rawdon YPU and Rawdon AOTS club and all other interested folk to attend the Sunday evening service on November 30th, at Mount Pleasant United Church, when Mr. Harvey Pateman, Cannifton, will give a travelogue of his recent trip to Africa. A collection will be taken to further the WMS allocation.

The president was appointed delegate to attend the West Belleville Sectional WMS Rally at Wallbridge United Church on Tuesday, November 8th, with two sessions, morning and afternoon.

The treasurer, Mrs. G. Hubble, reported $17 remitted to Mrs. R. G. Coulter, Presbyterial treasurer.

THANKOFFERINGS

The autumn Thankoffering to date is $43.50. The Baby Band thankoffering was about $3. The subscriptions for "Missionary Monthly" and "World Friends" were handed in to Mrs. Milford Wrightman.

Mrs. W. G. Fletcher read an article re the recent General Council. Mrs. Douglas Campbell read a stewardship message, "What Shall I Render Unto the Lord?"

Mrs. Don Knight read the second chapter of "Turning World." This told of the ecumenical work camp in the Netherlands, in 1958.

The Waldensian pastor says: "Loving means giving oneself, not keeping oneself for one's own purpose."

Both leaders and young people stress that lives must be translated into teaching the gospel and to be truly consistent with it. They say that if two per cent of the Christians were to live out their own faith, then the church would not be incapable of speaking a word of salvation to the world.

DEVOTIONAL PERIOD

Mrs. Harry McAdam opened the devotional on the subject, "We Give Thanks Today," and used hymns on that theme. Her assistant, Mrs. Mac Sharp, read the Bible lesson and meditation and Mrs. Garth Joslin sang, with Mrs. Carleton Potts as accompanist.

Mrs. Frank Jeffs dedicated the offering and the treasurer read a poem, "Our Thanks to Thee."

The W.A. president spoke briefly re the W.A. convention at the church on Wednesday, October 29th. The corresponding secretary read a letter of thanks and an invitation to Hoard's W.A. on November 6.

The guest speaker at Mount Pleasant afternoon tea on Nov. 16th will be Mrs. H. Jairait, Madoc, who will give an address on "Rural India."

The next meeting will be a combined WMS and WA at the home of Mrs. Raymond McConnell. The conveners are Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mrs. John Morgan. The meeting will be held one week earlier on Nov. 2nd at 2.00 p.m. Six ladies from St. Paul's WA. will present their playette, "A Baker's Dozen."

The WMS president closed the meeting after which the hostess and lunch committee served light refreshments.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A bargain has occasionally been reported — a bargain struck between a husband and wife, after long years of bantering and taunting. In response to his wife's protestations over the arduousness of housework and its assorted lethal dangers, husband trades his job with his wife: He will stay home for one week, taking care of the children, the kitchen, the lawn, the marketing, dusting and cleaning, while she is to trot daily to the office, to run the factory, mine the help, cajole the customers and outsmart the competitors. Inevitably, at week's end, both are tired of the bargain, and take their rightful places again, undoubtedly prepared to praise their Maker with gusto of thanksgiving for having made them what they are.

Knowing what we are, recognizing our frailties and our strengths, understanding our functions and our role in life is profoundly important. Consider our role as parents: The most radical revolt of the 20th century has been "the home revolution." And this, primarily because of the emancipation of the modern woman. But, frankly, what happened some of the fussing and the fuming of the unshackled female? If woman has been freed to do a man's job, who benefits?

We can agree that correction of the past was much required of Women are not chattel, pieces of property, nor pawns of power. A new perspective was needed, a balance required to assert for woman a more significant place in human affairs. Ironically, however, in modern woman's quest for emancipation, the pendulum has swung to an almost equal extreme. Becoming equal to man has made her want to be just like him.

Take our homes as a prime example. Man may build a house but it is a woman who builds the home. She can transform brick and mortar into a sturdier and more lasting monument — character. If woman truly understood their special magic, their happy uniqueness, they would begin re-declaring their quest for freedom to a broader dimension. They would seek the freedom to be themselves.

Women are needed more than ever in our society to be the taste-makers, the soft refiners of our homes. Man will ever be concerned with bread; woman must help him to remember that he does not live by bread alone. Man will always be concerned with livelihood; woman must, more than ever, remind him about living. Man will seek to run faster an dfaster; woman must become the brake, to teach him that the race is not to the swift.

In a very real way woman is the last hope for man. When she becomes just like man, she is no better than him. She must become better, if he is to become better.

Spanish Woman Who Will Become Queen of Belgium Is Shy But Intelligent

By HENRY BUCKLEY

MADRID (Reuters)—"Quiet as a mouse but extremely intelligent," is how a close friend described the shy Spanish woman who is to become queen of Belgium.

Doña Fabiola Mora, the 32-year-old fiancee of King Baudouin, belongs to a little-known, but wealthy, aristocratic family. On her mother's side, particularly, her noble lineage runs far back.

Behind her shy facade, however is a woman of determination and discretion. The news of the engagement was kept as close a secret as was that of Princess Margaret to Anthony Armstrong-Jones.

And, says Fabiola's sister, the Countess Maria Zavala, "she made her n on entirely on her own. Not even our mother knew of it until Fabiola had made her mind up to accept the king's offer of marriage."

The couple probably met in the home of 70-year-old former Queen Victoria Eugenia of Spain, who in 1906 was welcomed by Spaniards as "The English rose" when the blonde beauty came to the Spanish capital to wed King Alfonso XIII. Fabiola and her mother both frequently visit the elderly queen.

Although she had at least one previous suitor, a Spanish aristocrat, Fabiola preferred to wait until she met her ideal man.

"The man I marry," she told friends, "must be both a hard worker and religious in character."

According to Countess Zalles, "She is madly in love with Baudouin."

In recent months, Fabiola has lost about five pounds—she usually weighs about 125 pounds—because she was worried about the responsibility which she would have to assume.

Her best friend and sister-in-law, Pilar Satrugo, when asked how she reacted when Fabiola confided her secret to her, said: "I saw. Fabiola is full of hope and so deeply in love that all I could do was to pray that she would enjoy the happiness she deserves."

"The king is a wonderful person. You just cannot imagine how wonderful he is." Fabiola told one of her sisters after the announcement.

Although shy, Fabiola can be surprisingly gay when with her family or among friends. She is rarely seen at any social functions in Madrid. But she liked to dance with her brothers and sisters when they were all young together. She plays the piano and the guitar, and her cosmopolitan background likes to sing flamenco songs typical of Seville.

She loves children and spends much of her time with 31 nieces and nephews and nieces, aged from two months, the children of her six brothers and sisters. Her education has been rarely soon at any social functions in Madrid. But she liked to dance with her brothers and sisters when they were all young together. She plays the piano and the guitar, and her cosmopolitan background likes to sing flamenco songs typical of Seville.

She has been occupied with helping others.

Avro Company Claims Damages

TORONTO (CP)—A writ of summons was issued at Osgoode Hall Wednesday against Avro Equipment of Canada Limited by Avro Aircraft Limited, claiming $30,000 for damage caused to a CF-100 jet interceptor forced to make a belly landing March 24, 1958.

The fighter, manufactured by Avro, was performing an initial acceptance test flight for the RCAF when a hydraulic jack in its nose gear failed, causing the aircraft to land with its wheels up.

TWEED — The Bicycle Rodeo conducted recently by Tweed Kiwanis Club and the Tweed Police Department was a great success, with over 80 boys and girls participating.

Other winners of shields each group 1, boys 8 to 9, — Timmy Rice tied with Brian Fisher; girls, Jane Allen; group 2, 10 to 12, Linda Parks; boys, Richard Woolley; group 3, 13 to 15, boys, Richard Higgins; girls, Elsie Whitesell. Deseronto

FIRE CUTS RESIDENCE

DESERONTO — A fire discovered about 2.00 p.m. Sunday afternoon almost completely destroyed the former residence of J. Potter on Water St. The house has been vacant for some playhouse. When the fire was noticed smoke was pouring out from all crevices and flames were shooting from the windows. Two young boys noticed the fire first and told their father who sent in the alarm. The firemen used one small line and the two booster hose to kill the fire but about $1,500 damage had already been done. The structure is almost a complete loss and fortunately there was no furniture in the building. It is not known if the damage was covered by insurance.

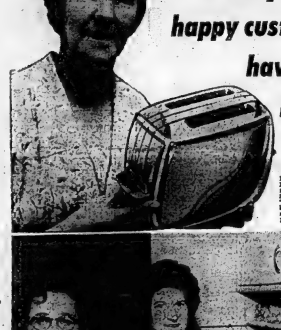
BUILDING PERMIT ISSUED



Last week a building permit was issued to the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission for the erection of a new sub-station on Water St. With the issue of this permit the total of building permits issued in the town have reached a level higher than in any years since the days of the Rathbun Company. The total amount of new construction is now $422,542, which added to the present assessment will bring the assessment to over a million dollars.

There is still some talk of the bridge to be constructed from this shore to the Prince Edward side of the Bay and it is easily seen that such construction should add further to the expansion of the town. It is expected that in the not too distant future Deseronto will again stoiin the prominence she once held in the district.

Overtaxing and Pollution Of Ontario Water Resources Now Require Prompt Action

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Prompt action to prevent overtaxing and pollution of Ontario's water resources, and to secure remaining natural waterfront for public parks, was urged at a conservation conference here Wednesday.

A Unified States recreational planning expert told delegates the remaining natural sections of the Great Lakes shoreline must be seized in time to preserve them for the public.

Jerry J. Edmunds, of Philadelphia, director of recreation resource planning of the United States national park service, warned that private development has already used up most of the St. Lawrence River frontage, Lake Ontario and Lake Erie shorelines.

R. V. Anderson, municipal consulting engineer, called for a government body at cabinet level to co-ordinate water use in Ont.

A second body is urgently needed, he said, to supplement the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

The conference, sponsored by the Conservation Council of Ontario and an oil company, discussed water availability and pollution in relation to food, industry, urban expansion and recreation.

A warning that Canada's economy may be jeopardized unless more is done immediately to conserve water and prevent pollution was made by Dr. Wilbert Keon, vice-president of the Quaker Oats Company Limited of Peterborough.

He suggested that the country's food production should be shifted from the Prairies.

CROP MANIPULATION

This suggestion was challenged by K. W. Hill, associate director of conservation and soil department of agriculture's research branch, Ottawa.

Mr. Hill said irrigation has greatly increased crop yields, in the drier west, and contended that much of the farm land in Eastern Canada would be better used for forestry.

Dean Ralph Krueger of Waterloo University College said the conference showed a need for increased public education in conservation, intensified studies of problems, and more funds for acquiring parkland.

Long Distance Monthly Phone Rate Forecast

TORONTO (CP) — Unlimited long distance telephone service at a flat monthly rate was forecast today by Thomas W. Eadie, president of Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

Mr. Eadie, addressing the annual convention of the Canadian Independent Telephone Association, described this type of service as one of three methods of telephony in the future.

Others would be the offering of transmission paths of various bandwidths to meet corporation customers requirements of modern business and the switching of business machine information over an entire phone network at freely set a long distances rates.

His remarks were contained in a text of his speech issued to the press in advance of delivery.

Many customers, he said, now find the long distance dialing services and systems of charging restrictive.

"They would prefer some kind of unlimited flat-rate service," he said. "Some, for example, would like to pay a flat rate for unlimited calling through Southern Ontario—or all Ontario—or maybe Ontario and Quebec. Some businesses might prefer to pay according to the ownership of the country or this continent."

Work on development of this type of service—and of the others—is now going ahead.

"We have just been advised by the board of transport commissioners," said Mr. Eadie a method of providing extended area service for exchanges of a certain density, such as a 15-cent toll call, and this will make possible a flat monthly rate extension of the service.

"We can foresee especially the need to take a new look at the service arrangements in many areas of growing population.

"Perhaps the most challenging is the urban expansion which is gradually linking together all the communities that stretch from Oshawa to Niagara Falls."

WADSWORTH DEFIES ZORIN'S WALK OUT THREAT — U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, right, replies to threat of Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin before the United Nations' main political committee. Zorin, bent over papers at rear at left, threatened to walk out on the committee if the U.S. and its allies insist upon pressing their disarmament proposals. Wadsworth said the United States would not be intimidated by the threat. Seated next to Wadsworth is Britain's David Ormsby-Gore. Justice of Peace Refuses to Sign Parking Charges

WINDSOR (AP) — An appeal against a magistrate's decision is being considered by Windsor legal department in an effort to hold the city's parking meter by-valid.

The department is also considering action to bypass Lloyd Lichty, justice of the peace who is refusing to sign parking meter charges.

The situation arose two months ago when Magistrate Angus W. Macmillan ruled the city's parking meter bylaws invalid. He dismissed six charges, but others scheduled for court were not heard and are still in abeyance.

Windsor police are continuing to tag cars at the meters but the charges cannot reach court without Mr. Lichty's signature. He said that as an officer of the magistrate he cannot sign charges he knows will be dismissed.

In dismissing the charges Magistrate Macmillan referred to a higher court ruling at Peterborough where the city of Peterborough's parking bylaw was ruled as going beyond the powers the city has under the Municipal Act. Windsor's bylaw was somewhat followed.

Voting also will take place Monday, Oct. 31, in the Ontario constituency of Peterborough. Que'bec Labelle, and Royal in New Brunswick.

Mr. Pearson will speak in all four constituencies.

Conservative headquarters has been under pressure to have Mr. Diefenbaker make flying visits to each of them. But he has explained that each Tory candidate has vention in local byelections has not been the practice of his predecessors.

CCF leader Argue spoke at conventions and rallies for CCF candidate E. Mitchelson, 50, reeve of Stamford Twp., and for the New Party candidate in Niagara Falls and George Whesion, 31-year-old teacher, B.C., railway employee as CCF standard - bearer in Royal. But he spoke later day campaigning.

Both Sides Mounting Heavy Artillery in Niagara Falls As Election Date Draws Near

OTTAWA (CP)—Niagara Falls apparently is considered by the Conservatives and the Liberals as the toughest of the four Oct. 31 federal byelection fights judging by the heavy artillery they are mounting in the campaign there.

Seven Conservative cabinet ministers and Liberal Leader Lester B. (Mike) Pearson and Liberal ministers will have campaigned in the Ontario constituency by the time ballots are cast.

The seat, established by the redistribution of 1952, was held through three general elections by Liberal William G. Hoach, who died this summer. He had rapidly diminishing pluralities in federal contests before tumbling from 7,136 in 1953 to 2,061 and only 287 last year.

Voting also will take place Monday, Oct. 31, in the Ontario constituency of Peterborough, Que'bec Labelle, and Royal in New Brunswick.

Private Mental Hospitals May Be Developed

JORDAN, Ont. (CP)—The possibility of developing private mental hospitals in the province was discussed here Wednesday by Health Minister Matthew B. Dymond.

He told more than 200 delegates to the opening conference on Community Rehabilitation at this St. Catharines-area community that Ontario's present plan to meet health problem. There are at least 20,000 persons hospitalized mental hospitals who should be in some other setting, he said.

If the new concept of mental health is to succeed, he said, the community at large must become involved and the activities of the various agencies involved should be co-ordinated.

He said it is still too early to report on negotiations concerning private mental hospitals, but if established, they would be divorced from the present Ontario mental hospital program.

Dr. D. V. Currey, director of the St. Catharines-area Mental Health unit, said employers, fellow workers and even families are often reluctant to have a mental patient return to them.

He said financial independence is important in rehabilitation and stressed the need for more education of the subject in both industries and homes.

Dr. T. E. Dickinson of Niagara Falls, Ont., said stresses involved in fighting for higher class positions in present-day society are creating more nervous breakdowns. Even modern advertising plays havoc with our emotions, he said.

Town Engineer Says He Paid For Materials

ARNPRIOR (CP) — Town engineer W. P. Frieday said in his inquiry here Wednesday that any materials he took from town stores were either paid for or replaced at a later date.

Mr. Friday was the 11th witness called since the inquiry opened Monday under Judge T. M. J. Galligan.

He said that town employees did odd jobs around his home and summer cottage on town time but said that he didn't think it was necessary to bill himself for the few hours involved.

Earlier town workmen had testified that they also worked around the home of Mr. Frieday's mother, but the town engineer said he had no knowledge of this.

Mr. Frieday said that such work had been done in the town yard so his brother's car without charge but he said his brother had worked for nothing for the town.

Mr. Frieday said a $600 load of gravel that left town yards in 1956 was paid for by himself and taken to his mother-in-law's home in Ottawa by two town employees who were going to the capital anyway to attend a wrestling match.

WAS REPLACED

A load of sewer pipe that was sent to this brother-in-law's home in Ottawa was replaced by himself several days later.

Town employees appearing as witnesses in the inquiry into a alleged misuse of town equipment and labor were told Wednesday that they need not fear retaliation as a result of evidence they give.

John Relligan, counsel for the inquiry, told Wednesday that one of the 20 witnesses he plans to question have expressed fears they might lose their jobs.

"They need not be afraid of anyone," he said. "I will protect my witnesses fully and you need not come forward and tell the truth."

Two Awarded Nobel Prize For Medicine

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — An Australian, Professor Sir Frank Macfarlane Burnet, and a Briton, Professor Peter Brian Medawar, were awarded the 1960 Nobel Prize for Medicine today.

The winners of the $42,857 prize ($25,987 Swedish crowns) were selected by the Royal Caroline Institute in a two-hour session.

Burnet and Medawar were awarded the 1960 prize for medicine jointly for the discovery of acquired immunological tolerance, said the official citation of the awarding body.

EASES STRIKE THREAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — American railway management and operating brotherhoods got agreement Tuesday to submit their dispute over work rules to a presidential commission. This removes a continuing threat of a railway strike over what railway management says is forced use of conservancy workers or payment of wages without a commensurate return to services.

Malay Premier Will Discuss S. Africa With Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — The prime minister of Malaya, Tunku Abdul Rahman, embarked on his first visit to Canada today and will be an early call on Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker, during which they will discuss apartheid. South Africa was expected to be discussed.

Tunku Rahman—he first name is a title meaning prince—arrived by Canadian Pacific Airlines begin a three-day visit, returning after which a decision will be made to the Malayan capital of Kuala Lumpur nearly two years ago.

After welcoming ceremonies at the airport, the prime minister went to Government House, where he will stay while here as guest of Governor-General Vanier. Later he was dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker at the prime minister's official residence.

It was considered a foregone conclusion that the two men would exchange views on whether a republican South Africa might remain in the Commonwealth family of nations.

The prime minister's conference in London last May decided that South Africa—isolated and estranged from other Commonwealth members because of its racial segregation policies—would have to apply for readmittance to the body if it decided to become a republic.

Mr. Diefenbaker has carefully avoided saying whether Canada so far or against South Africa.

But Tunku Rahman said during a stopover interview in Montreal Wednesday that he was in favor of South Africa remaining in the Commonwealth. However, he would not exercise the right of veto if the other countries if a non-White South Africa's membership as a republic.

WILL FIGHT CLAIMS

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Justice Minister Francois Erasmus told the Supreme Court Wednesday he will fight all claims for damage served on him as the result of the police killing and wounding of more than 200 Negroes at Sharpeville last March. Since then 216 claims totalling $1,120,000 have been filed against the justice minister by the wounded and relatives of those killed.

Image of States in Asia Mirrored in the Thinking Of Great Men on Issues

Asia is see-sawing between East and West and recent setbacks in American diplomacy have caused a dip in U.S. prestige, Fulton Freewheeling Associated Press reporter Hsu Mark tells the story after an extended tour of the Orient.

By REUMAN MORRIN

NEW YORK (AP) — "Things seem to have veered against recently," says the prime minister of Malaya.

"Your inability to know what to do about Cuba puzzles us," says an Indonesian government official.

"We intend to be on the winning side," says a non-Communist Chinese merchant in Singapore. Therefore, the setbacks for American prestige naturally affect our thinking."

These Asian Asians talking about the United States, through the eyes of many such men in many countries, you see their image of the United States today.

MUDDLED PICTURE

It is a muddled, a well-meaning but confused and confusing giant.

One was the series of events which took place in Europe, and the Gulf of Mexico during the warm months of 1960—the U-2 affair, the collapse of the summit conference, the downfall of Premier Kishi in Japan, the confiscation of American property in Cuba, and mobt particularly the Japanese riots and cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Tokyo.

The second was Communist effort, crowned with a degree of success, to capitalize on these events.

Except for the U-2 incident, each of these was a complicated case, with many elements involved.

KOREA'S THREE

In Korea, the pressures that finally expelled Rhee grew out of corruption in government and fagrant manipulation of presidential elections. They were home-grown phenomena.

But for many years, Communist propaganda had pictured Rhee as an "American puppet."

Hence, it was simple to portray Rhee's downfall as a smashing setback for American prestige.

Similarly, the riots in Tokyo and Japan were home-grown anti - Eisenhower. They were many things. They were anti-U.S.-Japan security treaty, fanned by many Communist and leftist groups among many Japanese that did not identify with the United States would indeed be a dangerous thing.

The story, if you were to explore all its ramifications, would go on and on—and show little anti-Americanism.

ASIA AND CUBA

As for Cuba, Castro and confrontation-shifts disturbed even the well - informed and politically sophisticated Asians.

Over and over again, they asked this correspondent the same question, in effect: "Why does your government let him get away with it?"

An Indonesian compared the events in Cuba with the uprising in Hungary and asked, "Why didn't you come in with tanks as the Russians did?"

To the Asian, it appeared that this was a clear case of American indecision, fumbling and possible weakness.

APPLAUD FIRMNESS

The non-Communist, or anti-Communist, Asian is apt to recall and applaud two other instances, of the opposite character—the dispatching of American troops to Lebanon and the firm position the United States took in the Taiwan Formosa when it appeared that the Chinese Communists were trying to attack the offshore islands of Formosa.

Where the events of last summer appear to have shown that the United States was weak, indecisive, incapable of evaluating the trends of developments and formulating actions to meet them — in this respect, Americans in Asia say, its prestige has been damaged.

The Asian government official sees an increasingly aggressive and dangerous Red bloc and feels the pressure on his country. Should he look to the United States? Or should he, like Castro's cold, unabashed position exemplified by the Singapore Chinese who said, "We intend to be on the winning side"?

GOOD REPRESENTATION

The quality of American representation in the embassies and consulates of the Far East is very high today. It compares very favorably with the ugly Russian or the increasingly ugly Communist Chinese.

But the events of the spring and summer of 1960 did overshadow the image of his country as a whole.

Burgess Wants to Go Home, But Not Till Cold War Ends

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Guy Burgess, British diplomat who defected to Russia in 1951, said Wednesday night about his life in Russia: "It comes to everybody to feel he has made a big mistake and you can quote me on that."

Burgess said he would like to go back to Britain but "I won't go back as long as the cold war lasts."

The former British foreign office employee talked with Western correspondents after gatecrashing a Western party.

"I have not taken Soviet citizenship," he told reporters. "I am a British subject."

Burgess disappeared from Britain in 1951 with Donald Maclean, another foreign office man, and both later turned up in Russia.

Burgess said he could not speak for Maclean, a friend, but they had not seen for some time. But it was generally understood that Maclean also has not changed his nationality.

Burgess, 49, said: "Of course I would like to go back to Britain for a holiday, just to see what it could be certain of getting back to the Soviet Union."

He said it "changed" while paper had been issued by the British government which called him a Soviet agent. "Which I was not."

"I'm a socialist, I'm not a Communist," he declared. "They couldn't let me go back. There are more afraid of my going back than I am. Just think of the pressure the Americans would put on."

He won't go back as long as the cold war goes on.

Asked how long that would be, he replied: "Ask the Americans."

About life in Russia, he said: "I'm more happy after 10 years than I was after five years."

Chatting about the United Nations and Russia Premier Khrushchev's attacks on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, Burgess said: "In six months' time you will agree Khrushchev is correct. He is after peace."

REFUSE TO ACT

Robber Could Roll Sevens With Ease

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—An accused robber put on a 20-minute display of dice rolling in court Wednesday to show how a skilled gambler can control any combination of numbers he wants.

While the jury and Judge John T. Culberion watched, Mack Allen, 38, approached a scarred wooden basket on it and said confidently:

"I can stand here all day and roll number seven."

He picked up three sevens but made the dice come up with other numbers he called out in advance.

The demonstration was in support of his contention that he and Jesse Allen, also on trial did not rob Ralph Mc-Keefe, a truck driver, in Peoria last June but won $70 and his watch in dice game.

Town Engineer Says He Paid For Materials

ARNPRIOR (CP) — Town engineer W. P. Frieday said in his inquiry here Wednesday that any materials he took from town stores were either paid for or replaced at a later date.

Mr. Friday was the 11th witness called since the inquiry opened Monday under Judge T. M. J. Galligan.

He said that town employees did odd jobs around his home and summer cottage on town time but said that he didn't think it was necessary to bill himself for the few hours involved.

Earlier town workmen had testified that they also worked around the home of Mr. Frieday's mother, but the town engineer said he had no knowledge of this.

Mr. Frieday said that such work had been done in the town yard so his brother's car without charge but he said his brother had worked for nothing for the town.

Mr. Frieday said a $600 load of gravel that left town yards in 1956 was paid for by himself and taken to his mother-in-law's home in Ottawa by two town employees who were going to the capital anyway to attend a wrestling match.

WAS REPLACED

A load of sewer pipe that was sent to this brother-in-law's home in Ottawa was replaced by himself several days later.

Town employees appearing as witnesses in the inquiry into a alleged misuse of town equipment and labor were told Wednesday that they need not fear retaliation as a result of evidence they give.

John Relligan, counsel for the inquiry, told Wednesday that one of the 20 witnesses he plans to question have expressed fears they might lose their jobs.

"They need not be afraid of anyone," he said. "I will protect my witnesses fully and you need not come forward and tell the truth."

Two Awarded Nobel Prize For Medicine

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — An Australian, Professor Sir Frank Macfarlane Burnet, and a Briton, Professor Peter Brian Medawar, were awarded the 1960 Nobel Prize for Medicine today.

The winners of the $42,857 prize ($25,987 Swedish crowns) were selected by the Royal Caroline Institute in a two-hour session.

The five annual Nobel prizes are awarded in fields of medicine, physics, chemistry, literature and peace, and stem from the fortune left by the late Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite.

Burnet and Medawar were awarded the 1960 prize for medicine jointly for the discovery of acquired immunological tolerance, said the official citation of the awarding body.

Canada Requests Japan to Control TV Tube Exports

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada wants Japan to control immediately exports to this country of radio and television tubes.

Finance Minister Fleming said Tuesday night in an address to the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association that a rapid and accelerating increase in imports of Japanese tubes is a "serious problem."

"We have pressed the Japanese government to take urgent steps to place, there under immediate control."

Mr. Fleming mentioned the tubes in the course of an address in which he hinted that the federal government also is considering action to assist the textile industry to meet competition from low-cost countries.

While Japan had placed export quotas on certain textiles moving into the Canadian market, imports from Hong Kong had increased substantially. Further increases would bring about a return to the "disorderly situation" which the Japanese quotas were intended to avoid.

AWARE OF PROBLEM

"I can only say at this stage that the government is well aware of the problem. It is currently under active scrutiny and we are determined that a fair solution must be found."

He urged the industry to give the government its recommendations soon on tariff board proposals concerning cotton and knitted goods, narrow fabrics, laces and embroideries and shoe manufactures.

The government was considering a reorganization of the tariffs on these items as a group at the current conference of contracting members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

After Mr. Fleming concluded his address a question period let the audience stepped forward to say loudly he wanted to express "my gratitude" to Mr. Fleming. Fleming gave no sign he noticed.

The man who identified himself to a reporter as George Buffam said after the meeting: "It's nothing." An association official said he was from Renfrew, Ont., and attended the banquet as a guest.

Govt. Spending $14 Million Over 5 Years Improving St. John's Decadent Harbor

By JON DUFOUR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Massive 29-ton payloader trucks roar over a long concrete pier where a month ago there was only harbor water.

The grinding of cement mixers and a sprawling batching-filling plant deserve traffic notice along downtown St. John's streets.

With all the din and dust, the residents of Newfoundland's capital are getting excited about what is happening to their pocket size, land-locked harbor which for the last century has been a lazy half-moon of decaying, rat-infested piers.

MODERN PIER

In the last few weeks a five-year $14,000,000 federal harbor development project has begun to take visible shape.

The biggest single construction of a 21-crib, 391-foot-wide terminal pier jutting out into the harbor, is nearing completion. Designed to handle ships up to 30,000 tons, the terminal will have 2,415 feet of berthing space.

McNamara Construction of Newfoundland Ltd., is contractor for the development's first phase, to cost $4,000,000, under project manager Chris Gibbons of Toronto. It is scheduled for completion early next year.

McNamara's job involves about 12 city blocks, or 2,000 feet of waterfront. Old wharfs and some dockside buildings have been demolished.

TONS OF ROCK

All 21 concrete crib foundations for the terminal pier have been built in a specially-constructed drydock. Fifteen cribs now are in place. They are floated to a designated spot, sunk to the harbor bottom and filled with rock to form the terminal deck.

Superintendent Rene Brazeau, Toronto - born Montrealer, directed the construction of the cribs, weighing 2,500 tons each, at a rate of two a week. Each crib holds 4,000 tons of rock.

The 100-foot steel cells that will be dumped over the entire pier to "make everything concrete," says red - haired Mr. Gibbons, are 1 - million tons of rock. Already have been blasted and trucked three miles from the quarries. When they're finished the big trucks will have moved 10,000,000 tons of rock to the site.

McNamara has about 220 men on the payroll now. When concrete is being poured for the cribs it employed 450 men.

CHARTER TERMINUS

About 2,000 ships enter St. John's annually, most of them coastal trawlers. Freight - handling costs now are roughly double those in other Canadian ports.

Cargo now is unloaded into aged storage buildings at dockside and then reloaded into trucks for transport through narrow congested streets to the railway depot.

The design engineers, Foundation of Canada Engineering Corp. (FENCO) saw the need for closer integration of cargo - handling when they began their surveys in 1956. Their idea was to reduce costs with new and more efficient wharfs and ease traffic congestion by providing wide access roads to provincial highways and rail terminals.

The development involves these projects which, officials hope, will remedy the port's ills:

A 2,200 - foot marginal wharf for coastal ships; a 600-foot wharf for transport department vessels; a 900-foot basin for small boats such as tugs; a service road of four 12-foot traffic lanes, a footbridge, and parking plazas.

BOOST CAPACITY

In addition, Merlin Rock, a navigational hazard to the north of the narrow harbor entrance, is being blasted.

After 1963 the harbor will be able to handle 750,000 tons of general cargo annually, 50 per cent more than now.

"This amount can easily be doubled in future without major additions to the planned facilities," said FENCO engineer A. Charbonneau.

Don Lewis, another FENCO engineer, said work will begin in about two years on construction of a transit shed on the new terminal pier with 100,000 cubic feet of storage space. Two other warehouses, one with cold-storage facilities, will be erected.

MODEL HARBOR — This scale model shows what St. John's harbor will look like when a $14,000,000 development program is completed in 1965. A major part of the project, the $4,000,000 rectangular terminal pier with massive transit sheds (centre), is nearing completion. The program began last fall and will change the face of 12 city blocks of waterfront, replacing wooden wharfs with concrete and steel piers. (CP Photo).

Scientists Excited About Proposed Drilling of Small Hole 2,000 Feet Under Ice

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AXEL HEIBERG ISLAND, N.W.T. (CP)—In many parts of the north, the earth's skin is patterned with cracks like the glaze on an old teapot.

Seen from the air, the network of cracks can be so strikingly orderly as to seem man-made, but they are made by the unrelenting, immeasurable forces of the cold.

ICE WEDGES

Dr. Lachenbruch, 34, a specialist in ground heat-flow, was borrowed from the U.S. Geological Survey by the Jacobsen-McGill University scientific expedition to Axel Heiberg Island, a lonely land 2,000 miles north of Winnipeg.

"What is significant to the engineer is not so much the soil polygon," said Dr. Lachenbruch. "but the ice wedges in them.

"It's because of the ice wedges that a road can sometimes turn into a canyon 15 feet deep. Even engineers with Arctic experience are surprised sometimes to see their airfields suddenly look like an alligator's back."

COLD CRACKS EARTH

Simply, this is what happens: The cold makes the ground tighten and split into the polygonal pattern. The crack, which can be 30 or 40 feet deep or even more, fills with water melted at the surface.

But the water is trickling down into permafrost—the ever-frozen subsoil of the Arctic—and so it freezes, filling the crack with ice. This is the start of an ice wedge.

At the next contraction, the ice splits because it is weaker than the ground. More water runs in and more ice is formed. The ice wedge expands. Century after century, the same pattern of cracks can reappear.

In Alaska, Dr. Lachenbruch said, he has seen ancient ice wedges 45 feet wide. Wider ones are known. In Siberia, where ice wedges 100 feet wide had been reported, the land in some places is mostly ice, with some soil between.

SUDDEN APPEARANCE

In some areas the land at the surface is soft and during the melting season it runs together and obliterates the crack pattern. But at the next contraction, the pattern reappears, sometimes overnight.

Dr. Lachenbruch theorizes that under the soft soil the ice wedges are still active. The crack reappears first at the surface of the ice wedge, then propagates upward through the soil and down through the wedge.

People have heard the cracks appear with a sudden sharp bang like a rifle shot.

A greater danger is the uncovering of an ice wedge. The ground, the vegetation, even the snow, form a blanket atop the ice wedges that keeps them from being too badly melted by the summer sun. But man often finds it necessary to strip off the insulation.

DEEP GULLY

Dr. Lachenbruch had a unique chance to see this happen at Eureka, the weather station on Ellesmere Island, where airport workers had bulldozed away some topsoil to get fill for the runway.

"Within a week, a gully six feet deep had melted out, and was rapidly widening and creeping back toward the airstrip.

"When winter stops the melting they can cover up the ice wedge again," Dr. Lachenbruch said. "To cover it up now would just seal the heat in."

It was the removal of the natural insulation that caused such things as roads and construction sites in Alaska to be cut to pieces by great canyons.

REASONS UNCLEAR

The reasons crack - patterns form as they do, and where they do, are not clearly understood. It is known that where the ice wedges stop stratified rock, as on the slopes of gentle hills, the cracks will appear along the lines of the layers of underlying rocks, then at right angles to these main cracks—a squarish pattern.

Dr. Lachenbruch believes he has established that polygons around a lake or what was once a lake bed depend on the temperature gradient. A lake is a great store of heat. The ground near it is warmer than the ground farther away and there is a gradual fall in earth temperature the farther away from the lake you go.

Dr. Lachenbruch believes the cracks will form along lines of equal temperature roughly parallel to the lakeshore, and further cracks will appear at right angles. This would form a spider-web pattern.

The speed at which the crack propagates also has a bearing on the shape of the resulting pattern.

It has been found that a crack rips along until it reaches a certain speed—the speed of sound—and then it forks.

Each fork is at 60 degrees to the starting crack, and each forks until it reaches critical speed and forks again. The cracking continues until all stresses are relieved, and what remains is a hexagonal pattern on the ground.

The rate of fall in temperature is more significant, Dr. Lachenbruch believes, than the amount of the fall.

Like toffee, which stretches when pulled but breaks when struck, the ground may contract steadily as temperatures fall even if they fall very low. But if there is a sudden, sharp drop in temperature the ground may split, even if the lowest temperature is relatively high.

"There is a great deal to be discovered yet about soil polygons," said Dr. Lachenbruch. "Especially the mathematics of them. I wish we could explain a quarter of what we observe."

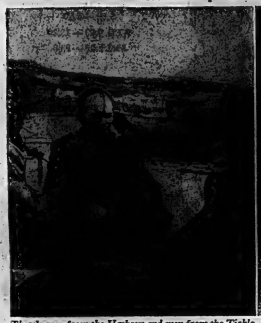
Newfoundland's Colorful Squid Jigging Grounds



Oh! this is the place where the fishermen gather

Squid-jiggin', is more than a colourful and unique activity carried out by generations of Newfoundland fishermen. It plays an important part in the economy of the island. The success of the squid fishing determines in large measure the success of the cod fishery, for cod regard the pale green and white squid as a tempting delicacy. After two poor years, the squid run, which got underway in early fall, promises to be a good one.

While squid appear in search of food at many points off Newfoundland's rugged coastline, the traditional squid jigging grounds lie in the snug coves and harbours of Conception Bay. When the cry "the squid are runnin'" rings out, fishermen old and young hurry to the spot where the schools of iridescent jelly-like squid are moving swiftly towards shore. Feverish activity is the order of the day as skilled fishermen, sometimes handling as many as four jig lines at a time, hustle to catch a share of the run. The Newfoundland jigger is a red lump of lead 3 to 4 inches long, festooned with 12 to 20 barbless hooks, or pins. Simple, but very effective, is "jigged" in the water "about one fathom down" exciting all that is rapacious in the squid. Hurling itself at the tantalizing lure, the terrible-tempered squid is flipped with split-second timing into the boat where a nimble flick of the wrist detaches its tentacles from the jigger. But the squid has its brief moment of triumphant revenge before meeting its demise. Squid propel themselves by sucking water in through a collar near the head and then expelling it. Connected to the collar is an ink sac for use as a smoke-screen when eluding an enemy. Sensing danger as it is rudely jerked from its marine environment, the squid lets go with a furious jet of "squid squirt" as it breaks water and it is rare, in fact local folk say it is unknown, for a successful fisherman to return unblemished from the squid jigging grounds.

The very first squid on the squid-jiggin' ground.

Ready to Seek Loan to Finance Water Drilling

DESERONTO — At the regular meeting of the town council on Monday night only four councillors and the mayor were present for the business session. Councillor Deller arrived late and made the motion for adjournment shortly after arriving.

The auditor, F. Page Higgins, notified council that he would accept the audit on the same terms as last year if the council would give some consideration to an increase in the pay for next year.

The Water Resources Commission advised that it is now prepared to approach the Municipal Board regarding the necessary loan for the continuance of the drilling for water on the island. The meeting referred the application to the council as a whole for consideration.

After hearing Dr. McVicker and the chairman of the police committee regarding some of the streets in the town council gave the Public Utilities Commission permission to erect street lights in some of the darkest sections of the town.

The request of G. Goodfellow to have the drain on Second St. between Thomas and Main covered was referred to the streets committee with power to act.

The report of the Public Utilities on the cost of installing a water main on Dundas St. West was read and council decided that if the Utilities could obtain six applications for water in that district it would give the authority to install the main. A recorded vote was unanimous.

Councillor Howard advised council that he had three applications who would do the necessary snow plowing next winter at an hourly rate. He was advised to have the applications to submit their prices for consideration.

WATER PRESSURE PROBLEM

Councillor Howard also instituted some discussion regarding the operation of the pump house by the Utilities. Apparently there will be no operator for the pumps hired and the work will be done by the staff of the Utilities. Some of the firms whose property is protected by sprinklers are concerned about the maintenance of pressure in case of fire. One firm is reporting the matters to the Underwriters Board.

Four by-laws were passed—one to cover the salary of the police chief, one for the proposed staggered council term; one to name polling booths for the municipal election and one to control parking on the streets between December 15th and March 31st.

The date of the Court of Revision was set for November 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall.

The petition which was laid over last meeting because of a tie vote was again discussed and council decided to use calcium chloride on Thomas St. East to allay the dust complained of by the residents.

Council was advised that the Highways Department completed of the condition of the caution lights on the highway in town. The matter was referred to the Utilities to have the lights cleaned.

R. Marks of Deseronto Plumbing and Heating addressed council complaining of the plumbing inspector. He felt that there should be some control over the work being done by the inspector. One member of council asked if the plumbing inspector paid business tax when he operated a business. Council finally asked Mr. Marks to make his complaint in writing so that definite action could be taken.

Rangers' McCartan Blanks Hawks 2-0

Habs Bow To Leafs

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York Rangers gave goalie Jack McCartan another chance to prove he belongs in the National Hockey League Wednesday night and the 1960 Olympic hockey hero passed the test with flying colors.

McCartan, whose brilliant goaltending led the United States to the Olympic hockey championship last February, stepped into the Rangers' nets for the first time this season, handled 18 shots flawlessly and blanked Chicago Black Hawks 2-0.

It was Chicago's first defeat of the season and left the club in second place in the league standings, one point behind the first-place Montreal Canadiens who lost 3-1 to the Maple Leafs at Toronto.

The NHL's sharpshooters may still catch up with McCartan but after five games—not at the end of the 1959-60 season—a coach couldn't ask more from a rookie goaltender who never played in hockey's minor professional leagues.

ONLY SEVEN GOALS

He gave up only seven goals in the four games he played last season. New York won one of them, lost two and tied the other.

McCartan got a chance to play in Wednesday's penalty - filled game at New York after regular goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley sliced a finger while in the games.

The 8,506 fans who attended the game at Madison Square Garden saw something else to remember—a wild third period brawl that resulted in the ejection of Black Hawk rookie Reggie Fleming.

Fleming was given three major penalties, the third one adding for a game misconduct. He also collected a minor penalty for cross-checking, make a total of 27 minutes-in-penalties for the night.

The 27 minutes was only three minutes short of the league record established by Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings in a game against Toronto Maple Leafs Oct. 12, 1952 at Detroit.

TANGLES WITH THREE

Fleming got his first major in the second period when he tangled with Dean Prentice. At 4:40 of the third period he squared off with Eddie Shack and then with John Hanna, receiving major, penalties on both counts.

During the third-period melee McCartan suffered a gash under the chin that required five stitches to close.

Altogether, referee Dalton McArthur assessed 74 minutes in penalties during the game.

Wednesday night the Rangers going midway through the first period, scored twice in his own crease while the Black Hawks were shorthanded. It was his first goal in the league.

Andy Hebenton scored the first Rangers' goal in the second period, beating goalie Glenn Hall at 12:50 after Camille Henry set up the play by stealing the puck from a Chicago defender.

The win broke a New York losing streak that stretched to 26,058 and lifted the Rangers into a third-place tie with Toronto.

OUTPLAY CANUCKS

The Maple Leafs outplayed the Canadiens for two periods but missed shots and only brilliant goaltending by Montreal's Jacques Plante kept the score respectable for the visitors.

The attack was forced to make 35 saves while Leafs' Johnny Bower made 25.

Gerry Ehman, Bob Pulford and Bob Nevin each took care of Toronto's scoring—each getting his first goal of the season. Henri Richard picked Richard scored for Montreal.

Ehman was scored in the first period when he deflected a shot by Bob Pulford. Richard scored to make it 1-1 in the second but Pulford and Nevin came through in the third 2:35 minutes, the last two goals were scored from just outside the Montreal nets.

Away To Good Start

REGINA (CP) — Trudi Richardson, who skipped his rink to Canadian and international curling championships the last two years, is off to a good start in provincial competition.

Curling in the Wheat City Club's Harvest Bonspiel, the Richardsons — skip Ernie Richardson, second Garnet and lead Wes—scored their first eight-ender.

Richardson is unbeaten in the bonspiel.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The number of teams sharing first place in the Western Hockey League was reduced to two Wednesday night when Seattle Totems Flyers and Winnipeg Warriors scored contrasting victories.

Seattle, coached by Chuck Holmes grabbed visiting Edmonton to help pad Totems' standings six to 2-4 while Winnipeg trimmed Portland Buckaroos 5-3.

Edmonton and Winnipeg now are tied for first with six points each, with Vancouver Canucks and Victoria Cougars follow with four points.

Don Focile scored Edmonton's lone goal while Ron Leopold connected for Calgary.

EXPECT RECORD GATE

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Lions are preparing for a record crowd at the Wright Brothers Field with Calgary Stampeders Saturday. The Lions have raised the Pacific National Exhibition to increase the seating capacity of Empire Stadium to 32,000. The game that is a must for both teams in making the playoffs.

Rick Ferrell

Will Choose Tiger Boss

DETROIT (AP)—Rick Ferrell, the man Bill DeWitt demoted from general manager of the Detroit Tigers, has been given the responsibility of recommending the next field manager of the Tigers.

Ferrell said there has been no change in his status. In one of DeWitt's reorganization moves after he became president, he took over the duties of general manager himself and made Ferrell an assistant to the president.

John E. Fetzer, who recently purchased controlling interest of the Tigers, said it would be Ferrell's assignment to screen applicants for the managing job, and to make a recommendation.

DeWitt's status still has not been made clear. He was ousted from control during the world series when Fetzer bought additional shares of stock and said he would assume the duties of president. Fetzer said at the time that DeWitt's situation could be cleared up later.

Ferrell said Wednesday there will be no change in the coaching staff.

NEW YORK (AP) — Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves, a 20-game winner for the 11th time, topping the balloting for the 1960 Associated Press major league all-star team selected today. Of the 132 baseball writers taking part in the annual poll, 130 named Spahn as the best left-handed pitcher.

The balloting for second base honors produced the closest vote. Runnels polled 68 votes, Nellie Fox of Chicago White Sox 66, and Bill Mazeroski of the Pittsburgh Pirates 59. The margin of race was for first baseman with Skowron getting Roy Sievers of the White Sox, 65 to 53.

Mays was the second highest-vote-getter with 182. Law was next with 144 and then came Maris with 132. Banks had 111, Crandall 104, Mathews 83, Runnels 68, Skowron 63 and Aaron 55.

Boston will be the site of the second 1961 all-star major league baseball game Commissioner Ford Frick said Wednesday the game will be played at Municipal July 31.

Previously, the commissioner had announced San Francisco as the site of the first all-star game of the season with the date slated 11. Two such games have been played in each of the last two years with receipts helping pay for the pension plan.

Frick also said that the player limit this year would be held at Louisville Nov. 28.

Houk Yankee Manager

Casey Laughs At Old Age

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Today the Yankees have a new manager. He will be 41-year-old Ralph Houk.

But never to be forgotten will be Casey Stengel, the man who Casey Stengel, the old man the Yankees dismissed to make room for the younger man in line with the club's new policy—"Youth must be served."

The youth movement of America's No. 1 baseball team Stengel in an acceptance speech Wednesday night climaxed with a caustic crack at old age which he was given a farewell dinner party by the New York baseball writers.

"Before I am called," 70-year-old Stengel challenged an audience that included 46-year-old Yankee President Dan Topping, the man who fired him; 65 - year - old General Manager George Weiss, who will be the next man to be forfeited under the new "youth program"; 57-year-old Coach Ben Houtteman, scheduled to be forfeited; 58-year-old Roy Hamey, also scheduled to be forfeited; 58-year-old Frankie Crosetti, Weiss, and 79-year-old Branch Rickey, president of the dormant Continental League.

"But I thought I could build a baseball club that would be in advance skill and youth without the years. I regret that I was I who started the Yankee youth program which saved the club three-four years from additional schools in the winter, I got the youths to play baseball instead of ice skating in the winter."

All this, of course, was a pointed reference to the reason given by the Yankee leadership for his dismissal Tuesday—that Casey was too old to continue as manager.

Earlier Topping had been among the dozens of notables who had paid tribute to the most successful manager in baseball.

"This has been the toughest decision (firing Stengel the Yankee baseball manager) I've had in 12 years with the organization," Topping said. "We were ridiculed when we hired him back in 1948 and we were ridiculed today 12 years later. Maybe he is as wonderful as people say he is."

Referring to the Yankees' new setup, Stengel said: "We always been loyal to the owners wherever I worked but I doubt if I could get along with owners who want to make me do things

Hull-Ottawa Wins Five Games in Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The big question in the Eastern Professional Hockey League is which team is going to be the first to stop the power-laden Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

The Canadiens chalked up their fifth straight victory Wednesday night handing a 4-2 defeat to the last place Sudbury Wolves. At the same time second - place Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers only got a 4-4 tie with Montreal Royals.

Kitchener will have to take on the Wolves Sunday-before they get a crack at the Canadiens next Wednesday. Meanwhile the league leaders play the second-place Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds tonight and fourth - place Kingston Tuesday.

TREMBLAY FACED CANUCKS

Against Wolves Gilles Tremblay paced the Hull-Ottawa attack with his seventh goal of the season. Wil O'Dea, Bob Eliet and J. C. Tremblay added the other goals to boost the Canadiens' tally for five games in a row.

The teams played a slow first period with Canadiens ahead 3-2 in the third. With less than a minute to go Wolves almost knotted the count after Sudbury coach Murph Chamberlain pulled out goalie Gerry McNamara.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — One of North America's most famous sets of racing colors—the late Col. E. R. Bradley's white jacket with green hoops—will be seen in action for the first time in 34 years when General Arthur comes to Jamaica for the $50,000 Canadian Championship at New Woodbine.

When Col. Bradley died on Aug. 13, 1946, he willed his racing colors to his last trainer, J. W. Jimmy) Smith. True to his promise that "I'll be racing till my last day", Col. Bradley was having one of his most successful seasons when, at the age of 86, he died at his Idle Hour Stock Farm in Lexington, Ky.

This week Smith, now training for J. O. McCue of New York City, decided to lease General Arthur for the Canadian Championship.

A BIG FLINGER

Col. Bradley was the first man to win the Kentucky Derby on four occasions and also was the first to capture the "big three" triumph in America's classics.

There's a story in connection with the 1921 derby victory with Behave Yourself.

Bradley started two horses—Behave Yourself and Black Servant. He believed that Black Servant was the better and wagered heavily on the horse.

In those days, if an owner starting two horses in a race, he "declared to win" with only one of his horses. In the other words, Bradley "declared to win" his bets on Black Servant.

Behave Yourself was ridden by jockey Charley Thompson. As Behave Yourself and Black Servant neared the wire, Thompson forgot his instructions and, whipping his horse furiously, defeated his stablemate in a thrilling finish.

Col. Bradley is said to have congratulated jockey Thompson gleefully, saying: "That was a $100,000 ride you gave that horse—because that was just about the sum that it cost me."

General Arthur has won two handicaps this season.

TORONTO (CP) — Golden Game owned by John Petrosif of Rochester, N.Y., won the $10,000 Challenge Stakes at New Woodbine, Wednesday, defeating Hawk by a neck while the favorite, War Eagle, finished third.

Golden Game paid $27.10, $10.50 and $6.40.

The secondary feature, the Wellcad Club Purse, resulted in a disqualification after Hooker won the race with Elzero the Great finishing second and Bocage running third.

Jockey Jim Fitzsimmons, riding Bocage, claimed foul, charging that Hooker impeded his mount in the final 100 yards. The stewards upheld the claim and dropped Hooker into third place. The race was awarded to Elzero the Great while Bocage was placed second.

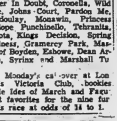
LONDON (AP) — Forty-five horses were named Wednesday for next Wednesday's Cambridgeshire Stakes at Newmarket—the race that carries the last Irish Sweepstakes of the season.

They are:



Lucky Guy, Sanctum, Blast, Dairialan, Ides of March, Fergus, Gallatrist, King's Messenger, Running Rine, Hard and Soft, Fulshaw Cross, Diffidence, Attelion, Thames Trader, St. Mark, Tudor Perkin, Met, Footsalle, Janne Michele, Afghanistan, King's Troop, Midsummer Night II, Fair Nicolle, Cuff Link, Golden Vision, Mountain Kiss, Never In Doubt, Coroselle, Wild Vine, Johns Court, Pardon Me, Vandoulay, Monavie, Princess Antiope Punchinello, Tehranita, Bonota, Kings Decision, Spring Madness, Gramercy Park, Master of Burden, Exhore, Dean Ardoin, Syrinx and Marshall Tudor.

In Monday's caravoer at London's Victoria Club, bookies made Ides of March and Fergus flat favorites for the nine furlongs race at odds of 14 to 1.

OTTAWA (CP) — Breaking a ton the basis of points scored would be like handing the Yanks the world series on the basis of total bases scored, says Ottawa Rough Riders coach Frank Clair.

He was commenting on the possibility of a first-place tie in the Big Four football league by Toronto Argonauts, who now lead by two points, and his Riders.

The Ottawa club maintains that say tie should be broken by the won-loss record between the two teams and not by total points scored in games between the two clubs, used at present.

A special league meeting will be held here Friday to decide the matter. Riders and Argos have beaten each other twice this season. They meet here Saturday with Argos holding a 15 - point lead in scoring.

Clair said his plans for the Saturday game won't be guided by the decision of the league meeting.

"We'll play the game to win and use every available man," Clair said. "We've got a good fighting chance even though we're not too healthy."

Halback Ron Stewart and defensive end Lou Bruce appear out of Saturday's game. Clair said he is thinking of using Ernie White and Tom Reynolds, both from London Lords, in their places.

Bill Sowalski, out for nearly a month with a leg injury, probably will replace Curt Mers at offensive end.

Phooey on Yankees

Home Town Loves Casey

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Casey Stengel and the New York Yankees have parted company, but his home town still loves him.

It calls its municipal baseball park Stengel Field.

"Now maybe we can get him to manage a west coast team," one said.

"He'll latch on to another ball club fast—probably the Giants or maybe even the Dodgers," said Pete Lewi, who lives [illegible] Stengel's home.

"Casey was smart to quit anyway," said Mrs. B. J. Richerson, a neighbor of Casey and Edna Stengel for 21 years. She added:

"They've been the best neighbors we've ever had. Now we'll get to see more of them."

Mrs. Terry Johnston, who with her husband attended the world series at Stengel's invitation, said:

"He should have beaten them to the punch and quit."

Mrs. Marjorie Turpice of Indianapolis, visiting at the home of Mrs. E. D. Hoard, said:

"What do they want from him? A championship every year?"

The neighbors and other Glendale folk hinted there'll be a homecoming celebration.

League Gave Napanee Cold Shoulder

NAPANEE (CP) — Cornels, winners of the Ontario Hockey Association intermediate A championship for the last three years, are complaining about their lack of opposition.

Last year the team was without a league and did not play a game until just before the playoffs. This year prospects look the same.

A six-team Lakeshore League ranging from Oshawa to Trenton was formed Monday. Napanee was not invited to join. An OHA spokesman said he did not think the other teams would enter if Napanee was admitted.

Lorne Cooks former OHA president, says he is working on the possibility of a four-team league that would include Napanee, Kingston, Royal Military College and Queen's University.

"I spent a whole day polishing those shells and STILL I missed him"

Cooke Still Battling for Ball Stadium

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Kent Cooke proposed Wednesday construction of a two-level, 350,000-square-foot shopping mall on the perimeter of his projected all-sports stadium should he win a major league baseball franchise here.

Cooke told reporters a letter to the American League, from which Cooke is seeking a franchise, said realty from mall leases would be the main source of "upkeep and repayment of the stadium cost."

The letter said that if the city refused to build a stadium Cooke and his associates would "undertake to finance a major sports stadium with a minimum seating capacity of 35,000 and with provision to expand in the first stage to 42,000 with ultimate expansion to 50,000."

The American League meets in New York Monday to consider a franchise applications to expand the league to 10 from eight teams.

After 22 Years Louis, Max Meet Again

The hands joined behind Schmeling's back, and Louis, the former heavyweight champion, said: "Great to see you, Max. You haven't put on any weight."

Schmeling snorkered Louis and said: "Nice to see you, too, Joe. You are looking great."

They met only a few miles from Yankee Stadium where Louis was kayoed by Schmeling on June 19, 1936, then came back to knock out Schmeling in 2 minutes, 4 seconds of the first round on June 22, 1938.

On this occasion Schmeling came to be with Louis; Jimmy Braddock, the man Louis dethroned as heavyweight champ in 1937; Ernest Carter, the ex - heavyweight champ, who had to whip an aging Louis who had once been his hero; and other boxing celebrities.

The occasion was the annual dinner of the People-to-People Sports Committee, Inc., a group dedicated to fostering international good will through athletics.

STUDY BOXER'S HEART

LONDON (Reuters). — Eddie Seattle of Hamilton, Ont., the Canadian lightweight champion who had an operation for a hole in his heart three years ago, arrived at London airport Wednesday night from New York for his fight against Phil McGrath at Wembley Stadium Tuesday.

Seattle, undefeated in 20 fights, will meet medical specialists who are interested in examining his heart. "I am feeling in great shape and have done so ever since the operation," he said, "I don't think the specialists will find anything out of the ordinary in my heart condition."

Briton Wants Crack at World Title

LONDON (AP)—British boxing officials look Scottish heavyweight Billy Rafferty Wednesday he can fight Italian Piero Rollo in Italy this month on condition the bout is not billed as a world title fight.

They reiterated that the recognized next week's London bout between Freddie Gilroy of Northern Ireland and Alphonse Halimi of France as a world championship fight.

The brown has been vacant since Mexico's Jose Becerra retired two months ago. Rafferty has signed to fight Rolli in Italy Oct. 30.

Charnely's manager, Arthur Boggis, said:

"I have been negotiating for a long time for a world title chance for Charnley, and I have the correspondence to prove it. It is probable that the world championship fight will take place next April at Wembley."

Did Their Best in Special With Rather Bland Material

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It would be swell, let's say jubilicious—for a company that manufactures steel to sponsor a television program dedicated to satirizing the American automobile industry which uses a lot of steel and also has some brand new models out. So Step on the Gas, Wednesday night's CBS Steel Hour special, didn't.

What it did was poke fun at old cars, automobile horns, credit cards carried by motorists, and of course—women drivers. There were also some dances and some songs relating to automobiles one way or another. Jackie Cooper, Shirley Jones, Hans Conried, Shari Lewis and Pat Carroll did their best with the rather bland material.

At the beginning of Wednesday night's Perry Como Show, guest star Jack Paar announced that some people had suggested that Paar was okay on late evening television but that "He'd die around 8 or 9." Well, some people proved good prophets but it was too bad he had to take the whole Como show along with him.

Just about the only way the performers in BC's Hour of Great Mysters series seem to be able to play their parts in the misty adaptations is tongue-in-cheek.

Tuesday night's Inn of the Flying Dragon was no better than the rest of the series—at best, disappointing. All that mysterious nonsense, poison d r u g h t s, strange seizures and evil looks couldn't lift the hour-long effort out of the doldrums.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa Rough Riders fans honored Bobby Simpson at a $10-a-plate testimonial dinner this week, and it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy. He has been described at various times as a quiet, unassuming individual, but he is probably the gabbiest player in Canadian sports.

He has hardly stopped talking since he joined the Big Four football club back in 1950. An exception was last year when Riders lost a heart-breaking final playoff series to Hamilton Tiger Cats.

Bobby was sullen and morose. The Riders mulled a chance to make the Grey Cup final for the first time since 1951 as it took Simpson, then a 10-year veteran with the club, a few days to get his voice back.

This is probably his last year with the Ottawa club and the pass-catching end will leave the game well fixed financially. His first contract when he joined Riders called for $150 a game. Now his salary reaches into five figures and Bobby has invested it well.

PERSUASIVE BOUNCER

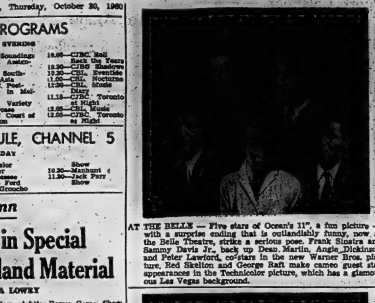
A few years ago he went into partnership in a beverage room in a little town just outside Ottawa. It was a hangout for big, tough guys, but it didn't bother the six-foot 200-pound Simpson.

A cemetery was located across the street and lantern - jawed Bobby had little trouble with the local beer drinkers.

"If I try to look tough, walk up to a rowdy or noisy customer and in a clear voice that probably woke up the dead across the street I'd tell him to calm down or end up over there as I pointed to the graveyard.

"It worked, but I've often wondered what would have happened if it hadn't. I'd probably have to try to talk myself out of the predicament."

NFL OFFER



Now, he's in the restaurant business in Ottawa and his future is rosy.

A few years ago Jim McCaffrey, then general manager of the Riders, said Simpson was "the only Canadian football player who could make a National Football League club."

Bobby read the newspapers and McCaffrey paid well for that statement. Simpson was offered a contract by New York Giants of the NFL, dickered a little with McCaffrey and stayed with the Riders—with a fairly respectable raise.

He was one of the few Canadians to make the Big Four all-star teams because of a great pair of hands to latch onto passes. He's added 10 to 15 pounds the last couple of years and has slowed down a bit, but he remains versatile. Besides offending end, he has been playing defensive half and safety on punts and has done a tremendous job for the Riders.

Add this to his unusual gift of gab, which has stamped him as the club's holler guy, and he's a valuable fellow to have around.

Mother Signals With Eyes, Foils Kidnap Attempt

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — The mother of a kidnapped baby foiled the abductor's ransom scheme Wednesday by sending out a distress signal with her eyes, the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported.

This is the story the FBI told: Mrs. Reinhardt, 26, a friend of Mrs. Betty Utterback, a widow, went to the Utterback home and left with her 25-month-old daughter, saying he was baking the child on a shopping trip.

Fifteen minutes later Reinhardt returned without the baby and told Mrs. Utterback he wanted $6,500 for her return.

Reinhardt forced Mrs. Utterback to accompany him to her bank and closed her in the safe as he started to make a withdrawal, the FBI said.

"She gave me a sign with her eyes that something was wrong," said bank operations officer Barney L. McIrbe.

Motorists gave a sign to another employee, who called the FBI. FBI agents arrested Reinhardt and the women were leaving with the money.

The child was recovered safely.

Pat Boone Drops off Show To Pursue Other Interests

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Pat Boone has moved his wife and four daughters to California and wonders why he didn't do it sooner. He has dropped off a weekly TV show to pursue other phases of his career, especially movies.

What happened to TV? He explained the series of events: ABC wanted him to do an hour-long Saturday night show, a la Perry Como. But the Boone sponsor didn't want to go a full hour. While efforts were made to find a co-sponsor, the time was half-filled by a film offer for Leave It to Beaver. Meanwhile, Pat decided to drop off weekly TV.

"I had been on every week for three years," he said. "I had movies that did very well, I had records and I had a book that sold 400,000 in hard cover. I don't know of any other performer who had so much exposure."

FISHING LUCK?

"I figured I was pushing my luck to continue on every week. People would get sick of seeing me.

"So I decided to spend more time with records, to make personal appearances and I had been unable to do, and to do two pictures a year instead of one.

"Also, I've been able to spend some time at home. For five years, I've been living my wife that some day I'd be able to stay home more. Now she's trying to think of ways to get me out of the house."

ABANDONED BARBERING

Perry Como once gave up a barber's business — with weekly profits of $125—to become a $25-a-week band singer.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) You can cement far better relations with partners today, though you may have quite different ideas and be strong-willed. P.M. dine out at some charming spot, then be off to the cinema or some social function that pleases.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Duties can be handled very wisely and efficiently in A.M. Then be sure you get your wardrobe in better order and take the health treatments you need to help make your weekend more enjoyable and active. P.M. rest early.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Prepare for the weekend early in A.M. Plan the day ahead wisely to get the most out of them. P.M. start things off properly by contacting the right people and get yourself and them in a good mood. Be thoughtful, kind.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Through co-operation, you can now get together with associate and bring about success in some mutual venture. P.M. seek amusement that is wholesome and will cost very little.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) Become well-informed in A.M. about any contemplated changes or travel you want to do. The remainder of the day is then fine for visits or social functions that you enjoy and are helpful in your career.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Morning is ideal for getting the information from those who have you have long sought. Then delve into the cultural subjects and interests you appreciate so much. Evening is ideal for any romantic leanings.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) Now is the time to contact good connects and work out those plans you have made for some time. They will be successful. Also, be sure you contact other contacts of value through them. Be thoughtful, courteous.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you perform your duties in a most efficient way this morning you will get the approval of important higher-ups and benefits will accrue to you. P.M. go out to some important social function and make a big hit.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can make fine progress today in whatever you set your heart upon, and this is also a good day to put the wheels in motion in some new venture. P.M. fine for making excellent new contacts in a social way. Be charming.

If your child is born today . . he, or she, is one of those charming people who knows his or her own mind and others will have little influence upon. However, it is important you early teach your youngster to have respect for the needs and feelings of others, and then start becoming very successful. Also, be sure a helping hand is extended to others when most needed. A wonderful chart for the business man or woman — big business.

are pleased to announce that we have united together and opened our offices in the Canada Trust Building, for the better convenience of our clients. Why not call in and see us, or phone or sell their properties to our Belleville Office.

YES — This will cause a number of inconveniences to the home owners and the public, but we feel it is warranted in order to bring you under the one real estate broker and have you all remain with him, and you will list your home with one of the four brokers at the same commission but not receive the selling action, as we have a full staff of agents in the Real Estate Office and your home protected by any one of the above Real Estate Offices will be only

3½%

By listing your home with one of our offices here are a few of the many advantages:

- Photo taken of your home and displayed in our lunch one of the Real Estate Offices
- Your listing recorded by each one of the Real Estate Offices
- Advertisement of your home jointly by the four Real Estate Offices
- Four Real Estate Offices working together to sell your property
- A low commission of only 3½% reducing the commission to 2½% on at least one hundred dollars of a normal sale.

By contacting our central office to purchase a home we offer:

- The listings of four real estate offices
- We will save you considerable time and effort as you only have to go to one office to look through the listings of four real estate offices at your convenience.
- A smaller closing price as our commission being reduced by 1% reducing the closing price to your normal house by one to two hundred dollars.
- The knowledge of four Real Estate offices in your purchase problems.

Makes Escape Second Day After Sentence

NORWICH, England (Reuter) — Jewel thief Richard Dunpble — who confessed Tuesday to a theft from the Duchess of Windsor 14 years ago — escaped from prison Thursday on the second day of his seven-year sentence.

Dunpble, 50, admitted in court Tuesday to a string of robberies, including stealing £20,000 ($56,000) in gems from the summer home north of London of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor in 1946.

The magistrate who sentenced Dunpble said: "You are a man of considerable intelligence and it might be that you will be able to make a new start in due course."

Dunpble took advantage of a hole in the prison wall to make his new start Thursday.

Canadian Sales To Cuba Depend On Financing

LONDON (CP) — The Financial Times says in an article today most Canadian exporters expect to increase sales to Cuba as a result of the United States embargo on U.S. exports.

But, says a dispatch from Montreal, the increase will be dependent upon Cuba's ability to pay cash and whether the U.S. will apply the Foreign Assets Control Act.

Application of the act would mean no Canadian subsidiary of an American corporation could trade with Cuba.

Canada has protested use of the act on previous occasions—in trade with Communist China—and got from the U.S. a reluctant agreement not to invoke it where it might affect the Canadian economy.

Exemption of Canadian banks from Premier Fidel Castro's nationalization moves takes on "additional significance," The Financial Times says.

"The banks are obviously to be used to finance Canadian trade with Cuba now that foreign exchange control is the government — via the price of remaining in business."

Canada's sales to Cuba, mostly newsprint, total about $16,000,000 a year while Canada purchases from Cuba total $12,000,000, half the amount being sugar.

Diefenbaker Indicates House Will Meet Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker gave a strong indication today that Parliament will meet before Christmas, suggesting at the same time that this may set a pattern for future sessions.

GETS MUSEUM POST

TORONTO (CP)—Lionel Massey, 44, Thursday was named to the newly-created post of director of administration at the Royal Ontario Museum. He is the son of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey.

Today's Chuckle

Finding a set job is the hardest work some people do.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Cold weather continues this morning but cloud masses forming over the lakes and moving inland kept temperatures from dropping to values which would have prevailed with clear skies. Nevertheless 38 - degree temperatures were general across Southern Ontario in the early morning. A few flakes of snow continue to fall sporadically from the patchy clouds.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—President Eisenhower says claims that the United States is becoming a second rate power with prestige already at an all-time low are embarrassing to the truth and irresponsible.

Retorting, Senator John Kennedy's camp accuses Eisenhower of an attack on the Democratic presidential nominee in masked such assertions and has demanded equal free television and radio time for a reply.

Roger Kent, Kennedy's California campaign chairman, contends that Eisenhower — on a non-campaign trip to Japan for which the White House has billed as non-political—made a partisan campaign speech Thursday night before San Francisco's Commonwealth Club. The presidential speech was carried by radio and television stations in the area.

DECLINES COMMENT

James Hagerty, presidential press secretary, declined comment on that charge but said there didn't know what was talking about in declaring Eisenhower had asked for free TV and radio time.

The president did not mention Kennedy by name in his talk to the Commonwealth Club dinner. Eisenhower said:

"While maintaining a healthy critical insight, let us not be misled by those who, irresponsibly, seem so fond of depreciating the standing and performance of the entire nation.

"Surely we must avoid smugness—but we must also avoid when in the face of a bright record of progress and development, we hear some misguided people say that the United States is standing still or the status of a second class power and that our prestige has slumped to an all-time low. we are simply listening to debasement of the truth."

Kennedy has contended that U.S. prestige has deteriorated during the Eisenhower administration.

The Democratic candidate has said he does not regard this country as a second rate nation. He has said the U.S. is strong but needs to be stronger in the decade ahead because of Russia's gains in military might and in its economic growth.

Court Allows Toronto Store To Be Reopened

TORONTO (CP) — Pharmacist Murray Rubin, who was allowed to reopen his business Wednesday on a Supreme Court of Ontario order, said he will open more retail outlets to save people money.

Mr. Rubin's pharmacy was closed last month after the Ontario College of Pharmacists declined his licence because the college held he was not a proprietor of a pharmacy within the meaning of the Pharmacy Act.

Mr. Justice E. G. Rowland ruled that the college had no jurisdiction in the matter and ordered it to reinstate Mr. Rubin's licence.

Mr. Rubin said he received customers by approaching doctors, hospitals and other organizations emphasizing that he is not a drug store operator on a rush order basis.

"I did all the work myself, filling orders and mailing them the same day they were received," he said. "My average saving was 25 per cent.

Team of Scientists to Learn More of Secrets of Huge Crater

PEMBROKE (CP) — A team of Canadian scientists is going to learn more of the secrets of the huge Brent crater, 75 miles northwest of Pembroke, created by a meteor plunging to earth some 300,000,000 years ago.

Dr. M. J. S. Innes, chief of the gravity study division of the federal mines department, said drilling crews during the next few weeks will attempt to locate once meteoric material at depth in the ancient phenomenon.

Dr. Innes said the crater, which has a diameter of about two miles, ranks as one of the most important geological and astronomical finds.

Sedimentary rocks were tested to determine the age of the crater, which was discovered in 1951. A sharp tug of the earth's gravitation inside the crater indicated the meteorite's presence buried rock to a great depth.

The meteorite is over the world were interested in studying the phenomenon, Dr. Innes said. "Because it's so handy to Ottawa we are planning much more work. You may not have just nicely started."

The prehistoric pockmark in the earth's surface is about the same size as the Chubb crater, now known as the New Quebec crater in northern Quebec about 130 miles south of Hudson Strait. The largest known crater in Canada is the Deep Lake crater in northern Saskatchewan which has a diameter of about eight miles.

CONSERVATIVE PARTY BRASS WILL HOLD CONCLAVE

Will Set Date For Convention

OTTAWA (CP) — Approximately 250 Progressive Conservatives meet here today at the first national conference of the federal party's executives in 11 months.

Their principal object is to set the time and place for a delegated national Progressive Conservative Association meeting, expected to be held in Ottawa next March.

Underlying purpose of the meeting is to assess the party's organization in the light of recent Liberal party and CCF-CLC meetings.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker will address a closed meeting of the national organizational committee, composed of three or four representatives from each province who are appointed as key contacts between the party leader, Mr. Diefenbaker, and the party workers in the field.

He will speak Saturday to a combined session of the organization committee and the executive officers of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

A key subject of the conference is expected to be stepping up the party's propaganda machine to get the story of Conservative accomplishments across to the electors through party channels.

MORE NEEDS DOING

Mr. Diefenbaker told an Ontario Conservative Association meeting in Toronto on Monday that more needs to be done to get the government's story across, and that the party has "just begun to fight." This is seen as the groundwork for a federal general election, although the prime minister has given no definite hint of his intentions. The current Parliament's life runs to March 31, 1963.

Volume 1, No. 2; of a new 16-page newspaper, The Conservative Canadian, with Robert Stanfield, Progressive Conservative premier of Nova Scotia, as editor, was published in July. The third issue came off the press Thursday and dealt with the strengthening of the cabinet in last week's shuffle, Mr. Diefenbaker's "great UN speech," and the "Liberal flop at Kingston."

The editorial contained a subscription form saying "These have been years in which Canadians worked more, earned more, saved more and owed more than in any comparable years in the history of Canada."

Back Seat Driver to Tell Auto Industry How to Steer

TORONTO (CP) — The most important back seat driver in Canadian automobile history may come up with the right steering directions in about five hours' time.

Prof. Vincent Bladen, who presides in his wife drive the family car, is expected by the federal government to produce solutions to the auto industry's ills after hearings that start in Ottawa next March.

He is an economist who like to walk while he thinks, dean of arts at the University of Toronto and a one-man royal commission task with finding answers for the political-economic question marks:

What's the matter with the auto industry in this country, and what to do about it?

He's tackling it this way:

Private studies, interviews, correspondence, public hearings and—the way he puts it and who he really was hired for—"contemplation."

All these, he said in an interview here, are going to take well into the new year, but he said he could not try to set a time except that he hoped it would be in the first three months of 1961.

Would it be in advance of when the federal government's tax-and-tariffing budget comes down?

Answer: "Maybe—if you can tell me the budget date."

Still arrests, the government will be looking to the 37-year-old dean's advice on taxes and tariffs concerning automobiles, re-

All Signs Point to Rough Battle in Hour-Long Debate

NEW YORK (CP)—Vice-President Nixon and Senator Kennedy meet tonight in the fourth and final debate of the campaign before the Nov. 8 presidential election. All signs point to a rough battle.

There are many observers who believe the debate starting at 8 p.m. EDT could turn the tide in favor of one candidate or the other. The program will be the same length as the first three-hour hookup.

Nixon hopes to ram home the charge that as president, Kennedy would lead the United States and the free world down the path of surrender to Communist imperialism. Kennedy hopes to convince the antipathetic 70,000,000 voters in Nixon government would be just a repeat of what they describe as Republican history of blunder, retreat and failure in dealing with the Reds.

STILL LOOM BIG

Cuba and Quemoy-Matsu are still big issues, in what seemed to be an obvious move to dull the impact of Kennedy's attack, the Eisenhower administration clamped an embargo on most trade with Cuba. Republicans charged this was too little and too late.

He demanded the U.S. help Cuba's exiled freedom fighters in a bid to topple Premier Castro in the U.S.—about $200,000,000 worth—but Nixon Republican administration had done nothing to alleviate conditions paving the way for communism in the Caribbean, he said.

Nixon figures he has an ace in the sleeve—Secretary of State Herter, former chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, Thursday night in Virginia Kennedy Supporting Nixon, he charged Kennedy's proposal to defend Chinese offshore islands — that Quemoy and Matsu are vital to the defence of Formosa—would lead to war in the Pacific.

DEFENDS NIXON

Radford refused to accept Kennedy's word that he would abide by President Eisenhower's policy on the islands—to keep the Reds guessing as to what the U.S. might do in event of attack. Claiming that many responsible military men agreed with him, Radford said Kennedy had established doubt in the minds of the Reds whether a Democratic president would defend Quemoy-Matsu. This was no more than an invitation to the Reds to seize the islands.

But Radford may have damaged his own argument by indicating that his dinner with Eisenhower administration had at one time explored the idea of giving the two islands to the Reds in exchange for a guarantee of Formosa's freedom. This apparently the Reds would not do.

If the word of the Communists could not be trusted, how could Eisenhower be sure they would abide by an agreement on the freedom of Formosa, Radford was asked. Well, in some circumstance, the word of the Reds could be accepted, he replied.

Made His Point But Went Back To Jail Anyway

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Mack Allen, a crapshooter with an unerring touch, and his three companions made their point with a Peoria County circuit court jury Thursday. But Mack went back to jail anyway.

The jury found the four not guilty of gambling after watching Allen put on a dazzling display of dice work, rolling—as he said he could—an endless string of sevens, a winning number on the first throw in a crap game.

State's attorney Eugene Pratt also was impressed with the dice throwing and immediately authorized warrants charging each man with two counts of gambling, specifically "swindling by sleight of hand."

Allen displayed his prowess with the dice Wednesday in support of his defense that he and the three others did not rob Ralph McKinzie, an Indianapolis, Ind., tourist who said he won McKinzie's $70 and his car in a poker game last June. McKinzie said he lost his car in a robbery.

Allen told the court he could throw several "all days," and, unfailingly, proceeded to throw them. Later, he began throwing any combination of the dice after calling his shots. Allen however, steadfastly refused to explain his mastery over dice.

MALAYAN P.M. CALLS FOR CLOSER FOREIGN POLICY

Says Commonwealth Should Co-ordinate

OTTAWA (CP) — A call for closer co - operation of foreign policy by the nations of the Commonwealth has been sounded by Malaya's Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

He told a press conference here Thursday that while no major issues causing deep concern in the world, Commonwealth members should consult more closely, "so that we can have a measure of agreement amongst ourselves and present a strong front on these questions."

The 58 - year - old, Cambridge-educated Malayan leader, here on a three-day goodwill visit, was asked whether his words were a call for co - ordination of Commonwealth foreign policies. He replied: Yes, as far as this can be achieved.

He was awkward to see members of the community "quarrelling violently" over an issue, as India's Prime Minister Nehru and Australia's Robert Menzies had at the United Nations Assembly in New York.

This was a reference to the recent walkout over a neutralist resolution, co-sponsored by India, calling on President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev to ease international tensions. Mr. Menzies played a leading role in the Western manoeuvring which led to the resolution's withdrawal.

Probably the Commonwealth's most vehement and unifying cause is South Africa's race segregation policies, Tunku Rahman laced into the South African government's racial policies.

British, German Experts Differ On Boom In Gold

Due Wandering Capital Or Doubt About Dollar?

LONDON (Reuter) — British finance experts today pounded over the reasons for the feverish gold speculation here that sent prices soaring as high as $6 an ounce over the fixed American government price for the metal. The gold rush on the London market this week caused repercussions and stirred anxiety over the currency crisis.

The Mexican government and a Hong Kong bank ordered a halt to the sale of gold overseas in order to stop the drain on their reserves.

Some experts urged the United States to put more of its gold hoard on the market to stop the inflationary trend.

BRING CURRENCY CRISIS

A writer in the Guardian of Manchester warned that the situation which saw gold prices soar to $41 an ounce before dropping back to $40 and $39 threatened the most dangerous currency crisis since the war.

"The only way of bringing the dollar price of gold down to the official $35 would be for the world for the United States itself to enter the market as a seller," he said. "In spite of the United States "in spite of the heavy drain of recent years," it still has the largest stock of gold in the world.

The London price of gold for $34.9125 and sells it for $35.0875.

Dudley Wall said that "the main reason for the gold rush is the sudden loss of confidence in the United States dollar."

It added that "much of the buying can be traced to American interests."

INCREASES BIGGEST

The increase in the price of gold were biggest here. But gold markets in Paris, Germany, and Italy also reported higher prices and increases business.

Stocks in gold mining firms also leaped in British, European and North American overseas markets.

In Paris, Finance Minister Wilfred Baumgartner Thursday warned speculators buying gold that they were heading for a big heading for "immense and morti-

Says U.S. Enters Mild and Brief Recession

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Industry economists today told the governme:t's Business Advisory Council the United States is entering a mild and probably brief business recession.

The group predicted the decline would cut into total production not more than about two per cent and would end by mid-1961. The study was made for the council meeting with government officials this weekend.

Although some government economists agree, others hold that a further period of "high plateau" can be expected, with no significant gains or losses over the present near - record level of prosperity.

It was known that Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson was prepared to tell the council that the economy already has passed through its "adjustment" and business can be expected to pick up.

Recession talk was stimulated by Thursday's announcement in Washington that the rate of total industrial production fell to 100,000,000 in the third quarter from the record $505,000,000,000 rate of the spring quarter.

This followed a series of official reports which disclosed that industrial production, retail sales, hourly activity, wage and salary income, and other key indicators declined in September.

The $2,000,000,000 dip is less than one-half of one per cent. But the total decline predicted by BAC economists would represent a loss of about $10,000,000,000.

Slit Boy From His Armpits to Hips, Blood Makes Warriors Bullet-Proof

ELISABETHVILLE (AP)—Two figures loomed out of the darkness at the dense bush country in northern Katanga and conferred with their halves. We made our way to a clearing where witch doctors of the Bayeke tribe conducted their bloody ritual of invincibility.

Mali tribesmen have said gunfire rained on a Baluba advance would not halt the attack because the bullets would lodge harmlessly in the rebels' bodies and could be removed later by hand.

I finally found a tribesman who said he could take fire to an invincibility ceremony.

Shortly after midnight he took me into the bush country where the two knife-bearing tribesmen had gathered.

At the ritual clearing, a boy of about 15 was placed on the ground, his wrists and ankles bound tightly. Drums began a faint glow of a small fire his eyes were dull and unseeing.

Then the dancing rite began. A boy, a group of about 10 wizened men and boys began a chorus of warriors clapped their hands in a simple rhythm and murmured a tuneless chant.

Two witch doctors chanted in unison. Their bodies swayed and they began a slow shuffle around the bound figure. Then clapping and chanting seemed to put the tribesmen in a trance.

Two tribesmen kept me mo-

To Clean up 3 Farms in Bee Preparing for Plowing Match

What might be termed an old-fashioned "bee" aimed at cleaning up the three farms north of Belleville where the International Plowing Match will be held next fall, is planned for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 13-15-16.

From 15 to 20 pieces of heavy equipment, including graders and tractors, will be used in the clean-up, the equipment being offered by neighboring townships, the county of Hastings, local implement dealers and contractors.

Next year's big plowing match is slated to be held west of No. 2 Highway in the 4th concession of where farms chosen have already seen considerable preparation for the event.

United Appeal Chairmen Given Gratifying News

Preliminary reports from the various divisional chairmen of the campaign committee of the Belleville United Appeal were heard yesterday afternoon at a luncheon meeting in the Queens Hotel. It was reported that, although it was too early to expect returns as yet from the commercial division, there were some significant indications that the humanitarian needs of the agencies have reached the hearts of some of those who are donating.

For example, it was reported that the Vagden Mills Knitting Company with its employees is the first firm to report completion of the canvass in the payroll giving division and 100 per cent participation of the employees has been achieved. It is sincerely hoped that other local firms where payroll giving is in progress will be inspired to follow suit for example, the committee was told.

The national corporations division, which has been contacting the head offices of each company for some time past, reported the encouraging information that this division has just crossed the 50 per cent mark for its objective.

There have also been some very encouraging developments, such as, for example, the young man who phoned the home of the president of the United Appeal, Mr. Archie Lewis, and explained that whereas he had contributed heretofore in the campaign, due to lengthy illness he would not be able to contribute financially this year. He, however, offered his services as a typist as he was so impressed by the present campaign address, to which he had just been listening.

Communications have also been received from the Hi-Y Girls' Club and the Key Club offering the services of their members to participate in the house-to-house bills on Tuesday, Nov. 1st.

Town Wants $1,000 Retainer From Murray

TRENTON — Five Ch.ef Cecil Ellis and Councillor C. V. Graham, chairman of the production committee to persons and property committee, last night met at Wooler with representatives of Murray Township council.

Topic of discussion was the cost to Trenton of providing fire protection to the township.

The township now pays the town $87.50 a fire-call, but the town has asked for a $1,000 annual retainer, $150 an hour for the first hour at a fire and $100 for each hour thereafter. The town says $87.50 is sufficient to meet the costs involved.

The township, however, believed it would be difficult to explain the $1,000 expenditure to its taxpayers and instead suggested an alternate proposition of paying the town more money during the first hour of fire-fighting.

No decision was reached.

John Pierson, of the provincial Department of Municipal Affairs, and Dr. W. A. L. MacDonald, chairman of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board, are shown at a special discussion meeting last night, attended by a representative group of local citizens.

Suggest Fourth Water Rate For Industries Using Over 125,000 Cu. Ft. Per Month

TRENTON — James Page, manager of the Public Utilities Commission and Clifford A. Baker, member of the commission, have recommended that a "fourth rate" be introduced into the rate schedule of the water department of the utilities. This special rate would apply only to industries using more than 125,000 cubic feet per month over the 12-month period and would, in effect, be calculated on a sliding scale so that the cost would go down with the quantity used.

The matter was discussed at last night's meeting of the commission.

The Trenton Dyeing and Finishing Company was indicated as that due to a large consumption of the utility at the present time. "It will be necessary to install a different meter for it again buy water from the utilities. The company would by-pass the filtration system if the commission did not supply the seven million gallons of water used annually by the plant at a special rate," Mr. Page pointed out. The third rate on the sliding scale is 14 cents a cubic foot. It was proposed that a fourth rate would be 12 cents a cubic foot.

No decision could be reached on the matter as A.E. Atkinson, chairman of the commission was absent from the meeting.

During the reading of accounts it was revealed that $13,000 had been transferred from the water department capital account set up some months ago to meet the debenture payment in December. Mr. Baker had proposed that monthly sums be placed in this account, to ensure that the debenture payment be ready when due and also that the commission members a more definite picture of the utility's finances. Once the plan is under way, around $3,000 will be placed in the fourth month. The sum transferred recently is due to the fact that the plan was instigated late in the year. The annual debenture payment is $33,000 and $11,000 of this is due in December.

REBATE INQUIRY

Mr. Page said that returns from the electric and water departments were down by a fair degree, indicating that less power and water was used, and due perhaps to the increased rates for both commodities, or the lack of rain. Some of the industries were working partially and domestic users were not using the same quantities of water which they did in the summer.

One of the town's insurance brokers had written, indicating that another local broker, who agreed verbally to handle the commission's insurance sharing the premiums with four other brokers, had not lived up to his agreement with them. The money had not been distributed as agreed. The commission can do little more than give moral support to the complaining brokers.

Members of the commission decided that they would have no objection to a payroll deduction plan as proposed by the Municipal Credit Union, if the employees involved would authorize the deductions in writing.

The trustees may enter a float in the Santa Claus parade if employees can be made available time to the construction of such a float. It was agreed that $25 and no more would be given towards construction of the float.

Must Change One's Thinking About Planning

TRENTON — "Every individual tends to think of planning development in the community in relation to his own problems," Dr. W. A. L. MacDonald, chairman of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board, said last night at a public meeting. He said this concept that planning must be changed for the betterment of the community as a whole.

"One's freedom to do what one likes with one's own little plot of land must go, like the steam engine of yesterday has made way for diesels," he said.

"Elected councils and planning boards must take an over-all view of the planning picture and consider the community as a whole, making decisions about individual problems."

The meeting was the third in a series aimed at acquainting the public with the concepts of town planning. A large group of citizens, selected through suggestions from persons who attended the first meeting as being persons who make decisions in Trenton, spent three hours learning about the work of the planning board and discussing town planning and the official plan with members of the board and John Pierson of the Department of Municipal Affairs, community planning branch.

Board member Donald Sutherland discussed the sociological aspects of planning. He said that in Trenton's case, an effort must be made to combine the older sections of the town with new areas, in one harmonious whole.

A. S. Robeson, board member, spoke briefly on the scientific aspects of planning. He said that in older communities, planners must seek to preserve natural features and beautiful older buildings, and combine these with more modern buildings and parklands.

"Planning is essential as roads to any town," he said.

COSTLY ERRORS

O. W. Larry, secretary and unofficial member of the board, discussed planning from the economic standpoint. He said several costly mistakes in the construction of sewage and water system could be laid on a lack of planning. Without planning, the heads of service departments in the town could not prepare budgets for development and for future development.

He said that if the public is not interested in planning from the sociological and aesthetic points of view, they should consider it from the economic view. "Bad planning affects your pocketbook," he said.

Mr. Page said that the official town plan was only as good as the view of the people living in the town. Following discussion period several questions were posed by the board.

Several controversial aspects of planning were discussed and a few persons asked what could be done to further planning in Trenton and some of the questions pointed up individual interest or the interest of the organization with which he or she is connected.

The question is how far can an individual in a group concerned with community projects project his own interests into dealings with the group, said Mr. Pierson. "Manipulating people has become big business and is a subject to all kinds of manipulation through television, radio and newspapers, as well as personal contacts. We must learn more ways of working together in a so-called democracy. we live in a to be preserved."

TORONTO STOCKS

On index, they dropped 2.85 at 12.94, with all the senior producers taking losses.

McIntyre - Porcupine dropped 1⅛ at 39⅝. Dome 1¼ at 25⅛ and Campbell Red Lake and last Yellowknife ⅛ each at 19⅝ and 12⅝.

All other sections of the stock market followed the same, down and up.

Industrials, on index, were off 8 at 483.13, base metals .85 at 11.68 and western oils .01 at 15.05.

The 11 a.m. volume was 972,000 shares compared with Thursday's 2,973,000.

Mostly 3rd industrial losers, down 1 at 43. Bathurst B jumped 4⅛ at 28 and Bathurst A gained 1 at 45.

Among base metals, Conliner, Falconbridge and Hudson Bay eased ⅛ each. Denison was the only senior uranium affected, up 20 cents at $8.90 following a favorable dividend report.

Western oils were narrowly lower but showed signs of recovery.

Speculators had a field day Thursday as golds, prompted by the phenomenal $2.50 rise in London, reached a 10-year high on index before easing off.

In London the price of gold reached a record $40 an ounce in what brokers described as the most "unprecedented" and "fantastic" day in the history of the London gold market.

Rumors were flying along Bay Street in abundance ranging from a shortage of gold in the European market to the possibility of the United States raising its official price of an ounce of gold from $35, thus devaluing the dollar.

A total of 4,185,000 shares were turned over Thursday as gold issues traded in the tens of thousands. It was the heaviest trading day on the market since April 14, 1958, when it reached 4,374,000 shares. Wednesday's volume was 2,250,000.

On index golds were ahead 3.35 at 95.39 and earlier went up to 96.80, a 10-year high. Industrials gained 1.27 at 485.81 and base metals, bolstered by golds, advanced 1.75 at 132.33. Western oils gained .34 at 82.06.

Bollinger led the senior golds' stocks ahead with a 2¾ point gain at 21⅝. Dome moved ahead 1⅛ at 26⅜ and McIntyre-Porcupine jumped one point at 39. Hollinger Addison gained ⅜ at 14¾ and Campbell Red Lake increased ⅝ at 17⅝.

Noranda, with huge interests in the uranium field, was ahead ½ at 41. Ventures gained ¼ at 25 and Rio Algom's industrial stock was up ¾ at 40¾. Hudson Bay Mining gained ½ at 44½.

Western oils were quiet.

CANCER EXPLAINED — The industrial education program of the Canadian Cancer Society has been brought to the citizens of Belleville through a mobile unit of the Ontario Division at the request of the local unit of the Society. Above, Miss Rosemary McNaughton of the Society's provincial office in Toronto has some information concerning cancer during her four-day stay at the local Northern Electric plant.

Cancer Society's Industrial Education Unit Visits Many Firms in Belleville District

An industrial education unit of the Canadian Cancer Society, Ontario Division, has been active in a number of local plants since the start of the month. Currently giving film lectures and consultations at the Northern Electric firm is Miss Rosemary McNaughton of Toronto.

Her lectures to employees give a description of the signs and symptoms of cancer and are designed to make people more aware of cancer and to understand what can be done by medicine following early detection. These lectures, which are complemented by a short film, are followed by a question and answer period. In the case of the Northern Electric, where over 1,000 employees work, the most 100 per cent. have attended these talks in the morning there has also been the opportunity for any employee to have a personal consultation with Miss McNaughton in the afternoon.

This service, which is provided by the donations received by the Ontario Division of the Canadian Cancer Society, has been well received in Belleville; "exceptionally" so says Miss McNaughton, Co-operation, she reports, has been excellent from the various companies involved.

To date the following local firms have been covered; Avon Jewellers, Deacon Brothers, Deseronto Iron Works Mills, International Hardware, and the Belleville plant. To be covered before the mobile unit leaves this area at the end of the month are the firms of Stewart Warner, Mead Johnston, Corby's and the local CNR units.

The mobile unit is a special service which may be requested by a local unit of the Canadian Cancer Society. When such a request is made a program is arranged for visits to the local industries by the Society's approved nurse from Toronto, Miss Louis Cahill. Once this program is arranged, a trained representative of the Society is sent to the area, equipped with films and pamphlets. The pamphlets are printed in the language of every ethnic group represented in Canada so that all persons may become informed about cancer.

Other groups or organizations to which lectures, films or information about cancer are given by the local unit of the Society. Each local unit has access to speakers trained in this work.

Council Amends Zoning Law, Hillcrest Folk Can Improve Their Existing Residences

Amendments to the controversial city zoning by-law No. 7023, allowing Hillcrest residents to improve or make additions to single family residential properties, were approved by Belleville city council at a special meeting held Thursday afternoon.

The amended by-law will now go to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

Temporary zoning regulations in force until the passage of yesterday's amendments in effect "froze" properties in the Hillcrest area as industrial land and under their terms owners were unable to improve their properties or make repairs if a residence was more than 50 per cent destroyed by fire.

Hillcrest residents claimed the by - law discriminatory and, following local meetings three weeks ago, stormed city hall demanding relief.

Zoning of the Hillcrest area as industrial land had been recommended by Urban Planning Consultants retained to draw up an over-all plan for the city of Belleville.

However, following opposition by Hillcrest residents, council informed its consultants that the zoning regulations were considered unfair and the amendments were agreed to by Urban Planning Consultants.

MUST BE APPROVED

Yesterday's amendments will not become law, however, until formally approved by the Municipal Board and until this approval is given, Hillcrest residents wishing to enlarge or improve their homes will have to apply to the Belleville Committee of Adjustment. Two such appeals have been granted by the committee but in order to appeal the regulations residents have to pay a fee of $25.

Until such time as the amended by-law is approved by the Board, council has asked the committee of adjustment to consider a reduction in the fee required for appeal.

Yesterday Alderman Dr. John Bayley, chairman of planning, said the zoning by-law amendments gave Hillcrest residents the right to do almost anything with their properties except build a new cabin or shanty on their present home. Sub-division is not allowed.

Will Sell 15 Dyno Houses At $4,800 Each

PETERBOROUGH — A 15-house village which once housed officials of Dyno Mines near Bancroft may become a "retirement village" or a summer retreat.

Peterborough real estate dealer John Bowes says his firm, as agent for Dyno Mines, is offering 15 $12,000 homes at $4,000 each. They are close to Cardiff township between Highway 28 and Paudash Lake, about 12 miles south of Bancroft.

Mr. Bowes said there has been sufficient interest from people wishing to buy individual homes that Dyno Mines has agreed to the plan. He said two firms offered to buy the lot of 15 homes, to move them to Peterborough or Belleville areas.

"It is quite an interesting experiment," Mr. Bowes said. "If we are successful it is going to make a terrific difference to the Bancroft area." Instead of losing people and tax dollars, the community would grow.

The village has a community water supply and paved road. Bancroft is only 20 yards away, on Highway 28. There is a school and churches in the nearby main township.

In the Dyno mines township, houses owned by Dyno Mines are rented to merchants, school teachers and others in business in the area. "That fact alone shows there is ready demand for houses in the area."

OTHER HOMES

He said other mines houses in the Cardiff town are expected to close within the next years. The houses may then be sold on a similar basis, if the staff village sale is successful.

The four-year-old houses contain five rooms each, full basements, forced air oil furnaces, and all modern conveniences.

"This is the sort of thing that's being done in Florida," Mr. Bowes said. "They are building villages out of the willderness, and there's a good demand for them."

He mentioned that deer hunting is good in the area, and the homes could be used as camps. The owners of the houses and terms can be arranged for purchase of the houses.

Rug Donated To Lions Club For New School

One of the rooms at the Rolarded Children's School on Victoria Drive in Quinte will be a nice rug for the floor due to the generosity of the Lions Club.

This was the announcement made at the regular meeting of the Stirling Lions held at the Rawdon Club on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Stirling Rawdon will henceforth be held at the school and that rug you will take place, next Thursday evening, when importa t business will be transacted. The members were informed that although the school was completed there was a lot of extra work to be done and the members promised they would give a night a week for this purpose.

It was announced that Ladies' Night for the club would be held on Remembrance Day night at the Club Cedars and that guests would be welcomed. A family that does not have one of a son in a car accident has been assisted with a food basket from the club.

During the meeting a number of guests were welcomed by the president.

Govt. Approves Grant to Repair Allan Mills Dam

It was announced today by the Hon. W. M. Nickle, Q.C., minister of Planning and Development that the Government of Ontario has approved a grant to repair the Allan Mills Dam.

Six miles south of Marmora, this dam is located on a stretch of the Crowe River where the river appears more like a lake than a river, and many residents have built their homes to blend with this setting on the creek above the dam.

During the 1959-60 winter, a large block of concrete was dislodged from the upper section of the dam with the result that the dam ceased to effectively regulate this reach of the river, the natural beauty of the reach was impaired and the water level severely lowered impeding small craft navigation.

In order for the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority to carry out its scheme of repairs, title to the dam, along with an easier access in the deed, is being provided at the annual rate of One Dollar, by the Moore Township, who owned the mills before they burned down in 1958.

The local corps will be host Cadets for an inter-corps church parade, sports day and band competition this Sunday.

Sea Cadet Corps from as far as Oshawa and Cornwall and from points in between will be well represented and well over 250 Sea Cadets and officers are expected to be present.

Plans for the event have been in the making for the past month and final details were worked out yesterday evening by the officers of "Quinte" and Mr. Peter Wills, president of the Belleville Navy League of Canada.

Division and Church parade at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental armouries on Sunday morning. From there they will march to their church parade at Christ Church and St. Michael's. Following divine services, a full scale parade, co-ordinated by Inspector Clair Hayes, will be held with three Sea Cadet bands and seven divisions participating. The parade route will take its course down Front street from the Upper Bridge past a reviewing stand just below Campbell street and east on Bridge street to the armouries. The reviewing officer will be Commander S. W. Patterson, RCN(R) of HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston, accompanied by Lt. D. Donovan.

Following the parade the officers and cadets will have their lunch at the Armouries before the sports activities of the afternoon commence. The sports events will include swimming, races, shooting and a tug-of-war and will be held at the YMCA and on the main deck of the Armouries. Takes More Than Learning

The Province of British Columbia is initiating a training program for unemployed persons. The idea behind this project is to make jobless workers more employable through raising their educational standards vocationally. Seventy-five per cent. of the cost of this plan is being paid by the federal government.

One thought behind this move is the fact that 50 per cent of Canada's unemployed have never reached grade 10 in their education.

This is a very fine project in theory but we wonder at the cost of it and whether such cost is justifiable in view of the community which some people in welfare work have made concerning an apparently growing attitude on the part of an increasing group of chronically unemployed persons.

In reference to the latter it appears that many of those now in the ranks of the unemployed plan their "jobs" so that they can "enjoy" periodically in order to enjoy the fullest possible benefits allowed under the government subsidy to the jobless. We also note a recent news report which described the lengths which these people would go to in order to stay unemployed when a job interview was arranged for them.

That good money should be spent in trying to educate this class of people appears to be little else of throwing good money after bad and we do not feel that the government should indulge in another of these projects. It is impossible to teach people one very vital qualification, industry and the will to work.

There are enough examples of people who will, at their own expense and sacrifice, return to school to further their education or training on their own initiative to suggest that the program mentioned above is superfluous. We would like to see the government providing some financial assistance for these people, if help should be provided it should be for those who have already demonstrated that they wish to help themselves.

Smile Please

"Our age," says the Woodstock Sentinel Review, "will doubtless be known as one of the smilingest, most anxiety ridden, the most grinning and the most sacred generation of modern times."

Now there's a sentence to make one sheath the back molars and snap the lips to attention.

Equating a smile with anxiety and a grin with being sacred adds something new to our thoughts about our fellows.

And when we come to think about it, there may be something to the Woodstock paper's observation.

After all, it isn't the guy who growls at the boss who is scared of being fired.

A whole new series of evaluations need to be made if we accept this interpretation of the grin and the smile.

Perhaps, there has not been a happy revolution in teacher-pupil relations in our schools. Maybe the friendly smiles on teachers' faces merely mean they are running easy courses.

And when boxers embrace with wide grins at the sound of the gong in the tenth, it may not be a sign of good sportsmanship but just an indication of how afraid they were somebody might think of a way to order you out into overtime.

Know where you can find the most smiles? In stores and restaurants. And most of the smiles are on the faces of customers. There used to be a day when waiters and clerks trembled before the possible displeasure of those they were serving, but that day has long since passed. Could it be that the smiling customer is proof of this change?

The Woodstock theory of the meaning of the modern smile and grin holds up nicely in so many places. There is, however, one well-known species of smile which refuses to fit into this picture. Ever see a bride who wasn't smiling? You cannot convince us that all these masterful young women are really frightened to death. They are no smiling young ladies from Niger, though it would perhaps be ungallant to compare their smiles to that on the face of the tiger.

If there are any brides around, we were only joking. See how widely we are grinning at our own jest.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

Sunday observance is today, be served and worshipped. We as it has always been, a matter of much discussion among the Christian liberty.

There are some who believe that the day should be rigidly kept with no activities of any kind save rest and worship.

There are others, equally sincere, who would substitute the day almost entirely. The truth would appear to lie somewhere between the two extremes. There would seem to be a principle to guide us in that Jesus said first lesson for next week, and especially having them memorize Sabbath, and certain passages of Scripture.

that the Sabbath was made for man, (Jesus himself) is Lord also of the Sabbath. We are not to use the day as an institution to be memorialized.

We are to use the day as a means of ministry to rest and a God-given opportunity for worship.

Sunday should be a glad day. It should be a day of great joy. It does. It should not be a time when parents take personal advantage of their children to get a bit of extra re-

Tomorrow we shall ask ourselves what passages of Scripture we are not to learn more advantageously memorized.

Miracles of the Universe
The Moon

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with mysteries of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 5

The Moon has long been associated with the mystic, the romantic and the superstitious, and with a spell in the space race. It has meant different things at different times in man's history. By predicting an eclipse of the Moon, Columbus is said to have frightened the Apache Indians to believe that he was a God, a gesture which produced not only awe but gifts.

The Moon in fact is merely a satellite circling around the planet Earth just as the Earth itself a planet circling around the Sun. Many people seem to believe that the Moon circling around the Earth is unusual but it is not. The planet concept of the Universe is the most natural, as we shall later discuss.

Many scientists believe that there are billions of other planets circling around the sun somewhat like our Earth and clearly even in the nearer stellar space we see 30 moons circling the other eight planets. Moons are in a sense, planets that are "never quite made the grade." Mars has two, Jupiter has 12, Saturn has nine, Uranus has five, Neptune has two and Pluto, the farthest planet, may itself have been a moon of Neptune which escaped from its real distance to a layman, between a planet and a moon is that a moon circles around a planet whereas a planet circles around a star.

The Moon in terms of distances in the universe is very close to the Earth and can be seen with the naked-eye as it reflects the Sun's light. (To a person standing on the Moon the Earth would look 50 times brighter than the Moon looks to us here on Earth). Because the Earth nor the Moon have light of their own, they live in the glow of the Sun and reflect its light. Because the Moon is near the Earth can be seen from very far away in terms of space-distances, because it is the size and glow of the Sun as well as their own reflection.

The Moon is relatively small (2160 miles in diameter) so that if one stood on its surface the horizon would be very close at hand and thus a moving object on the surface of the Moon, would very quickly go out of sight. (The Sun's diameter is 860,000 miles, that of the earth, 8,000).

The theory of the origin of tides suggested that at one time the Moon was as close as 11,000 miles to the Earth and as it circled around the Earth, it caused violent abundant tidal waves in the plastic surface of the still hot Earth, twice each day. Gradually, the Moon moved out farther and farther from the Earth, (today, 238,000 miles distant. Interestingly enough, the Moon seems closer than that of the Earth and does in fact appear so because it really revolves around the Earth in an orbal shaped like an egg (ellipsoid). The Earth itself has a strong gravitational pull on the Moon, which, though small, is the tides all around the Earth.

The Earth has a rigidity greater than steel, but, nevertheless, the Moon can pull the Earth's surface towards the Moon by about one foot. It just lifts the surface, atmosphere, oceans, mountains and all. We are aware of the effect of the water tides which we can see and which are larger than the "land tides."

At the moment, the Moon is receding away from the Earth, but sometimes writers believe that some day the Moon will stop receding and be attracted back. At the Moon comes over the crest of the gravitational pull will shatter it like hitting the light bulb with a sledge hammer. The Moon would be rent into bits and the bits would then circle around the Earth like the rings which form a halo around Saturn. A fascinating new sight but a ghastly blow to astronomers (and astrologers!).

The Moon's surface is covered by craters. Some crater walls are gentle slopes you'd hardly notice walking over the terrain, some have steep walls over 20,000 feet high. Some craters are 30 to 150 miles across. There are innumerable of tiny craters called "crateriete" which may measure down to a few yards across.

MOON CRATERS

Some of the craters occur in what seem to be straight lines. The cause of craters have been variously described. Some say that craters were caused by meteor showers. Some say they are dead volcanoes. (Certainly there is no evidence of recent volcanic activity). Some say by the explosion

King Geo. H-S. Assoc. Holds Interesting Meet

The October meeting of King George Home and School Association was held recently in the school auditorium. Mrs. C. Scott opened the meeting.

For the devotional period, Mrs. Arnold Downes, the kindergarten teacher, sang "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. E. Burkitt.

Mrs. Scott welcomed the parents to the first general meeting of the new term and told them how important their presence is at every meeting.

The executive members and room mothers were introduced to the parents by Mrs. Scott. School principal, Mr. R. Moorcroft, was introduced and gave a short talk on school functions and explained why lunch room facilities could only be used by children who live a great distance from the school.

EXPLAINS FUNCTIONS

Mr. Moorcroft introduced the teaching staff for the new term. Mrs. Watson, branch chairman for Belleville and district United Nations Children's Fund, explained the functions of this charitable organization and how even pennies could supply children in foreign countries with the necessary medicine to cure their diseases.

A vote was taken, and it was unanimously agreed upon to allow the children in King George School to contribute to Hallowe'en for UNICEF.

The room contest was taken with the junior banner going to Mrs. Burkitt's room, and tie for the senior banner between Mrs. McKeown's class and Mr. Moorcroft's class.

GUEST SPEAKER

The speaker for the evening, Mrs. R. Middleton, was introduced by Mrs. Scott and gave a most enjoyable talk. She had many suggestions for the parents as well as the teachers as to how to prepare the children to be useful and successful citizens of the future.

Mrs. Middleton's talk was interspersed with many witty and humorous remarks as well as quotations of poetry. This was much enjoyed by all those present.

The speaker was thanked by Mr. R. Lee who noted that Mrs. Middleton had greatly helped to make this a lively and interesting meeting.

Refreshments were served by the executive.

Would Arrest Guy Burgess If He Returned

LONDON (AP)—British officials indicated Thursday night that Guy Burgess would be arrested if he tried to return to Britain.

Burgess, employed by the British foreign office, fled nine years ago. He was a gate crasher at a Western party in Moscow Wednesday night.

Western reporters wrote that Burgess told them he would like to take a vacation trip to Britain, but only if he was allowed to return to Moscow.

Wes went right on working when Jim came in. "Trying to smarten up the old table," he said, carefully placing a square tile on the cemented surface. "It's Jess's idea."

His friend watched for some minutes and then jotted down some figures. "Smaller tiles would look better," he commented. "If they were half an inch less each way, you'd need two hundred more to just cover the top. It would have been worth the extra work."

"Not less than that, to be precise," Wes smiled. "These tiles use only in exact inches, so it isn't possible."

So he was that! But what size tiles was Wes using?

Livestock, Hay and Grain Lost in Shannonville Fire

An overheated electric motor on a baled hay elevator is believed responsible for a farm fire which destroyed a barn and pig pen along with 9,000 bales of hay and 4,000 bushels of grain at Shannonville early Thursday afternoon.

The burned barn was owned by Hugh Hinchey and was rented by his brother Damon Hinchey. Lost in the blaze along with the hay and grain was the hay elevator, three baby beef, a sow and nine small pigs owned by Mr. Hinchey's son.

A nearby pigpen was also lost in the blaze but eight nearly grown hogs were driven to safety before the flames enveloped the building. Belleville firemen answered the call for assistance, but were unable to do anything to save the barn.

Mrs. Hinchey told The Ontario Intelligencer today that the men had been working during the morning drawing in the baled hay.

Wedding

PEARSALL — BROWN

Baskets of pink stock and white chrysanthemums formed a lovely background at the First United Church, Amelias burg, for a recent autumn wedding when Miriam Irene Brown, Carrying Place, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Harvey Brown, was united in marriage by the Rev. H. Rippon, of Redeemed, to Gordon Lyle Pearsall of Bloomfield, R.R. 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pearsall.

Mrs. Harmon Montgomery rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Donald Rathbun, who sang before the ceremony, "With This Ring, I Thee Wed" and "Because," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her waltz-length bridal gown of white silk organza featuring a gathered bodice having a Chantilly lace collar which dipped to the waistline at the back. Her headdress was in picture style, adorned with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, with a bow-length veil of tulle illusion. She carried a cascade of red roses and white carnations.

Miss Beverley MacKenzie, of Carrying Place, as maid of honor was attired in pale blue organza fashioned by a darker blue velvet cummerbund. She wore a white feather hat and gloves and carried a bouquet of pink and white 'mums.

Miss Jean Waterhouse, of Ameliasburg, cousin of the bride, and Miss Olive Brown, of Carrying Place, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. The former was in pink organza, with white feather hat and gloves and the latter in pale rose organza, with white feather hat and gloves. Both bridesmaids' gowns were fashioned similarly to that of the maid of honor. They carried bouquets of blue and white 'mums.

Mr. John Haagsma of Hillier, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Andrew Paskkins, of Yarker, Ontario, and Mr. David Courneyea, of Toronto, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parlors, where the wedding turkey dinner was catered by Victoria W.A.

The bride's table was prettily appointed in the traditional manner, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, with pink and white streamers. The bridal bouquets lent an additional novel accent. The guest tables were also attractively appointed with floral centres of pink and white gladioli and 'mums.

The bride's mother received the guests attired in a green-flowered corded silk ensemble in sheath style, with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses. Assisting her in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, wearing a dusty-rose crepe sheath with lace bodice, matching hat, beige accessories, and corsage of deep rose-toned Sweetheart roses.

For travelling to Niagara Falls, New York, and other western points, the bride chose a navy blue sheath with matching duster, white accessories, and corsage of white and pink carnations.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Stewart Chase, with Mrs. Harry Chase as co-hostess; at another miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Harmon Montgomery, with Miss Audra Brickman as co-hostess

University Women's Club Holds Panel Discussion on 'Teaching French in Elementary Schools'

The Teaching of French in Elementary Schools, its Associated Problems and Qualifying Results" was the subject for a panel discussion at the monthly meeting of the University Women's Club on Thursday evening in the St. Thomas' Parish Hall.

The members of the panel were: Mrs. J. Boyce, teacher of French at Fort Henry Heights; Mrs. H. J. Thorburn, lecturer at Queen's University; Mr. J. Kells, superintendent of Belleville Public Schools; and Mr. H. Hackett, principal of Queen Alexandra School, Belleville.

LAGRE TO LEARN

Mrs. Boyce, who also acted as moderator of the panel, said that the small children at her school were eager to learn French and the parents enthusiastic about the idea. She said that she made it interesting to build up a functional vocabulary. For instance, numbers were learned by playing bingo; fluency and good enunciation were acquired with the aid of nursery rhymes.

According to Mrs. Thorburn, According to Mrs. Thorburn, "If children started learning French early in grade 3, there was too little time to study the language thoroughly. It was an established fact that children learn languages easily at the age of 6 or 7 but that this ability decreased at the age of 10 or 11. It did not depend on the general intellectual capacity of the child, but on his natural apathy to imitate an accent or to memorize.

OWN MODE OF EXPRESSION

Mrs. Thorburn said that each nationality had its own mode of expression in its particular language. A knowledge of French would certainly promote better relationships and understanding between English and French Canadians.

Mr. Hackett questioned the necessity of a second language being valid. He said it would be of some importance from the cultural point of view but not from a local standpoint. Some children did not learn or remember anything easily. There would also be a difficulty as to who knew what to introduce the French classes — at kindergarten level or later. If French were introduced in the primary grades, it might necessitate the elimination of some other subject. It would also be difficult to obtain enough teachers who were adequately qualified to teach French.

Mr. Kells said that in 16 out of 37 Ontario cities, French was being taught in the Public School. In only one city it was being taught as part of the regular curriculum, but the others all piled extra curricular methods.

He said that it was not certain that pupils who had received French instruction in Public School showed real evidence of its advantage once they reached the High School level. Only 1 per cent of the total elementary school children in Ontario was receiving French instruction and he also stressed the difficulty of obtaining sufficient competent teachers. The Department of Education was not enunciating in the St. Thomas' Parish tion in English speaking communities in Belleville there had been no official move towards the teaching of French in Public School and if such a move were made, there would have to be a careful investigation into the methods of organizing such classes.

A most stimulating question period followed the panel discussion.

Mrs. J. E. Pugh thanked the speakers and said the hoped public opinion would be roused to such an extent that the Belleville children would have the advantage of French instruction in public school.

Before the panel discussion, the business section of the meeting was conducted with Mrs. A. Lewis in the chair, in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. E. Kettner, who is ill.

On November 9th, the University Women's Club of Kingston is holding a panel discussion of the subject, "Has Democracy Failed Us?" Mrs. Kerr invites members of the Belleville University Women's Club. Mrs. A. Gillie and Mrs. J. Boyd, will be on the panel.

Question . . . Some friends of mine who live at a distance are coming to town. I am giving a small party for them. Do I mention on the small handwritten invitation that it is being given in their honor? If so, what do I say?—Mrs. G.M.C., Boston, Mass.

Answer . . . At the top of the card write "To meet Mr. and Mrs. John Doe." Another informal expression that is gaining favor today, and of which I highly approve because it sounds so friendly, is the phrase "In compliment to." The wording "In honor of" is preferred for the formal invitation, but is not generally used for the informal type of which you speak.

Question: When addressing wedding invitations, if the outside envelope reads "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith" the inside envelope should read "Mr. and Mrs. Smith. I'm right in this am I not? But, if the addressee is a close friend or a relative, might the inside envelope read "Mary and John" or "Uncle John and Aunt Bess"? It seems so very formal to use the Mr. and Mrs.

Mrs. C. S.

Answer: It should be formal. There is no invitation more formal than that for a wedding. Even though those addressed may be relatives or close friends all should still be "Mr. and Mrs." on the inside envelope. For two reasons: One, to maintain the formal prestige that this great occasion demands, and two, the recipients will probably want to keep it as a momento. "Mary and John" doesn't add to the dignity which should be observed in this case. Otherwise, your assumption of how to address both the outside and inside envelopes is correct.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marie C. — Shoes his retirement be slik around in a daze.

Albert C. — Her nagging is no help I'm deciding what to do.

* * *

Marie C. — My husband is 67 and we've been married 38 years. Our two sons are married and live in distant cities. We have seven grandchildren. The problem is that my husband retired two years ago and doesn't know what to do with himself.

To make matters worse, I'm not at all ready to retire myself. I'm 59 and have a part-time job I adore. I sell millinery in a high-fashion shop, and I meet such lovely people. But at first I took time out to be his companion on a few trips and on long visits to the children. Last year we spent 10 weeks on a trip to Europe.

But now what? I feel guilty running off and leaving him just sitting there watching television. Should I quit my job and stay home to play cards with him and go to the park and feed the squirrels?

There's no money problem. It's just that I with he'd find a real interest to occupy him the way my work fascinates me.

* * *

Albert C. — For over 40 years I worked hard selling insurance. That's one thing I know well. Now that I've retired, I just want to loaf and my wife won't let me. It bothers her.

I'll probably get around to trying a few new things. Maybe I'll join a club at the "Y" or sign up to learn auto mechanics. But she's rushing me. I still haven't had my fill of just doing nothing.

The other afternoon I felt like seeing a matinee. I hate going places alone. I thought in my latter years I'd have my wife at my side as my pal and companion. But no. She'd rather be with those empty - headed primping customers.

If it bothers her having me around all the time, it's just too bad about her. It's my home, too, she'd better remember.

* * *

The Council: We sense a certain edginess on both sides here which indicates that neither Mr nor Mrs. C. is sure of being right and therefore each is unduly defensive. Surprisingly, that's a good omen for change.

There's no reason for Marie to feel guilty about continuing in a pursuit she enjoys. Marriage, from beginning to end, is meant to be a mutually enriching and fulfilling framework for living. One partner, self-pampering and pettish, cannot arbitrarily turn marriage into a prison. It seems that Marie has gone as far as she can to solve Albert's retirement dilemma. From here on anything she says is — or sounds like — nagging. Her next move must depend on Albert.

The question is, will he move? And when? His trance-like existence suggests that he's in the throes of plain old jitters, the kind we seize a motorist when he faces a five-way intersection and he can't see behind him are honking wildly. In his third year of "roofing" we wonder whether he likes it as much as he claims.

One thing is certain, Albert needs a program, even if sitting at the television set for hours is part of it. And his program must include some communion with his fellow man and some outgoing activity, least his physical, mental and emotional faculties shrivel. And there are so many possibilities! Besides joining a club or taking a course, there are new hobbies to explore (a hospitalized aunt wished to serve, important "causes" to promote. How about Albert sharing the "one thing" he knows well and giving a course in insurance to the housewives and teenagers of his church? And, of course, there's always the possibility of returning to work on a reduced scale.

When Albert "finds himself" in this new context, we feel he'll find Marie, too, right there beside him, ready to root for his second chapter. But he must outline it himself. Then she can remove herself a loving collaborator.

Club Activities

HALLOWAY KUM DOUBLE CLUB

The Thanksgiving meeting of the Halloway Kum-Double Club was held at the home of Coleman and Verna Townsend.

A fine worship service was presented by Bill Snider with hymns and readings, appropriate to the Thanksgiving theme. Psalm 34 was read responsively.

The Rev. R. F. Darke gave a thought-provoking talk on "Our Obligations" in return for the many blessings received.

Others who assisted in the service were: Lois Morgan, Lorna Hough and Harry McMullen.

The president, John Wilson, conducted the business. Tickets were on sale for the masquerade at Tobe's. Next meeting will be at Gene and Audrey Kelly's.

A contest to be answered by the Christian names of members was prepared and presented by B. Snider.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time was enjoyed.

Letter: I am enclosing a recipe for an Indian Chutney, which came to my Mother about 50 years ago from Ceylon . . . For anyone who likes HOT chutney this is quite something. Several of my friends are quite devoted to it. Personally, I can barely taste it without choking but I am not a "hot pickle" fan . . . Phyllis C.

INDIAN CHUTNEY (very hot)

- 1 oz. dry mustard

- 2 cloves garlic

Peel, core and slice apples, chop onions, mince garlic and cook all together with salt, sugar and vinegar until soft enough to pass through fine sieve. Stir in chopped raisins and spices and mix well. Let stand in a warm room until next day. Then bottle. P. S. for obvious reasons I do not let the chutney stand overnight, but put into sterile sealers as soon as cooked. It makes grand Christmas gifts.

Answer: Thanks, Phyllis — we have plenty of readers who love "hot stuff".

Ready For Big Race

U.S-Owned Horses Dominate Field

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The 52nd annual running of the Canadian championship, a $60,000 added stakes that is fast gaining a reputation as providing a rich pay day for American owners, will be held at suburban New Woodbine track Saturday. As usual, U.S.-owned horses dominate the field.

About the only distinctive Canadian theme about the mile-and-furlong race over a grass course is the purse, which will be in the neighborhood of $46,000 Canadian currency to the winning owner. Fourteen horses may start and of that bunch eight belong to American and only one is a Canadian-bred.

The lone homebrew, a five-year-old gelding named Major Turley, is owned by F. M. Clark Jr. of Meadow Lake, Sask. It'l, a filly from Chile. In 1957 the was bred in British Columbia winner was American-bred Spi-and bought last year from its nacy; in 1958, Irish - bred Jack breeder, Donald B. Carley of Victoria.

The others are of American, Irish, British and French ancestry. This has been the story since 1956 when the Jockey Club took it over and made the autumn classic the second richest in Canadian racing. It is topped in Canada only by the Queen's Plate.

In 1958, it was won by Eugenia Keich and last year, English-bred Martini II.

CANADIAN WON IN 1958

For the record, the last Canadian-owned and Canadian-bred horse to win was Nephisto, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto and bred by Col. R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, Ont. That was in 1950.

Heading the list of owners Saturday are Mr. and Mrs. Allie Reuben of Toledo, Ohio, proprietors of the famed Hasty House Farms. Other American owners include Jim Norris, the Chicago sports promoter with Rocky Royale; James Bogdan, also Chicago, with Active Crater; J. C. McCue, New York, with General Arthur, and Dr. F. C. Recio, Miami, with Noble Sel. The Reubens, who won the race in their first appearance in 1958 with Jack Kelch and followed a year later with Martini II, have two definite starters—the French-bred Merry Top II and Martini II.

One of the big Canadian-owned threats is Tall Chief II, eight-year-old Irish-bred entered by Max Bell of Calgary. Bell bought him at the Newmarket sales from the late Aly Khan for what he says "not more than $30,000."

Other Canadian-owned entries are: Prompt Haro, American-bred six-year-old owned by Peter Del Greco, Toronto; Grand Canyon, another American bred owned by Ken Kelman, Toronto; Calais II, English bred from the M. J. Boyles stable in Toronto and Stratus and Grey Monarch, both foaled in England and owned by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor. Post time is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. EDT.

Bill DeWitt Leaves Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—A return to stability instead of continued upheavals is the Detroit Tigers' aim now that their front office rift has been settled with the departure of Bill DeWitt as president.

DeWitt resigned Thursday in an anticipated move and new owner John E. Fetzer established himself in a one-man command. The departing president spurned Fetzer's offer that DeWitt become assistant to the president.

Fetzer promises to end the changes that have brought a rotation of Tiger presidents, general managers and field bosses since 1952. The new Tiger president—fourth in five years—said he wants to halt the "one-man-a-year-every-year policy" that has turned the once - stable Detroit franchise into a "Who's running us now?" outfit.

The Tiger executive selects to pilot the 1961 Tigers will be the eighth manager in 16 years. Fetzer appointed former general manager Rick Ferrell as his emissary to screen prospective pilots.

"We want to change our policy," said Ferrell, who'd been ousted from his general manager's duties April 5 by DeWitt. "We'd like to find a good man for the job and then give him a long-term contract. . . .

"I'd say there are about a dozen bonafide applicants — and no, Casey Stengel (deposed New York manager) isn't among them."

The Tiger managerial job was vacated when Joe Gordon quit Oct. 2 to become pilot at Kansas City. Gordon had held the job only two months, coming from Cleveland in the DeWitt - sponsored managerial deal for Jimmie Dykes.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Next Wednesday night down Montreal way, M'sieu Roberto Clercuix, current president of Canadian heavyweights, tangles with Cowboy Buddy Turman, who hails from Noonday, Texas, which, pardner, is but a Texan jackrabbit's hop from Cut 'n Shoot, the whistlestop where Rev Harris lives with his pappy and brethren.

As is the custom with promoters, public relations blokes, and others outside the fistic circle but close to the money ring, a cosy get-together was held the other night with the boys and the typewriters and microphones as special guests.

As is the conventional native of the Lone Star State, Two-Gun Turman is no shrinking violet. He admitted that with himself as the opposition, the bout should be a better drawing card and a better fight than the near-comedy act staged by the Quebec champion and the pride of Toronto, one, George Chuvalo.

The tough from Noonday, an uninhibited character, told the boys that he had scored 24 knockouts and didn't keep a scrapbook because his family couldn't cut clippings. He added that he had a son two and one-half years of age who was a cinch to become the governor of Texas.

A report from the get-together stated Turman is built along the lines of the former Windsor-Ottawa football star, Tony Golab, who is six and one-half feet high and four foot square, and talks as fast as that silver-tongued orator and Edmonton Terror, Gene Kiniski.

But what Turman did not tell the press boys was that he and light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore do not rate M'sieu Clercuix too high in fistic circles. In fact the Texas Terror must figure the Habitant slightly more, just slightly, than a pushover.

And Mr. Moore must feel likewise for both he and Turman have signed contracts to fight at Dallas, Texas, November 21.

Now that's right magnificent of Ole Archie. He should not even nip the good Canadian hands which on three occasions brought him here, helped him pack three suitcases with good Canadian long green and sent him rejoicing on his merry way back to California.

The Noonday (population 161) cowboy, it is revealed, won a decision over Clercuix in a Madison Square Garden fray some time back. He figured that, like Ole Arch, he can bash any upstart Canuck to the canvas in a return match and continue his march to heavyweight honors by taking on Moore on the abovementioned date.

For it seems that Archie has been having difficulty keeping his whalebone and other parts of his easy-listing anatomy down to the light-heavy proportions. The secret reducing formula he extracted from an Australian aborigine some years ago is losing its potency and Archie's battle of the bulge is becoming a losing one.

So there seems some doubt that the venerable patriarch that Moore will ever be able to defend his light-heavyweight crown, because of weight-making difficulties, but will fight as a heavyweight in future.

On the other hand if M'sieu Clercuix can convince the Noonday son that he made a big mistake in assuming that the upcoming argument is just a bowl of pea-soup, and gets the nod over the Texan, he might get the Dallas shot at Moore.

After all, Clercuix is no strange name to Cut-'n-Shoot natives, the bull 363 o' 'em, for didn't he knock out Rev Harris, one first fistic citizen of the state in their first meeting.

Texas promoters have, in fact, thrown out some offers to Clercuix, but the big French-Canadian prefers to fight in Montreal. However, if he beats Turman, the offers will be upped by the Texas promoters and Clercuix could get himself a right big payday.

Whitby All But Out

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

TORONTO — A last minute decision by the Belleville McFarland saved senior hockey in Eastern Ontario from oblivion here last night.

There will be hockey in Belleville.

Oakville, Welland and Galt are definite starters. Whitby will give a decision on Monday.

Mayor H. J. McFarland, contacted at the last minute by manager Keith MacDonald and coach Gordie Bell said:

"Go ahead with a four-team league. I want to keep hockey alive in Belleville, and I hope to do better next year."

The fate of hockey in the Eastern group of the OHA Senior division hung in the balance for three hours at a meeting here last night.

Whitby's Sandy Air, with Fred Eicher and Ray Jones, told the meeting that they could not enter a team at the moment.

Galt, Oakville, who wanted a shorter schedule, were willing to go along. Welland, not represented, was agreeable to a longer schedule.

In a desperate effort to save the Eastern situation, OHA's convener Lorne Cook backed by business manager Bill Hanley, offered to send a representative of the OHA to Whitby to contact players.

FOUR-TEAM LEAGUE

At this point there was a deadlock. Oakville wanted a shorter schedule. Nobody wanted to say it but in the face of the uncertainty of Whitby, there was the question of a four-team league in case Whitby could not enter a club.

Whitby's Sandy Air said that everything had been all right up to a few nights ago.

"I had Long John Henderson and others working with us, then one by one they faded out. We were left with but a few," Ray Jones backed the statement.

After lengthy discussion, it was agreed by both club representatives and members of the OHA that a member of the governing body be sent to Whitby to contact players, etc.

Belleville's Keith MacDonald then moved that Whitby be given to Monday night to enter or else.

A question from the press drew the answer from Belleville that it could not enter a team in a four-club group.

Oakville and Galt were hesitant on the matter. But it was evident they would favor the idea inasmuch as it would mean a shorter schedule.

At this point the fate of the league hung in the balance.

Apparently it was up to Belleville.

Coach Gordie Bell and manager MacDonald at that point asked to withdraw from the meeting.

They contacted Mayor H. J. McFarland and came back with the statement that Belleville would play in a four-team circuit with hope Whitby would add to it.

OHA Past President and convener of the group Lorne Cook did a magnificent job. At times when argument from all clubs on many matters, especially Whitby, aroused he showed the qualities of his executive ability. He did much to smooth troubled waters.

There will be a change in schedule. This will be announced immediatey.

Thunderbirds Move Into Third Place

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds leaped into a third - place tie with a 5-3 victory over first-place Hull - Ottawa Canadiens Thursday night in a game that set an Eastern Professional Hockey League record for penalties during a riotous first period.

Referee Vern Buffey handed out a total of 118 minutes of penalties in the period, 114 in a free-for-all by players of both teams that held up the game 30 minutes.

The total far surpassed the previous record of 76 minutes in a period set Dec. 30, 1959 in a game between the Canadiens and Montreal Royals.

The Birds were assessed 71 minutes of the first-period total. All but three were four minors, six majors and eight misconducts. Things simmered down considerably after a rough and there was only one other penalty in the rest of the game, a third-period minor.

Sault Ste. Marie moved into a tie with the Royals in handing the high-flying Canadiens their first loss of the year. The Thunderbirds got their final goal after Hull - Ottawa coach Glen Skov pulled goaltender Ed Johnson and Fred Hills scored in the open net with 13 seconds left.

Cliff Pennington received six stitches in his mouth after a fight as part of the first-period rhubarb with Sault defenceman Bob Wilson. He missed the remainder of the contest.

Centre Bob Rousseau, last year of the Brockville Junior Canadians, scored three goals in his losing cause. Other Sault scorers were Dusty Blair, Wilson, Ed Kachur and Don Grosso. It was Grosso's first professional goal, after playing last season with St. Catharines Teepees.

A crowd of 2,699 watched the third game in the Ontario Pro Thunderbirds, who lost their first three games.

Ralph Houk To Run Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Houk is going to run New York Yankees his own way.

Houk, 41, made that plain Thursday after he was named to succeed Casey Stengel, 70, as manager of the American League champions.

"Casey was a great manager," said Houk, a coach under Stengel. "I learned a lot from him . . . but that doesn't necessarily mean I'm going to operate in every respect the way he did."

Houk, never more than a third-string catcher in eight years as a player with the Yankees, was signed for a reported $50,000 a year, less than half the $85,000 paid Stengel. The contract—at his request—was limited to a single year.

"If my employers aren't satisfied with the work I've done after my first year, then I don't want to be back the following year," he said.

"Furthermore, I was told I'd have complete authority. That's the way it's got to be.

"I intend to run the ball club my way. I intend to make all the decisions. I'll decide who will play with nobody else. You can bet assured that's the way I'll manage."

"I know there will be a lot of pressure on me, after following a man like Casey," he said, "but I'm not worried in the least. I've got a good ball club. After all, we're the American League champions and we've got the nucleus of a fine team."

Houk's previous managerial experience was at Denver in the American Association, where he led the Bears to a third place finish and two second place finishes in three years. He was brought back to the Yankees as a coach in 1958.

Detroit Wings Blank Boston 5-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Penalty boxes around the National Hockey League are being crowded these days and official statisticians are being kept busy compiling penalty records of the league's so-called "bad men."

In the Boston - Detroit game Thursday night which Red Wings won 5-0, referee John Ashley set the lieasmen had their hands full when a wild - swinging melee broke out in the second period.

When gloves and hockey sticks were sorted out, six major penalties were called, three against each team.

Boston's Fernie Flaman, Vic Stasiuk, Bronco Horvath and Detroit's John McKenzie, Norm Ullman and Gerry Odrowski all received major penalties and were banished to the penalty box at the same time.

WINGS NOW THIRD

Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio, Murray Oliver, Gerry McNamara and John McKenzie scored for the Wings, who moved into third place with seven points, three less than the league-leading Montreal Canadiens.

Boston is last with four points. Howe, who also picked up an assist, and linemate Norm Ullman who also assisted on a goal, moved into a four-way tie for second place in the scoring race with the Canadiens Bernie Geoffrion and Henri Richard. All have 19 points each.

Wednesday, New York Rangers and Chicago's Reggie Fleming starred in another donnybrook that saw Fleming, a first - year man in the league, break a long standing penalty record set by Ted Lindsay in 1952.

In all, eight majors, one misconduct, one game misconduct and a minor penalty were called against Fleming and Rangers' Dean Prentice, John Hanna and Eddie Shack.

The big fight took place in the third period, after Fleming and Prentice had paired off--and received majors--in the early minutes of the second period.

SUDDEN CHANGE

In one step, Fleming — who had no penalties before the game--took the league lead with 30 minutes, surpassing by seven minutes the one-game record of 30 set by Lindsay.

During the game, 86 minutes in penalties were called against both teams. These included four minors, eight majors, one misconduct and one game misconduct.

However, these figures weren't near the records set by Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens Dec. 13, 1953 in Toronto.

On that night, referee Frank Udvari called 39 penalties — a record including 17 minors, four majors, and 15 misconducts--another record--for a total of 204 minutes, also a record.

The third period alone saw Canadiens and Leafs receive 154 minutes, another record. Some 36 penalties were handed out during the period.

Fleming Sets NHL Record For Penalties

MONTREAL (CP)—Reg Fleming, a rookie defenceman with Chicago Black Hawks who had a minor league reputation as a brawler, has got off on the right foot—or worst foot in the National Hockey League.

Fleming, a 26-year-old Montreal native, set an NHL record Wednesday night in New York when he was assessed a total of 37 minutes in penalties in a game against the Rangers.

His total was seven minutes more than the previous one-game record set by veteran batter Ted Lindsay in 1952 in a game between Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs. Lindsay, who holds the league record for total career penalties, retired last season.

Oddly, Fleming had received no penalties in five previous games with the Hawks but got one minor in a three-game trial with the Montreal Canadiens last season.

His record total was made up of one two-minute minor, three five-minute majors, a 10-minute automatic misconduct following the second major and an automatic game misconduct—counted as 10 minutes—after the third major.

No one was counting the five-foot, eight-inch, 170-pound Fleming of being a bully. His three majors were for fights with Dean Prentice, Ed Shack and John Hanna, all bigger than him though he outweighs Prentice by five pounds.

In four previous seasons as a pro Fleming had more than 90 minutes in penalties each season with his personal record a whopping 227 minutes in 1957-58 during 61 games with Shawinigan Cataracts of the old Quebec Hockey League.

BCI Wins Two From Picton

By PETER CARYER

Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School swept both games from Prince Edward Collegiate Institute in a Bay of Quinte C.O.S.S.A. football doubleheader played yesterday at Moira. The local junior's copped an easy win in the first game 35-0 and then pulled through on the long end of a 19-14 score in a very close and thrilling game.

JUNIOR GAME

BCI took command of the game right from the start. Adams booted a long kick that rouged Picton back in the end zone for one point. Belleville showed a very good ground game moving to the Picton 35-yard line. Bob Ridley, behind good blocking scampered to the pay dirt on a counter play, account for the winner's first touchdown. Adams kicked the extra point to give Belleville an 8-0 lead at quarter time. Both teams battled through a scoreless second quarter but BCI threatened when Adams took a shot at the quarterback Bob Jeffery and forced the ball to Picton's 30, just as he was tackled. He latter allied the ball to Soule who had a good run but was hit just as he made inside the touch line on the 10-yard line. The Picton line held, leaving the score 8-0 at half time.

Belleville's Bob Burr ran 325 yards to Picton's 40 to start the third quarter, then Larry Soule, one of the game's stars, lagged it around the end for a 40-yard major. The attempt for extra point was blocked. BCI again moved the ball. This time it was Ridley to the lower 15. Roger Ling carried to the four and Billy Rushlow went over for the touchdown. The convert was no good. Picton's George Sainsbury ran 40 yards to BCI's 45. Penalties gave Picton the ball on the 20 with five, but the BCI line held for three of four downs to play ending the game. Soule, Ridley and Rushlow had the BCI majors, while Lyle Adams booted a single and a convert.

SENIOR GAME

This game was a thriller from start to finish, and close right to the end. BCI hit hard at the first as good plunges by Brian MacKenzie and Bill Lattimer moved the ball to the Picton 30. Then Moe Hunter scampered around the end for the touchdown. The convert attempt was no good. Hunter made another spectacular run, this time he took a short pass and ran forty-five yards for the TD. Again the convert attempt was no good. Picton threatened near the end of the second quarter when quarterback Rick Lee threw a lovely fifty-five yard pass to Kennedy on the Belleville twenty. However, the BCI line held and they led 12-0 at half time.

BCI seemed to lose steam in

Class of Car Is Abolished

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario region of the body governing Canadian sports car racing has adopted a resolution abolishing a class of car that makes up the bulk of entries at race meets.

Canadian Automobile Sport Clubs officials confirmed Thursday that they voted at their annual meeting in Kitchener last weekend to rule out improved production cars for races.

A car in this class must have the same form of body and the type of engine it had when delivered from the factory. But owners are allowed to rework the engine in various ways to increase horsepower. About 70 per cent of the sports cars entered in race meets this year were of the improved production class.

Stamps Must Win

B.C. Lions Also on Spot

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Roughly a year ago Calgary Stampeders dropped in to Empire Stadium for an important football game with British Columbia Lions.

The Cowboys lost 10-8 in one of the finest games seen in Vancouver all season and Lions broke a third-place tie to go into the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoffs for the first time since they entered the league in 1954.

Stampeders finished fourth, out of the post-season money.

The scene is recalled this week-end as the Stampeders, riding a 9-game winning streak as they were at the same time last season, visit Empire Stadium again Saturday for another game that can determine the third and last playoff spot.

This time, however, the high-riding Cowboys are slight favorites.

Last October the clubs were tied in points with 16 each and Lions had won two out of three games with Stampeders before their schedule-ending clash.

This time Stampeders hold a two-point margin with five wins, eight losses and a pair of ties to Lions' four—Lions are 4-4-2 in 10—and the clubs are even in points for the season with a win, loss and tie apiece. Calgary won in their last meeting.

Stampeders, playing their last game in the 16-game schedule, will be home and they will use their present two - point margin, plus a better standing in the scoring record, means Lions must not only defeat them Saturday, but also beat Saskatchewan Roughriders in Vancouver a week later to assure a playoff entry.

But just consider this another Stampeder advantage, two which head coach Wayne Robinson, who is also directed one to nine victories and a playoff berth last year in his rookie season, added:

"I think this is going to be the whitest Calgary team that we've faced in the last two years."

May Not Play Stars

Argos Ready For Riders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The backs - to - the - wall fight Hamilton Tiger Cats will have against Montreal Alouettes in a Big Four Football clash at Hamilton Saturday has given armchair coaches a real teaser.

The odds makers don't think Hamilton can come up again for victory and a third-place tie with Montreal. But if they do it will set up as stirring a finale as the league has ever seen.

Each team will then have one game left to play, Hamilton meeting Ottawa Rough Riders in the role of David meeting the league's Goliath, Toronto Argonauts.

So far this season Montreal and Hamilton have met four times. In most of the games Hamilton was given a better than fair chance because of Montreal injuries. But Hamilton lost three of them.

In the other game Saturday Argos clash with Ottawa Rough Riders and this game could also produce a tie. Toronto leads the loop with eight points while Ottawa has six.

Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa is faced with a major problem—whether to gamble further injury to two key men to win a game that still might not mean first place, or to chance a loss and have a solid team for playoffs.

The two players are halfback Ron Stewart who has a bruised heel, and defensive end Lou Bruce with injured knee ligaments. Riders' general manager may have made Clair's decision for him earlier in the season when he said "we'd rather be second and healthy."

ARGOS ALL FIT

Argos on the other hand, are the only team in the country with their full-season roster all physically fit. They'll be looking for their first league win since 1957, and a victory over Ottawa would do it.

Coach Lou Agase isn't planning any major lineup changes for Toronto.

Hamilton mentor Jim Trimble has some real ulcer - producing problems — the biggest is his quarterback spot. He said he's considering replacing Bernie Faloney who has led Ticats to Grey Cup games the last three years, with rookies Paul Palmer and Frank Cosentino. Faloney will start and probably pay defence.

Perry Moore moves to Hamilton with his team in decent shape, but figures Ticats are the hardest hitting team in the loop. End Hal Patterson will play despite painful bruises.

Al's big question mark is Meco Polentaia, rookie halfback who suffered a shoulder separation some time ago. And isn't likely to play.

lated subjects that are skirted by political 'sand' traps. And there are a number of other large-looming questions.

In the last week, the government, on the face of it, seemed to take one question out of the royal commissioner's hands by a decision to shuffle the valuation on imported British and European cars in favor of the Canadian car industry. This applied to both Canadian imports and exports. A particular study would be made of foreign countries' regulations on the import of Canadian machines.

Other studies were being made of the auto manufacturing industries in the United States, Britain, the Commonwealth and the European emanation, and it became his universities administrative and lecturing chores, commissioner has been visiting Ontario car production plants at Windsor, Oshawa and Oakville and wading through about 80 briefs.

WILL SHORTEN SESSIONS

These come from management, labor and the customer. About 25 spokesmen will be heard at the one-week Ottawa public hearings, but he intends to shorten up sessions by having it taken for granted that he has read the submissions and confining oral testimony to answering his questions.

This is a departure from conventional royal commission procedure, which usually calls for a battery of commission counsel (known as each official language) and the same for commission secretaries. The Bladen commission has been getting along with the chairman, who is one of the few judges who can read voluminous pieces of recent years, plus Miss Bladen's stenographic economies with the trade department who doubles as commission secretary, plus a messenger boy.

The dean—careful to explain that he has no expert on the auto business, ret—indicates that he likes the idea of a one-man commission because it gives him a chance to do his own thinking on what to do about how to get the brakes off the industry employment's steadily-dwindling percentage of not low at 45,000 or thereabouts.

QUESTIONS RISE

Can imports? How? Boost exports? How? Help the industry to help itself? How? All these are unanswered now.

And the government may be expected to be watching with not inconsiderable concern to see whether it (1) nonetheless and Dean Bladen can conjure up something that might get it off a political hook with the membership of the potent United Auto Workers (CIO), a union strongly favoring the leftist New Party.

Dean Bladen's only pronouncement:

"You can depend on it that any recommendations will be unanimous—unless I become a schizophrenic."

WILLIAMS HONORED

NORFOLK, (APR (AP)—Ted Williams, who bowed out of baseball this season after an illustrious career, has been appointed a member of his imposing list of honorary officials by the Norfolk Can League comeback player of the year for 1960. Williams was a decisive choice in the annual Associated Press poll of baseball writers. The Boston Red Sox outfielder received 96 of the 122 ballots cast. Runner-up was Roy Sievers of Chicago White Sox with 24 votes. Seven, six, shoulder and neck pains, Williams' average plummeted to .254 last year, his worst since 1941, but he came on and produced just 10 home runs. Nonetheless affronts also abidlined him in the 1960 season but Williams batted .316 and hit 29 homers in 310 official trips.

FARMED OUT

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Catcher Hank Foiles and Thursday Detroit Tigers have shipped him to the Tigers' farm club in Denver, since last season. He has been assigned to six different teams: Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Pittsburgh's farm club at Columbus, Cleveland, Detroit and Denver.

Power Mower Plays Creative Part in New Television Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Critical reaction of ABC's new series, The Law and Mr. Jones, has been mixed. But win, lose or draw on the series, it is undoubtedly one of the few television ideas in which a power mower played a creative part.

Actor James Whitmore and Sy Gomberg, the young writer - producer of motion pictures, were good friends for many years and finally Gomberg moved into a house close to Whitmore's in Hollywood.

They had been chewing over series ideas for some time but nothing much came out of idea sessions until one day Gomberg, the new home-owner, borrowed Whitmore's power mower.

MOWER WAS BROKEN

"When he returned it, the mower was broken," recalled Whitmore, "and that was the beginning of the argument. Sy said that it was my mower, that I had a friend and neighbor duty that the neighborly thing to do was for me to take my mower and have it fixed.

"I insisted that the mower broke when he was using it and it was his responsibility to have it fixed. We wrestled through the background of principle, and we both got pretty excited about it."

Whitmore seems to think the rock on which the series—produced by Gomberg—is built is the nature of law and its meaning. Unfortunately, however, the first few episodes have been fairly routine with quite a bit of fisticuffs, so maybe these finer things will emerge later in the season.

I am only one year old, I don't look like a baby but I am. I have three large bedrooms with closets every Mother would love to have. I don't want to brag about my beautiful features that are hidden in the kitchen every day. I have a dining room and a living room that has a fireplace. I am being offered in the best of neighborhoods and surroundings. Please do drive out on 260 Fairy Avenue and look me over.
AGED
Yes, I am an old home, but MY OWNERS have been very kind to me. They have dressed me up all up like new. The new kitchen with built-in oven and range and dishwasher. The new bathroom and stairs really show me off. The four bedrooms and lots of closet space make me feel like a new home. I'm glad to say that the boy's that have been gone over. Why not call and see me. I'm sure you will have more pride in me once you have made me. I am still at the same 225 Dundas Street address.

Sunday School Lesson

Where Is Your God Now?

By ROY L. SMITH

to be a confident Christian in the midst of prosperity, when fortune is smiling and when there are no clouds in the sky. It is an entirely different matter when the bank has closed, a loved one has died, and all our plans seem to be going awry.

The test of good religion, however, occurs on the bad days. The amount of help we derive from our faith in the midst of misfortune is the measure of its worth. And it is exactly here that the genuinely religious man draws his dividends.

WHEN WE THIRST FOR GOD

Let us be completely honest with ourselves. There are at least a few black days in the lives of the most fortunate people.

And it often happens that the blackest follow close upon the heels of the brightest.

You may envy the banker who seems to be surrounded by money, and you may wish you were the employer with thousands taking orders from you. You may even wish you were the TV star whose picture is in every morning paper, or the athlete who has just knocked the home run that cleared the bases and won the critical game in the world series.

But you may be very sure that every one of them, somewhere behind the mask they wear when the news photographer is about, is deeply concerned about something that is shut up behind the private gates. There is no insulation against trouble.

"My tears have been my food day and night," is the way the hard-pressed psalmist expressed it.

EVERY MAN HAS A GOD

The genuine atheist is a rare individual. There are men of that notion—those who say they do not know whether there is a God or not. And there are multitudes who worship pagan gods even though they are called Christians.

But it can be said that every man has a god, whether he worships the Christian's God or not. At least he has something or someone in whom he puts his trust.

This secular way of trusting is well expressed by the old proverb which says, "Your purse is your best friend." As though your possessions are your hope in the dark days!

There is a widespread tendency to discount the Christian's God because Christians seem to have many of the same troubles, and suffer many of the same woes that befall other men.

Put in its simplest terms — every man puts his trust in something, and that something is his god.

WHERE IS YOUR GOD?

The greying father was reckoned as one of the most successful business men of the town and his pride in his young son—born to him as he approached the meridian of fifty—had been the most precious thing in the world to him. When the epidemic struck the city, his little lad was one of the first to feel the fever.

In spite of the skill of the best doctors in the land, he slipped out of life leaving his father with nothing but the big factory, the big bank account, the big estate, and "land that is the best care money could provide." And that was cold comfort.

AN ANCIENT TAUNT

As Jesus of Nazareth hung on His cross, just outside the city of Jerusalem, one of the bitterest cries to reach His ears came from the throats of the scoffers who shouted, "He trusted in God. Let him deliver him now."

"The Uniform Sunday School lesson for Oct. 26 is: "Our Need of God." Psalm 42: 42.

The editor of one of our best papers supported the strikers through a prolonged labor dispute, and thereby won the enmity of certain industrialists in the city. Then came a strike among the printers and the paper was shut down for a week. "Where's your God now?" sounds just a little like the taunts his critics hurled at him in the midst of his difficulty.

A college youth who held out determinedly against certain campus practices was defeated when he ran for office. As a matter of fact, some of his best friends deserted him because they were frightened by the opposition. But the worst taunt of all was the question, "Did your high ideals help you when you were in a mess?"

To all such the psalmist replies: "Hope in God, for I shall again praise him."

No man is really hopeless until he has lost faith in God and goodness.

MOBUTU BREAKS WITH UN CONGO BRASS

Russ Maintain Intense Attacks On Hammarskjold

May Reach Climax Monday or Tuesday

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The Russians made clear today they intend to keep harassing Dag Hammarskjold in the apparent hope of getting him to quit as secretary-general.

The attacks, steadily mounting in intensity, were expected to reach a climax Monday or Tuesday when Hammarskjold is due to put in an estimated bill of $160,000,000 to $200,000,000 to cover the cost of the Congo operation through next year.

The Soviet Union served notice in the 90-nation financial committee Friday that it will not pay any part of the Congo bill. In letters of similar language, not yet used, Czechoslovakia accused the United Nations of playing a "dirty role" in the strife - torn African state and charged Hammarskjold with "gross violations" and showing partiality to the West.

SHARP REPLY

The attack sparked a sharp reply in the United States which branded it a move aimed at wrecking the United Nations.

Albert Bender, U.S. delegate, said the Russian tactics "rose to the heights of the most deplorable ever made in this body."

He was followed by his charge. Czech delegate Miroslav Nacovsky and by Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev, the U.S. government and all other nations which voted to set up a UN force in the Congo.

Later the Soviets issued a statement accusing Hammarskjold of refusing to implement decisions of the Security Council resolutions on the Congo.

CONTINUE ATTACK

The Russians charged that Patrice Lumumba, deposed Congo premier, was not granted the right to appear before the General Assembly to report on the situation. It was argued that Hammarskjold of refusing to enforce Lumumba's appeal to the Council resolutions on the Congo.

Hammarskjold's Congo advisory committee met Friday night to discuss the feasibility of having the UN help the Premier of the Congo parliament to spell out just what the UN wants the government to do.

The Soviet campaign against Hammarskjold got a jolt in the social committee which defeated by 58 to 8 a move by Communist Poland to bar the secretary-general from the agenda for operating in new programs to improve the status of women in new emerging nations.

Meanwhile, a move to win an assembly seat by representatives of Lumumba was bogged down in a fight between Ethiopia and Asian-African bloc.

A recent meeting of the bloc broke up in a row as Ghana, Guinea, India, Morocco and the United Arab Republic pressed their proposal to seat a Lumumba delegate — and decided to act on their own.

Bachelor Gets $36,500 Refund For Lessons

Lyons is a 45-year-old bachelor who disposed of $52,450 at an Arthur Murray dancing studio here earlier this year. Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain approved the $36,500 refund Friday, arranged by lawyers for Arthur Murray Incorporated of New York, and the Trustee of Lyons' estate.

Lyons had received $85,000 from his father in December, 1959. It was distributed in February but he had invested $37,450 in several lifetime memberships at the dance studio. He also had lent the studio's manager, Robert Coles' Bonds, $15,000. The loan was to be repaid in $100-a-week instalments.

Mr. Justice Harold Riley placed Lyons' affairs in the hands of a public trustee. He said the man had been "misadventured" by dance studio employees.

Lawyers acting for the public trustee later filed a $42,000 statement of claim against the New York dancing company, as well as two other persons and two other companies.

The settlement also grants Lyons a lifetime membership at the dancing studio. It frees the defendants from any further claims by Lyons, including the claim of $15,000 lent by Lyons to the former studio manager.

Laos Could Be Transformed Into Another Congo

- -Nehru

NEW DELHI (Reuters)— Prime Minister Nehru says "every push" to the left or right could transform Laos into another Congo — "it might even be worse."

Any attempt by either the Communist or Western bloc to press Laos into acting in its interests could turn the country into a battleground, Nehru said Friday.

He praised neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma for "a very fine job" in dealing with the different forces in Laos "pulling him in his own way."

Souvanna's middle - of - the-road regime is threatened by pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas operating in the north of Laos and right wing rebels in the south.

The southern forces are under Gen. Phoumi Nosaram, defence minister in the former pro-Western government ousted in a neutralist coup Aug. 9.

The United States cut off aid to Laos because of the shaky political situation but restored it last week after Russian aid offers were rumored for the "strategic Southeast Asian kingdom."

BYELECTION TV FEUD BUBBLES OVER IN CAPITAL

Liberal Candidate Says Rule Changed

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative party brass became embroiled Friday in a byelection TV feud that started boiling in Peterborough and bubbled over in the capital.

G. Donald Munro, Liberal candidate in Peterborough, charged that Conservatives were able to broadcast "a dramatized commercial" over a local TV station, and demanded the resignation of Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Mr. Munro said the station, CHEX-TV Peterborough, broadcast a dramatization plugging the Conservative candidate in the byelection after pressure was applied to Dr. Stewart by Allister Grosart, national PC director.

After the charge was levelled, the government has no direct or indirect control over BBG decisions.

Mr. Grosart defended his part in the incident in a lengthy statement and Dr. Stewart concurred.

"The statement (Mr. Munro's) is entirely unfair all the facts relevant to the case." He offered no other comment.

CLAIMS IRREGULAR

Mr. Munro claims that the BBG's solicitor had ruled against broadcasting of the election broadcasts by both the Liberals and the Conservatives earlier and that Dr. Stewart's re-interpreting of the broadcasting regulations in the benefit of Allister Grosart" was highly irregular.

In a letter to Mr. Grosart read as an admission that the board has lost its independence due to "inter-party pressure."

A section of the Broadcasting Act states that no station may broadcast in dramatized form any program, advertisement or announcement of a partisan political character."

Mr. Grosart said he was un-

Truck Drivers Not Blamed For Accident

HAILEYBURY (CP) — A coroner's jury Friday reached a verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to any of the four truck drivers at an inquest into a triple highway fatality Oct. 11 at Thornloe, about 40 miles southeast of Kirkland Lake.

The jury blamed a car, "in the wrong lane of traffic." All its occupants were killed. They were Mrs. Belle Valley, his brother, Maurice Dubois, and Provincial Judge Judge, were killed. They were returning from a wedding reception.

Lack of Confidence in Dollar Blamed by Experts for Gold Rise

LONDON (Reuters) — Lack of confidence in the dollar is blamed by experts for this week's gold price rise.

Sources in Washington said this confidence would continue high did not want an additional drain on American reserves. They said that gold on the London market—the world's main gold clearing house—was only a ripple in terms of private speculators.

Kennedy Has Edge in Foreign Policy Debate With Nixon

NEW YORK (CP)—John Kennedy attacked aggressively and Richard Nixon held his ground as the two presidential candidates dueled over the world's trouble spots in their fourth big television debate Friday night.

But there seemed to be no major political blood spilled on either side and Kennedy, the Democrat, proved Nixon for a fifth encounter, Nixon, the Republican, said he would continue.

Nixon knifed the Democrat over a campaign charge that Kennedy's proposal to help anti-Castro freedom fighters inside Cuba could even might lead to condemnation of the United States by the United Nations.

But Nixon seemed to have been hit where he finally conceded that a government agency had indeed reported a loss of U.S. prestige just as Kennedy contended. Nixon said he could not agree with Kennedy and made public because it dealt with a situation several years ago.

Then he banged back at Kennedy, the Democrat, for saying he was partly responsible for this country's loss of prestige because the wrong things in arguing that the U.S. had become second rate.

"I don't think I need Mr. Nixon to tell me what my responsibilities are," Kennedy re-interpreted. Then he twitted Nixon about the Soviet Premier Khrushchev and said Nixon told Khrushchev, "You may be ahead of us in rocket thrust but we are ahead of you in color television."

Canada's name came up for the first time along with several other countries, as Kennedy charged that if the U.S. had not lost prestige, it could have acted more vigorously in the western hemisphere and Europe to join in really effective embargo against Cuba. As it now stood, the new U.S. ban on export of trade material to Cuba was useless because Castro could buy his needs elsewhere.

Both appeared a bit nervous and uttered boners.

Nixon twice looked away from the studio—Nixon on his way to invade Pennsylvania and Kennedy heading into the Midwest. Mrs. Kennedy waited for her husband in the candidate's studio dressing room. Mrs. Nixon sailed back in for Waldorf-Astoria suite. As usual, Kennedy had no make-up on but appeared well larded.

Both talked of the need of running another testing under ground or outer space, but Kennedy said there must be a "one last effort" to secure agreement with other nations.

Nixon said the Russians may be "cheating" on the existing Eisenhower immediately after the Soviets broke the three-power moratorium and the next president should make a final effort in ending the Russian filibuster. It was time for the Russians "to fish or cut bait."

U.S. Commerce Secretary Sees Better Business Ahead

HOT SPRINGS, Va (AP) — Commerce Secretary Frederick Mueller, meeting today with 100 of the biggest names of industry, refuses to label the fall business inventory buildup as one that predicts better business ahead.

Despite the current record business indexes in September, Mueller said—national output will be higher in the first quarter than before the end of the year. It will level off at a record high plateau until mid-1961, he forecast, and thereafter climb again sharply.

Mueller said most of the major corporations have built up with the commerce department's Business Advisory Council, behind closed doors with him here, are "exceedingly optimistic."

The council's head board chairman, Ralph Cordiner of General Electric Company, declined the business bigwigs as "an adjustment-from inflation" —a lull marked by weakened consumer demand.

On Nixon Trail

Peace Without Surrender Nixon's Biggest Selling Point

For the last week Harold Morrison, Canadian Press staff man at Washington, has covered Republican Richard Nixon's campaign for United States presidency. In this story, he rounds up interviews conducted by others and reviews his campaign methods. Next week Morrison will analyze Democratic candidate John Kennedy.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ON THE NIXON CAMPAIGN TRAIL (CP) — Peace without surrender is Richard Nixon's biggest selling point as he appeals for votes in a swiftly-paced whistle-stop drive for the U.S. presidency.

Whether talking to fruit farmers in Tampa or Polish immigrants in Buffalo, his standard approach seems to be: Make the voter desperately afraid of communism and then explain how the opposition is ready to sell out to the Reds.

Invariably, the Republican nominee portrays himself as a man of strength and experience, fervently pledging never to make any "deal" with that "ruthless fanatic" Soviet Premier Khrushchev who allegedly is out to destroy all the great pleasures of America.

The he unleashes his big wallop — Democratic nominee John Kennedy is just the kind of "rash, immature" man who would lead free Americans down the path to Communist chains.

Invariably the audience re-

Two Hunters Drowned, Third Is Missing

TIMMINS (CP)—Two hunters have been drowned and a third is missing and presumed drowned in a boating accident on Bradley Lake, 28 miles east of here.

The bodies of James Thomson, 34, of Timmins and Fred Rungis, 45, of the Big Bullington district, 30 miles east of here, were recovered Friday.

Missing is Oscar Rungis, 30, a brother of Fred and Thomson's wife, Lorraine, who died searching the bush and dragging the lake.

The three left on a moose-hunting trip last Sunday but nothing was known of the accident until Thursday when another hunter, Ernest Timmins, found and floated the overturned aluminum boat.

Hampered by rain and bad wind was on his first moose-hunting trip, this was a non-swimmer.

The drowning is the 13 the number of hunting fatalities in Ontario since Oct. 1.

CANADIAN NAVY NOT FINISHED SAYS P.M.

Hints Subs May Replace Destroyer

MONTREAL (CP)—The navy is far from finished, even in the air age, Prime Minister Diefenbaker assured the Navy Leagues of Canada and the United States Friday night.

Speaking at their joint convention, the prime minister said the navy's role in Canadian defence planning has not lessened and the construction and training programs are going forward.

He hinted that the submarine may replace the destroyer as Canada's principal naval weapon. Russia's large fleet of missile-firing submarines posed a direct threat to North America and the navy's potential warning mission over Dewlerer zone of protective coasts, rather than convoys.

For this mission the submarine was emerging as the most effective vessel, he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker looked forward to an age, however, when there would be no need for navy, air force or army.

Everything Ready

He said Canada believes in global disarmament and is doing everything it can to help achieve it, but will not disarm unilaterally.

He repeated his offer, made last year, to open the Canadian North to international control under a scheme of controlled disarmament, provided Premier Khrushchev gives the West similar privileges in the Soviet Union.

Reiterating that Canada may help establish her own submarine arm, he said submarines are needed to provide realistic training for the navy's surfaces and air arms and to bolster the existing "inventory additions" submarine defence capability.

"Up to the present, Canada has borrowed submarines from the Royal Navy and the United States navy to meet training requirement. This cannot continue indefinitely.

"Given the ideal submarine for offensive and defensive purposes for the nuclear submarine, its extremely high costs is beyond the reach of Canada."

New Equipment Used to Track Down Suspects

TORONTO (CP) — Police said Friday night that sophisticated electronic equipment never used before in Canada is being used to track down suspects in breaking an attempt to extort $10,000 from the wife of a bank manager.

Two salesmen, Joseph Doiron, 35, and Fred Lavallee, 30, both of Hallandale, Fla., and Bertha Lavallee, 30, a 19-year - old former waitress from Sudbury, Ont., were arrested. The men were charged with attempted extortion and the girl held as a material witness.

Scientist Suggests Two-Stage Rocket to Carry Cargoes Into Space

OTTAWA (CP) — A Defence Research Board scientist suggested Friday Canadian construction of a two-stage rocket to carry cargoes of research instruments 600 miles or more into space.

The suggestion was made by G. W. A. Hetskin, chief of the rocket section of the board's telemetering establishment at nearby Shirley Bay, during a lecture on a high altitude research proposition sponsored by the Canadian Aeronautical Institute.

Mr. Hetskin said in an interview that the base rocket would be the Canadian-developed Black Brant, 25 feet long and 17 inches in diameter, with the second stage a smaller rocket carrying the payload.

The Black Brant by itself is designed to attain altitudes of about 100 miles. So far this fall, six have been fired from the Churchill Rocket Range in Fort Churchill, Man.

Dr. Hetskin also said scientists would like to employ a smaller rocket than the Black Brant in a single stage so that several could be fired in series minutes apart to provide a continuous information during such phenomena as auroral displays.

The Black Brants were fired to test the aerodynamic stability and the configuration of the rocket.

Two others were launched to put a cloud of nitric oxide 80 miles into space. This "atmosphere tracer" was designed to provide information about oxygen and winds in the upper atmosphere. The experiment failed but the second was successful.

Still two more rockets with increased nose cones were fired to collect data on polar cap absorption, a phenomenon in the upper atmosphere caused by the more energetic particles from solar flare.

Dr. Hetskin said neither experiment was entirely successful because all the antennae in the nose cone did not unfold properly.

Will Ask U.S.A. To Support Military Regime

Accuses Operation Of Backing Lumumba

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Col. Joseph Mobutu broke off relations with the United States-backed Congo government today and announced he will go to the United States to plead for support for his loyalist military regime.

The erstwhile Congolese military strongman bitterly accused the UN Congo chief, Rajeshwar Dayal of India, of treating him like a child and said "I am through talking to him."

Mobutu made the announcement in a fortified military post guarded by his loyal troops in Bizna, his political fief. He moved there from the main army camp when he broke with the left-wing Congolese premier.

For this mission the submarine was emerging as the most effective vessel, he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker looked forward to an age, however, when there would be no need for navy, air force or army.

Everything Ready

He said Canada believes in global disarmament and is doing everything it can to help achieve it, but will not disarm unilaterally.

He repeated his offer, made last year, to open the Canadian North to international control under a scheme of controlled disarmament, provided Premier Khrushchev gives the West similar privileges in the Soviet Union.

Reiterating that Canada may help establish her own submarine arm, he said submarines are needed to provide realistic training for the navy's surfaces and air arms and to bolster the existing "inventory additions" submarine defence capability.

"Up to the present, Canada has borrowed submarines from the Royal Navy and the United States navy to meet training requirement. This cannot continue indefinitely.

"Given the ideal submarine for offensive and defensive purposes for the nuclear submarine, its extremely high costs is beyond the reach of Canada."

MAY HELP LUMUMBA

In the eyes of a number here active observers, Mobutu improved the chances of Lumumba returning to power.

Ian Berendsen of Sweden, senior UN official in secessionist Katanga, reported that Tshombe a demand by Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga that the UN withdraw from the country.

The UN faced similar charges Friday from Martin Bomboko, president of the student administration at the Congo's chief university.

Bomboko blamed the UN for some actions of the city on "civilian massacres" of Congolese troops and even Ghanaian UN soldiers."

Frost and Allan Going to Ottawa For Conference

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost and Provincial Treasurer Allan will head a 24-man Ontario delegation to Ottawa next week for the second stage of the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

Mr. Frost is not expected to speak at the brief session to be held to discuss tax-sharing arrangements between the provincial and federal governments.

The three-day meeting starting Wednesday, which the nine other provincial premiers will attend, is expected to produce Ottawa's answer to previous provincial demands.

Mr. Frost wants a 50-50 split in personal income and corporation taxes collected in Ontario. The alternative would be an indirect provincial levy.

Ontario now has only one tax-sharing agreement with the Ottawa—that covering personal income tax, on which 13 per cent of federal collections in Ontario is rebated to the province. Ontario collects the same percentage of duties, amounting to about 50 per cent, and also operates an independent corporation tax.

The premier said in July the federal government should provide Ontario with more than the province's half-share of these taxes and give Ontario its rights in the fields.

"This time we're going down to Ottawa to tell them what we say," a government spokesman said. "We hope to impress Ottawa with the justice of our greater share to the provinces."

Heading General Allan's delegation of provincial officials will be Attorney-General Dunlop, Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender, Education Minister Brannan, Welfare Minister Macaulay and Public Welfare Minister Cecile will attend the conference.

CAS Deficit End of September Said $2,000

The regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held on Thursday with Mr. Clay Morgan, the President, in the chair.

Mr. Chas. L. Hyde, the Treasurer, reported that the Society would need a substantial contribution from the Belleville Unification Board to help with the year's operation was to be avoided. Mr. Hyde said that by the end of September our expenditures exceeded our receipts by more than $2,000.

In his review of the activity of the Society, Mr. Morgan said the local directory, stated that the monthly intake of children was consistent with that of other years. Despite this, by reason of the success of the foster home program, we have been able to steadily reduce the total number of children in care. More than one-half of the children in care provided in September 1960 were provided in September 1959. This constitutes a saving of more than $3,600 to the municipalities who maintain children in our care.

During the month eleven children were admitted to care, five from the City of Belleville. Said Mr. Morgan, "This is the present and the inability of the reporting parent to provide adequate care is still the greatest single reason for children coming into our care. Our primary focus is on keeping families together and protecting the best interest of all concerned is service to the parent and placement of the children in adoption. Just as soon as a child is admitted to care we begin planning for his future by getting to know as much about him as is possible. Then, if it later develops that we are called upon to make a permanent plan we proceed immediately. We consider every child in our care as potentially adoptable.

Canada's Duty To Aid Poorer Nations—Frost
TORONTO (CP) — Canada has to develop and attract more population if she is to justify her existence, Premier Frost of Ontario said Thursday night.
Addressing the annual dinner of the Canadian Good Roads Association Premier Frost told delegates that "in a land-hungry world Canadians are not doing their duty if they do not help other and poorer nations."
"Efforts should be, and must be, directed in this country to an environment in which the whole community can share in the expansion, income, industry and greater population."
"Canada is only at her beginning of opportunity and a greater and more useful population is essential to this country if these opportunities are to be developed."
Mr. Frost said Canadians should not make the mistake of "thinking they have a stable economy."
"Canada must take a large part in the world's expanding trade. We can't hide behind high tariffs and embargos. We must be strong only by exposing ourself abroad. Canada must be competitive with the rest of the world in order that industry, investment and economy may flour ish."

'At Crossroads of Life' Albert College Graduates Told At Commencement

By GLADYS WARD

"You are coming on the stage in one of today's brightest and darkest days of history. In echo-half hour East and West could destroy civilization. We are sorely in need of some particle to save man from annihilation. If there is one thing to be said about the present situation it is that nobody wants it, but nobody knows how to get rid of it. Our generation has come to the end of the road, and we are turning to your generation to fulfill God's purposes, and I suggest that by some Divine miracle in creative minds and hearts, a new race of men must 'come into being.' Rev. Roy E. Woodsworth, B.D., of Agincourt, President of the Toronto Conference of the United Church, told his audience in Memorial Hall, Albert College, on Friday night.

The occasion was the 113th commencement of the school when certificates and awards earned in the fundamental examinations were given. Thomas McMullen was the winner of the Governor-General's medal, and also of the Alumni scholarship for $100. Algebra, geometry, trigonometry, physics and chemistry this student had an average of 89.4 per cent. On the basis of these high marks, he was awarded a $400 bursary from Queen's University.

With his Honors Matriculation year ahead of him, he is also enrolled in the Investment Course. "The Conference has a lively interest in what the college is doing," said Mr. Woodsworth, "It is a Christian school where we are proud to send our sons and daughters. From its doors have gone many who have given on full time service to the church. I wish you God's blessing in the days ahead."

Rev. Dr. A. E. MacKenzie, Principal and Headmaster of the college, presided, giving the guests a hearty welcome, and stated that there was an increased attendance due to the alumni homecoming which coincided with the fall Convocation. Dr. MacKenzie was absent for three weeks in September attending sessions of the General Council, of the Conference, his colleagues on the staff for carrying on the work of the college so well during his absence. The overall results of the Grade XIII students were somewhat better than in previous years. Several students had achieved commendable records, and the Principal congratulated them all. Several new teachers had joined the staff. Miss Cora Widdis, teacher of health and girls' physical education had trained a group of girls in synchronized swimming who were staging a performance that night for the benefit of the Alumni on Saturday evening in the swimming pool. Mr. James Dolphin teaches science and mathematics; Mr. Benjamin Culcliffe teaches mathematics; Mr. Donald Hubley is teaching in the Commerce department; Mr. David Livingstone teaches health and boys' physical education, also geography in Grade XI. With the addition of these new teachers Albert College now has the largest number of teachers on the staff since Dr. MacKenzie became Principal.

INTRODUCES SPEAKER

Under the direction of Dean J. MacKay the school choir sang two numbers, the Albert College hymn, in which the audience joined, and a selection "I'll Walk With God."

Judge J. C. Anderson, Chairman of the Board of Governors, introduced the guest speaker as a man who held a responsible position as President of one of the largest Conferences in Canada, who had given service in China, and was soon to be Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Church.

"You are at the crossroads of life," the speaker told them. "You are going out to prepare yourselves for your place in life. The Principal and staff have richly earned the heart-felt thanks of the Conference for their example and the instruction in one of today's brightest and darkest days of history. In echo-half hour East and West could destroy civilization. We are sorely in need of some particle to save man from annihilation. If there is one thing to be said about the present situation it is that nobody wants it, but nobody knows how to get rid of it. Our generation has come to the end of the road, and we are turning to your generation to fulfill God's purposes, and I suggest that by some Divine miracle in creative minds and hearts, a new race of men must 'come into being.' Rev. Roy E. Woodsworth, B.D., of Agincourt, President of the Toronto Conference of the United Church, told his audience in Memorial Hall, Albert College, on Friday night.

"The occasion was the 113th commencement of the school when certificates and awards earned in the fundamental examinations were given. Thomas McMullen was the winner of the Governor-General's medal, and also of the Alumni scholarship for $100. Algebra, geometry, trigonometry, physics and chemistry this student had an average of 89.4 per cent. On the basis of these high marks, he was awarded a $400 bursary from Queen's University.

"With his Honors Matriculation year ahead of him, he is also enrolled in the Investment Course. "The Conference has a lively interest in what the college is doing," said Mr. Woodsworth. "It is a Christian school where we are proud to send our sons and daughters. From its doors have gone many who have given on full time service to the church. I wish you God's blessing in the days ahead."

Rev. Dr. A. E. MacKenzie, Principal and Headmaster of the college, presided, giving the guests a hearty welcome, and stated that there was an increased attendance due to the alumni homecoming which coincided with the fall Convocation. Dr. MacKenzie was absent for three weeks in September attending sessions of the General Council, of the Conference, his colleagues on the staff for carrying on the work of the college so well during his absence. The overall results of the Grade XIII students were somewhat better than in previous years. Several students had achieved commendable records, and the Principal congratulated them all. Several new teachers had joined the staff. Miss Cora Widdis, teacher of health and girls' physical education had trained a group of girls in synchronized swimming who were staging a performance that night for the benefit of the Alumni on Saturday evening in the swimming pool. Mr. James Dolphin teaches science and mathematics; Mr. Benjamin Culcliffe teaches mathematics; Mr. Donald Hubley is teaching in the Commerce department; Mr. David Livingstone teaches health and boys' physical education, also geography in Grade XI. With the addition of these new teachers Albert College now has the largest number of teachers on the staff since Dr. MacKenzie became Principal.

INTRODUCES SPEAKER

Under the direction of Dean J. MacKay the school choir sang two numbers, the Albert College hymn, in which the audience joined, and a selection "I'll Walk With God."

Judge J. C. Anderson, Chairman of the Board of Governors, introduced the guest speaker as a man who held a responsible position as President of one of the largest Conferences in Canada, who had given service in China, and was soon to be Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Church.

Corby Distillery Staff Honors Ed Wilkie

Chief Excise Officer at the H. Corby Distillery at Corbyville, since 1950, Mr. Ed A. P. Wilkie, was guest of honor at a testimonial dinner held Thursday evening on the occasion of his retirement. Mr. Wilkie had 36 years service with the department.

Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, Ed came to Canada in 1920 and was appointed to the excise division of Customs and Excise at Walkerville in 1924. In 1934 he was promoted to chief excise officer at Highland Scotch Distillery, Port Colborne, later serving in the same capacity at Barclay's at Niagara Falls, and as the W. and A. Gilbey Distillery at Toronto.

During the First World War he served in the 32nd Division Signals, Canadian Expeditionary Force.

Mr. J. Irvine, on behalf of the Customs & Excise Officers' Association, Bay of Quinte Zone, presented Mr. Wilkie with a gold wrist watch suitably engraved.

Mr. Wilfrid Laporte, vice-president and distillery manager, on behalf of H. Corby Distillery presented Mr. Wilkie with an illuminated oil painting.

The departmental scroll, honoring long and faithful service was presented by G. M. Miller, collector for the Port of Belleville.

A pair of matched pipes, a gift from Gilbey's, was presented by Ron Hart, retired chief excise clerk of the Port of Toronto.

Mr. Roy E. Hall, who succeeds Mr. Wilkie as chief officer, was introduced by Mr. Laporte.

Mr. Wilkie replied, signed by Jean Barrette, a former newspaper man, who is now with the Montreal weekly La Patrie du Dimanche. It was in reply to charges made by Antonio Barrette since the Union Nationale's 16-year reign in office was smashed by the Liberals in the June 22 provincial election. The Barrettes are not related.

Antonio Barrette quit as Union Nationale leader Sept. 14 saying he could not serve under the leadership of three major party figures, including Jean Barrette.

In his article, Jean Barrette recalls how Antonio Barrette, labor minister under the late premier Maurice Duplessis, remained away from cabinet meetings for two years following a dispute with his leader. Ill health was given as the reason.

The article says Antonio Barrette's health was sufficiently good for him to make trips to Europe and a four-month tour of the world accompanied by a "powerful contractor."

The article says Antonio Barrette made blunder after blunder in his campaign speeches. It added:

"Everywhere that he spoke at length, the contributions went to the Union Nationale; places where he did not speak or where he spoke only briefly were retained."

Resigns Post After Report Given Cabinet

QUEBEC (CP)—The man who was Quebec province's superintendent of insurance for 25 years has resigned after an investigation into the bankruptcy of the first-reciprocal insurance association ever formed in the province.

Georges LeFrance, 61, the first French-speaking Canadian to become an actuary, resigned after the provincial cabinet read the report of a one-man inquiry committee which censured him for mismanagement, of the text-reverse Reciprocal Assurance Association of Montreal.

The association started with only any liquid capital in June 1957. It was on the rocks with a $772,000 deficit and declared bankrupt July 22 this year.

Former Leader Of Que. Party Called Deserter

MONTREAL (CP) — Hon. Jean Barrette, Union Nationale member of the Quebec legislative council, says in a newspaper article that Antonio Barrette, former Union Nationale leader, is a "timid rabbit, a party deserter and a poor sport unable to take his medicine."

The article, signed by Jean Barrette, a former newspaper man, who is now with the Montreal weekly La Patrie du Dimanche. Labor Leader Given Rights Back by Board

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto labor leader, barred from union office for alleged Communist sympathies on January, was given his rights back Friday by the union's public review board.

The United Automobile Workers of America (CIO) board said Paul Siren, former international representative for the UAW, was barred for improper methods.

Mr. Siren was charged with being a Communist during a 1955-56 General Motors strike.

The review board ruled he had not been granted a hearing by a trial committee with a chance to

Poor Addressing Caused Lack Of Delivery

OTTAWA (CP)—A "dust-mope to diamonds" auction here by the post office of goods it was unable to deliver brought an all - time high of $10,500. Poor addressing caused lack of delivery for many unclaimed parcels.

Buyers rushed from their seats to compete for eight shotguns and rifles—sold for $128—highest price of the two - day sale which ended Friday.

The fetsan and jetsam out of 62,000 lost parcels was assembled into 685 imaginative auctioneer's lots.

One $16 expenditure bought a shotgun, two sleighs, two pairs of skis and two snow shovels.

The labour of North Bay—among many out-of-town buyers — was delighted with stereo tape recordings valued at $71 in a $17 purchase, but had no use for $60 worth of hi-fi credits, 33 sheets of music and an assortment of string for string instruments thrown in.

Hopes for More Springhill Jobs Growing Fainter

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Hopes for more employment in this coal-mining town are growing fainter.

It's two years since an underground upheaval—a quirk of nature—rumbled the passageways in the Cumberland Rail and Coal Company's No. 2 mine. Seventy-five miners died and the town's main source of livelihood was choked off on Oct. 23, 1958.

Mayor Ralph Gilroy said on the anniversary of the tragedy:

"The town is still struggling. There are still between 500 and 600 men who are unemployed, most of them between 45 and 63 years of age."

He referred to the recent opening of a prison farm on old coal company property. "We hope it will be an asset but they're employing 25 people and are still bringing in supplies from Dorchester."

Eaton Charges American Press Endangers Peace

OTTAWA (CP)—Cyrus Eaton, Canadian - born Cleveland industrialist, charged Friday night that the American press is endangering world peace by its unworthy tactics.

Journalists in the United States has fallen to "a comparatively few persons in the foreign message." Mr. Eaton, a close acquaintance of Soviet Premier Khrushchev, said addressing to the annual Bowaker Journalism Awards dinner.

"Blind and unreasoning fear had haired of communism, on the part of the press, public and politicians alike, have led to inadequate reporting of conditions and events in the socialist countries, and to slanted editorial comment, as well."

In the crucial sphere of foreign affairs "we are in the almost complete mercy of the press for information." Therefore, it has had a special responsibility for accurate foreign reporting and interpretation.

LIKES CANADIAN PRESS

While Mr. Eaton gave the American press a black eye in this respect, he found that "by and large newspapers ... are by and large performing a highly responsible function, with a high objectivity com m a n d s admiration."

He stressed that his comments about the press applied equally to radio, television, motion picture, circulation magazines and other mass media.

What he had observed in his travels about the attitude of many Communist countries in Europe "simply does not match most of what I am reading about them in the American press."

The best and strongest safeguard for freedom of the press, Mr. Eaton said, lies in a free press form. He suggested formation of volunteer local committees—excluding the press—to screen candidates for public office—to serve as form for selection of the press.

Press statements were included in excerpts from the text of the speech issued to the press before delivery.

The Parliamentary Press Gallery is custodian of the $1,000 Southwater Awards, which this year were shared by Muriel Gott of the Toronto Globe and Mail for reporting in the economic and business field, Gerald Waldron of the Toronto Telegram in social and cultural affairs, and Bruce Hutchison of the Victoria Times in the commonwealth and international fields.

Witness Puts Blame of Strike On Union Head

QUEBEC (CP) — Nestor Henley is a key witness in a story of dynamitings, intimidation and cunning being told in Superior Court here.

A former union member, he is testifying on behalf of Canada Copper Mines, Limited, which is suing the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) for $5,300,000 for alleged damages suffered in a violence-marked strike in Rouchoville, Que., in 1957.

Henley, who has a slight limp, is partly deaf and sees through one eye "like through a cellophane" because of injuries suffered in a dynamite sabotage attempt, put the blame for union activities during the seven-month walkout on Roger Bedard, USWA representative in Murdochville. He was on the witness stand for a third day Friday and will be on again when the hearing resumes Monday.

PRODUCES LETTER

As to motives, he maintained he had left the union to testify against Bedard, even when under lawyer Roger Ouimet's questioning he produced a letter Henley admitted writing which said: "I will do all I can to settle with him and I will do it in my way."

Henley explained that to settle a score meant he would tell Bedard face to face that he was a liar.

On Friday, ship's engineer Romeo Dufour described how the Canadian Freighter Murdochville was raided and wrecked in Montreal in 1957 with a load of copper from Murdochville.

Dufour, 46, said the freighter was boarded by a crowd of about 80 men as it pulled in.

"They pulled out the radio telephone, damaged the radar equipment, and threw cargo and equipment overboard, he said. Next morning it was discovered that the engines were also damaged.

Marine Inspector George Lecoste and Capt. 46, estimated the damage to the freighter at $3,500.

Bonds Markets Mixed to Lower, Trading Light

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian bonds markets were mixed to lower and trading was light this week.

Short term C a n a d a s were down 25-50 cents, while the medium to long term issues showed losses of up to one point. The corporate market was slightly easier because of some trading out of corporates into the recent CNR issue which was selling below issue price.

Yield on the 90-day treasury bills was 2.97 per cent, an increase of 2.9 per cent on the week. The 182-day bills brought an average yield of 3.34 per cent. Day-to-day money was at 2.75 per cent.

The five-per-cent CNR issue due Oct. 1, 1987, was lower at 99.25 to 99.75, while the government of Canada 5½ per cent bonds due Oct. 1, 1962, fell to $103.30 to $103.50.

The Manitoba Hydro 5½ per cent issue due Feb. 1, 1974 was down to 897.50 to 898.50, a drop of 50 cents.

Hunters Make Many Mistakes

TORONTO (CP) — Inexperience, disregard for regulations and greed for game have combined to produce a disturbingly high number of hunting accidents in Ontario again this year, the department of lands and forests said today.

Nine hunters died in shooting accidents from Jan. 1 to the Thanksgiving weekend, a decrease of five for the same period in 1959.

Failure to identify positively game or mistaking other hunters for game has caused more fatalities than any other form of hunting accident, the department said.

A common cause of accidents is failure of a hunter to understand the limitations of guns and ammunition or properly respect it. Failure to remove the last cartridge, climbing fences, leaning loaded weapons insecurely against cars and trees, defective weapons and running with loaded guns have all contributed to the 1960 hunting accident toll.

A Prince In More Than Name

Abdul Rahman is a real Tunku. Tunku is a title meaning Prince. Whatever his bloodlines, Rahman is a prince among statesmen when it comes to the most urgently needed attribute of leaders in today's world—a willingness to consider the wishes of others.

Rahman, who is prime minister of Malaya, is now visiting in Ottawa. He is opposed to South Africa remaining in the Commonwealth if it becomes a republic, as the majority of the white residents have favored by their votes. What Rahman wants, Rahman could get; by the simple expedient of casting his vote against the admission of a republican South Africa. One vote is all that is needed to bar the land of apartheid. Like an exclusive club, the Commonwealth provides for the blackballing of a new would-be member, which republican South Africa would be considered to be, by any of the existing members.

But Rahman says he will not exercise this veto. He will not bar South Africa barred—but he wants this barring to be done by agreement amongst the members, rather than by the vote of a solitary member.

The Canadian Press despatch from Ottawa on Rahman's stand did not make it clear whether Rahman had in mind a decision by a simple majority vote. We should think he did not. If there is a large body of opinion against the admission of South Africa, it ought to be excluded, even if the nations so opposed do not constitute half the present members.

Canada ought to take a stand on this matter now, not wait until the next conference of Commonwealth prime ministers. Opinions do differ as to what course should be chosen—but if Diefenbaker sides with Rahman he will be supporting a man of high principles.

Ontario Board Efficient

The theory that government-controlled projects are always less efficient than similar privately-operated enterprises receives a jolt in "Accident Prevention," published by the Industrial Accident Prevention Association.

Graphs are presented to show the division of the income dollar of insurance companies providing workmen's compensation in the United States and the division of the income dollar of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board.

In Ontario 89.5 cents out of every dollar go to injured persons and their dependents, the U.S. to these people get only 61.4 cents of every dollar, although consideration must be given to the fact that 20.8 cents go to premium rebates and dividends. In effect, this means that considerably more than 61.4 cents in the net dollar of income is distributed in benefits, but there would also be proportionate increase in the three other slices out of the income dollar, which are shown as 12.5 cents for accident prevention, 3.38 cents for taxes and 11.9 cents for insurance company operating expense. The Ontario Compensation Board, of course, enjoys the advantage of not having to pay taxes, but the striking fact is that only 7.7 cents of every dollar go for operating expense, leaving 2.8 cents for accident prevention work.

Movie Guest Stars, Yet!

We see by the papers that motion pictures now not only have stars and co-stars and featured players, but also guest stars.

Something like this had to happen, we suppose, to keep up with television's hosts and guests and special guests.

In the final analysis, it just evens the scales. There were paying guests long before television was dreamed of, so why should there not be paid guests?

Perhaps, we are not carrying this thing far enough. What fame may await the personnel manager who first wins acceptance of the idea that the boss is host, the workers at his guests and the union stewards are the guests' hosts to the host.

Part of the modern world's troubles are due to the fact that we worry more about model homes than about model families. (Chatham News).

SUGGESTIONS FOR MEMORIZATION

Yesterday we spoke of the necessity of memorizing Scripture and of the wonderful joy that passages of Scripture so, we believe, be most advantageously learned.

First, and above all, the Ten Commandments, Exodus 20:1-17; the Beatitudes, Matthew 5:1-12; Psalms 1, 8, 14, 19, 23, 24, 37, 42, 46, 90, 91, 103, 121, 150; the 14th and 15th chapters of the Gospel of John; the Hymn of Love, I Corinthians 13.

People sometimes object to Scripture memorization saying that it is a matter of rote and letter and that the letter killeth but the spirit giveth life. This is true, but we need to know what Christian beliefs are else we shall have no belief and, therefore, no life. We should be more memorizing in the modern educational process than there is. Undoubtedly, there has been too much memorizing in some schools, but the best go to the opposite and foolish extreme. If, along with their other educational requirements, children could in the public schools have memorized and stored with a good consignment of beautiful poetry and inspiring prose, and in the Sunday School and home have the more and other passages of Scripture given them for memorizing, they would live to call blessed this procedure a blessing of real value.

Store the mind with precious material. It will support and nourish the soul.

Miracles of the Universe
The Solar System

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with aspects of science and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 6

Before we discuss what other planets look like and the life that inhabits them, we should take a quick look at our own neighborhood.

The neighborhood in which the Earth exists seems very large to the layman, but it is a drop in the bucket in terms of the distances involved in the universe. In fact, the distances of the universe are so immense that they are beyond the imagination of man's mind.

On earth we are used to travelling from Port Arthur to Toronto, or from Windsor to Montreal, and we know that these distances are a few hundred miles. We also know that we travel at speeds between 50 and 60 miles an hour. Port Arthur is three hours from Toronto, or Windsor is three hours from Montreal.

But in outer space things are quite different. First, because if Port Arthur, Toronto, Windsor and Montreal were in outer space they would be constantly moving in different directions. It's easy on earth to go from Port Arthur to Toronto. But imagine trying to go from Toronto to Montreal onto if both of them were moving and never in the same place for a second. So, motion is the first important thing to know—everything is moving, nothing is standing still.

UNCONCEIVABLE DISTANCES

The second problem is that 100 or 4000 miles on Earth is unimaginable. We have lost its meaningless. The closest star to the Earth is Alpha Centauri (25,000,000 (93 million miles). Even 93,000,000 miles is staggering, then what is 25,000,000,000,000 (25,000,000,000,000 (36 trillion miles away). That is the distance in space. The farthest star from Earth is so far that it is beyond imagination—it is thought to be 36,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles (36 sextillion miles) made up of the Milky Way. The stars are so close together, like a field white cloud, yet many of them are millions of miles apart if you could get up close.

The third problem of understanding the universe is that of light. We are used to turning on a light and seeing it at once that we believe as soon as the switch is turned on we see the light. Actually, we do not. It takes time for the light to travel from the light bulb to our eyes. Light only travels at a certain maximum speed. It never goes faster, and the farther away one is from the source of light, the longer it will take the light travelling out from the source, to reach our eyes. In fact, in the universe, we can be so far away that if two stars exploded, and there was an explosion, it might take millions of years before the light of the explosion reaches us even though the light is travelling at 670,000,000 miles an hour (670 million). In fact, even at that speed it will take 6,000,000,000 years (6 billion years) before the light from the farthest stars to reach the Earth.

Let me put it another way. The important fact is that in the sky may actually have happened 10 thousand years ago. Actually, what you see in the sky at any time now is actually not there at all, but has moved far away.

SEEING HISTORY

That is a fact that shocks the layman. What we as looking at in the sky now is not what is there now but what used to be there a long time ago. When we look into the sky we are seeing history.

We're used to reading history. In the sky we see history. We see history because space is so vast that it takes time, a lot of time before the light from the event, reaches us — so, as we see an explosion now in the sky, we are sure that the explosion took place years ago. How many years ago depends on how distant the event took place. (Let's call it a star exploding — most likely will explode some day).

The fourth difficulty for the layman in looking into the universe is the matter of speed. On earth, to travel between Port Arthur and Toronto at 250 miles an hour, has some meaning but such a speed in space would be useless. Unless we reach speeds like 500,000,000 (500 million) miles per hour we cannot reach distant or even close stars. At present rocket speeds we could reach the Moon. Even a few of the Sun's planets are within reach in time but we could not reach the stars and other solar systems or other planets where other life may exist. Let's say we could go 670,000,000 miles an hour at that speed it would take 1,800,000,000 (1,800 million) years) to reach the galaxy of stars which is closest to the Milky Way. It is not surprising you that Einstein said that no one or nothing can go faster than 670,000,000 miles an hour even in this universe. There never — not just in the 20th or 25th century! — but ever, will be anything later on).

Light travels at 670,000,000 miles an hour, 186,000 miles per second and Einstein said nothing can go faster than light. And even though light travels at this unbelievable speed of 670,000,000 miles an hour, it can go around the Earth 7 times in less than a second).

It has taken approximately 8,000,000,000 years (8 million yrs) for the light to reach us from the farthest galaxy we see (closest galaxy is 1,800,000,000).

FOUR GREAT OBSTACLES

So, these are the four great obstacles to the layman looking at the Universe:

1. Things, spots, places keep moving at a fabulous speed. Some groups of stars are moving at speeds of 300,000 miles an hour. (300 million miles per hour). If you're held up by a red light there, that star will have travelled 150,000,000 miles before you stand. The new accurate space travel will have to be as well as eye accurate.

2. Distances in the universe staggers our minds. Miles aren't anything — a million miles isn't much, a billion miles is something but a trillion miles and it's starting to show (a little)—but 25 trillion miles for Alpha compared to the farthest star which is thought to be 36,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles (36 x 1021).

3. We see things as they happen. It takes time after the thing happens before the light reaches us. It takes the light eight minutes to reach us from the sun. If the sun were to explode, say our 12 million miles, it would be two years before one could see it happen by that time it's all over, (of fact, by then, it's been over for many years). So, in the sky, you are looking at events that happened. So on distant planets might have happened the dinosaurs on our Earth range and rant as they screamed through the tertiary ages ago.

4. Speeds to which we are accustomed on Earth mean nothing in the Universe where light travels 670,000,000 miles an hour. Even the fastest rocket believed to be moving at 910,000,000 miles an hour (fantastic are like the Milky Way—bowls of stars, sometimes shaped like a football but containing about 100 billion stars (billions of which are our suns like ours).

Realizing then the problems involved in movement, distance, light and speed, let's look at the neighborhood immediately around our sun — it's called the Solar System.

Here Are Some Inventions!

Ottawa Journal

The biggest guns of science and technology are trained on the task of flinging a man in space but the more humble inventors of gadgets for the home are not to be outdone in flourishing a report by the New York Times Bureau.

A Swiss inventor has a new aid for the smoker who wants to cut down. Cigarette case has a bullish time lock and opens only at specified intervals.

Somewhat similar is an American idea to help the child get only weekly or daily allowance for children in case the parents spend per his own when the kiddie fails due.

Latest newest and smallest radio is built into the frame of a pair of sunglasses so that he is meant to hear the wearer hear the news in a new light.

For the burglar, an alarm clock ensures an alert start for the day! It wakes the victim with an electric shock.

An Ohio inventor doll turns dark in the sun, grows pale again in the shade. Another device is a mouth that can be worn with combined. Unless it squirts its own player, there is no justice.

Trouble Coming

Declaring that too many large city clubs placed too much importance on the monetary side of their activities and too little on service, District Governor Alexander P. Ross of Toronto, Rotary head of District 168, told the Belleville club at their weekly luncheon; that the branches in smaller communities such as villages of 1,200 population were leading the way in point of service. "They are setting a fine example", Governor Ross stated, "for what Canada needs today is service."

He paid tribute to the Belleville Club, "You are, I believe, the second largest club in Ontario, and certainly the best singing club to which I have had the honor of belonging." Secretary is one of the better clubs in the district".

False Views About Canada

Brantford Expositor

If we weren't good humored we might grow weary of visitors from south of here who ask us when we are going to join the "Queen of England" run us or when we are going to stop contributing money for the support of Buckingham Palace.

For, in spite of much repeated educational systems in their several States, a surprising number of Americans (as they persist in calling themselves, though they are no more American than we are the Mexicans) do make such silly and foolish inquiries.

Moreover boners of this kind are not restricted to the rank and file. The Hon. Margaret Smith, week recently told its readers that while Mr. Mackenzie St. was being repaired, Prime Minister Macmillan would live in the Commonwealth room Admiralty House."

While this is reptilious, let's inform our friends that the last "Queen of England" to reign, as such was Anne, who died in 1714. Since 1707, there has been a King of Great Britain. We don't, nor England alone. As to paying taxes to Britain, we don't and never have. On the contrary British taxpayers over a long period of years have had to provide Canada with needed millions for roads, bridges and canals.

We can't expect our good friends and neighbors from the United States to know all these things, but we can and should make a better effort to let them know the facts. The press and other media of communication ought to be utilized to a greater extent for this purpose by professional and private agencies.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

PROTECT GRAND MAL SUFFERER FROM INJURING SELF

The secretary of an institution which has large numbers of people at its meetings asks this sensible question:

"What is the best procedure in meeting an epileptic seizure in a public place?

This doesn't happen very often any more, but it can be a frightening experience.

We are talking of the grand mal type. It is the one in which the victim has a violent attack. The petit mal or little bad type results in an attack of only a second or two, or a very few seconds' duration, with the victim perhaps smiling in embarrassment, and then going on again as though nothing had happened.

It's the hard, grand mal type of epilepsy we are dealing with here. The development, in recent years, of the anti-convulsive drugs has reduced greatly the number of such attacks.

But when one is caught in what can you do?

If it is a person with whom you do fairly well, you may, like the patient, notice some premonitory signs. Often, but not sometimes gives forewarning of a seizure. Many — not all.

Sometimes muscular twitching, pallor, flushing, yawning or other signs may be observed. Then there's loss of consciousness, the extremities become rigid, the head jerks, the eyeballs usually roll upward although they may be fixed in any way. There may be frothing at the mouth. The jaws may be set, the tongue, as the muscles continue to convulse, lacerated. Finally the patient falls exhausted and sleeps.

Mr. H. C. Hunt will address the men's meeting in the Y.M.C.A. next Sunday afternoon. Mr. Hendry Hough will conduct the meeting.

Here are the things you can do:

1 — Prevent the patient from hurting himself as he thrashes about. Don't try to hold him forcibly still. Just see that he does not bruise or otherwise hurt himself by striking against the wall, floor, or furniture.

2 — Roll him on his side, if possible, to prevent him from swallowing his tongue.

3 — If possible (sometimes it isn't) place something between his teeth — a small piece of wood, rubber, or even cloth, to keep him from biting his tongue.

4 — Open his collar for easier breathing.

There is no point, and usually no possibility, of giving or trying to give anything by the mouth, of medicine, in nearly all cases, coma beforehand, to prevent such a thing occurring.

Only in rare instances, when there is a prolonged seizure, is a physician called to administer give sedatives by injection, since there is no other way to give them in such a case.

In short, take care of the patient by making him have as few difficult minutes. Keep him from harming himself and others.

Moreover boners of this kind are not restricted to the rank and file. The Hon. Margaret Smith, week recently told its readers that while Mr. Mackenzie St. was being repaired, Prime Minister Macmillan would live in the Commonwealth room Admiralty House."

While this is reptilious, let's inform our friends that the last "Queen of England" to reign, as such was Anne, who died in 1714. Since 1707, there has been a King of Great Britain. We don't, nor England alone. As to paying taxes to Britain, we don't and never have. On the contrary British taxpayers over a long period of years have had to provide Canada with needed millions for roads, bridges and canals.

We can't expect our good friends and neighbors from the United States to know all these things, but we can and should make a better effort to let them know the facts. The press and other media of communication ought to be utilized to a greater extent for this purpose by professional and private agencies.

Milk Eases Minor Burns

BBC London Letter

In a recent broadcasting by the BBC, a medical expert referred to a little-known and handy remedy for treating the minor burns described by a doctor writing in the British Medical Journal. The discovery of the value of milk for immediate treatment was discovered quite by accident by Dr. Willington, when he pressed a hot iron upon his hand. Nothing else being available at the time, he poured on a jug of cold milk, and then found that the pain had not reached his surgery an hour and a half later, there was no sign of the burn except some redness and swelling. The next time was a housewife telephoned Dr. Willington to say that she had burnt herself, and at time while making jam, he advised her to immerse her burnt hand in milk and once again the pain and the pain and left only some redness and swelling.

Since then immersion of the burnt part in cold milk has been found useful. A very successful routine treatment for first and second degree burns Dr. Willington's practice, and he even had the opportunity of proving its effectiveness on himself when he picked up a soldering iron by the hot end. It is important to apply the milk immediately, before the burns have started to form, and if the burnt part cannot be immersed, the milk can be applied on the form of a cold compress. Of course, for a really serious burn, the method will have no effect beyond giving some relief from pain.

The scientific explanation for the success of milk is that it is a colloid, containing solids", Vaseline and "burn will not raise the temperature of milk appreciably as it evaporates. And the solids extert a drawing-out effect on the swelling when the burnt tissues are the damaged tissues of the skin."

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

Opposite a bus stop where I occasionally catch the bus there is a fine old house, a mansion, with gracious grounds and gardens that have not yet been surrendered to the insulting city and developed, as they say, into building lots for small houses or apartments — another way of saying the destruction of trees.

A feature of the grounds are the several beautiful tree- that have been there always — they are trees planted many years ago and now in their richness of maturity. Most of them are exotics, imported from abroad. There is a European mountain ash, resplendent in while in late business in hand.

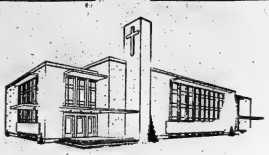
I know of no reason why such a youngster couldn't get planworms. They can spread like wildfire when they are around.

I repeat an earlier warning: Meticulous washing of the hands, and great care in keeping the fingernails clean as well, is necessary to prevent depositing an invisible pinworm egg on food, or on clean clothing, bed linen, etc.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

People with protruding lower jaws are said to be stubborn, weak if their chins are receding, curlews "choke" to six inches. The bill of the black skimmer and it is occasionally eight inches. has the elongated lower section, while the bill of the woodcock is exactly reversed — the lower mandible is shorter. However, these unusual shapes do not indicate any peculiarity in a bird's character. They are given for a specific use.



The skimmer has a strange method of catching fish. Like a swallow, it skims over calm water. The long lower mandible just touching the placid surface, causes little ripples to form, and these ripples in turn attract curious fish. So the skimmer goes back on its tracks and, again using its specialized bill to advantage, scoops up the fish for dinner.

HAS BORING TOOL

But the woodcock requires a tool for boring, because its chief food is earthworms. Its extremely long bill is a perfect instrument for digging holes. Not only is the upper mandible extra long, but its tip is flexible, so that the end of the bill can be opened while the rest remains closed. The woodcock can bore three inches into the mud, then open the tip, catch a worm, close the tip and pull up the long bill, leaving only a little round hole to show that a woodcock has been there.

One of the "dabbling" ducks has been termed shoveler, or spoonbill, because its bill widens out at the tip to look and act like a shovel or a spoon. Comb-like teeth along the sides of both mandibles are of great assistance to the shoveler when feeding. Partial to small fish, snails and crustaces, this duck circles around on the water near shore or in a small pond or marsh, stirring up the mud. When the meal is caught muddy water is also taken in, but the teeth act like a strainer. Mergansers also have teeth, but rather for grasping the fish which has been caught swimming near the surface.

The very long, slender, tapering bill of an American avocet is curved upwards in its outer half. This strange looking tool enables the bird to skim insects from the surface of the water. On the other hand, curlews have down curved bills. This feature is responsible for their nickname, "sickle-bill". The average length of a long-billed curlew is six inches. With these very long bills they are able to poke around in the long grass of moist, low meadows, where they find their staple foods: grasshoppers, locusts and crickets.

Bridge St. A.O.T.S. Men's Club Debates "Teaching of French In Ontario Elementary Schools"

Bridge St. A.O.T.S. Men's Club engaged in a spirited debate Wednesday night on the subject: "Resolved that the teaching of French should be compulsory in Ontario elementary schools." Only the two leaders had previous knowledge of the subject to be debated, and were allotted five minutes each to present their arguments on the question. All others present were divided evenly between the two leaders and were given two minutes each to express their views on the side they represented.

Col Everett Fairman, leader of the affirmative, and the numerous members of his team brought out many convincing reasons for requiring English-French bilingual training in the schools. He cited actual cases in the 2nd World War where an ability to speak French was a decided advantage, possessed by all top officers and men sent to Canada. The present crisis in the Congo also demonstrated the superior utility of bilingual personnel in the communication sections of the United Nations army, all of whom were selected English and French speaking Canadians.

"In war and in peace a speaking knowledge of these two languages is just about all that is necessary to travel around the world without an interpreter; and to be truly effective, bilingual education should commence at an early school age," said Canada we use money printed in English and French, we are confronted with numerous statutory requirements in both languages, we travel extensively in French speaking Quebec provinces and we are addressed frequently when we cannot converse freely with our fellow-countrymen. Certainly, a working knowledge of French has definite value to the businessman in business, in politics, in better fellowship, and even, so it was asserted, in romance."

NEGATIVE LEADER

Mr. Ronald Case acted as leader of the negative side and with his cohorts, advanced strenuous arguments in opposition to the resolution before the house. "It would require more time and more teachers, and undoubtedly would increase the cost of education. Our children are busy enough now, but if they can add anything to their present school work, perhaps it should be something of more practical use.

"Also would the average child be able to obtain any help at home from parents not familiar with French? It was emphasized that if we are to learn an additional language we might better give serious study to the use of certain auxiliary languages already available, such as 'International' or 'Esperanto', both of which have achieved a certain degree of success. Moreover in Ontario there are thousands of people of Italian or Dutch descent who might well consider it an imposition to be compelled to learn French as a second official language. And finally, one debater claimed that for the most picturesque and pleasing medium of conversation a return to our ancestral Scottish dialect could not be equalled."

Mr. Arthur Clare, with stopwatch in hand, acted in the capacity of moderator to the satisfaction of all present. In view of the fact that none but the leaders had come prepared for the debate, and because some had spoken on the subject contrary to their convictions no attempt was made to assess the opposing arguments or to decide on the winning team, which left all participants free to feel that they were the victors.

The meeting was in charge of President Doug Courtney, with Walter Hamilton as sergeant-at-arms; a Coronation group serving the supper and Newt Martin expressing the appreciation of the club for their services.

An interesting devotional was given by Stuart Boddy, the music was conducted by Alec Gordon and Vic White and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Harry Davis.

Contact Club Hears Talk on C.A.S. Work

Mrs. Lillian Hartley, of the Children's Aid Society, was guest speaker at the Contact Club at a regular meeting of the Contact Club of Christ Church.

Mrs. Hartley gave an extremely interesting account of the beginnings of the Society. Using true examples, she described various aspects of foster homes and methods of reclaiming how anxious the society is to place children in good homes at all possible.

New members, Marlyn Smith and Barbara Jones were introduced. It was announced by president, Doris Stewart, that Sally Hooper had accepted the duties of secretary as Molly Kerr was unable, to continue in that capacity.

Legion Women Will Hold Charter Night

On Thursday evening the members of the Col. Pray Wife Branch of the Canadian Legion for ex-service women held a regular monthly meeting at the Legion Hall.

The coming events brought up for discussion by the president Comrade "Billy" Kirby were: the branch charter night, Poppy Day and the armistice parade.

The charter night will be sponsored by Branch 99, with guests from the Ontario Command. Following a banquet the colors receive their charter and then their hosts will present the colors.

It would be appreciated on Armistice Day if a sufficient number of ex-service women could turn out to assist with a separate unit, with their own standard, in the Legion "Par-ade". Permission to purchase a wreath was granted.

Comrade Kirby had attended a Poppy Day committee meeting. She outlined the continual need for the Poppy Fund and urged the girls to assist in the sales.

The guest of the evening and Padre for Branch 99, the Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, addressed the group and expressed his willingness to assist them in any way possible.

Comrade Olive Schmidt was elected to fill the only remaining vacant office-secretary.

Paraded before Comrade Kirby, by Sgt. at Arms Comrade MacDonald, to be initiated were: Clarie Lapsley, Doreen Bursey and Dorothy Barrigar.

As the need for members is still vital the newly initiated trio were appointed to the membership committee.

On Tuesday afternoon in Education Hall the executive of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary entertained the members of the association at a delightful dessert luncheon. The table, with its green cloth, silver candelabra and yellow and blue theme, a most attractive background for the delicious cakes, pastries and desserts provided. Fall flowers in silver containers, decorated the small side tables.

Mrs. Benjamin Safe arranged this charming tea and received the grateful thanks of the executive.

Interesting was the account of a pleasant ceremony at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wright, Wicklow Beach, when a plaque was presented with a plaque in honor of his 18 years of service as a member of the Hospital board. The members of the Auxiliary were pleased to hear that at the Convention, Mr. W. Maxwell, Hospital Administrator, and the president, Mrs. B. Bleecker, will take part in a panel discussion on a subject relating to Administration and the Women's Auxiliary.

Mrs. W. J. Musgrove brought the session to a close, reading an article from from "Volunteer" on "Sell your interest in Hospital Work by Enthusiasm" with the gist of the message.

It was suggested that articles be found to attend the "Fashion Fiesta", and to that end Mrs. Musgrove will be among the business premises of the municipality; Ashley's; Barker's; Gattinney; Leslie's; Keefs; McIntosh's; McNabb's; Vogue, and Bill Gray's.

'Dream House' Lot at Alpha Lambda

Last Monday an open meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Hayman.

The prospective members were introduced to the group by Mrs. Howie L. House, who expressed the wish that they enjoy the evening.

For the benefit of the rushees, the history of Beta Sigma Phi was given by Mrs. Norman Desmond and the sorority's motto, Vivia, Scienta, Amicitia was enlarged upon.

A lovely social meeting followed in which it was decided to send Christmas boxes to two adopted children in France and Italy. The service committee is to shop for the presents and will be mailed shortly.

Mrs. Fred Bradley is to report to the Women' Hospital Auxiliary on the Belleville General Hospital, the expenditures of their funds for supplies for the Obstetrical department.

The speakers of the evening were Mrs. Ralph Bell and Mrs. Kostahuk. They were: Mrs. Ralph Bell, Mrs. Basil Durie and Mrs. John Hayman.

EXTERIOR HOUSE DESIGN

The topic of interior house design was presented by Mrs. Ralph Bell, who outlined the traditional and contemporary trends and followed adaptions of each in various parts of the country, both in the past, present and future.

Examples of the types of architecture mentioned in her talk were shown, with the features typical of each pointed out.

Floor planning was illustrated by Mrs. E. Durie with several drawings of house plans. She emphasized the desirability of zoning quiet and activity areas, centralizing the heating unit and access to all rooms from any part of the house. She described floor plans of bungalows, two storey and split-level homes and the advantages and faults of each case.

Mrs. E. Hayman discussed indoor-outdoor living, stressing privacy in patios planning, its relationship to the house plan and its accessibility to the kitchen for easy service. Some interesting patios were other important features on the exterior.

There talks were followed by a contest in which each member had to identify a floor plan shown some. The award winning house plan was won by Dr. Joan Brownskill.

A warm invitation to join Alpha Lambda was extended to the rushees by Rushie Captain, Mrs. J. Hayman and President, Mrs. H. L. House.

The evening was brought to a close after lunch was served by Mrs. G. Thompson and Mrs. J. Hayman.

This — and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

All our spare time these last few days has been taken up, and with great pleasure, by looking over a book lent to us by Mrs. R. M. Patterson of this city. It is a detailed history of the counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry but when living in Dundas, we always put that name first). A renewed interest came last weekend when a daughter of the author, John Graham Harkness, K.C., was in the city for the provincial conference of Business and Professional Women. She was Mrs. M. E. Pewtress of Cobourg who was representing the national president at the conference.

And so we read a lot of familiar names, saw many items we already knew but saw many more that we did not know. As in this district, the three eastern counties along the St. Lawrence were settled by Loyalists from the Mohawk Valley, principally Scottish and part Pennsylvania German. While the Scottish names are general all over and cannot be identified only with Stormont and Glengarry, most of certain German surnames in this country come from the settlers of Dundas. Where else but near Beckelsdorf, Schwerdfeger, Casselman can you can fairly sure that the beginnings of these families were in Dundas County, just as the name Jacobsen is connected with this district.

It must have been very difficult to keep the various branches of the Scottish names identifiable. It seems that three brothers had the name of Duncan Macdonnel from Glengarry, Scotland, had settled in the Mohawk Valley and all came to Canada. Nearly the whole book is devoted to the book these branches are kept separate and identified by the name of the place from which they came, Lochiel, Lochaile and Aberchalder. The cousin was known as Scotus or Spanish John.

Descendants of the settlers of Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry have been urged by historians we can find many of them in our telephone book. One, Jeremiah Lee, was a member of the first United Counties in 1906; most of his male descendants are lawyers. James Pringle fought in the War of 1812 and was an elder of the Presbyterian church in Cornwall in 1837. His son, Judge Pringle died in 1901. Mr. Ralph Gibson of Morrisburg has compiled as a brief friend of the author, is the father of a large family.

Often names underwent a change; the Loyalist German family, Van Camp, became Cook, from which family came the present Counties Crown Attorney and the Countess of Hadding-ton. From the Whittakers of Dundas County came Syrs of CBC fame, we are not sure about Herbert.

The names of the warriors of the counties read like a gathering of the clans with a few Germans thrown in — Thomas McDonald, Alexander Stewart, Donald McNaughton, Duncan McRae, John Meikle ,etc. In 1908 the name of the warrior was O'Callaghan and how he ever got there is a mystery. In 1903 the warden was Michael J. Casselman, father-in-law of Mrs. Jean Casselman who spoke in Belleville last Sunday.

The first Lutheran Church in Canada was built at the Church-es, three miles below Morrisburg; the Lutheran congregations are still strong in that vicinity. The other day, while talking to one of the descendents of Dundas settlers living in Belleville, we were told how happy she was that a Lutheran church has recently been formed here, of which she is an active member.

Two clippings tucked away in this book show that the owner is from Dundas. One tells of the death of Clair Casselman who was a member of the Parliament for 37 years. The other tells of the marriage of Dr. Reg. Anderson, of a Morrisburg family to the position of vice-president and medical director of Mead Johnson of Canada. How pleasant it is to group, dept. of Transport, Otlaw Canada Steamship Lines some places. It is too bad that every county has not had the diligence, perseverance and patriotism of a John Graham Harkness.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"GRACIOUS SPIRIT DWELL WITH ME"

Gracious Spirit, dwell with me;
I myself would truthful be;
And with words that help and heal
Would Thy life in mine reveal;
And with actions bold and meek
Would for Christ my Saviour speak.

Truthful Spirit, dwell with me;
I myself would truthful be;
And with wisdom kind and clear
Let Thy life in mine appear;
And with actions brotherly
Speak my Lord's sincerity.

Holy Spirit, dwell with me;
I myself would holy be;
Separate from sin, I would Choose and cherish all things good,
And whatever I can be
Give to Him Who gave me Thee.

Physical frailty and life-long illness left their mark on most of the hymns written by the Rev. Thomas Toke Lynch, an "independent" English preacher-poet who lived from 1818 to 1871.

Many of them, including "Gracious Spirit, Dwell With Me," were written for private use but gradually, because of their excellence, they found their way into the hymns of the church and are still used regularly in worship services.

In 1855, Mr. Lynch brought out "The Rivulet," a collection of hymns for his own congregation and it was in this booklet that his "Gracious Spirit" verses first appeared. He made this comment on the title which he chose for his collection: "Christian poetry is indeed a river of the water of life, and in this river my rivulet brings its contribution." When, in May 1871, someone told him he was about to die, he said: "Now, I am going to begin to live."

The composer of the hymn-tune to "Gracious Spirit, Dwell With Me," was Richard Redhead, once a chorister at Magdalen College, Oxford, and later organist at Margaret Chapel in London and then for 30 years at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene in Paddington, England. The music is used in England for the singing of Augustus Toplady's hymn, "Rock of Ages."

A Lift for Living

God Companion to the Lonely

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

A few years ago Marjorie Hills, author of "Live Alone and Like It". Its wide reading seems to prove the reasons. It was cleverly written by a brilliant woman. Also, the book dealt with a modern and important problem. A growing number of women are living alone.

In my church there are some 400 business and professional women. Many of them are alert, attractive, educated. Here are of them live outside family circles by choice. I do not know. But there do not seem to be enough settled and willing husbands to go around. Moreover, the rising cost of living deters marriage. And marriages are as much a problem as teenage marriages.

But many of these women who live alone do not appear to be suffering from loneliness. To be sure, they admit they miss sharing thoughts, philosophy and joys which ideal marriage provides. But with their friendships, hobbies, parties and work, they fill their hours with good times.

CULTIVATED MINDS

And then many of them have so cultivated their minds that they are good company for themselves. A person who lives alone can by reading and thinking fill her mind with memories, images, interests which make her enjoy being alone with herself.

This past summer I travelled down the west coast of South America near the Equator where Alexander Selkirk was marooned for over four years. His experience furnished the basis for Daniel Defoe's novel, "Robinson Crusoe". Very schoolboy remembers the resourcefulness Crusoe developed on the uninhabited island. Aloneness can bring out some powers in us which we neglect and lose in our overcrowded togetherness.

Moreover, we should examine ourselves to see how much of our loneliness is self-made.

Sometimes we are lonely simply because we are unlovable. Sometimes we are so out of step with the crowd merely because we are out of step, not every person who chants a knee course is a pioneer or prophet. He may be only an eccentric or a nuisance. Some of us may be like the young woman who came to the late Dr. H. C. Link complaining of her loneliness. Examination showed that she had never exerted herself to cultivate the company of others. When guests came to call, she absented herself, if she did not think them congenial. Thus never putting herself out to take others in, she found her circle of friendship shrinking.

And sometimes our loneliness is the result of our sin, for wrongdoing has a way of eventually cutting us off from our comradeship. Hence when we talk about loneliness, let us make sure it is not due to oddity, aloofness, self-centredness or sinfulness. A psychiatrist has said that we get along with his group in order to get the group along.

LONELY CALLING

Nevertheless, no person goes it alone in the journey of life without some stages where he does or should walk alone. Duty, as well as death, often separates us from our fellowships. Sometimes the Christian, like his Lord, has to go off alone into his wilderness of decision where he too must think through his own philosophy of living and plan his own program of action. It may be that in clinging to our conscience we, like Christ, may have to separate from our fellow-townsmen, even our families.

The men who have moved the world have moved out ahead of the crowd. One thinks of William Penn, who was ostracized by his aristocratic friends and thrown into prison for speaking his religious beliefs. He spoke of solitude as "a school for wise men to learn in, though more instructive for fools."

And if we are to advance, there must be leaders of the pilgrim spirit who will go ahead of the crowd, at times treading the lonely path of duty as did the founders of our country and of our religious faith.

Perhaps the bitterest drop in Christ's cup of sorrow was the desertion of those nearest to Him in His last hours of trial and death. No one can endure the curses of the crowd if he has those close to him who understand, but even those nearest to Christ did not comprehend Him as He went to the cross.

Yet Jesus was not left in utter loneliness. He said: "Behold the hour cometh, yea, is now come, that ye shall be scattered, every man to his own, and shall leave me alone: and yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me."

The good always have at least one companion—God.

MODERN MANNERS

Conducted by Eleanor Shaw

PROBLEM RESULTING FROM DIVORCE

During recent years it has been necessary to formulate a new set of rules to cover the problems that evolve from divorce. The traditional customs that we follow, — when announcing an engagement, or when issuing wedding invitations — were made many years before divorce became as common a situation as it is today. Now that it has, unfortunately, become so prevalent, rules have had to be made to meet the circumstances.

Too often, when a divorce takes place, the participants fail to use common sense in their plans for the future. The following letter is a case in point:

"I was divorced from my husband 10 years ago. At the time, our only child, a daughter, was received, was 11 years of age. I petitioned the court to allow me to use my maiden name. My reason for this was that I had been known in my business by that name even after I was married.

"For all these years I have been known as 'Miss Allan'. Now I have become a cropper. My daughter is to be married and I would like to be able to announce her engagement and also my own forthcoming wedding. It doesn't seem quite right to refer to myself as 'Miss' in this case. What shall I do? Since I have used my former husband's name all these years, (but of course my daughter bears it), I am in a complete fog as to how to go about it. I cannot use my married name because I no longer legally have it. How in the world do I get out of this mess?"

The writer of this letter made a fatal error in the beginning. While it was perfectly correct to be able to resume her maiden name if she so desired (though I think that is a wrong idea if a child is involved), under no condition should she have used the term 'Miss'. Having been married and divorced, it should be "Mrs." even though followed by her maiden name.

The problem has come up many times before. If children were born into the picture, I can understand why the maiden name should be resumed. Even if the maiden name has been used in a business way, as the writer mentioned, she should not have continued to do so after the divorce, as she had before? But why drop the surname by which her child is known? It only makes for confusion — and subsequent embarrassment — for the child also has to explain that "Miss Elizabeth Doe" is her mother and her father is "Mr. John White" and her name is "Elizabeth White".

The only solution for a situation such as this, brought on by the thoughtlessness of the parents, is for the mother to place the full name of her maiden name and to give the daughter's full name, including, of course, her surname. This form should be arranged in both the announcement and the wedding invitations.

Club Activities

UNIONDALE WOOL MAIDS

The first meeting of the Uniondale Club was held recently at the home of the leader, Mrs. Milton Grills. The roll of this club was, "Working With Wool".

The election of officers took place with the following results: Marilyn Phillips, president; secretary — travelling; press reporter — Marilyn Phillips.

The club discussed the "Requirements of a club member and each member is required to make either a skirt and sweater, jumper or a skirt and line it. A discussion about the different kinds of wool followed.

After the home assignments were given, the meeting was closed.

The second meeting of the Uniondale Club was held on October 15, at the home of Marilyn Phillips. For the roll call each member had to show a piece of wool and explain why it is "wool."

It was decided that the name of the club would be now "Uniondale Wool Maids."

A discussion followed with the leaders discussing the type of material and style that would suit, choosing color and design, choosing the pattern and also how to measure allerations. The group work consisted of taking each other's body measurements.

The meeting was then brought to a close by the home assignment.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by counsellors in social agencies and counselling centres.

Arthur B. — Husbands and wives should sleep together.

* * *

Arthur B. — We're planning to move to a new apartment when our lease is up and suddenly my wife is insisting that we find one with separate bedrooms, one for each of us.

After 28 years of married life I must say I'm shocked by this demand. I guess she'll want separate apartments next! But don't get me wrong. Aside from this bedroom problem, we have no special disagreements. We get along fine. We each have interesting work — she's a teacher and I'm a dentist — and we enjoy being together in our leisure hours.

What's even more puzzling is that Evelyn denies that her wish for her own room has anything to do with marital relations. She agrees that our sexual partnership is satisfactory.

The only reason she gives is that I keep her awake. But most of the time, whether she admits it or not, she seems to sleep soundly.

* * *

Evelyn B. — There comes a time in life, as a bidding a side, a couple needs some good solid sleep. That's us.

We're in the leading a vigorous life, and we need some real rest at night to be in shape for the next day. While Arthur and I are comfortable in most departments, we just never learned how to sleep together — and I'm not referring to sex.

A double bed was impossible from the start, I'm a light sleeper. The least little thing disturbs me. And Arthur is a fresh-air fiend, besides hating blankets. You can imagine the rest. Window open, covers on me, door floor, him snoring, me wide-awake and shivering.

So we tried twin beds. Then Arthur developed fever blisters and his sneezes now wake me out of deep dreams. They shake me right to the earthquake. And he refuses to take medication. Says it makes him sleep the next day.

I'm sympathetic about his condition. But I wish he saw my side. Sometimes when I'm restless I like to put the light on and read for a while. He objects. The lights bothers him and the pages rattle, he says. What other solution is there except a room for each of us?

* * *

The Council: It's too bad there are no premarital courses in bed etiquette! Evidently it doesn't always just come naturally.

Sometimes "health" is given as a reason for apartness in bed in order to mask less admirable reasons, such as annoyance with one's mate, dislike of sexual behavior or a general falling-out-of-love. But taking Arthur and Evelyn at their word, assuming that their marriage is in healthy shape and including proof of togetherness, there's nothing for Arthur to be so indignant about in Evelyn's proposal about separate bedrooms.

Perhaps Jocelyn agreed to, for clear-cut health reasons, unless can seek ways to catch more sleep from time to time. The "ways" may mean a sleeping bag on the back porch or a room at the Waldorf with a Do Not Disturb sign on the door.

Before abandoning all hope of achieving a night's sleep in the same room, however, there is much this couple can do. Arthur can safeguard his wife's fragile slumber by finding the proper treatment for his fever blister ailment which today is almost completely controllable. And many devices are advertised to drown out noises, one of which is earplugs for the roommate! Evelyn, in turn, can install a bulb of lamp to read by so that the beam falls only on her text which, incidentally, should be the non-rustling sort. No mail order catalogues. Also, an air-conditioning might settle the temperature controversies.

Most effort should be made to cling to the privileged coziness and romance of the marriage bed. Separate rooms, Evelyn, are a dime a dozen. And when you reach out after a bed dream, or a sudden pain, there's only a wall instead of 40 winks, maybe you'll settle for 30 plus Arthur, most of the time.

QUESTION:

Would you be so kind and help me? I tried a recipe a few years ago, I think it was sent in by one of your readers. It was hamburg made into balls, bacon strips wrapped around each ball and cooked in sour cream in the oven. It was so good when I had it, but lost the recipe . . . Mrs. J. R.

ANSWER:

This may be the baked meat balls to which you refer.

Mix together 1 pound ground beef, 1 egg, 1-4 cup fine dry breadcrumbs, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Form into balls and wrap each in a half strip side bacon and fasten with toothpick. Place on greased baking pan on which you have layer of sliced onions. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. Then spread 1-2 cup sour cream over top and reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. The sour cream may be added during last 10 minutes if desired. Sour cream may curdle but this does not matter. Spoon liquid in pan over meat balls when you serve. Sour cream may be added if desired.

QUESTION:

Will my husband has to watch his weight very carefully and he finds that bread is one of his big difficulties. Now he is working away from home and has to take packed lunches every day. Please what can you suggest for a low calorie packed lunch and is there a book which might help? . . . Mrs. C. H. B.

ANSWER:

LOW CALORIE PACKED LUNCH IDEAS:

1) Thermos of hot consomme; take with cubed bread sandwich of lean meat spread with cream cheese (thinned with butter) and prepared mustard; 1 tomato; 1 orange or 1 small banana; skim or buttermilk.

2) Thermos of hot clam chowder or other — meat soup; 1 1-2" cube cheese; bran muffin spread with 1 pat butter or margarine; 1 apple. 1 small banana; hot skim milk cocoa sweetened with sucaryl.

3) Cold orange juice or hot clear tomato soup in thermos; cottage cheese in covered jar; 1 slice whole wheat bread peanut butter sandwich; average-sized bunch of grapes; hot "tea au lait" (half strong tea, half hot skim milk).

Look over the dozens of reducing menu books in your bookstore for one that appeals to carried lunches and that appeals to you. Or ask your dietitian to find you one in the library; then you can pick and choose then buy the one you like best.

Quinte Secondary School Holds Fall Commencement; 300 Students Are Honored

The crowded auditorium of Quinte Secondary School rang to the sound of heavy applause, cheery voices and excited whistles last night as 300 students received diplomas or awards at the annual commencement exercises in the auditorium.

The place was packed to overflowing with proud parents and well-wishing friends as girl after girl, boy after boy mounted the stage in single file to accept their interminable certificates, secondary school graduation school diplomas, honor graduation diplomas, scholarships or bursaries from a line of distinguished guests and teachers.

A well-rounded program of presentations, musical selections and speeches held the attention of the crowd for more than two hours.

This was the climax of a three-day event which saw a specially appointed assembly held Wednesday and which tonight ends with a commencement dinner.

Principal Leslie F. Reid, in his address at the assembly, a tribute to the students, parents, teaching staff and trustees of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

Rev. C. E. Coleman of Holloway Street United Church said an opening prayer.

High school board greetings were extended through the chairman, A. G. Drysdale.

This was the night when the boys and girls — young men and women now — turned out handsomely dressed for the Sunday best. For some it was an occasion to hit Pop up for a new suit or a new dress. In any case, they all looked fine. From the appearance of the young people they must have spent hours preparing themselves for this memorable event.

The concert got off without a hitch thanks to careful preparation by the choir under Bruce Jarvis and his hard-working stage crew.

Members of 608 Air Cadet Squadron from the school supervised parking and kept traffic moving smoothly and unobtrusively. Any disturbance likely could have become quite a traffic snarl.

The school band, under the baton of Mr. R. Turcotte, played stirring selections and the school choir, under the direction of Mrs. G. Allen, thrilled the audience with three songs midway through the program.

WIN SCHOLARSHIP

A $400 university scholarship, presented for the first time in Belleville, was won by Miss Caroline Daughaity— who also received a number of additional awards. By winning the scholarship, Miss Daughaity qualified for Ontario Scholar, an honor bestowed upon a student who attains at least 80 per cent in eight Grade 13 departmental examinations. She wrote in papers last June but of the eligibility that counted for the scholarship, she attained an average of 84 per cent. The scholarship was presented by Harold Seldon of the high school board.

Before the addresses to the graduates was delivered by Dr. J. A. B. McLeish, registrar of Carleton University, Ottawa, the certificates and diplomas were awarded. Intermediate certificates were presented to some 150 Grade 11 students by teachers Mrs. McKibbon and Miss E. Stuart and board members Arnold Campbell and H. R. Thomas Simpson. Secondary school graduation diplomas were awarded to about 100 Grade 12 students by teachers M. Woolley and J. Sisson, and board members Brooks Allen and William Argue.

The presentation of honor graduation diplomas to the 20 members of the graduating Grade 13 class was made by Principal Reid and Board Chairman Drysdale.

Miss Anna Calvert, this year in training at the Belleville General Hospital's School of Nursing, delivered the valedictory address in a clear, unfaltering voice. She thanked the teachers and parents for their guidance and encouragement and said the graduates will always have fond memories of their years at Quinte.

Dr. McLeish, registrar of the new $6,000,00 campus at Carleton's Carleton University, told the graduates about the three faiths in democracy. The first was faith in the people. The second was faith in economics and the third, faith in God.

Democracy, he said, has its origin in two Greek words meaning people and power.

"NEW PULSE"

"Popular democracy as we know it is a relatively new impulse in the bloodstream of time," he said. "It has often been challenged, but it always nobly defended."

Democracy is something to be gained and cherished. But for a democracy to work, its leaders must have faith in the people and the people themselves must have faith in each other. The public is not an "uncontrollable mass" as some dictators have found it in other countries. And it is never wise to underestimate the mind and power of how much schooling he has had.

"Skeptical dictators have no place for, or faith in, the people," he said. "... Great leadership and compassionate love in the world."

Life is like a rough road. It has its bumps and knocks. But with a strong faith in oneself will help carry one through.

"The path of defeat and disaster is lined with the bones of those who lost faith in themselves."

Quoting often from some of the world's best-known philosophers and authors, Dr. McLeish said that "nothing should matter more to a truly Democrat than restoring his faith in himself."

Faith will last long after man's faith in himself has gone.

People must stand for what they believe is just and right, even if they must stand alone. But if one is honest and defeat must be accepted graceful and humorously.

Finally, he said, "Faith in God is the faith that you believe in God your work into a new perspective and you will regard yourself as God's beings."

"We have memories too. This very evening our memories for us the official opening of Quinte's Memorial Hall. Its remembrance Day services, the art exhibits, the assembly, the basketball games between the Saints and the Alumni and our graduation parties, the Cadet formals, the school dances.

"Among our memories of Quinte will be the teachers. Then, our mathematics differential conflict every Tuesday at 9 a.m. and our French class, or Math class, or History? But to night we have a chance to say a sincere and long-overdue "thank-you" to our teachers, who have given us not only as teachers and as friends, guiding us with sound advice, guiding us by example.

"A very special and well-deserved thank you goes to one of our parents. Without their encouragement and their confidence in us we may have given up once or twice when we considered our efforts futile. Our chances of getting this diploma very slim.

"We have now reached the threshold of manhood or adulthood. Some of us are experiencing another educational beginning and others are entering what "proud or "prable", a symbol of youth and independence. Yet we have been prepared on a very small scale to meet and cope with life's problems as to adults, in a very confused world. All that we've learned will be of little value be useful to us, will perhaps help us shape the destiny of our community whatever it may be. It is up to us, who are graduating, to be the best of the future, to make Quinte proud of us and, to quote Kipling, "to sound her praises far and wide".

Valedictory Address At Quinte

Miss Anna Calvert, R. R. 1, Foxboro, delivered the Valedictory address at the graduation exercises of Quinte Secondary School. Miss Calvert this year is in training at Belleville General Hospital's School of Nursing. Here is the text of her address:

"I thank you for the opportunity and honor given me this evening to say an official farewell to Quinte on behalf of the graduating class.

"It seems so long ago since those hot summer days when we sat in this room and filled booklets with words we hoped were many words of wisdom. But then the examinations are over now; another chapter of our lives is completed; commencement has finally come. This is the moment each of us has looked forward to. This is the time in the course of our lives when we begin to reflect on what has gone before and to consider what lies ahead.

"We have gained a basic knowledge in the sciences, mathematics and languages at Quinte we've acquired a background in which learned to work together and thus, to establish lasting friendships. This is the moment we've dealt to for it was here where we felt the urge to excel. This is where we discovered how much we depended on each other. We've gained respect for others — parents, teachers, classmates, and for ourselves.

"Through our participation in planning club projects, taking part in Kinsmen Club conventions, giving chatting during our leisurely hours how it has contributed to our training in citizenship, co-operation, co-operation and getting along with others.

HAVE MEMORIES

Yet we have been prepared on a very small scale to meet and cope with life's problems as to adults, in a very confused world. CARS IMPORTED — Since the St. Lawrence Seaway opened in June, 1959, more European goods have been reaching markets in central Canada absorbing the cost of transportation and being unloaded at Montreal, have been a big share of the imports. Many of the cars are shipped direct through seaway locks to ports on the Great Lakes. (CP Photo).

Seaway Is Helping to Bring More European Products, Increase Not Spectacular

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The St. Lawrence Seaway is helping to bring products from Europe to the stores of central Canada—especially to Windsor and the cities of Ontario.

But the increase is far from spectacular. And in the rest of Canada the effects of the Seaway, opened in June, 1959, are negligible or non-existent.

Retailers and importers, questioned by The Canadian Press in a cross-Canada survey, were generally reluctant to say "this early" just how much of an effect the Seaway has had on imports of consumer goodd from Europe.

Some suggested the increase of the last two years in quantity and variety of imported goods was at least partly the result of the growth in population and the presence of more immigrants.

HOLD PRICE LINE

Several Toronto concerns said the Seaway has helped hold prices of consumer goods. Transportation costs had decreased, offsetting rises in costs of labor and materials.

Comment by Winnipeg businessmen reflected a belief that the Seaway is making it easier to market European goods there but also showed uncertainty as to how much difference it is making.

One major Winnipeg department store said it had imported 40 tons of small articles through the Seaway since it opened, boosting a commerce that was almost negligible previously. There is considerable interest in imported goods in this city, the store's spokesman said, and the Seaway-borne articles from Europe are being promoted by special displays.

Another Winnipeg department store, however, was not so enchanted with the Seaway. "There is no advantage through the Seaway at present," a spokesman said, "and there may even be a disadvantage. Perhaps if there were a pool-car system from the Lakehead we would reconsider."

MORE CARGO

Although figures on the kind of cargo being shipped from European ports are not available, there is no doubt there has been more cargo traffic through the Seaway than before it was opened.

In the end of August this year 3,882,000 tons of inbound cargo had been logged through the locks at Montreal, a slight drop from the 3,896,000 tons in the same period last year, but a substantial increase over the 2,872,000 tons in 1958, the year before the Seaway opened.

Heavy goods seem to benefit most from the Seaway, which permits ocean shipping to penetrate to the Great Lakes. One Toronto importer said, for example, that insurance costs on German automobiles have decreased considerably because now there is no need to unload at Montreal.

Many Winnipeg hardware stores reported they are bringing in china and heavy appliances in crates by the Seaway route.

The waterway may also facilitate shipment of European foodstuffs, particularly to Ontario port cities where there are sizable settlements of former Europeans. A Toronto firm importing Mediterranean delicacies said its business has increased although this was perhaps "mainly because of the new Canadians" and would have happened anyway.

Elsewhere, the Seaway is clearly not affecting the consumer picture. In Montreal, always accessible from the open lakes in the warmer months, has long been a big market for European goods. The city's cosmopolitan tastes, sharpened in recent years by an inflow of Germans, Italian, Hungarian and other immigrants, owe nothing to the Seaway.

In Vancouver, gateway for much of the increasing quantities of European goods, traders said the Seaway has barely affected consumer imports. Merchants believe their increased sales of European goods would have occurred without it.

Retailers in Regina and Edmonton said the Seaway has meant practically nothing to them. The same applies to the Atlantic provinces.

In St. John's, Nfld., F. W. Russell, president of the Newfoundland Board of Trade, said "any idea that the Seaway has increased the [illegible] of imported goods in Newfoundland stores is completely misplaced."

An official of the largest department store in Saint John, N.B., said the Seaway has brought no change in the traditional pattern of leading European merchandise through East Coast ports or Montreal. Halifax retailers said goods continued to their stores usually come directly to the Nova Scotia port.

Isidore Pollack, Quebec City importer, said the Seaway has made significantly increased the volume of imports there because the port has always been able to handle ships of nearly any size.

If European consumer goods trung up the Seaway in growing quantities the biggest losers, it would appear, will be some of the more than 200 importing firms in Montreal. But some of them said the quantity of imports unloaded and distributed in Montreal is increasing normally.

There was one substantial area of agreement among importers in Montreal and elsewhere — that should be another year at least before trading patterns established by, or through the influence of, the Seaway begin to emerge clearly. 2

MADE OWN BOMBS

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (AP) — Dover Township police Thursday reported the recovery of a cache of 90 bombs made in a backyard shed by two 15-year-old high school chemistry majors. They said they earmarked the next year's Fourth of July celebration. Police estimated each bomb was powerful enough to blow out the side of a brick building.

SEAWAY CARGO UP

Cargo traffic to and from the Great Lakes ports has nearly doubled since the St. Lawrence Seaway was opened in June, 1959.

Graph compares tonnage moved through the St. Lawrence locks and the Welland Canal from April to August this year with the same period in 1958 and 1958.

Cargo moving into central Canada through locks at Montreal totalled 5,889,000 tons, a slight drop from 5,896,000 last year. Both years showed a substantial increase over the 2,872,000 tons in 1958 before the seaway opened.

Downbound cargo increased from the pre-seaway 4,134,000 tons to 6,512,000 this summer.

Cargo through the Welland Canal has been mainly downbound, with shipments going from the upper Great Lakes to industrial centres on Lake Ontario. The increase has been gradual, from 10,019,000 tons between April and August, 1956, to 12,504,131 this year.

Upbound traffic at Welland rose sharply to 3,703,764 tons in 1960 and 5,470,789 last year from 2,893,000 in 1958. (CP News map.)

THE GOLDEN YEARS

You Can Have That Retirement Job And Avoid the Embarrassment Too

Retirement comes to you in about the same way Christmas comes to a child — that is, if you are a reasonably normal person.

You find the days leading up to it filled with expectation. On Retirement Day itself you can't runs over. Then comes the letdown. Then the settling down to a quiet cold winter — or a ride on a bobsled.

Eugene J. Garrett chose the bobsled, and since 1956 has been having a good retirement ride.

Mr. Garrett was white-collar, had a supervisory job over 14 shiny employees, and had reached a salary peak of $175 a week.

"The crucial point of a retirement," said Mr. Garrett, "is when the letdown wears off and the settling comes before.

"You can't do much about the build-up to retirement that the company puts you through. It tends to make you a bum during your last year on the job. It implies that Santa Claus is about to bring you a wonderful toy, which naturally you won't know how to play with. Still, the boss thinks the build-up is a big deal, so you ride along with it.

"You can't do much about the letdown. Both years showed a substantial increase over the 2,872,000 tons in 1958 before the seaway opened.

"The letdown, to fowling tribes that give the impression the company would never have made it without Good Old You, is natural . . ."

MAKE YOUR DECISION

But then, according to Mr Garrett, comes the moment you can do something. It is the moment you decide whether you'll sit down with the bobsled and drift, which is easy, or venture forth to find something new to do with your life, which is tough.

"I prodded myself into the bobsled ride," Mr. Garrett says. I ventured forth.

And Mr. Garrett insists that the problem here is not what you think it is. "Sharing a required man who does anything with do something for you, or [illegible] money — they're [illegible] work. And it's not difficult for the average retired man to sell his labor. Almost any retired person can get a job if willing to accept the kind of job and pay that is available.

Mr. Garrett says this is the problem. A retired person is usually ashamed to accept what it available. "I couldn't find a thing that would make me a people to boss and $175 a week after I retired," he explains. "But anything less would have been embarrassing to me with my neighbors, with the people I had worked with, with friends around town and with my own ego.

"Don't think this is trivial. For a man it is virtually unbearable, especially then — as people do — he can sit down on his pension and say nuts-to-it all. He doesn't want fellows back at the company saying 'Poor Old George'. Also, he doesn't want a new boss who pushes him around . . . and the boss to be on the level of the job he can get is often the pushy type. There's none of this

Now, Mr. Garrett, I'd appreciate your doing this tomorrow.'

"More likely it's a matter of 'Hey, Garrett, get the lead out of your pants and get that job done.'

For about ten months he endured it. But instead of giving it up as a bum guess he set about figuring a way to make it palatable. Which he did.

He made a deal with a large real estate company engaged in building and selling homes. The deal provided that he would be "Special Assistant to the President". That sounded big with friends, neighbors and former co-workers. The deal also provided that he could work when he felt like it. That took care of any straw boss who wanted to pull "Hey, Garrett".

The real, actually, was for a job selling subdivision houses in exchange for his fine title and an understanding that he would stay on the job from spring to fall he agreed to three-fourths as much commission as the company's other salesmen were getting.

Since last May Mr. Garrett, as of this date, has worked 84,200 in commissions. He and Mrs. Garrett will spend the winter on it, in Hollywood, Fla., and next May he will return in glory to his "executive" position which, incidentally, he has found quite enjoyable.

Visitors Must Be Offered More Than Scenery

CHATHAM (CP)—If Ontario is to draw its share of the tourist business, visitors must be offered more than just scenery, Travel and Publicity Minister Cathcart told Ontario and Thursday night.

Party [illegible] traffic to the province increased by about five per cent in the 1960 summer season, the minister told the dinner of Kent County Credit Union chapter.

Places like Stratford and Santa Claus village, where an effort has been made to supplement natural beauty, had a good season, the minister said.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Senior hockey in the eastern neck of the woods was so close to the grave in Toronto the other night you could almost smell the flowers.

In fact it was half buried when another Miracle of McFarland suddenly jolted it back into life.

Things looked pretty dark. Whitby, thanks to Sandy Air, Freddie Eicher and Ray Dineen had worked valiantly to form a club. In fact they had, when disaster struck.

OHA past president and convener of the division, Lorne Cook, and business manager Bill Hanley had searched all corners and crevices looking for a solution to pave the way for the Whitby club.

Finally they decided to send representatives to the town to interview players and other hockey personnel in a dying effort to save the club and hockey in Eastern Ontario.

Still the outlook was gloomy. There was no guarantee there would be a Whitby club. But immediate action was necessary and Manager Keith MacDonald of the McFarland moved that Whitby be given to Monday night to either come up with an entry or . . .

Meanwhile it was stated that Belleville would not enter a four-team league. The other clubs, Galt, Welland by proxy, Oakville were non-committal, yet they appeared to be willing to play a four-team loop if it could be arranged.

You could hear the slow beat as the mythical pallbearers slowly carried the corpse to the grave.

Then Belleville's MacDonald and Geordie Bell went into a huddle and came up with the suggestion they contact their sponsor in Picton.

They returned in a few minutes. "H. J." had not let them down. They reported he said, "Go ahead with a four-team circuit. I want to keep hockey alive in Belleville and I hope for bigger and better things in 1962."

The grave-snatching statement was the light in the darkness, but then what else would you expect from a sportsman like Hixxoner the mayor of Picton, Prague, Zurich and Bratislava.

A mysterious power, which is not so mysterious to some, had nibbled at the new Whitby club until it reached proportions that spelled failure and disaster.

Sandy Air told this reporter that he had the newly-formed Merchants club organized and well into practice when suddenly former senior "A" players began to drop out.

"Long John Henderson," he said, "was one of the prime movers and hardest workers in the organizing of the Merchants team. We had everything going for us and were practicing hard for the opening game against Belleville.

"Then the Kingston Frontenacs entered the picture. They, and you can guess who, offered him something to play for them on a five game basis. Then they offered him a contract to play weekend games. He accepted. He must have for he left us and without even bothering to tell us about it. There we were sunk in midstream without a goalie. What could we do.

"But that was not all," said Sandy. "One by one the other boys failed to show up for practice. Some of them said they could not make it. Henderson had said, 'I've got a chance to make a dollar and I'm going to take it, but I'm with you until you get a goalie.' That was the last we saw of him.

"What are you going to do with a guy like that," Sandy said. "He helped us line up some merchants. Then he walked out on us. We have looked for another goalie, but so far no luck.

And Air and the Merchants got no help from the local sheets in the Oshawa Gazette. Gerry Blair, a brother of you-know-who, who writes a sports column for the Wednesday section of the Gazette and the best public relations men for the Kingston Frontenacs you ever saw. He even outdoes, at times, the Kingston sportswriters.

He gushes column after column with the activities of his famous brother and the players he rules. But there is nary a line or a word about the Whitby Merchants.

Wolves Blank Thunderbirds

SUDBURY (CP). — Sudbury Wolves, behind the fine goal tending of Gerry McNamara, defeated Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 5-0 Friday night to end a four-game losing streak in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Jim Pappin led the, winners with two goals in his first game since returning from Rochester of the American League. Ken Giard, Gino Chirico and Chelsea Morrison scored the others.

Ottawa's Bid For Rule Change Fails

Wanted Games Not Points

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders lost a last-minute bid Friday to obtain a change in the Big Four Football League rule governing a tie in the final team standings.

The league rejected the bid at an emergency meeting held here on the eve of a crucial Ottawa-Toronto Argonauts game that may decide the league title.

The Ottawa club received a certain amount of sympathy from the governing body but was told it would have to abide by the old rules, at least, until the annual meeting of the league in January.

Riders called the meeting to consider revamping the present rule that in the event of a tie in the league standing at the end of the season, the team with the best two-game total scoring average in regular league play between the two clubs gets the edge. In the case of a first-place tie, the team with the best scoring mark would receive a bye to the final.

Riders contend that the team with the edge is games in the inter-club series over the season should get the bye.

The meeting was called after last Sunday's 37-13 Ottawa loss to Argonauts. The game left Ottawa two points behind Argos in the league standing but left the teams tied at two games each in their four encounters so far this year. Argos have a 15-point edge in the four games.

Also announced were the Russell Trophy nominations made annually by the players in the league in the four eastern teams. The trophy goes to the player who best combines sportsmanship and ability.

Only two choices from each team are: Ron Stewart and Kaye Vaughan of Ottawa; Tobin Rote and Dick Shatto, Toronto; Paul Dekker of and John Barrow, Hamilton; and Sam Etcheverry and Hal Patterson, Montreal.

Blues Visit Redmen

Gaels Battle Mustangs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The battle for first place will be up for grabs today in the Senior Intercollegiate Football League.

Queen's University Gaels and University of Western Ontario Mustangs, deadlocked with four points each on two wins and one loss, meet at Kingston in a vital game.

And at Montreal in another important game, University of Toronto Blues face the revitalized McGill Redmen in a match that could mean the virtual elimination of either team from championship race.

Both McGill and Toronto have 1-2 records and can ill afford any other setback. A win for either team could give it a chance to be tied for second place.

Toronto, earlier considered the team to take the Intercollegiate title, is considerably weakened for its return encounter with McGill. Tow of Varsity's regulars, centre Ron Crawford and Wingback Bob McMurtry, were injured Thursday during practice.

The Redmen, although boasting only one victory, now are regarded as the crew to beat.

The Western Mustangs will be fighting to retain their championship. They lost their first game to Toronto but came back to win the other two.

They will be out to repeat last Saturday's 41-0 victory over Gaels who until then, with two successive wins, looked like the favorites.

Hunter Williams, ridden by Hugh Wiley, went bad, knocking down two barriers and refusing once. It cost the U.S. 20¼ faults and they ended with 20.

Venezuela had only 30¼ faults for the two rounds. Canada had 40, Ireland 54 and Mexico 64¾.

In the afternoon round, Canadas' team captain Doug Cudney was thrown at his mount, Diana Khan, stumbled through the fifth jump. He remounted and finished the course with two more knockdowns, ending up with a total of 24¾ faults.

Battle For Top
Habs Host Hawks; Wings At Leafs

By ROGER TETREAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Now that Maurice (Rocket) Richard has retired from the National Hockey League, fans are wondering whether his record of 544 goals will ever be beaten.

Richard set the mark during 18 years with Montreal Canadiens, scoring at a 30-goals-a-season clip.

Some look to Canadiens' Jean Beliveau, Bernie Geoffrion or Henri Richard, Detroit's Geordie Howe or Bobby Hull of Chicago to turn the trick.

These top scorers see action tonight when the Red Wings meet the Maple Leafs in Toronto and the Canadiens are at home to the Black Hawks.

BATTLE FOR LEADERSHIP

Canadiens meet the Rangers in New York Sunday, while Toronto is at Detroit and Chicago at Boston against the last-place Bruins.

Tonight's Montreal - Chicago game produces the first battle of the season for the league leadership. The Hawks are only one point behind the Canadiens.

Howe, 32, a 14-year veteran of NHL wars, comes the nearest to the Rocket's record. He has 449 goals, scored at a pace only slightly under Richard's. Three years scored this season.

Beliveau, 29, has scored 362 goals in seven seasons, plus two this year. The big forward has maintained a 34½-goal-a-season pace.

Geoffrion, 30, has 254 after nine campaigns, plus seven this season. His seasonal average has been 28 goals.

ROCKET PICKED BELIVEAU

The Rocket Rocket has 118 goals in five seasons and at 34—if he lasts as long as his brother —he has 14 seasons in which to go for the record. Henri has scored four goals this year.

Hull, 21, compiled 70 goals in three seasons plus six this season.

But Beliveau, eveN if he continued scoring at his present average of a goal every two games, would have to play 630 more games or nine complete seasons.

Howe, is only 86 goals away from the Rocket's record and the rightwinger still seems far from retirement.

Senior Hockey
Welland Fells Oaks 9-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The re-organized but uncertain, fighting spree that delayed the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series finally got under way in round of play Friday as Welland hammered Oakville 9-4 and Windsor and Stratford split two-game wins over Woodstock and Stratford respectively.

A four-goal outburst by Chester Warchol in the second period gave Welland Warriors their top-heavy win over Oakville Oaks in Welland while the teams split four goals in the first period.

Joe Sala scored both goals for Chatham Maroons in their 5-0 victory over Stratford Indians. Windsor Bulldogs, though outshot by their opponents, downed the Woodstock Athletics 4-0.

CHANGE MINDS

Whitby Merchants, the uncertain number in the loop, said Friday night they probably will be in the series if they can find a goalie and the team announced Thursday night it would have to withdraw because of difficulty finding personnel.

A final decision is expected next week.

Warchol with his four goals, plus a pair by Jack Taylor and singles by Jimmy Robertson, Dave Unger and Vares Mateo accounted for Welland's scoring.

Dale Ferreira with two, Murdoch Milne and Billy Ford counted for Oaks.

Careless defence work by Stratford helped Chatham to their victory as goalie Al Bassett of Maroons and Indians' Ron Salter trapped a hot array of goal shots for the two teams.

The teams split eight minor penalties.

THWARTED BY GOALIE

Woodstock Athletics outshot Windsor Bulldogs, but goalie Albert opposition goalie Al Cullen as they went down 4-0.

Joe Sorice, Ragz Ragina, Lou Bendo and Jerry Servus bundled the scoring for Windsor.

In Junior OHA exhibition play, Guelph Royals plastered Trenton Marlboros 14-2 as Gene Mac Mahon and Jean Ratelle fired hat-tricks and Bob Cunningham, Gordon Smith, Paul Andrea and Trevor Lower added singles. Hamilton-Red Wings downed Peterborough Petes 7-3 in a scrappy game that saw 27 penalties, including 19 majors, Wings and Petes split the majors for a

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The defending-champion Vancouver Canucks moved into their third straight victory of the Western Hockey League season Friday night, a 3-1 decision over Winnipeg Warriors. Edmonton Flyers dropped Portland's new entry 4-2 before 3,256 Edmonton fans. Seattle Totems, in their home opener, ran up the biggest score of the season in whipping the winless Spokane Comets 8-3.

The Flyers are alone in the top spot with eight points from four victories in five starts. Winnipeg, Seattle and Vancouver have defeated Canucks are tied for second two points back and Seattle and Victoria share fourth place with 2-1 records. Calgary is sixth.

Portland and Spokane have yet to score a point.

At Edmonton Lou Haley Roger Dejordy, Ed Joyal and Bruce MacGregor scored in that order for the Flyers while Gerry Therrien and Art Jones replied for the Buckaroos.

Highlighting the game was an all-fight by Flyers' goalie Dennis Riggin on Dejordy's second-period goal. They flashy-.hin man Riggin connected with a shocked shot and kicked the puck over the blue line to Dejordy, who broke clear to score.

Bruce Carnibear, Dave Duke and Ray Cyr scored for Canucks. Rookie defenceman Mike Kardash replied for the Warriors.

Marc Bolleau of the Totems was the star at Seattle with three goals, Tommy McVie added two and Gayle Hobbs, Andy Pilney and Bill MacFarland one each. Steve Witiuk scored twice for Spokane and singles came from Tom Hibbes, Jim Holdaway and Ed Stankiewicz.

HOCKEY BRAWL — Norm Ulman, Detroit Red Wings centre, and Boston Bruins Vic Stasiuk (lower right) triggered this brawl in the second period of game at Detroit. Linesman George Hayes (8) tries to break it. All the players on the ice except the two goalies took part in the 10-minute brawl in five separate bouts. Detroit's Warren Godfrey (5) tangles with John Bucyk (lower left) while Red Wing Alex Delvecchio (10) pushes Boston's Dallas Smith. Linesman Shorty Wick (upper centre) is separating Bronco Horvath and Detroit's John McKenzie. Boston's captain Fernie Flaman wrestles Gerry Odrowski to the left of Detroit's goalie Terry Sawchuck. Six five-minute penalties were handed out. Detroit won 5-0. (AP Wirephoto).

Battles Royal Mark NHL

MONTREAL (CP)—The battles royal that have cluttered up ice surfaces of the National Hockey League on successive nights are being looked into by league president Clarence Campbell, who wants to know why.

"I am particularly interested in knowing why they developed," said Campbell Friday.

"They may have been the product of unusual pressure of the clubs. Again, the players may be trying to take advantage of new officials."

In New York Wednesday, when the Rangers beat Chicago Black Hawks 3-0, the ruckuses began a total of eight major penalties. Three of them came on a misconduct penalty and then a game misconduct apiece went to Chicago defenceman Reg Fleming.

The misconduct penalties were automatic with the imposition of two of the other penalties upon Fleming at once sworn.

In Detroit Thursday night a brawl broke out between the Red Wings and Boston Bruins and resulted in six major penalties—three against players of each team — all at the same time. The Wings won the game 5-0.

The situation in New York may have been a mixture of "pressure" and other things, said Campbell.

"Undoubtedly New York was desperate, and possibly Chicago expected the Rangers to start the pushover.

"Referee-in-chief Carr, Vees was at the Detroit game and he said there was no real viciousness. There probably was frustration. The Boston team was buzzing around the Detroit goal and then suddenly there was the explosion."

Letter To The Sports Editor

Wants All Baiting Of Ducks Prohibited

Sports Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer;

Coverage for the Ontario Inspencer of Belleville Fish and Game Club Tuesday October 18th, was well taken care of. The agenda from a duck's-eye-point-of-view was anything but satisfactory. This is a vast subject and space here will not permit me to do justice in defence of our beloved duck relatives, for whatever they are in truth. They do not belong to you, to me or any other individual, but to the whole continent of America! We must be sure we are helping the ducks—not short sighted enough to help ourselves by quick kills through baiting.

One man at this meeting said fishermen baited fish, why cannot hunters bait ducks? Another man surely knew that a female fish lays upward of a quarter million eggs, while an average clutch for wild mallard is 9 to 12 eggs. Where is the comparison?

Ducks are not interested in feeding hand-fed during their stay with us in Canada. They go require (speaking of mallards) shallow water and inland maintained at an approximate level of 6 and 12 inches being of the lip-up variety they can only feed at this depth. It would be helpful to plant wild rice and eel grass. The Bay of Quinte marshes, to which I will add Pleasant, Hurvk, Wellers and Hay Bay, is a natural haven for the "Black Mallard" with ample food during their entire stay. Our ducks do not require hand-outs; just leave them strictly alone until shooting season opens.

The present daily bag limit is six ducks. Hand-fed ducks just plop in to the decoys, a whole family at a time, to the selective feast that has been going on for three or four weeks. They are met with automatics and pumps on opening morning. The legal limit is usually obtained in that first barrage. Lets not bother to fire a fellow a pitiful $25 for feeding. Banfeeding of any kind at any time. Make a minimum $100 fine first offence for shooting a duck before the legal limit. Have fish and game wardens, with temporary hired deputies assisting, manning the roads to observe game laws are carried out. Sportsmen will welcome a close policing game hogs will be quickly brought into line. Ducks are public property, not the due of any particular sect or tribe. Let's all have a little fun and ensure that our children's children will also have the same privilege. Lets have duck stamps or any other means of raising funds, but make sure it is to help the ducks not to help a minority or would-be sportsmen to kill ducks in excess of legal limit. Ducks lose their natural sense of awareness to danger due to baiting. Shooting ducks under such circumstances is but an opportunity wasted.

Japanese Team Shuts Out Frisco Giants

TOKYO (AP)—The favored San Francisco Giants of the U.S. National League were shut out 1-0 today by the Yomiuri Giants as the visitors opened their 16 game goodwill baseball tour of Japan before 25,000 fans.

The Tokyo team, which failed to make the Japan world series, scored its run in the seventh inning.

Centerfielder Akira Kunimatsu smashed a high fly which Willie Mays misjudged to give the Japanese a triple. He scored when rightfielder Andy Miyamoto of Hawaii hurried to squeeze Kunimatsu home.

VOTE TO UP FEES

KINGSTON (CP)—The student body of Queen's University has voted in favor of increasing its own athletic fee by $5 to $20 as a step towards bringing back many intercollegiate sports dropped because of insufficient athletic board funds.

Herb Hamilton, permanent secretary-treasurer of the Alma Mater Society, which sponsored the vote among the students, said he expected every qualified intercollegiate sport would be included in the comeback with the possible exception of hockey.

The athletic board of control has a $6,000 deficit.

C.A.H.A. Suspends 8 Senior Players

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Eight Ontario players have been suspended indefinitely by the Canadian Amateur Hocke Association for playing in the United States without obtaining releases from their Canadian clubs.

The suspensions were announced Friday by CAHA secretary - registrar Gordon Juckes who said the players broke CAHA regulations and an agreement between the CAHA and the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States.

The players, all registered under the OHA, are Rene Pepin, Gordon Haddis and Irwin Cross of Windsor; Murray Davison, Ken Laufman and Bob Forhan of Kitchener; Ron Muir of Belleville and Garry Sharp of Chatham.

Juckes said he feels the players left because of more lucrative offers in the U.S.

Reds Beaten By Rochester

PROVIDENCE R.I. (AP)—Dick Van Impe, sharpshooting leftwinger, scored two goals Friday night to lead Rochester Americans to a 5-2 triumph over Providence Reds—in the American Hockey League.

The win lifted Rochester to third place and left them only one point behind Springfield and Quebec, tied for the lead.

Van Impe scored first at 4:07 in the opening period on a high 10-footer from in front of the net. He tallied again at 15:43 in the second session on a 12-foot angle shot that caught the corner of the cage.

Ralph Larivee, veteran centre, and George Lariviere, rookie leftwinger, counted for Providence.

Canadian Championship

Fourteen in Big Race

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Fourteen horses have been nominated for today's $60,000 - added Canadian Championship, and there isn't a Canadian-bred in the bunch. Canadian owners are represented, but they're going with steeds foaled in foreign lands.

Owners deposited the final $500 subscription fee Friday and there were two surprises.

The first was the last-minute entry of Kentucky-based Marchen, five - year - old owned by Hugh Handy of Winnipeg and trained by Lee Lear, former Winnipeg Blue Bomber football player and coach who in 1948 Grey Cup-winning Calgary Stampeders. Lear has been training horses since he got out of football about 10 years ago.

The second surprise was withdrawal of Major Turley, five-year-old gelding owned by F. M. Clark Jr. of Meadow Lake, Sask. Major Turley was bred in Rolling Columbia and bought in 1959 from breeder Donald B. Carley of Victoria.

FIELD TOO TOUGH

Jockey Club officials believe Clark felt the field was too tough for his Canadian-bred and that he'd elected to pass up this autumn classic in favor of the $10,009 Kingarvie Stakes at suburban Dixie Woodbine Oct. 28.

Canadians own seven of the 14 expected starters but experts figure an American will step up to accept the winner's share of $36,000 and a $3,000 gold cup. Second-place money is $12,500, third, $7,500 and fourth $3,000.

Post time is scheduled for 5:20 p.m. EDT.

Favorite with the expected 20,000 crowd probably will be Geraldine Rose, the Americ-owned six-year-old son of Count Fleet. General Arthur has been leased by trainer Jimmy Smith from owner James O. McCue of New York and will wear the white, green hoops and green cap colors of the late Col. E. R. Bradley the first man to win the Kentucky Derby on four occasions.

Col. Bradley willed his racing colors to Smith and they will be seen in action for the first time in 14 years.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—A Kitchener-owned pelt scored an impressive one-two triumph when Mrs. R. S. Chris Boundency and Theo Geo drove home within a half-length of each other in the featured Lonsdale Purse at Woodbine Friday.

Mrs. Chris' solid-hitting race mare and jockey Al Coy didn't let down the fans who bet her and running mate Theo Geo into favoritism.

Time for the three - quarter mile sprint was 1.10 4-5. Peggy Pan was third but she was no competition for the Kitchener pair.

FUNISH STICK - SWINGER

NEW YORK (AP)—Kent Douglas, Springfield defenceman, was suspended Friday for four games by the American Hockey League for a recent stick-swinging incident. The suspension was announced by AHL president Richard F. Canning. Canning said in a game Oct. 15 against Providence Douglas swung his stick three or four times at Ed McQueen.

Moss Breaks Track Record

FORD ORD, Calif. (AP)—Stirling Moss of England, hitting top speeds of more than 120 miles an hour, shattered Laguna Seca's race course record Friday.

Moss did not appear to be pushing his 2.5-litre Lotus MK XIX as he averaged 90.2 miles an hour in a qualifying run over the 1.9 - mile, twisting asphalt course.

His time of one minute, 17.8 seconds was 2.4 seconds better than the record set last year by Charles Howard of Chino Camp, Calif., in a Huffaker Special.

Hold old is your TV set? . . . 1 year? . . . 3 years? . . . 5 years? When a fairly new set gives trouble, chances are that replacing only one tube will restore perfect performance.

However, as a set becomes older, components such as resistors, condensers — as well as tubes — gradually fall off in efficiency. The serviceman may now have to replace several tubes or give the set a complete overhaul (or both) to bring back the original performance. In other words, as a TV set becomes older it costs more to keep it in top operating condition.

You'll enjoy better television reception and save money in the long run by letting CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 269 Coleman St., check and adjust your set regularly. By finding minor troubles as they develop, you can avoid the greater cost of a major overhaul. Phone WO 5-8791 and we'll pick up your set and return it promptly

Lois Smith and David Adams, leading dancers of the National Ballet of Canada, will be seen in varied program in the city on November 2.

Ballet in Grand Manner Will Be Presented Soon

Among the world's great touring companies, the National Ballet of Canada ranks highly. Full-scale productions, with full scenic and costume effects, and its own widely-acclaimed orchestra, will be presented by the National Ballet of Canada when it appears at the Belleville auditorium on November 2nd.

Prima ballerina Lois Smith and premier danseur David Adams head a distinguished cast of soloists. The large corps de ballet has achieved an enviable reputation as one of the "most disciplined in the world", from leading critics in the leading cities of the continent.

Conductor George Crum, permanent musical director since its inception in 1951, is acknowledged one of the leading authorities on ballet. Concert master David Zafer and assistant conductor Walter Babiak also have distinguished musical records.

Artistic director Celia Franca brings a wealth of background with Europe's leading companies as soloist, choregrapher, and director to the operation of this brilliant organization. The overall operation now embraces a full-time residential academy and ballet school, unique on this continent.

From their swiftly - growing repertoire, the dancers will present a varied program largely new to Belleville audiences. Among the new works to be performed are the "Pas de Deux Romantique" by the company's principal dancers Lois Smith and David Adams, set to music by Chopin and choreographed by David Adams. Another highlight of the evening will be Grant Strate's bright new comic ballet, "Antic Spring", set to the music of Jacques Ibert.

A wide repertoire of the full-length classic, contemporary works by distinguished European and American choregraphers, and original works specially commissioned for the company, are part of the exciting ballets presented during the international tours.

Candidates Stated Views, Did Not Debate Real Issues

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The four great debates of the 1960 presidential campaign now, belong to the historians, who will spend years studying them.

Of course, the results of the debates between Vice-President Nixon and Senator Kennedy won't be known until late Nov. 8 or early Nov. 9. But certain aspects of them can be pointed out as footnotes for future history books:

1. The debates produced few real issues. The biggest was the Quemoy-Matsu question, which provided some lively clashes. But most of the issues were not really debated. The candidates merely stated their views. By the fourth debate, those views were stated so often that they became as predictable as punch lines of familiar jokes.

2. The debates brought few surprises. Both men are sharp on their feet and won't allow themselves to be overwhelmed. The only real boo-boo was Nixon's parting shot with the farmer (instead of farm surpluses) in debate number one.

3. There was little drama. Except for two or three occasions when Kennedy addressed Nixon directly, the men were impersonal toward each other. The TV cameras occasionally pointed up the face-to-face encounter by showing the reaction shots of the other's words (Friday night's reaction shots were excellent).

4. The debates brought a new dimension to the political campaigns. This came not only in the device of bringing the two candidates to a common forum. This is the first campaign in which the candidates have not been seen or heard by the voting public primarily making speeches before admiring throngs. This is a big step forward in informing the public.

5. The press conference also has its drawbacks. Speaking extemporaneously, the candidates talk in simple terms with little of the polish that can sometimes elevate political discussion and inspire people.

First Ballot

Name Awards Candidates

The players nominated on the first ballot for the 1960 Canadian Schenley Awards were announced today in Montreal. Nominators, all active football writers or sportscasters in each of the nine professional football cities, chose the following players on their home teams:

	Most Outstanding Player	Canadian Player	Lineman of the Year
B. C. Lions	Fleming	Fieldgate	Hinton
Edmonton Eskimos	Parker	Smith	Nelson
Calgary Stampeders	Lunsford	Pajaczkowski	Pajaczkowski
Saskatchewan Roughriders	Branch	Atcheson	Burrell
Winnipeg Blue Bombers	Lewis	James	Grey
Hamilton Tiger Cats	Barrow	Grant	Barrow
Toronto Argonauts	Gilchrist	Mitchell	Fouts
Ottawa Rough Riders	Stewart	Stewart	Vaughn
Montreal Alouettes	Etcheverry	Bewley	Hudson

Judging of the better play and increased recognition of native Canadians is the placing of half-backs Ron Stewart on both the most outstanding player and the most outstanding Canadian by Ottawa nominators. In Calgary, the voters decided on guard Tony Pajaczkowski as both the outstanding lineman and Canadian. The diminutive Stewart listed at 5 feet 8 inches, 170 lbs., and big Pajaczkowski at 6 feet 3 inches, 230 lbs., represent two extremes in size and places Canadians in the forward line and the backfield.

Former Canadian Schenley winners again include Jackie Parker of Edmonton, Gerry James of Winnipeg, Kaye Vaught of Ottawa, Roger Nelson of Edmonton and Sam Etcheverry of Montreal.

This list of players will be reduced to six — three in the East and three in the West — by the upcoming second ballot, when the nominators choose one player in each category in their own league. The third and final ballot decides the national winners and the names of 1960's Big Three, will be announced during Grey Cup week.

"Drunk Farm" Possibility Says Roberts

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Attorney-General Roberts indicated Thursday night there is the strong possibility of the establishment of a "drunk farm" for drunken chronic offenders in Ontario.

He told the men's club of Toronto St. Andrews United Church a low-cost housing and employment would provide custody for considerable numbers of people outside the jails.

"The farm would probably be considerably less expensive than . . . maximum custody institutions. There are security precautions would appear to be necessary, he said.

"A farm would afford the possibility of engaging the inmates in productive labor and educating them in useful work habits as well as a possible opportunity for experiments with various forms of treatment."

He said work now being carried on — a pilot project using chronic drunks from Toronto Don Jail on a selective basis — could be expanded in the surroundings of a farm."

He said the farm could have available in an advisory capacity the treatment and research staff of the Alcoholism Research Foundation.

aware of any prior ruling by CBC counsel William C. Pearson when he sought and obtained a 2-1 ruling on the program, which was, he said, the "very opposite of dramatized and theatrical." The chairman merely followed the Conservative candidate around to "record his progress."

CHARGES WROTE LETTER

Mr. Munro charged in that he, Stewart wrote "a personal letter to Mr. Grosart conveying what would be termed the approval of the board of the proposed material which was subsequently read contrary to the previous letter from the board's solicitor to CHEK-TV."

The candidate said that a member of the PC Association in Peterborough has "admitted" being the author of the TV-3 edition. As a result, he said, the station on Thursday broadcast a dramatization of the recorded form, depicting the contrast.

Mr. Grosart said Conservative candidate Harold Hillberg asked him to obtain ruling from the BBG on the proposed "political use of television . . . prior to the party."

Mr. Grosart said he was told by Mr. Pearson to put his proposal in writing and, when after a week had passed he received no reply, he phoned Mr. Pearson explaining the matter was urgent. He was told he would receive a letter from Dr. Steward.

ACCEPTED SOME

The letter, Mr. Grosart said, "accepted some of the reasoning in my memorandum and rejected other parts."

Mr. Grosart said Mr. Pearson never mentioned anything about similar time for opposing being rejected.

"I'm quite sure there is no reason why a similar ruling would have been given to the Liberals had they taken the trouble to obtain their own headquarters. . . ."

"The situation appears to be that our party is the only one that approached the board with a written submission and asked for a ruling."

Delaying Oil Changes Speeds Engine Wear

New car engines may be said to require less frequent oil changes, but driving conditions and the grade of oil used are really the determining factors.

Obviously, the cheaper, lower grades cannot be expected to remain as effective as the best oil in extending engine life under driving conditions, oil change needs vary to a greater degree.

Sustained high-speed operation, constant low-speed driving and contamination and dilution are concerned and therefore make different demands when it comes to oil change intervals. An overloaded filter and mixing different brands or types of oil can also cause rapid contamination.

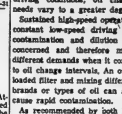
As recommended by both lubrication and engine experts, schedule oil changes at approximately 3,500 mile intervals. In winter, don't go beyond the 2,000-mile mark before changing oil.

P. A. And "In reference to high temperature thermostat for winter, you spoke of better heater output. Aren't there more important advantages worth mentioning?"

(A) You're quite right. A High temperature thermostat also means faster engine warmup, less engine wear, more economy, less dilution and better gas mileage.

From C. S.: "My '53 car usually runs smoothly and surely except when I must drive up a fairly steep hill. Then it stalls and misses. What's your guess?"

(A) Although there are several suspects, I would suggest that you have the fuel pump and the distributor points checked out first.



G. B. asks: "What causes sludge to form inside an engine?"

(A) Sludge is formed when water vapors condense in the engine and mix with oil, carbon and dirt. It is caused by short-distance, low-speed operation which does not permit the engine to run hot enough.

S. T. writes: "At 40 mph, vibration occurs in my car which is very noticeable to the driver. I don't know whether it is in the engine or some part of the body or running gear."

(A) It isn't the engine if there is no vibration when you race it in neutral with the clutch pedal still. In any case, however, a road test by a good mechanic is the logical move.

ponds—as though it was asked to sing the National Anthem or salute the Stars and Stripes.

LENDING IS GOOD

Nixon placards, distributed in advance, move up and down in the dense crowd. Balloons shoot skyward at Twilight-Carnival. The inevitable local band booms at the proper time to embellish the applause.

Everything seems to be well timed and well prepared. Nixon doesn't believe in taking chances.

As the two big, commercially jets carrying the Nixon team and press entourage alight at the local airport, the crowd seems to be waiting—day or night. Both Mr. and Mrs. Nixon always manage to express surprise at the size of the crowd. The local band, sometimes a bit overcome by there along with microphones, placards, bunting, indeed every little girl to present American red roses to Mrs. Nixon.

Supporters of the Republican couple is impeccable, Mrs. Nixon always manages to appear in a fresh dress daily. She always seems to have her eye on her husband, absorbing every word he utters, though she has heard the speech a hundred times over.

Nixon's black wavy hair seems to have a tint of red in it, perhaps by lights, but it adds to his appearance. Sparse in front, his hair seems to have thickened in recent days, perhaps by artificial means. He wears a light, man-made tan covered occasionally by a bit of make-up to hide the five-o'clock shadow.

NO SCREAMS FOR NIXON

The crowd is warm, responsive but Nixon seems unable to arouse the screams of delight that shatter the Kennedy parades. He is, as some observers have noted, a "cool cat."

Loaded with staying power, Nixon can make anywhere from six to a dozen speeches a day and still wear a smile; still give the appearance of being full of bounce. His wife finds the grind tougher. Though flawless in her appearance and always quietly polite, she seems a little wan; a little tired.

While Nixon concentrates heavily on foreign issues, always mentioning his Moscow kitchen skirmish with Khrushchev and the tear-jerker story of his escape in Warsaw, he likes to toss in a few domestic arguments to convince his audience it never had it so good.

He talks of better times ahead, with moderation in government activity. There is no fervor in a couple of warnings that Kennedy's programs would lead to concentration of government power, inflation and even such things as farm collectivism.

Nixon says he knows he can't win with the Republican resolutions. Disabled Republicans are in the majority. What is needed is some of the Democrats who switched to Eisenhower's side in 1952 and 1956. He'd like to make his pledges rather obscure and general, open to various interpretations favoring Republicans as well as Democrats.

Times are too perilous for think of party loyalty alone, he argues.

FEAR, VIRTUAL ANARCHY SWEEP CONGO

Poland Asks UN Meet On A-Tests If Pact Lacking

Urges April 1 Deadline For Big Powers' Accord

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Poland pushed a proposal today that the UN General Assembly hold a special session of stopping nuclear tests if no agreement is reached by next April 1.

The assembly's political committee looked to Yugoslav delegate Dobrivoje Vidic for insight into the thinking of some neutral delegations working on a compromise disarmament resolution.

The 80-nation committee expected British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore to give a full explanation of Britain's approach to disarmament — the idea of having Canadian experts study inspection problems.

Vidic, Ormsby-Gore and Pakistanian Foreign Minister Lula Palamarchuk were listed to speak in the committee's continuing debate on various disarmament questions.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTION

Poland's proposal resembled Soviet Premier Khrushchev's idea that the assembly should hold a session next March or April on disarmament.

But while Khrushchev has limited himself to mere generalities, Poland made a formal move by submitting a resolution over the weekend for consideration in the committee.

Poland was among the five Communist countries that walked out last June 27 on negotiations in the 10-nation East-West disarmament committee in Geneva, charging the West was stalling.

But her resolution would have the assembly call on all countries "to refrain from any measures which could render the disarmament problem more difficult."

In particular, the resolution notes current Geneva negotiations of Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States for controlled cessation of nuclear weapons tests and calls for conclusion of an agreement on this by next April 1.

"Failing this," it says, "the problem would be immediately submitted to the United Nations General Assembly at a session specially convened for the purpose."

The resolution asks the nuclear powers to hold up tests till they agree on a treaty. All calls on them not to deliver nuclear weapons to other countries or help other countries produce such weapons, and it calls on them to refrain from establishing new installations for missiles or nuclear weapons on the territories of and from permitting foreign countries to establish such installations on their territories.

UN Mankind's Only Hope Says Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Sunday in a statement marking observance of United Nations Day today that "the UN is mankind's only hope."

He said that if it had not been for timely UN action in the Congo "the swelling tide of unrest in that part of Africa might well have ravaged a continent."

Mr. Diefenbaker again denounced Communist attempts to have a triumvirate, each with veto power, replace the UN secretary - general. This would paralyze the executive arm of the UN, the prime minister said.

The search for disarmament was the most important issue dividing East and West, No international problem, he said, "requires closer attention from the Canadian government.

Mr. Diefenbaker pledged continuing Canadian support to the UN.

"More and more of the nations of the world are pledging increased assistance and co-operation. More and more the potentialities of the UN are becoming recognized. Canada will continue to contribute to the growth of those potentialities, whether in direct peace-keeping or similar operations, as in the Middle East and the Congo, or in improvements with technical and material help to the ever more insistent obligation to help others in raising their living standards and in creating a sound foundation for national fulfilment in conditions of peace."

May Increase Welland Canal Tolls Says Pres.

HAMILTON (CP)—Tolls on the Welland Canal will have to be increased if recent improvements are to be amortized over the next 50 years, Gen. Howard D. Graham, president and general manager of the Great Lakes Waterway Development Association, said today.

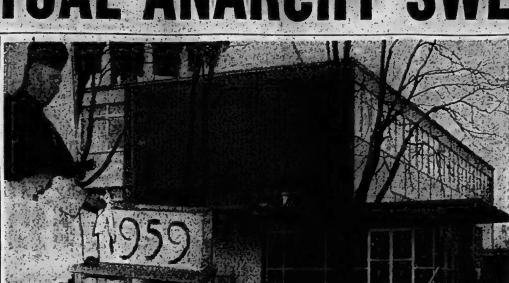
Gen. Graham, in a luncheon address to the National Planning Association conference, said any such increase would be "relatively in higher steel, iron, ore, coal, wheat, pulp and paper rates."

He said tolls were imposed on the Welland Canal to pay for the deepening, operation and maintenance of the waterway between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie during a 50-year period.

However, "as the age passing through the canal last year was 30-per-cent below estimates then it will be about the same again this year."

He said introduction of tolls on the canal was "a dangerous precedent" and could lead to similar tolls being imposed on other links in the Great Lakes system.

"There is a real and genuine fear that the United States may follow the Canadian pattern and impose a tax on ships and cargo transiting the Soo canals."



Extract of Gen. Graham's address was released to the press before delivery.

Tariff Barrier Needed to Stop Toll of Car Imports - - GM; Other Possible Remedies Should Be Explored Too - - Ford

OTTAWA (CP) — European-built automobiles will continue to erode the Canadian car industry unless the government follows traditions by providing some tariff protection, General Motors of Canada Limited...told the royal commission on the automotive industry today.

The company made no specific tariff recommendation in leading off a week of public hearings on various aspects of the auto industry before Professor Vincent W. Bladen, dean of arts at the University of Toronto, who is conducting a one-man inquiry.

But GM said it had studied carefully the possibility of manufacture or assembling in Canada the British Vauxhall, a General Motors product imported by the Canadian firm in quantity.

However, Canadian import duty and sales and excise taxes made such a step unnecessary, the company said in a brief. Few of the required parts could be made here economically.

Canadian labor ran more than 31 an hour higher than in Britain. It was actually 91 cheaper to import a Vauxhall than to try to assemble it in Canada because of the differing application of excercise and sales taxes in the two cases.

There is no increase in evidence that Canadians want an austerity car but "it is true that many Canadians want a cheaper automobile," said GM. They got that in the European car, to the detriment of the Canadian industry, through price advantages brought about by import tax applications.

GM suggested these moves:

1. Elimination of the "discriminatory" 71-per-cent excise tax on automobiles to lower the retail price and increase the demand for Canadian vehicles. What the government lost in revenue would be regained through other forms of tax and a reduction in unemployment relief payments.

2. Correction of the "inequity" of the 11-per-cent federal sales tax so that its impact would be the same for all locally-made cars and imports. Basing the tax on manufacturer value gave imports an edge.

G. M. — Page 19

OTTAWA (CP)—The prime responsibility for a successful strengthening of the Canadian auto industry lies with those in it associated with it, the Ford Motor Company of Canada said today.

But the efforts of government also are required at a time when cheaper foreign cars are hurting Canadian production, Ford said in a brief to the royal commission on the automotive industry.

By and large, Ford said, Canadians like everything about made-in-Canada cars except the price. Suggestions for remedial action had tended to fall into four main groups that would raise costs of Canadia and, if adopted, would be reflected in higher prices, bring lower Canadian prices or reduce all motor car prices in this country.

Tariffs or higher tariffs would improve the industry's competitive position but, since it would be unwise to raise tariffs against other avenues should be explored, Ford said.

1. A downward adjustment of the basis of value used in determining sales and excise taxes.

2. The government is reported planning to raise import valuations effective Dec. 1. It has been estimated that the change will add $50 to the price of a European car costing $1,200 before duty and taxes.)

2. The government might allow duty-free entry of component car parts used in Canadian-made vehicles. A mad-in-Canada vehicle included $25 to $30 in tariffs on parts now imported from the U.S. But a United Kingdom car using those same U.S. components was duty free.

3. There might be duty-free reciprocal trade between Canada and the U.S. manufacturers in Canada of such parts produced and sold in both countries. Ford said it did not recommend such a move other than in support of merged study.

4. The 11-per-cent excise tax could be removed as an immediate step. This would be a form of government revenue on one hand would be partially made up by almost immediate sales activity as more cars were sold.

Ford admitted if present sales trends continue federal tax revenues from the Canadian industry will

P.M. Says Election In Far Distance

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament will open before Christmas and there will be a special pre-election session, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Saturday night.

Addressing Progressive Conservative Association executives and party organizers, Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"There are those who say it will be a special session. There is no truth in that. It will be a regular session, starting early.

"There are those who say that a general election is just around the corner. It don't know how far the corner is, but this type of speculation has no basis in fact or reality.

"We have been in office only five years since the 1958 election, one half of our allotted time under the constitution. We have a legislative program ahead which will carry out the rest of the promises we have made."

The government will carry out its promises, the prime minister declared.

"You ain't seen nothing yet," he added.

Mr. Diefenbaker accused the Liberals of preaching "a cult of uncertainty."

"While those who preach doom and gloom may have an immediate following, they know and people tell me that you will never

Fake Beards for Evening Wear Ticklish Business for London Gals

LONDON (AP)—A strange new fashion craze is sweeping Britain. Hundreds of young men are buying fake beards for evening wear.

Many girls are finding it a ticklish business discovering whether their boy friend's whiskers are the real thing or not. Stage dramatic supplies, several cities report a sudden rush for whiskers — Van Dykes, mouse patches, Abe Lincolns. And almost mostly young men in their late teens and early 20s.

"They say a beard makes them feel good," said a Manchester theatrical dealer, "and they grow their own because their faces would itch."

"I've had to order double my normal supply of beards and moustaches," said Adam Chalmers, makeup manager of a stage supplier in Glasgow. "They're selling like hot cakes."

One 18-year-old office worker was browsing through Chalmers' selection of moustaches. He tried on a big bushy one, like an army major's.

"Doesn't suit my face," he muttered.

Eventually he settled on a Clark Gable style.

"This is far better — gives me a bit of class," he said. "Now what the girls like—they'll really go for me, eh?"

Whiskers vary in price, but a passable one costs only a few shillings — less than a dollar. A tube of sticky stuff to put them on is 6d—60 cents.

One boy came into Chalmer's store, dragged across the room of his girl friend.

"It's because of me," the excited gally as her boy friend squirmed. "I think he's got a weak chin. He tried growing a real beard but it didn't look right so I made him shave it off."

Together they selected a prim Van Dyke. The boy glumly stuffed it into his pocket. The girl friend looked pleased.

"Of course he won't wear it all the time," she said. "Just 'nights when we go out."

Labor and Business Leaders Give Briefs on Unemployment

OTTAWA (CP) — Long-range economic planning and special assistance in industry were the themes put forward separately by labor and business leaders today in the prime minister's conference on employment began.

Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, proposed a massive public investment program to stimulate economic growth and thus combat chronic unemployment.

On the other hand, business groups representing mostly manufacturing urged the federal government to cut taxes and to adopt a policy of greater protection against imports.

Both these suggestions were included in a brief from the Canadian Manufacturers Association presented by past president Robert F. McRae. The CMA and Canadian Retail Federation Executives Association proposed special encouragement for manufacturing.

Ford had suggested higher tariffs while the CEMA, represented by president Humphrey B. Style, urged the government to hold the general tariff line, taking corrective action only in special individual cases.

PELLET-RIDDLED BODY OF MAN FOUND IN CABIN

Police Say Robbery Was Likely Motive

PENETANGUISHENE (CP)—The pellet-riddled body of Oliver Forget, 56, was found Saturday on the floor of his engineer cabin on the outskirts of this Georgian Bay community.

Forget, a tree farm superintendent and father of 14, was shot in the chest by a shotgun fired through the window of the cabin on the 10-acre Christmas tree farm he operated.

The body was discovered by W. J. Brady of Strathroy, Ont., Mr. Forget's employer.

Police said robbery may have been the motive. Relatives of Mr. Forget said he had withdrawn between $500 and $1,000 from the bank Friday. Police did not find his wallet.

A last stolen Friday night was recovered and is being examined by provincial police identification experts from Barrie. Two children found the car on a dirt road near the town dump.

Mr. Brady said he went to Forget's cabin about 8 a.m. and could not gain entry. He required at a neighbor's then notified police.

Kennedy Is Now a Front-Runner But Two Big Hurdles Lie Ahead

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In the minds of some poll takers, crew commissioners and professional gamblers, Democrat John Kennedy has established a definite lead against Republican Richard Nixon.

But Kennedy, in the home stretch of the election campaign, still faces great tests. Still unknown is the impact of President Eisenhower's open campaigning for Nixon and the Republican Catholic campaign.

The Democratic man — who precedes the Kennedy team — entered Rockford, Ill., 89 miles west of Chicago, today he shook his head sadly. It is a rockribbed Republican stronghold and the advance man, Marty Underwood, felt that Nixon had too strong for Kennedy to break.

But Marty had witnessed the magic of Kennedy's personality: the happy-screams of women and girls; the rush to touch and grab at Kennedy as he waved from an open convertible or spoke from a downtown platform.

Rockford was not too important. What worried some of the Kennedy side were the operations of Eisenhower. He had made a "non-political" tour of western states and in California urged fellow Republicans not to be lackadaisical. Kennedy still has much national appeal.

On Oct. 30 will come Reformation Sunday, the Protestant anniversary. The National Association of Evangelicals, claiming a membership of 10,000,000, says it will "distribute" 40,000,000 anti-Catholic literature and urge anti-Catholic sermons from Protestant pulpits.

Bruce Felknor, executive director of the fair campaign practices commission, says an interdenominational source has "indamentalist churches and "hatemongers and bigots" are out to defeat Kennedy. Felknor is not a run for president in 32 years. No Catholic ever has been president.

There are problems ahead, but Kennedy is heartened by developments so far. In Las Vegas gambling houses, where election betting originally went against Kennedy, the odds in his favor now are 5 to 2. Straw polls in New York suggest he may take the state handily with its big pot of 45 votes in the country's 537-vote electoral system.

Mobutu's Troops Turn To Rioting, Killing, Looting

No Effective Command Except in Thysville

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Col. Joseph Mobutu's troops turned to rioting, killing, looting and terrorizing, civilians this week, and as virtual anarchy reigned in the Congo.

Only in Thysville, where the armored and commando units of the Congolese army are stationed, did officers appear to be still maintaining effective command today.

Screaming troops, threatening with loaded rifles and using the butts as clubs, Sunday put the police in Leopoldville to flight and took over the Negro quarter of this city of 300,000. The night before they fell into a fight with villagers a few miles out and killed 10 Negroes.

With nothing to check them, the soldiers, their uniforms often stained with beer, beat up and robbed citizens of the better clothes from Negro women.

CIVILIAN FLIGHT ON

At one street corner a civilian carrying a bundle was stopped by a check of his pass. The soldiers first tore it into small pieces, then beat the owner of the man, grabbed his bundle and shoved him on his way.

In front of the city's central police station other soldiers halted buses and forced the occupants into the street. From the women they ripped off the upper part of their native costumes. Men who protested were beaten with rifles and had their identity cards torn up.

In secessionist Katanga, the provincial government warned that if the UN "does not recall the chief representative "he will be removed by military force." The province Minister Joseph Yav told a press conference the UN representative, Ian Berendsen of New Zealand, and most members of the United Nations command were fatally inadequate. Yav emphasized that his objections were not to the UN itself.

In Leopoldville fewer than 200 Congolese marched in front Ralph Bunche's headquarters to protest Berendsen's action in refusing to let the Congolese army arrest Premier Patrice Lumumba. Today the soldiers and the policemen fraternized openly. The Congolese accused all of complicity of their officers.

In Stanleyville, capital of Oriental province, soldiers mutinied and arrested their officers, according to the report reaching here.

Col. Mobutu took off from Leopoldville at the height of the disorder for an "inspection trip" to Coquilhatville in the interior.

He is scheduled to fly Tuesday to the New York to appear at the General Assembly Dag Hammarskjold against what he calls the UN's policy of favoring deposed premier Patrice Lumumba.

In his absence Lt.-Col. Louis Bobozo, commander of the armored and commando units, is to be acting head of the army.

A large group of officers held a secret meeting in Camp Leopold II last week and decided to ask President Joseph Kasavubu to promote Bobozo to general, making him outrank Mobutu and giving him the command permanently.

LABOR, BUSINESS

A brief presented by the executive council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said that long - time development of the country is the best means of expanding employment and full employment. It called for a complete revision of the tax structure to provide incentive for private business to increase employment.

The government should consider its policing of imports suspected of evading dumping duties, and encouraging the development of new industries in Canada, National Housing Act loans should be made available for the purchase of older houses and experts should be able to secure longer-term credit facilities than now available in Canada.

The conference, under the chairmanship of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, heard first from Very Rev. Henri F. Legare, rector of Ottawa University, representing the Canadian Universities Foundation.

URGES AID

He proposed assistance to universities who lack money to undertake necessary building programs and urged the use of bridge solutions he charted rather than only temporary palliatives to unemployment.

Sitting around the table with representatives of business, labor and farm groups were seven federal ministers including Minister Fleming, Revenue Minister Nowlan, Trade Minister Hees, Associate Defence Minister Sevigny, Labor Minister Starr, Works Minister Walker and Veterans Minister Churchill.

After that counter now the Thunderbirds poised and ready when they were briefly and briefly before lunch to start on the remaining 14 presentations. It continues this afternoon and Tuesday morning.

DRIVE CAREFULLY — An RCAF transportation technician directs an Army Service Corps driver during loading of a jeep aboard a North Star of 426 "Thunderbird" Squadron. The jeep, painted a glistening white, was one of many vehicles flown to the Congo for use by the United Nations force there.

Every Day Is 'U.N. Day' To Thunderbirds

TRENTON — Today has been officially proclaimed "United Nations Day," but to the officers and men of 426 "Thunderbird" Squadron, every day in the week is "UN" day.

Not a day passes but a 426 Squadron North Star transport plane is engaged in carrying out an assignment in support of a UN commitment.

It all started with the UN police action in Korea 10 years ago, when the Thunderbirds joined the United States Air Force in flying supplies to Japan from McChord Air Force Base near Tacoma, Wash. During the airlift the heavily laden North Stars completed 399 round trips carrying troops and supplies on the long, island-hopping trans-Pacific run.

In August, 1954, the squadron was again called upon, this time to airlift members and equipment for the Indo-China truce commission. Eight special flights were completed in that year and periodically since then 426 has carried out flights in follow-up support; flying rotation personnel, supplies and mail.

The establishment of a United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East in 1956 heralded more work for the squadron and today an air support for the UNEF is provided by 426 Squadron North Stars which complete one flight a week into Egypt, Arabia, Gaza.

The crisis in the Congo and the establishment of a UN force in that country gave the Thunderbirds poised and ready when they were briefly and briefly before lunch to start on the remaining 14 presentations. It continues this afternoon and Tuesday morning.

At the Marmora Street school history classes today were given over to discussions on the United Nations. Posters around the halls and classrooms reminded the children of the significance of the anniversary.

In other schools United Nations activity was discussed during current events classes.

Warrant Officer Draws Horse In Handicap

TRENTON — Since Saturday, RCAF Warrant Officer George Gauvreau, Johnston Street, Trenton Park, has been $1,000 richer and filled with unbounded hope that "Jeanne Michelle", the horse he drew in the Campbellsville Handicap, will come through this week with $140,000 for him.

The three boys who received the Queen’s Scout badges at the meeting were: Patrol Leader Barry Athey, Troop Leader Ed Franchuk, and Troop Leader Jim Pickering.

Group Committee Chairman P. Pickering and Mrs. A. Athey, president of the Parents Auxiliary, presented the three new Queen’s Scouts and Queen’s Scout David Fort with sets of beautiful cuff links to commemorate the occasion.

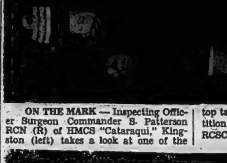
A tasty lunch was served by the ladies and a very enjoyable social hour followed.

Congratulations, St. Thomas, on a well planned evening and heartiest best wishes to your new Queen’s Scouts.

Mrs. Fort is publicity chairman for St. Thomas’ group and keeps us posted on events, a good example which should be followed by other groups.

Y’s Men’s Club Honors Member Newt. Thompson

At their weekly meeting last Thursday night, Belleville Y’s Men paid tribute to Newt Thompson, who has rendered long and valuable service to the cause of the club. Mr. Thompson was a charter member when the club was organized in 1925. Holding a number of important offices in the ensuing years, he was elected international president of Y’sdom in 1945.



In recognition of his contribution to the Y’s Men’s Club, a picture of Mr. Thompson, taken at the time he was international president, was hung on the wall. “I deem it a great privilege to be so honored,” he commented, and expressed the hope that Y’sdom would continue to fulfill its appointed task of being a live complement to the work of the Y.M.C.A.

President John Luscombe reported on the International convention held at Minneapolis.

“For the years the Y.M.C.A. has endeavored to meet the needs of the people,” he said, “and Y’sdom has proven to be the heart of the Y.M.C.A. It stands in the vanguard in the ideological conflict in the world today, and it must not fail. Let us Y’s Men lift our eyes to higher and broader horizons of service and walk Y’sly and work Y’sly.

300 Sea Cadets Participate In Church Parade, Sports Day

Over 300 Sea Cadets participated in the largest inter-corps church parade and sports day ever held in the history of the local Royal Canadian Sea Cadet corps “Quinte” yesterday morning and afternoon. Also included in the day’s activities was the review reviewed by Surgeon-Commander S. Patterson, RCN(R) of HMCS “Cataraqui” of Kingston, was a band competition.

There were Sea Cadets and officers from the Sea Cadet Corps “Sicormont” of Corbyville, “Peel” of Oshawa, “Skeena” of Port Hope, “St. Lawrence” of Kingston, “Hallowell” of Picton and “Trent” of Trenton, as well as the local corps, “Quinte”.

The cadets started off the day with the divisions attending divine services at either Christ Church or St. Michael’s, where each parade being led by a visiting Sea Cadet band. Following the church parade, a parade was held through the business section of the city with four divisions and three bands participating. The parade was reviewed by Lt. Clare RCSC(R) of the local corps and co-ordinated by inspector Clair Hayes of the city police.

Lunch was held in the Hastings

Individual awards of Sea Cadet jacket crests were presented to each cadet who placed first in any of the events. The Victoria Cup was won by the company trophy for annual band competition was won by the RCSC “Sicormont” band. The top award, the “Cock of the Walk” trophy, was won by the Sea Cadets of the “Hallowell” Corps from Picton. This award was presented to the corps accumulating the greatest number of points in the various athletic competitions, coupled with their performances in parade.

In making the “Cock of the Walk” presentation, Surgeon Patterson advised the winning corps that, by tradition, the trophy became the property of the corps who could obtain it by fair means or foul, between now and the next time it is put up for annual competition. He cautioned “Hallowell” to therefore guard the trophy well and not to let it fall into the hands of another corps.

SUGGESTS ANNUAL EVENT

Commander Patterson, who was accompanied by Lt. Donald Street, RCN, also from HMCS “Cataraqui,” said that he was very pleased with the fine out of the participating corps for this event, which, he felt, would produced much good fun and enthusiasm for each cadet. He commended that he hoped this would become an annual event in the roster of extra-curricular activities of the local corps, “Quinte.”

Mr. Peter Wills, president of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada, brought greetings to the cadets and officers present, on behalf of the local committee.

Following the dismissal of the parade, Commissioned Officer A. Hill from Area Office, Toronto, expressed his appreciation to “Quinte” for a “job well done” and to the other corps for their enthusiastic participation.

For the cadets the day was not yet quite over, however, for on the main deck of the armouries “Stormont” band was giving a special concert of band, dance and Dixieland music.

Soon, however the captain and their ships departed, anticipating the next Sea Cadet intercorps parade.

The parade yesterday was the second “extra” event which the local corps has put on during the current training year, which is just two months old. The first special event was a cruise aboard the Royal Canadian Navy barrier craft from HMCS “Cataraqui” from Belleville out into Lake Ontario in June.

Meanwhile the ranks of the local corps have been increasing as more lads are inducted into their interest in taking part in the corps’ training and other activities. Regular weekly training nights are held on Thursdays at the Sea Cadet building on South Front Street, opposite the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club. Any lad between the ages of 14 and 18 years is welcomed to come aboard on any training night at 7:15 o’clock to see for himself what the Sea Cadets have to offer.

Second Strike Slows Return Of GE Workers

NEW YORK (AP) — Workers began returning to their jobs today following settlement of a three-week strike by the International Union of Electrical Workers against General Electric Company.

A strike by another union kept some employees out, however.

The strike at 55 plants was settled Saturday and some 80,000 workers were to resume work today. The settlement provided for an immediate three-per-cent wage increase.

Delays developed at two GE plants, in Lynn and Everett, Mass., because of picketing by some 1,100 members of the American Federation of Technical Engineers, who continued their walkout.

FOOD TURNOUT

GE officials said only about 40 per cent of the 16,200 workers at the Lynn and Everett plants arrived through the picket lines.

“The engineers strike is involved with local issues. It has no connection with the IUE dispute.

Annual Homecoming Is Held By Albert College Alumni

It was a weekend of great activity at Albert College when the annual homecoming of the Alumni, coinciding with the fall Convocation, brought former students from far and near to join in the events which had been planned.

Commencing on Saturday morning, members of the Alumni held a reunion at a dress corner in the Ella Gardiner room. This was followed by a football game in the afternoon when the Old Boys met the New Boys and defeated them.

Later in the afternoon a tea was given by the Women’s Guild at the new Manor, which was a decided success.

At the annual banquet in Ackerman Hall, Chef Hugh Brown prepared an excellent meal which was served in fine style by the male students. The room was tastefully done in an autumn decor, with branches of red oak leaves arranged around the room. Dahlia and mixed bowl of ducks in flight, and squirrel gathering nuts added to the effect. Mingled in low vases and small bouquets of green were interspersed on the tables. Miss Ruth Brintnell and Miss Jardine were responsible for the effective decorations.

Assembling singing set the tone of the evening, with Jim Pullen as enthusiastic song leader and Mrs. Pullen at the piano. At the head table were the Principal, Dr. L. S. Mackenzie and Mrs. MacKenzie; President of the Alumni, Gerald Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Simpson; Dean J. MacKay; Judge and Mrs. Anderson; Miss Jessie Tulfe; Mr. and Mrs. J. Pullen; and the guest speaker, the Rev. Dr. Bruce Grey of New Beach United Church, Toronto.

CHANGED TO FALL

Gerald Grey Thompson welcomed back all former graduates and expressed the belief that the reunion, which had been changed from the June to the fall, was working out well. The Association was growing in the province, and showing satisfactory progress.

A toast to the school was given by Dr. Mackenzie, who also was of the opinion that the reunion in the fall was a great success. “Obviously we have not only renewed friendships but the memories each holds dear,” she said. “It is a college, home and a friend, and we leave the fourth with a mixture of pride, joy and gratitude.”

Judge Anderson, chairman of the Board of Governors, brought greetings from the Board. “You are the ambassadors of this school,” he told the Alumni. “You represent it in many fields and we hope you will bring the attention of the school in various areas to the advantages of Albert College. We will be glad to have you back for the 125th birthday in 1962 at any time.”

Dr. Mackenzie spoke of the encouraging meeting of the Board of Governors held that afternoon, stating that the Board had been re-vitalized under Judge Anderson. With the results of a successful tea that afternoon and a large crowd assembled for the entire of the evening, Miss Sibley, it was decided that the room at the Manor would soon be completed.

SPECIAL PARADES

Introducing the speaker, Dr. MacKenzie spoke of his splendid service in the church as a missionary, and a friend of all who was able to show a personal interest in people by communicating of self. His pastorate at New Beach was a true example of this and a personal delight to welcome Rev. Dr. Bruce Gray to Albert College.

Dr. Gray thanked the school choir which had come to help his church in Toronto, and said they were looking forward to a return visit in February. In a personal reference, he said he was deeply grateful for the friendship shown his son, Donald, who had been a student at Albert.

“For a few weeks I have subscribed to the New York Times to get a close-up on the United Nations,” said the speaker, “I wanted to read the full addresses and the editorials, for I was conscious that this was a great moment in history. I was interested to see how a man who was used to a dictatorship acted when he ran into parliamentary procedure, and I compared him with the disciplined behavior of Prime Minister Macmillan. These leaders have need for a definite clearcut purpose, and the same is true on a personal level.

“Discoveries are made by people who hear a voice saying, ‘Go and find it’. Marconi and Columbus were such men. It was youthful sinsiews who gave us some of our greatest discoveries. Hon. Lester Pearson was a man who rose to great leadership in world affairs. Dr. Marian Hilliard whose passing was widely mourned, went beyond her field of medicine to a philosophy of living which endeared her to thousands.

“Besides a clear-cut purpose, you must be willing to play the game and have persistence. Dr. Frederick Banting and his assistant, Dr. Best, plugged away for thirty-six months, poor as church mice; before they came up with insulin. Today millions of people owe their lives to Banting. You have a chance to say; ‘Let’s take things easy, who cares!’ These are words of defeatism that are not going to get you anywhere. You must believe in the face of peril, and hold to your faith with unwavering purpose. We live as we think, and there is power in the living by our great affirmations. The greatest of these is, ‘I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me’.

“Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are good report, think on these things. Power is yours unlimited”.

Mr. Murray Hunt, who thanked the speaker for coming and for giving of himself, with unswerving purpose. We live as we think, and there is power in the living by our great affirmations. The greatest of these is, ‘I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me’.

WATER BALLET

A water ballet was presented in the pool by girls coached by Miss Carol Widdis. This was executed by synchronized swimmers, showing many pleasing designs by coordinated patterns.

On Sunday morning Mr. N. A. Beach, for many years associated with Albert College, and currently the executive Secretary of OFSSA, was the speaker at the annual chapel service.

A banquet and reunion lunch was served in Ackerman Hall, which brought to a close the special events on the Program. The same executive will continue in office until the reunion next fall.

Hallowe'en For UNICEF

Hallowe'en is just around the corner, as a variety of whipped cream topping for next weekend.

Hallowe'en has been changing in the nature of recent years. It used to be concerned solely with fun and frolic, with trick or treat. Then some adults, probably gasping after an evening of watching this annual display of youthful exuberance, got the bright idea of harnessing this flood of energy to a worthy cause. If memory serves us right, it was the Kinsmen Club which had this brain wave, using the witches and hobgoblins to collect funds for its "Milk for Britain" Fund.

In recent years a new, but equally worthy, cause has been helped by the Hallowe'en celebrants. UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, has been having youngsters collect pennies, nickels and dimes which have helped to pay for milk and medicine for needy children in many lands.

Here in Belleville this collection was first undertaken by a small group, but the children who participated proved so enthusiastic, and the response from adults they canvassed was so encouraging, that the project grew.

We understand these UNICEF ghosts and sprites will be abroad again in Belleville next Monday. They deserve a warm reception. Their willingness to forego the traditional Hallowe'en loot of candy kisses and caramel apples and nuts and chocolates and stuff, in favor of the opportunity to assist less fortunate children in far lands, is a heart-warming example of the idealism of the young. We think adults ought to stock up on the usual Hallowe'en goodies, and be ready for a plentiful supply of pennies for these callers. That way all can share in the benefits.

Perhaps, the idea of supporting a work of this nature by the donation of pennies seems ridiculous. We agree that such a gift would seem to be the recipient of dollar bills, instead of pennies. But pennies add up. "Hallowe'en for UNICEF" started in Canada in 1955. Over $15,000 was raised. In 1956 the total was $42,000, in 1957 $75,000, in 1958 $135,000, and in 1959 $200,000. That rate of growth suggests an objective of $250,000, a quarter of a million, this year. Of course, it is obvious that the fund cannot keep swelling indefinitely at this rate—but we already have more than adequate proof of the manner in which, given a good cause, a comparatively modest project can mushroom into something of real importance and significance.

Two Different Kinds of People

We have been hearing much, and are destined to hear more, about what are commonly called the "uncommitted nations" of the world, those lands which are not definitely and irrevocably tied to either of the two mammoth power blocs opposing each other in the Cold War.

Most, but not all, of these nations are located either in Africa or Asia. Most, but not all, of them have in common the fact that they have just recently attained independence.

It is natural, therefore, to lump these lands together. We hear talk of the Afro-Asian bloc, and it may well be that such a bloc, if it does not actually exist today, will shortly emerge.

This, though, ought not to blind us to a great and significant difference between most of the African and Asian lands. Reiman Morin, Associated Press interpretative writer, summed it up in a phrase used as a mere aside in a recent article when he referred to the "politically sophisticated Asians."

Nobody would call the Africans, as a group, politically sophisticated, although there may be individual leaders who are highly sophisticated. But the Asians, although they may only recently have thrown off the colonial yoke and won the right to run their own governments, in most cases have many centuries of civilization behind them.

The question arises, of course, of just what sophistication in politics consists. It seems to us that this must be a recognition that politics is the art of the possible, coupled with sufficient cynicism to make the people wary of any regime which offers even an apparent short cut to absolute power, devoid of any counterbalances or safeguards.

"Hey Mom, come and help me work this algebra problem."

Accordingly she had been learning how to help him get ready ideal in his preparation both of his arithmetic lessons in the grades and now his algebra lessons in high school.

He will have plenty of problems and to teach him how to solve them himself, and if he thinks he can run to you or anyone else for the solution he is licked before he starts. Miracles of the Universe
Our Neighbourhood

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 1

"The neighborhood of the Sun" is called the Solar System. It consists of the Sun in the middle, and around it circle nine planets. The Solar System is the family of the Sun. Some of the planets have moons going around them, and then there are also comets, meteors and asteroids. These all together make up the Solar System—a tiny little family hovering around a hot furnace (the Sun) to keep warm, like moths attracted to the light.

The Sun is a star — a very strange average star at that. And the Sun is only 1 star in over 100 billion stars which together form what is called the Milky Way galaxy. As you look into space on a clear dark night, you see above you shimmering it all, like the Milky Way. It is made up of billions of stars like our Sun, all moving constantly give off light. The Milky Way is not just above us also in on the other side of the earth too. So the earth is inside the Milky Way. We are not like a pea in the middle of a great ocean, looking towards the far walls — but we are in the ocean. Earth is in the Milky Way.

Our Earth circles our star (the Sun) just as Venus and other planets likely circle their star (or Sun). We have yet to make much sense of other planets or to begin to take a look at our neighborhood.

Our neighborhood is the Solar System, which is a little more than a minute part of a big batch of galaxies that the Milky Way galaxy.

SIZE IN CENTRE

In the centre of our Solar System is the Sun, which we described in its size earlier. Around the Sun circle nine planets at varying distances out from the Sun.

The closest planet is Mercury 36 million miles away. The furthest is the latest discovered planet, Pluto, which is 3,670,000,000 (3 3-3 billion miles). Mercury goes around the Sun about four times as fast as earth year, while Pluto goes around the Sun once every 248 earth years.

None of the members of the Solar System has any light of its own except the Sun. So any planet we see is simply reflecting the light of the Sun.

The nine planets revolve around the Sun in an orbit shaped a little like an egg (an ellipse) rather than an exact circle, although most orbits depart very little from a circular shape. All the planets go around the Sun anticlockwise (opposite direction to the minute-hand of a clock). All planets except Uranus also rotate anticlockwise (rotate is to spin on one's axis, or revolving of course one has an axis.)

DISTANCES

While to a layman the planets behave in a fairly regular pattern around the Sun, the comets, meteors and asteroids behave in rather erratic patterns which we will later discuss.

Interestingly enough all the planets revolve around the Earth in nearly the same plane — flat like a disk. (Mercury and Pluto are different and don't follow the group pattern—as Dr. Robert Jastrow says "they are different.")

The planets could have circled the Sun in any way, even wind a ball of string or a ball of wool—but we are going north to south, this one going east to west, this one going another direction.

But they don't. They all go anti-clockwise and nearly in the same plane.

Why?

That is a great mystery, but a clue to their origin!

The Sun has also some of the interesting general characteristics of the Solar System.

(1) Nine major planets revolve the same way around the Sun.

(2) The Sun, planets and satellites all spin on their axes in the same direction (anti-clockwise). (Except Uranus).

(3) The planetary plane is relatively flat.

(4) Small planets are near the Sun, large planets farther out. (Except Pluto which sometimes can be an escaped moon of Neptune.)

(5) The satellite systems of Jupiter and Saturn are very much like the planetary system as a whole.

(6) The chemical contents of the Sun and its planets are the same and in the proportions of each very greatly.

(7) The shape of the orbits and angle of their planes are such that they indicate a common origin.

Strictly Personal
Why Are Girls Not Drafted Like Boys?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If young men can be drafted into military service, why should young women not be drafted for peacetime needs? If boys can have their education and career unceremoniously interrupted for two years, why should not girls — whose education and careers are not necessarily any more important — be asked to serve for a comparable period?

I am thinking, for one thing, of the woeful shortage of nursing help in the nation's hospitals, which are for the most part non - profit organizations.

Both women and men have the right to vote, and became full - fledged citizens; they also assumed the obligations of citizenship. Should not one of these obligations be a period of service to the nation before marriage and child - rearing? Everyone sees such period as the high school graduate of 18 were required to give a year or two of full - time to public work or nursery guidance, unless physical or family considerations prevented this? The young men, after all, are going to undergo more demanding sacrifices of their time and energy.

The median age for the United States continues to increase, our hospitals and nursing homes will be that much more burdened. We are becoming an elderly nation, and our medical bills are going to rise steadily over the next generation.

Hospitals have been caught in a painful bind, as the cost of medical services goes up. The scarcity of labor for these low-paying jobs is one of the biggest factors in the steep increase of hospital costs. There seems no way out of this impasse.

Why are wartime needs always considered more "essential" than peacetime needs? Keeping the civilian population as severely as military emergencies exist, in fact, the role of the average soldier is going to be diminished in the future, while the role of nurse will probably become more important.

When women won the vote 40 years ago, they thought they would solve the equals of men in all the functions of citizenship.

Perhaps they will, when it is time for them to share some of the obligations of citizenship — wholly apart from the fact that some service among the sick and the aged would be a beautiful initiatory duty for the men) fit them more fully for their future as wives and mothers.

Use Gluttons To End Gluts

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The age-old maxim "let the buyer beware" has governed countless fur centuries. Even nonsense and foresight prevents the citizen from buying products he did not need.

Then along came Mr. Ford and he, it was assumed, had the whip-hand over the manufacturer.

But within the past decade the manufacturer has come into his own. By appealing to man's vanity, social consciousness, and above all to the "keep up" urge now being razzle-dazzled into buying what we don't need and into wasting what we already have, by phoney obsolescence it is worn out.

We now are persuaded that we must have two cars, both of which we should turn in from time to year, a few lawn and another at the beach, a pair of sunglasses for the car and lipstick to match the stocking, two TV sets where one would do, a phone in every room to match the color of the wallpaper, and night cream to harmonize with the color of the bedspread.

Our economy has become dependent on the speed with which we buy unessentials. This is expensive consumption, based on one of the 20th century economic truths that the way to

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 24th, 1940.

Kiwanis Club members enjoyed one of the finest banquets in years at the Canadian United Church last evening when they played hosts to the school children of six schools in Thurlow and Sidney Township who carried on the Poultry Project, outlined by the Kiwanis Club. Lyle Hustler of the Swift Canadian Company and Mr. L. G. Pain, Agricultural Representative for Hastings County, who assisted materially in putting over the scheme, were special guests. To the ladies of Canadian United Church a special word of pride today of the preparation they provided a most bountiful repast.

Dancing, music and dancing, pavilion, a well-known land mark and one time amusement place on the Belleville waterfront soon will be nothing but a memory. Under the wrecking bars and demolition equipment the old dance hall building which not so many years ago provided a popular place for boating parties and other amusements, is fast disappearing and presently there will be nothing left but the lot upon which the boarding-ing rested.

Thurlow Farmers' Clubs of Hastings County learned with pride today of the presentation Monday to Dr. Fred Routley, national commissioner of Canadian Red Cross Society of a cheque for $2,050 by Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. The money was raised by the junior farmers' clubs of Ontario for the purpose of purchasing and ambulance for service in England.

WART OR SOLE A RALLY MAKES MOLEHILL A MOUNTAIN

"Dear Dr. Molner: What about 'plantar warts'? Mine first showed up about eight or nine years ago. Trimming them gives only temporary relief, and looser shoes around home are not the answer. Is surgery advisable? I do not like to make a mountain out of a molehill, but I am afraid that if the condition gets worse, I will find it impossible to walk. — Mrs. L. B."

You are having much more difficulty with these warts than is usual. But even for a relatively short time, compared to your experience, plantar warts can be a miserable experience.

Making a "mountain out of a molehill"? Anyone with this trouble knows that "molehill" on the sole of the foot feels like a mountain — a sharp, painful mountain. Walk, stand, or move, it is painful.

Plantar warts are so named simply because they are on the plantar surface, meaning on the sole of the foot.

So far as we can determine, plantars are like other warts except that they are on the sole of the foot, and since this places your weight on the wart, the pressure forces them down deeper into the tissue. Often a callus forms over the wart.

These warts, miserable pests that they are, can vary from pinhead size to the size of the so-called mosaic warts, which are the size of a quarter or a half dollar.

It seems evident that a virus causes these plantar and other warts and the trouble is considered mildly contagious. Sweaty wear slippers around the house is not helpful, since this aids spreading the virus to others. Frankly, I'm not certain that the virus can spread directly this way, but I'd say play it safe.

The warts themselves can be destroyed quite readily. The problem is to do it with the least damage to surrounding tissues, and with the least interference with the normal activity of the patient.

There are different methods for removing warts, depending somewhat on the skill and experience of the physician. Freezing with cold carbon dioxide or liquid air, burning with oxygen; destruction with electric needle under local anesthesia; touching with fuming nitric acid or other escharotic agent. A physician usually prefers the method which, by experience, seems to be best for him.

If a person can't get rid of all of every wart, if there are several of them, he may as well be pretty well satisfied with some practical instruction by the doctor on the best way to keep from scraping away the callus. After all, the goal is to get rid of the trouble.

A word of warning: Patients with circulatory trouble, diabetes, or other similar problems must be on guard against infection, and should have their doctors do such procedures.

As to surgery: Well, cutting out the wart and sewing up the wound is not, in my opinion, advisable as a practicable. The sole of the foot is not an ideal place for such surgery, and it means staying off your feet while the healing takes place.

Getting rid of plantar warts is not easy, it's often a tedious task. I personally recommend the aid of a dermatologist (skin specialist) or podiatrist (trained in foot care) for this type of trouble.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

One of my nephews drove into the side drive in his new car. It was a beauty. No fins. No waste curves. No gilter. Just a long smooth grey machine that seemed to sweep by in motion when it was standing still.

The proud young owner opened the front door and showed the steel comfort of the interior. He was lifting button to open when my Uncle Ed came down from the verandah where he had been sitting viewing the scene.

"Look at all the space!" exclaimed my nephew.

He then went forward and opened the hood, exposing the immaculate unstained engine, a masterpiece occupying better than a third of the entire length of the car.

"Power!" cried my nephew proudly.

"You mean to say," protested Uncle Ed, "that engine? That it takes all that engine to haul this little bitty car? How ridiculous! Let me show you CPR engines that can haul a loaded freight train half a mile long! One single little old steam engine pulling back sixty, seventy, a hundred times their size and weight. And you need all that engine just to pull this little bitty buggy!"

Uncle Ed stamped back up to the verandah to view the self-deluded world.

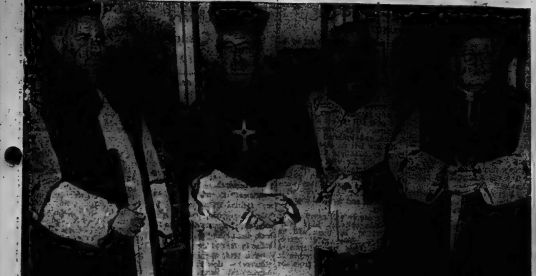
TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REASONS FOR LIVING

The more complicated civilization becomes and the more confusing the affairs of the world, the more we find reasons for living. For it is at such times that things are in motion! There is happiness where there are problems to be solved and opportunities to put one's talents to work. People grow careless and lazy when things are running too smoothly.

It is only under great stress that man strives and excels.



Be glad if you have to work hard and long. Happy indeed is he who has ever risen high but has gone through lost that. History's times are those that have made men's souls. The big character is he who has "come up out of the fire."

With much to do, there is much to live for.

We all have our aches, our pains, our discouragements, our times of deep loneliness, our bitter disappointments—as well as our fine instances of inspiration and happiness. We are each of us about as human as human can be.

But all of these are our reasons for living and playing out the game bravely to the end. I am not a believer that this life is a preparation for a life of tears," and that we are going to be happy somewhere else. In some heaven that is absolutely perfect after we have left our tasks here and have left behind both heaven and hell are rigid. There is no heaven, there is no hell. Hell is unhappiness. Heaven is progress of bigness. The more we serve, the happier we are. The more we hinder, the unh- they are.

Just remember that wherever there are many things in motion, you have dozens of chances to kick out and take that best suit your ability and your desires.

Lieut.-Colonel T. F. Gelley, registrar at the Royal Military College, Kingston, is seen addressing audience at the official opening of the new Nicholson College held Sunday afternoon. College replaces former St. Michael's High School formed back in 1930 under direction of the late Monsignor Nicholson after whom the college was named.

Archbishop J. A. O'Sullivan Dedicates, Officially Opens New Nicholson College Here

The name of a former much loved local educationist and religious head, the late Monsignor James F. Nicholson, was honored yesterday as baudrers of Belleville and district Roman Catholics attended the official dedication and opening of the Nicholson Catholic College on Church St.

Most Reverend J. A. O'Sullivan, D.D., Archbishop of Kingston, officially opened the new college, while Lt. Col T. F. Gelley, registrar at the Royal Military College, Kingston and Diocesan President of the Holy Name Union, was the guest speaker.

The auditorium of the new $500,000 college was filled to capacity for the ceremonies which included formal laying of the cornerstone of the college by the Archbishop by the visiting Archbishop. The Fourth Degree Knights from Frontenac Council in Kingston and Council in Belleville formed the guard of honor.

One of the highlights of the afternoon ceremonies was the presentation of a portrait of the late Monsignor Nicholson in whose honor the new school was named.

BOARD ACCEPT GIFT

J. E. Buckley made the presentation on behalf of the local Knights of Columbus, with Richard Barrett, chairman of the Nicholson College School Board, accepting the gift on behalf of his board. The portrait, together with medals won by the late Monsignor during his war service will be hung in the foyer of the new college.

In officially opening the new college, Archbishop O'Sullivan said he was happy to be associated with its dedication and had been very pleased to note that the college had been renamed in honor of the late Monsignor Nicholson.

Expressing his thanks to the many Belleville Catholics for what he termed their great sacrifice in erecting the college the Archbishop warned that the Nicholson Catholic College would be a considerable burden to the people of the city.

"We receive no government aid for a Catholic high school," he said, "and in fact some think that we should not have them".

BETTER EQUIPPED.

"But," he continued "we want our children to have a better education synchronized with their secular education."

He said that in these troubled times people with a religious education were better equipped to cope with the many conflicts of today.

He noted that the St. Michael's High School of yesterday had filled a big need in the education needs of Belleville Catholics and he hoped that the new Nicholson College would have an even more glorious history than that of the origin school.

"The whole community benefits by the graduates of this school."

"I pay the school keep up its fine record and excel it — that is my wish on the opening of this college," he said.

Greetings from the city of Belleville were brought by Mayor A. M. Haig who said it was very fitting that the new school bore the name of the late Monsignor Nicholson.

MAN OF GREAT HEART

"I remember Monsignor Nicholson as a man of great heart and one who was extremely devoted to his Church," Mayor Haig said, "I pay private and public tribute to his memory."

Mayor Haig said the new school further enlarged the educational facilities of the city and noted that the people as a whole appreciated its contribution.

Guest speaker Lieut.-Col. Gelley also paid tribute to the late Monsignor Nicholson noting particularly his fine war record as chaplain during World War I.

He noted that during the fighting on the Western Front the Belleville chaplain had captured a group of German prisoners while armed with nothing more than his cane.

Like Archbishop O'Sullivan the speaker warned his listeners that the support of the new college was the responsibility of Belleville Catholics. "This school was not born with a silver spoon in its mouth," he said.

SPEAKER DEFENDS ROLE

The speaker defended the role of press of private schools, noting that they were able to give more personalized training than were public schools.

"There is a tendency today toward mass production but who would prefer bread made in a bakery to home made bread," he asked.

He disagreed with the claim from certain quarters that private schools served to advance segregation and create social snobbery.

"This is not so," he said, "rather, the aim is to produce students with a special hallmark of leadership training, who under normal circumstances would not have the same opportunity for high character development.

"This," he said, "was more successfully obtained in private schools."

Col. Gelley warned his listeners against the dangers of communism and said that parents cannot escape the responsibility of providing their children with the best in education and in moral and leadership training.

DEVOTED TIME TO SCHOOL

During the 20 years in which he was pastor at St. Michael's Church, the late Monsignor Nicholson devoted a large part of his time to St. Michael's High School.

It was he who saw to the establishment of a complete high school course and watched over the mass of details involved in running a school.

Realizing that the John Street building would one day prove inadequate to serve the increased number of students, Monsignor Nicholson foresaw the building of the new high school.

With great practicality he willed his large personal library of religious and classical works to the high school library and left a generous bequest to the new school when he died in 1950.

It was this legacy from a former pastor which started the fund with which the new Nicholson College was built.

Others left money for the same purpose and various parish organizations from time to time contributed to the growing fund.

SCHOOL COST $420,000

The original cost estimate of the new school was $325,000 and this was the target set for a bills campaign early in 1959 to raise the balance of the necessary funds.

But as it often the case with such projects, the actual sum required outstripped the original estimate and the total cost of the school to date, with furnishings, is about $420,000.

St. Michael's high school first opened in Belleville in 1930, then consisting of but one room in St. Michael's Academy where Grade 11 was taught. The high school was expanded to two rooms the following year and in 1932 there were three grades, 11, 12 and 13.

In 1941 a new convent was built in the city and the St. Michael's High School acquired the old convent building which was used until the new Nicholson College was constructed.

140 NOW ENROLLED

The new college was designed to accommodate 240 students in Grades 11, 12 and 13. Registration this year is 140. College Principal is Sister Mary Teresa.

The new two-storey building is of plain brick with red brick walls and aluminum doors and windows. Along with teachers' offices, and basement auditorium which will seat close to 500, it has eight classrooms, including a science laboratory, biology room and commercial room as well as library and lunch room.

Separate entrances are provided for the girls and boys at the southwest and southeast corners. A half flight up from the main entrance is the ground floor of the classrooms while a half flight down is the lunch room and spectator gallery overlooking the auditorium on the lower level below.

The Tatham Company of Belleville were the general contractors with Watson and Wingrad the architects.

Sunday's dedication ceremonies were emceed by Richard Barrett, chairman of the school board, who introduced Archbishop O'Sullivan. Thanks to the Archbishop were expressed by Herbert Brown.

RECEPTION HELD

Lieut.-Col. Angus Duffy introduced guest speaker Col. Gelley.

Following the ceremonies a reception tea was held in lunch room under the direction of the girls' action convenors of the Catholic Women's League and convened by the hospitality convenors of the three parish councils Mrs. A. Evez, Mrs. Roy Johnson and Mrs. Frank Domenico.

Chairman was Mrs. Herbert Brown and pouring tea were Mrs. Ed. Logan, Mrs. E. Schreiber, Mrs. F. Domenico and Mrs. V. Muldoon.

Tea makers and replenishers were Mrs. D. Doran, Mrs. W. Smith, Mrs. E. Kelly, Mrs. J. Meagher, Mrs. W. Buller, Mrs. J. Doran, Mrs. E. Poirier, Mrs. A. Wilkinson, Mrs. O. Murphy, Mrs. J. A. Lumsden, Mrs. T. Duggan, Mrs. J. Winkle and Mrs. J. Gallagher.

Portrait of the late Monsignor Nicholson was the gift of the Belleville Knights of Columbus to the new Nicholson College. Looking at the portrait of the former parish pastor are college principal Sister Mary Teresa; Richard Barrett, college board chairman, and J. E. Buckley, who made the presentation on behalf of the Knights.

Cement Co. 25 Year Club Holds Banquet

POINT ANNE — The annual banquet of the 25 Year Club and turkey dinner of the Canada Cement Company plant No. 1 was held at the Quinte Hotel, on Tuesday evening with a large gathering of members of the club and friends.

The welcome was extended by the chairman, Mr. A. Drysdale. A toast to the Queen and grace by Mr. J. R. Legate, superintendent of plant No. 5.

Mr. Drysdale, chairman for the evening, called on the supervisors who presented the men with cigars and cigarets and the ladies with lovely cups and saucers.

The chairman paid tribute to those who had passed away in the last year, and also wishing those who were sick, a speedy recovery. He also greeted members who were from a distance, after which, he called on several speakers for the evening.

The main address was given by Mr. J. M. Brown, president and general manager, who presented the new member to the 25 year club, Mr. A. F. Whitehead, with a wrist watch, wishing him good luck and many more years with the Canada Cement Co. Art expressed his thanks.

Mr. Brown gave an interesting talk on the growth of the Canada Cement in the past and the future. In August, 1959, the Company celebrated its 50th year anniversary, having completed a half century of successful operation.

In looking back over the years, the speaker said, "I feel we have a justifiable pride in what has been accomplished, and we should pay grateful tribute to past employees, and officers for the great part they played in making possible the progress of the company during its period.

COMPANY'S PROGRESS

"The progress of the company has grown until today it is one of the larger companies in the cement industry on the continent. The number of employees is in the neighborhood of 2,500 and I hope that the Portland cement will continue to be one of the most valuable building materials for us.

"The most important thing, however, is no matter what growth lies ahead, it is up to each and every one of us to do his level best to see that our company shares growth.

"To accomplish this result will mean continuing hard work and the use of all the ability each one of us can bring to the task if the company is to continue to prosper. I am sure I can count on every one to do his part in achieving the goal and the wish is that the company in the next 50 years will be better than the past. Only the employees can make this come true."

Other speakers were Mr. V. C. Hamilton, general manager of operations; Mr. G. A. Grant, vice-president and director of sales; Mr. H. B. Howe, assistant general manager of operations; Mr. R. B. Hall, labor relations and safety supervisor; Mr. R. M. Johnson, district sales manager at the Ottawa office; and Mr. J. R. Legate, plant superintendent of plant No. 5 who all gave brief remarks on the plant's progress, wishing success in the future to all present and also to the new member of the club, Mr. Whitehead.

Those from a distance attending the banquet were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wasylaenan and Mr. Mike Wasylaenan, Toronto, and Mrs. Dan Sweeney, Toronto.

turned to the cabin and saw the body.

Police Chief John Arbour entered the cabin through a window opposite the one through which Forget was shot. The body was lying across the doorway. A partially-consumed meal was on the table.

HEARD NO SHOT

Nearby residents said they heard no shot Friday night. With many hunters in the area, they said, they would not have paid much attention.

Chief Arbour said when he entered the cabin, the radio and an electric heater were on but lights were out.

Forget, a widower, moved to Coleman five years ago. He had returned to supervise cutting of Christmas trees on Mr. Brady's farm and his own lot.

He had withdrawn the money Friday night to pay employees and often carried large sums of money with him, relatives said.

Police said they are investigating whether there is any connection between the shooting and the armed robbery of Mrs. Harry Talbot, 74, a storekeeper who was beaten and robbed Thursday night. Two armed masked men entered her store and escaped with $15.

Bundle Dumped Into Canal Might Be Body

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Police have a mystery on their hands today which may involve a murder or merely illegal dumping into the Welland ship canal.

Crew members of the American barge Michigan told police Saturday they observed two cars, with headlights out, pull up to a wall of the waterway and dump what appeared to be a body into the water. The barge was tied up on the opposite wall of the canal awaiting good weather before entering Lake Erie.

Members of the local fire department's rescue unit conducted dragging operations for 2½ hours. They found nothing.

Police engaged a skin diver Sunday afternoon but murky water limited his activity to one dive, during which he observed nothing.

FORD

continue to decline. Total federal tax on the Falcon compact was $686 compared with $772 on the similarly-sized Zephyr, a British Ford sold by Ford of Canada.

The sale of foreign imports was not rising this year as rapidly as in 1959 but "if the trend continues, there obviously is a point at which the economic feasibility of passenger car production in Canada becomes a question of critical importance."

Ford took a dim view of the argument that reducing the frequency of model changeovers would cut costs. The industry is too highly competitive. Reducing the number of models for sale would open the door to more foreign sales.

Producing a small European-type car in Canada would cost more than buying the same thing and appeared an "economic impossibility."

ST. DENIS — MILLIGAN

White Shasta 'mums and pink gladioli formed a lovely setting for a recent very pretty wedding in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when Marilyn Catherine Josephine Milligan became the bride of Leo Joseph L. St. Denis, also of Belleville. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John A. Milligan, Belleville, and the late Mr. Milligan, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene St. Denis, Belleville. The Reverend Peter Murphy officiated. White bows marked the guest pews.

Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, who sang "Ave Maria," before the ceremony. "Panis Angelicus" during the Communion and "O Perfect Love" following the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Beverly Milligan, wore a floor length bridal gown of silk organza over taffeta fashioned with scoop neck fitted lace bodice having Sabrina neckline, and long sheik-like sleeves, full skirt highlighted with inserts of scalloped French lace. She wore a finger-tip veil of silk illusion tulle with matching edge of French lace, and crown of lace inserts bordered with seed pearls and sequins, and carried a cascade bouquet of rust roses with white pompon streamers knotted with rosebuds.

Miss Carolyn Day of Belleville, was maid of honor, gowned in forest green silk organza, full-skirted with dome effect and molded bodice having a scoop neckline and tiny sleeves. A bow accented the waist line. She wore matching headdress and veil.

Miss Shirley St. Denis, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Shirley Henn, also of Belleville, were bridesmaids in pink-beige silk organza, fashioned similarly to that of the maid of honor, with matching shoes and headdress. The bridesmaids carried crescent bouquets 'mums with tinted green 'mums as centre and the bridesmaids' nosegays of bronze 'mums as centres, surrounded with green foliage.

Mr. Robert Brooks, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Jerry St. Denis, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Terry Foley, also of Belleville ushered the guests.

Guests attended from Belleville; Napanee; Huntsville.

The bride was entertained previous to her marriage at a shower at the home of Miss June Sheridan with Miss Shirley St. Denis, as co-hostesses when a miscellaneous shower was given for her; also at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Carolyn Day, when she received many lovely gifts.

Boy Scout Aux. Board Elects 1960-1 Officers

The Belleville and district Boy Scout Auxiliary Executive Board held its first meeting of the season at the home of Chaplain Andrew's on Church School Hill on Friday evening, with the president, Mrs. Blaker presiding. She extended a warm welcome to the members and special guests, Mrs. Hodgson, of Peterborough, who is regional representative for Quinte area, and Mrs. B. Brown, president of the Peterborough Executive Board.

As this was an annual meeting Mrs. A. Athey gave a full report of the year's act vities. Correspondence was also read from Mr. A. S. Robb, United Appeal Campaign chairman, who stated that Mrs. Dave McDonald, divisional chairman for the West Hill residential district, has done a thorough, conscientious job in getting the organization set up, and wishes to pass on to the Scout Mothers his sincere thanks and appreciation for their co-operation in this endeavour.

Mrs. L. Blaker expressed thanks to Mrs. McDonald for her efforts toward the United Appeal on behalf of the Executive Board.

Mrs. P. C. Gelsthorpe reported on a meeting which she attended recently in Toronto for all presidents of Executive Boards across Ontario. It was learned that Executive Boards should look after supplies and it was suggested that stamps which are in aid of the handicapped Scouts of the world, be saved and sent to Ottawa, which Mrs. L. Blaker consented to do. There is also a new handbook for auxiliaries.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. L. Blaker introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. G. Hodgson, who congratulated the Executive Board for making such fine progress in the last two years. Her theme was based on the "Scout Laws" and suggested that members could use it in their daily lives, such as "Are we able to give constructive criticism without hurting anyone." She also stated that character and behavior make a boy, and this can be gained by the training he gets at home.

During the question and answer period, Mrs. Hodgson stated that the highest honor that could be given by an auxiliary...is a past president's pin, which is given for one year's service, but encouraged presidents to stay on for two years. Before ordering a pin it must be approved by the president of the Executive Board. Mrs. Hodgson also said that auxiliary members should stand behind their president and executive and give their full support if it is for a successful auxiliary.

Mrs. L. Blaker reported that there are now two Cub packs at O.S.D.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. L. Andrews, nominating chairman, took charge with the following being elected into office:

The Greatest Legacy

By ALMA MASON

Recently, a splendid teacher, given and the example set by a husband and father died. These good mother, our beloved friend words in memory of him cast a lovely twilight on a worthwhile life.

He had the divine talent of forgiveness. He possessed the ability to rise above petty annoyances and keep sight of the big things. He lived above and beyond prejudice. He championed the cause of the underdog, whenever he came in contact with them. He was a good neighbor, a kind friend, a concrete beast, a generous wealth of courtesy, a patient listener and a prince of good will. He was a man of God which passeth all understanding.

This man was unable to bestow gifts of money on others. He often lamented the fact that his purse was thin. Jesus did not have an abundance of this world's goods to distribute to the poor, but He said, "My peace I leave with you." He gave us a greater gift ever known to be bestowed on to humanity. His life of service and His sacrificial death. A poor carpenter, He labored among the common folk, bringing into new beauty and clarity the lives of the lowly. He was a friend to the friendless and the scorned.

He walked with God. He died did not think his life work important; he did not think he had made any lasting impression, nor was the cause of humanity. We who knew him and loved him, were richer in life on this earth left in its wake wealth beyond the counting.

He walked with God and in the hand of God, quietly distributing his particular priceless gifts, comfort in trouble, serenity in confusion, love and faith and cheer in discouragement. He was a shepherd who laid down his life for his sheep.

What important and magnificent gifts can be bequeathed humanity? We who knew him may endow hospitals, churches, museums, colleges, but the real inspiring young students with bursaries. We may stimulate the search for medical research. This is all very noble and worthy and necessary. Few of us have material life have the money to do this, however. What, then, can we do that will endure through the centuries and be commended also in the sight of God?

LIMITED LEGACIES

An unselfish life tinged with beautiful music, soul stirring patience and courage. Here are these legacies limited to only a few to bequeath.

This man who has died spent his younger years in a simple home. He had a godly and wise mother. She used to admonish her family of seven children to read good books, seek a good education, and pray for guidance to the hills of faith and their talents turned to faith and service through faith.

How little they had materially to aid them in the worthwhile goals she set for them, yet they all climbed the hills each one gaining strength to bless the brother or sister struggling a step below.

TEA-PARTY TIPS

My little friend, Mrs. Inexperienced, recently entertained at rather formal tea. She arranged a beguiful table. The centrepiece was flanked on either side by silver candlesticks with long white tapers. Sdylight was streaming in the windows when the party started, but she lit the candles anyway. They added a touch of flame looked very feeble in the broad daylight.

The table was covered with a damask cloth, with no pad under it. Endeavoring to add a little different touch, Mrs. Inexperienced folded the tea napkins into oreate peaks and arranged them around the forks and spoons she had placed at one end of the table. At the other end reposed a lovely silver tea service, with cups and saucers placed beside it. She decided to forego having coffee, thinking that tea would be sufficient.

The refreshments were small, dainty sandwiches and little squares of cake. While they were delicious, the icing on the cake was so sticky that it was necessary to eat it with a fork. This necessitated a plate for the purpose. Mixed nuts and bonbons rounded out the menu.

As hostess, Mrs. Inexperienced felt that she should do the honors by pouring the tea for her guests. This meant that she had to jump up and down to greet newcomers, with the natural result that the serving of her guests was delayed time and time again.

Afterwards, she asked me if she had slipped up in any of the details because she felt that the party had not been as much of a success as she had wished. I offered the following suggestions:

Candles add a nice touch to any late afternoon party, but they should not be used unless it is dark. A tablecloth of damask should always have a silence cloth or pad under it. Otherwise it is bound to slip. Napkins should never be folded into fancy shapes. They should be folded flat and placed next to the cups and saucers, so that a guest receives her napkin at the same time she obtains them. Teaspoons should have been placed on the saucers beside the cups.

A tip to the hostess: At a party of this kind, it is wise to serve foods for which a fork is not necessary. Small, bite size sandwiches, and cakes that can easily be eaten with the fingers, are much easier for your guests to handle. Attempting to balance a plate while using a fork, and at the same time manipulate a cup and saucer, is not conducive to the guest's comfort, or pleasure.

I am sure both the hostess and her guests would have spent a more enjoyable afternoon had she asked several of her friends to take turns pouring tea. Far from bestowing a chore on one's friends, asking them to assist is considered an honor. If the hostess arranges for this prior to the party, she will be free to greet and mingle with her guests.

Prize-Winning Dilly Bread Courtesy Leona Schnuelle

By Mary Moore

Thanksgiving Dinner at our house took a strange turn.

We went to the TiCat - Argo football game in the afternoon so I left two ducks in the oven, roasting at 175 deg. Fahr. Early in the morning before Sue wakened, I made the Dilly Bread which by Leona Schnuelle which won the $33,000, prize at the U. S. National Bake - Off in Washington.

I held it back, after the first rising, in the refrigerator, then baked it along with the ducks, when I raised the temperature to brown them.

The Dilly Bread was a smash hit and regardless of roast ducks and birthday cake (for Wyn) ate it to the last crumb. That crumb I have on my desk before me to pick apart as I describe it to you.

PRIZE-WINNING DILLY BREAD

1 packet active dry yeast (or 1 cake compressed yeast)
1-4 cup warm water
1 cup creamed cottage cheese, heated to lukewarm (see note)
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon dill seed
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon soda
1 unbeaten egg
2 1-4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Note: Be sure to heat the cottage cheese very slowly and just a little, because if you do not it will form into a tough rubbery ball.

Soften yeast in water 5 minutes. Combine softened yeast in mixing bowl with cottage cheese, sugar, onion, butter, dill seed, salt, soda and egg. Add flour gradually to form a stiff dough, pausing to beat well after each addition. Cover and let rise for 1 to 1-2 hours at room temperature until dough is light and doubled in size. Stir down dough. Turn into well - greased 8-inch round casserole of 6-cup capacity. Let rise until light and risen 2 or 3" higher than rim of baking dish. (Or put in refrigerator, uncovered, for about five hours). Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. If loaf has come directly from refrigerator it will require 1 hour baking. If it has risen at room temperature it requires 50 minutes. Be sure not to underbake this loaf for a good crisp brown crust is one of its charms. If desired, brush with butter and sprinkle with salt after baking but while still hot.

I took it directly from the oven to a round bread board at the dining - room table where Peady sliced it as we desired it.

Do try this loaf while it is hot news. It will add a new yeast bread to your (I hope) fattening file.

LIFE SAVERS

"Mankind has been made by men"—G. K. Chesterton.

Commenting upon the successful healing of her child's surgical wound, a Belleville mother exclaimed: "What a debt the world owes Lord Lister, whose system of antiseptic surgery (about 1880) made all the world skin"

Dr. Howard Rusk, long a staunch reporter of medical research, recently pointed out another illustration of the international aspects of medicine. It all began four years ago, he says, when he was in Moscow, officially visiting research and teaching centres. The great news there, then, was a surgical stapling machine.

This particular lifesaver was a most complex instrument, comprised of more than 40 parts which could use various sized "staja umnyen ye spasy razrez" which is finer than human hair. In seconds, two to 12 stitches could automatically and accurately suture minute blood vessels and nerves impossible to be joined by hands and conventional instruments. Even organs may be transplanted with it at the Institute of Experimental Surgery, and throughout the world this amazing device was heralded as the beginning of a new surgical era.

For three years, Dr. Rusk continues, surgeons and scientists the world over tried to obtain this stapler but failed. Finally one man accomplished the impossible by virtue of persistent negotiation. He purchased the instrument in the Soviet Union for almost $3,000. His name is David Rose, an American builder, industrialist and philanthropist, who, with Dr. William Foster Snell and Dr. Budi Mailing (both with the Bell Telephone Laboratories) have reduced the surgical pneumatic stapler (which took two hours to load, dismantle and clean) to a relatively simple one. Now it can be used by the usual operating room personnel, is as efficient as the original, and only a fraction of its cost. While this was being done in the U. S., a Japanese doctor did research on suturing machines at a university in Japan, and demonstrated them in a number of European clinics.

Declares Dr. Rusk: "An intolerant bomb born in Russia, redesigned and made practical in the United States, changed in Japan and service - tested in Europe—here, for sure, is internationally medicine at work."

The acknowledged need of a clinical and research program whereby medical science ideas may be co-ordinated with science and technology of engineering. Now is being met by a small committee for the first time in the U.S. whose purpose is to promote this dream to a reality.

Such an approach, Dr. Rusk says, could help become a conserver for all mankind, and would be another great stride in the conquest of disease.

Bellevignette: The above reference to the famed Dr. Lister brings to mind the fact that a relative of that gentleman once lived in Belleville, where his great-granddaughter also lived until recently.

When a young man, handsome, 30 and medically educated comes to a new locality such as Belleville, from London, England (" . . . his mother came with him and they first settled in Shannonville where she had brought over a dinner-set for 18 people. I've been told" said the great-granddaughter.) it doesn't take too long to become acquainted. Thus one is not too surprised to hear that young Dr. James Lister is soon paying court to Margaret, daughter of another doctor, Dr. George Cowper, who lives on the corner of Bridge and Front (or to learn that two years later they were married. That was in October, 1863.

Those reading of the wedding would learn that the groom was born in London, England, June 30, 4811; that he attended a private school at the age of 12 in Corfe, Tyrland. Later, in Dublin, he received a degree from the school of science. Then practised near Barnstable, Devonshire, for six years before emigrating to Canada.

From Dr. Cannilton's book, it is learned that Dr. J. Lister became a member of the Royal College of Surgeons in 1843, and received a degree of M.D. from McGill College to Montreal, in 1852. Due to his ill-health and dedicated life to his profession, when he never refused a call regardless of weather, his health became seriously impaired and he was an invalid some years before his death in March, 1878. ("we'd years before his relative was to become world famous.) "He lived, a pure, exemplary and noble life," we are told.

But . . . my great-grandparents had four daughters of whom Frances, the eldest, was

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

The October meeting of the Quinte Institute was held in the Memorial Hall, Dundas St. East, on the 4th, with an attendance of 33 members.

Mrs. Ross Mumby, Mrs. R. Atkins, opened the meeting.

The letters and correspondence were read and dealt with in turn.

Delegates named to attend the Area Convention were: Mrs. A. Mitchell; alternate, Mrs. W. Tufts. Mrs. A. Mitchell was also to take down the notes for the public relations officer, Mrs. H. Grills as she was unable to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Atkins turned the meeting over to the historical research and events secretaryconvener, Mrs. C. Woods and Mrs. F. Bedell. Mrs. Woods took the roll call and everyone sang "A Bicycle Built for Two" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

The motto was given by Mrs. Bell and read as follows: "plant seeds of character in your home, they will blossom in the future." She based her talk on sharing, reading and giving, which gave all a lot to think about.

Mrs. Sharpe gave the report on current events from June 10, 1959, to Oct. 4, 1960. Belleville has a population of 32,700 for 1960 and an area of 7,635 acres.

A singsong of "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean" and "Loch Lomond" was enjoyed.

Mrs. C. Woods, historical research convener, gave a paper on the "History of the Mohawk Indians," which noted a lot of things not previously known, going a long way back when the Mohawks came to the Bay of Quinte shores.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Bell for such a short notice, prepared for a banquet for the "Little Britain Institute" the night of the Institute meeting.

The meeting was taken over by the president, Mrs. Atkins, and plans were finished for the recent afternoon tea and bake sale.

Thanks were given to the lunch committee, Mrs. C. Woods, Mrs. F. Bedell, Mrs. L. Sharpe, Mrs. Trumpour and Mrs. Bellamy.

Lunch was served.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

James V. — Iam 40 years old and for the first half of my life I grew up thinking both my parents were dead. I was raised by my grandmother, my mother's mother. She died when I was 20, and had just started in business with one of my uncles.

When I started taking girls out and was thinking of marriage, one of my aunts took me aside and told me family had agreed to tell me the truth. My father was alive, remarried, and living in a distant place. He had divorced my mother shortly after my birth and she had died, when only 20, of a "broken heart."

Naturally this knocked me for a loop. I decided to contact my father and get the story from him. I wrote a letter explaining up before bringing a wife into the picture.

He was overjoyed, promptly sent me his picture, asked for mine and enclosed a large cheque with a request that I visit him. He informed me that he and his second wife were childless, he had prospered in the paper-box business and was now retired, and I was his only heir.

I didn't jump at the ball, I still don't, even though I'm married now and have three children. My wife knows the background and understands my reluctance to act like a "real heel." The meeting opened at all.

My father and his wife travel to our town several times a year, ply us with gifts (try to make the warm up to them.

Otto V.: Jim can't understand that I was victimized. You'd think now that he's a father himself he'd listen with an open mind.

I'm from the old country and I had no money. Indeed when my family sold me they had pledged me in marriage to a beautiful girl whose father would take me right into his tailoring business. I was 21 years and although I looked older, in those days no matter what was wrong with a girl, the parents and relatives were sure that marriage and a few children would cure it.

It turned out that Jim's mother had tried to kill herself. She was extremely unhappy and today would have been in the care of a psychiatrist. Unfortunately, I was no cure for her. After becoming pregnant she fled to her mother's home and "wouldn't let me near her. She screamed at the sight of me. With the aid of my family, I filed and got a divorce.

I've made a new life. I don't know how much of the past I ought to be blamed for. I know Jim must have had it drilled into him that I was a terrible person, heartless and false and the rest. Now I want to show him my true self. But he freezes up.

Doesn't he realize the importance of blood ties?

* * *

The Council: Mr. V. should take heart from the fact that Jim initiated their person-to-person correspondence to each other. But a hurt of almost 30 years doesn't disappear overnight at the writing of a bankroll.

Jim is playing it cautious and cool. To him this isn't a question of letting bygones be bygones. He wants to feel the way for some thing basic to get hold of, something solid to build on. His bewilderment is deep-rooted and a mere pronouncement of paternal love won't do it.

But the road to a real relationship is open and it's two-way. That's progress. Now Jim ought to quit being punitive. Whatever the reason, Otto, Jim would do well to stop sitting in judgment and try to cover his father as a plain human being, a man who has had his trials and has come through them with more or less success. Under similar provocation, would Jim himself have done better? Who's to say?

And Mr. V. might stop pushing so hard. It will certainly dawn on Jim one of these days that he and his family are fortunate to have these older people on tap, welling over with love for the only descendants they'll ever have. One doesn't turn away lightly a blood relative, no matter how many tears have flowed in between. But

Fashion Colors Simply Come And Then Go

By DAVE STOCKAND

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) The world of fashion sees nothing far-fetched in turning out a stunning creation just the shade to match the current international situation.

Hitting on the right combination, luck aside, seems to hinge on awareness of history, an understanding of the times and a realization that women have very short clothing memories — "no sense of costume period" in fashion lingo.

Advice to manufacturers on how to plot a course to the pot of gold at the end of the fashion rainbow was handed out Tuesday by Miss Joy McGillivray of Toronto, director of the Wool Bureau of Canada.

She told the annual conference of the Canadian Knitwear and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association:

"There is nothing new under the sun in fashion colors, they simply come and go, evolve and revolve."

Mrs. McGillivray said that "reminiscent of the 1930s" is perhaps the most widely-used phrase for describing today's fashions.

Why?

There's a simple answer, she said. The 1930s were in fact an era of transition in fashion—but the Second World War wiped it out along and reversed the trends for the duration.

Then there is the matter of clothes preference. Some like it, which we live, and the women folk are reacting to tense and disturbing circumstances.

Said Mrs. McGillawes: "Only one thing can make a style permanent—mobberty."

Mr. V. must try to coast for a while on the momentum of his effort up to now.

Jim knows he's in the powerseat and his father is a supplicant trying to right a wrong, with time running out. Perhaps he'll be able to see them each as victims of innocent victims of family mistakes.

Quinte W.I. Holds Most Successful Tea

The Quinte Women's Institute Memorial Hall was beautifully decorated with colored ice-ces and fruit for the recent afternoon tea and bake sale.

The large tea table, with the lace table cloth was attractive with its silver tea servers, candelabras and floral centre-piece.

Those pouring tea were: Mrs. A. Mitchell; Mrs. F. Bedell; Mrs. C. Reid and Mrs. E. Vivian.

The little tea tables were also pretty with their lunch clothes and flower centres.

The servers were: Mrs. M. Mitchell; Mrs. F. Reid; Mrs. Butterril; Mrs. William Lasariuk and Mrs. R. McMullen.

The homebake table, with its white cloth and flower centre was a great attraction for the afternoon with angel cake; cup cakes; layer cake; date cakes; cookies of all kind; pumpkin, cherry, apple and turkey pie; home made bread and buns.

The ladies at this table were, Mrs. D. Leeming, Mrs. R. Grills, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. A. Greatrix.

Those replenishing the plates and making tea were; Mrs. Sharpe; Mrs. Trumpour; Mrs. K. R. Vivian and Mrs. A. Cook.

There was also a 'white elephant' table in charge of Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. D. Atkins and Mrs. Geroux.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. Jeffery received at the door and the president, Mrs. Robert Atkins, welcomed the guests as they came in.

The tea proved to be a wonderful success with which all were pleased.

Friends in Foreign Countries Treasure Little Gadget Gifts

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Q) "Could you suggest some small gifts to be taken to friends in Europe? You know how welcome little remembrances are, but to find easily packable, inexpensive, typically American items is the problem." — Mrs. D. R. Mack.

A) The most welcome gift we can think of is nylons for the women. These are expensive and generally poor in quality throughout Europe. Pens and windproof cigaret lighters are treasured also, for either or both of the above reasons. Pressure can shaving cream and certain typically American cosmetics, depending on the needs and taste of your friends, may be valued. So will any useful gadgets, such as mechanical can openers.

Whatever you bring, think about it carefully; you don't say want to take your friends things that are to Europe to buy. Fabrics, wines, foodstuffs, watches, clocks, optical equipment and pipes are just a few of the many things Europeans can get as well or better — and cheaper — than we do.

Q) "I am 33, single, and would like to know how to become acquainted with a few congenial, travel-loving companions to join in a trip south or to California, or on a cruise. Are there any travel groups in this area, or could I start my own placing a classified ad in the paper?" — Miss M. R.

A) The ad is a fine idea if you've a good organizer, game and careful. But most travel agencies can sell you a spot on a chalor party," an assorted group of congenial single people of similar ages and tastes. It is well worth investigating, from what we hear.

Q) "Can you tell me what sort of tours the — Travel Agency here put on?" — Mrs. M. S.

A) This is as good a place as any to point out to many who have asked similar questions about local travel agents that the agent generally does not "put on" tours. Tours usually are organized by large national organizations known in the trade as "wholesalers" and participation in them is "retailed" to the customer through the local agents on a first-come, first-served basis.

The reputation of the tour operator is what counts, and on this score you must depend on the integrity of your local agent for guidance. Reputations in the travel business are made the same way as in any other — by word of mouth. If you know people who have dealt with the agent or gone on a tour with the wholesaler suggested to you, check with them about their experience.

Q) "On past vacations I have always found, after leaving an area, that for a short side trip I could have seen an attraction worth the extra effort. So I won't miss out again, is there any way of acquiring information while I am still in the area " — W. T.

CHECK ROAD MAPS

A) Most people don't realize that their road maps are treasure troves of such information. Anywhere you go, the local chamber of commerce or tourist promotion agency will be happy to help you. Frequently they have offices on approaching highways. Clerks and sightseeing operators in hotels and motels can also be most helpful.

Q) "Which parts of Europe have the mildest winter climates and which have the most comfortably heated hotel rooms? What areas are most reasonably priced? — Miss L. M. M.

A) Southern Europe — Spain, Portugal, the South of France, Italy and Greece have the best winter temperatures. Frankly, we've never seen a properly heated European hotel room, and precious few in this country. England, Ireland, Spain, Portugal and Germany are the least expensive countries.

Miss C. M. G. has a packing suggestion worth passing along that ties in with our policy of laying everything flat in a large suitcase instead of fooling with hanging and folding:

"After I pack my shoes and uneven items in the bottom of the case I place a cardboard the size of the case over them and put heavier clothes on top of it. Then another cardboard, light items and a final cardboard over the top before tying tightly. Not only does this keep all clothes smooth, but each layer can be reached without hunting just by lifting the board above it. And the cupboard adds very little to the weight."

LITTLE FAT

Many varieties of fish—sole, haddock and cod, for instance—are very low in fat content.

Wallbridge HM Club Elects Officers

WALLBRIDGE — The girls of Wallbridge Homemaking Club have started their homemaking unit working with wool, with leaders Mrs. A. E. Brown and assistant, Mrs. L. J. Ketcheson.

Election of officers was as follows: president, Marjorie Wannamaker; vice-president, Sharon Wannamaker; press reporter, Nancy Phillips.

There was a discussion on covers and name for club; it was decided to call themselves "Wallbridge Woollies." Five pieces of material that look like wool, were to be brought to the next meeting for discussion on weaves, style and pattern followed.

Scientists 2,000 Miles North Of Winnipeg Finding Out How, Why the Earth Cracks

AXEL HEIBERG ISLAND, N.W.T. (CP)—Work starts next summer on the job of drilling the most northerly hole in the Western Hemisphere.

The job will cost an estimated $200,000. It will take months of tortuous planning, back-straining labor, and delicate synchronization of schedules—and all to find out, mainly, how cold the ground is.

The drilling is a project of an expedition sponsored by McGill University and Dr. George Jacobsen, permafrost expert who heads an Arctic - oriented construction company.

The expedition, now in the second year of its three-year study of Axel Heiberg Island 2,000 miles north of Winnipeg, is the first integrated, intensive study of an Arctic area. It brings together specialists in many different fields to combine their work into one complete picture.

EXPERT IMPORTED

The drilling project is one of its more important works, important enough that Dr. Jacobsen imported one of the most brilliant scientists his field, Dr. Arthur Lachenbruch of the U.S. Geological Survey, to pick the site for the hole.

At 31, Dr. Lachenbruch heads an American project that has studied temperatures in more than 150 holes dug in Alaska and he is recognized as a leader in the mathematics of heat-flow in the ground.

He travelled more than 6,000 miles from his home in Palo Alto, Calif., to decide that a hole 2¾ inches in diameter will be drilled 2,000 feet into the everfrozen coastal plain on the east side of the island.

"We should really learn something," he said enthusiastically, "unless we hit oil and the hole gets all cluttered up."

CLIMATIC HISTORY

The obvious things the hole will tell are: The structure of the soil and bedrock, the depth of the permafrost and the temperatures at various levels down to the bottom.

The less obvious things to be deduced are the climate and geological history of the area thousands of years back and the trend of the climate since.

Dr. Lachenbruch picked a site near way between the inland mountains, whose mixed-up rock formations and ice - caps would complicate the temperature readings, and the waters of Eureka Sound, whose warmth would also disturb the readings.

The drilling rig, a cumbersome, expensive jumble of machinery, will be shipped up to Eureka by Icebreaker during the annual Arctic supply mission next summer. Eureka, on Ellesmere Island, is the farthest north any surface ship has ever gone.

SPECIAL CABLE

In the fall when Eureka Sound freezes over, the rig will be mounted on its special tracks and dragged across the ice to Axel Heiberg.

"If we are lucky," said Dr. Jacobsen, "the ice will be smooth. Sometimes it is full of hills and hummocks and snowdrifts, six feet high. Then we are not lucky."

The rig will be set up the following spring, the hole will be drilled and the special temperature - measuring cable, put together by the U.S. Geological Survey, will be flown in and lowered into the hole. It will stay there until it rots.

The cable is composed of dozens of fine wires with thermistors, devices whose electrical resistance changes with temperature, spliced into them. The wires are arranged so that the cable will have thermistors every 100 feet, or closer if necessary.

By measuring the difference in current between a wire carrying a thermistor and a wire carrying none, scientists can tell the temperature at the thermistor's level.

Once they have figured out how fast heat travels through the ground, the rate at which it enters out and the local effects of such things as glaciers and bodies of water, the scientists can start figuring out what the climate was like hundreds of years ago.

CREEPING COLD

The air warms up the surface layers of the ground. They warm up the layers below and the warmth, getting fainter and fainter, creeps downward. A cold snap at the surface would start a wave of cold creeping down following the warmth.

"It's as if the heat puts a signal in the earth," said Dr. Lachenbruch. "The signal travels down and if we know how fast it is going and how much it is changing we drill down and catch it."

Thus the temperature at, in one purely arbitrary figures, 100 feet, could tell what the temperature at the surface was, say, 100 years ago. This can tell whether the climate over the years is getting colder or warmer, whether ice-caps are receding or advancing, whether bodies of water are falling in level or rising.

Money for the project is coming from many sources. Canada's National Research Council, which already has some experience with a thermistor cable in a shallow hole on Resolute Island, is to help pay for the drilling rig.

Private sources including oil companies, who would benefit from precise knowledge of the geological formations under Axel Heiberg, are also being tapped for funds.

Farm Wives Name Favorite Home Appliance

OTTAWA — What does the Canadian farm housewife consider the most useful piece of equipment in her home?

This question was posed to 833 homemakers residing in each county and district of Ontario by the rural sociology unit of the Canada Department of Agriculture in conjunction with the home economics service of the provincial government.

The answer: a power washing machine.

The survey, reports Dr. Helen C. Abell, who, is head of the rural sociology unit, listed 37 pieces of equipment as considered "most useful" by the rural housewife.

An analysis showed that an electric or gas stove, ranked next to the washing machine, and was closely followed by a refrigerator. All were owned in 85 to 88 per cent of the farm homes and were the choice of three-quarters of those surveyed.

Fourth piece of equipment considered most useful was an automatic clothes drier. Although found in only 11 per cent of the homes included in the study, theirier was named as one of the most useful labor savers by over half of the women who had one.

High on the list of useful home equipment came these electrical appliances: a freezer, a vacuum cleaner and a floor polisher.

Other items mentioned by fewer of the women were: an ironer or mangle, an electric food mixer, a sewing machine an electric coffee maker and toaster.

Comments Dr. Abell:

"These figures on the equipment which save arduous physical labor need to be recognized by farm women and their husbands as a desirable and necessary part of farm family living."

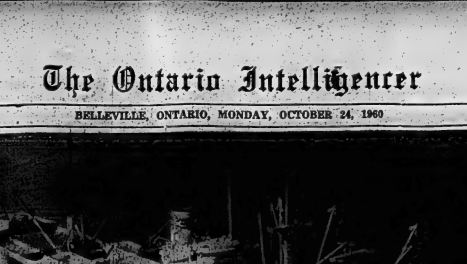
Massive Push Through Public Investment Is Urged by CLC As Solution to Unemployment

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress, warning that national survival is at stake, called today for a massive push through public investment to spur the Canadian economy to higher rates of growth.

The proposal was offered to the prime minister's Conference on Employment as a long-term solution to chronic unemployment, one of six kinds of unemployment the labor body said plagues the economy.

The CLC brief, presented by President Claude Jodoin as the two-day conference opened, repeated a demand for an immediate, emergency session of Parliament to start now implementing proposed solutions.



It said the steam has gone out of defence spending and private investment although they remained big factors in economic growth. Large sustained increases were required in spending on health, education, child welfare, low-cost housing, slum clearance, urban redevelopment, parks, roads and development and conservation of natural resources.

The money could be raised only by deficit financing by governments and an increase in the money supply, he said. A 1,000,000-member congress argued this would not be inflationary because Canada has the means of production and necessary labor to produce extra goods to match the extra money put in circulation.

The 12,000 - word brief said chronic unemployment is evidence before the current decrease in production and likely to be worse even after production turns up again, is a bigger problem than recession because employment just beginning to be felt.

The most immediate problem was to reverse the trend to falling production which was producing recession unemployment, and the best remedy is tax cuts. This will raise consumer purchasing power and boost business activity, faster than anything else.

In addition, the perennial problem of "seasonal unemployment of 250,000 workers is a national scandal."

Chinese Leader Bows to Will Of Khrushchev

LONDON (AP)—Mao Tse-tung Sunday humbly recognized the Soviet Union as the world's strongest Communist power and offered to soft-pedal his ideological quarrel with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in the interest of communist solidarity.

The Chinese Communist leader said his three top associates in Peking sent a message to Moscow which "stopped just short of bowing completely to Khrushchev's will.

Their telegram, addressed to Khrushchev and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, was delivered by Moscow radio. It spoke of "the eternal inviolable fraternal friendship" of the peoples of Red China and the Soviet Union and called for Communist countries to "rally together even closer and intensify the struggle against imperialism."

Mao almost seemed to buy Khrushchev's theory that war has become unthinkable in this nuclear age and that peaceful coexistence, in any event, is strong enough now to defeat capitalism by competition without shooting.

However, Mao did not specifically acknowledge that war has become an impractical instrument of national policy in the H-bomb age.

Mao regards himself as a supporter of fundamental Leninist doctrine. He has described war as an inevitable part of communism's march to world domination and has suggested that Khrushchev's revisionists doctrines tend to weaken the revolutionary drive of the Communist world.

Compulsory Auto Insurance Plan Would Cost Province Millions Minister's Report

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Secretary James Allan said Friday a provincially-operated car insurance system suggested by the CCF would cost Ontario millions of dollars annually.

He was commenting on a brief submitted to the Ontario legislature's select committee on automotive insurance Friday by the Ontario CCF recommending a compulsory auto insurance plan.

Ross Whitcher, Liberal member for Bruce, criticized the proposal on the ground that it would cost the province as much as $6,000,000 a year in lost corporation taxes.

Carroll Coburn, Ontario CCF president, submitted the brief which said a provincial scheme could be operated less expensively than by private insurance companies.

Vernon Singer, Liberal member for York Centre, said such a scheme operates in Saskatchewan and no taxes are paid on its reserves or profits.

Mr. Allan said that if a private company in Ontario makes a profit, 52 per cent of the money goes to the province.

Mr. Allan said he hoped the committee would have a report and recommendations completed by January.

Mr. Coburn's brief called for a system of compulsory public insurance, operated at cost, without profit and with minimum administrative expenses.

He said the Ontario plan should be similar in principle to the plan in effect in Saskatchewan.

The Saskatchewan plan provides:

Death benefits up to $10,000; benefits for dismemberment or loss of function of members or organ up to $4,000; weekly indemnity during disability up to 104 weeks, and supplementary allowance for medical and related expenses up to $2,000.

In addition, he said, every Saskatchewan car owner and driver has a comprehensive protection against loss due to collision, fire, theft or other listed causes, and third party liability covering personal injury or property damage to others.

About 85 per cent out of every premium dollar has been or will be returned to or paid on behalf of Saskatchewan policy-holders as compared with 33 cents of the premium dollar in Ontario, Mr. Coburn said.

He charged that the Ontario insurance law gives drivers the right to drive "without a scrap of insurance."

"Such being the law, there will always be some people who will neglect to take out insurance—possibly, in many cases, because the added expense of insurance bought from a private company is more than they can really pay."

The Ontario division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in its brief recommended that Ontario adopt the safety responsibility legislation of Manitoba.

This stipulates that in any accident resulting in bodily injury or property damage in excess of $100, the vehicle is immediately impounded by the police unless the driver produces evidence of financial responsibility at the scene of the accident.

Cuba Transfers $120,000,000 to Canadian Banks

HAVANA (Reuters)—The bulk of Cuba's assets in the United States has been secretly transferred during the last five months to the Royal Bank of Canada and Bank of Nova Scotia, governments sources said Sunday.

The sources said "well over" $60,000,000 was deposited in each bank, backed by Cuba's gold reserves.

The sources said transfers from the United States were made in small instalments by couriers who carried nothing in writing to avoid arousing American suspicions.

It was understood that the government regards the assets as a possible fund to finance projected deals with private Canadian companies to meet Cuba's immediate and long - term machinery and spare parts requirements.

Laos Overnight Becomes Member Neutralist Bloc

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — For better or worse, the strategic kingdom of Laos almost overnight has become a member of the neutralist bloc.

In three months, it gradually has turned away from the West and bloodlessly established a regime which looks to Moscow as much as to Washington, London and Paris.

The arrival of Soviet Ambassador Alexander Abramov here last week completed the major political change in this mountain land bordering on Communist China and North Vietnam.

Abramov came here at the invitation of neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, who was brought to power by a bloodless coup Aug. 9.

Manufacturers Propose Tax Reductions, Higher Tariff

OTTAWA (CP) — Tax reductions and increased tariff and other protectionist powers were proposed today to the prime minister's Conference on Employment by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

The CMA said that one in every four jobs is in the manufacturing industry, and "the most effective manner by which unemployment can be remedied is through the health of this leading industry." The brief was presented by CMA general manager, president, and Ian F. McRae, Hamilton.

The brief said employment in manufacturing is shrinking at a time when the labor force is increasing, adding that in the absence of "the greatest and most single factor "is the huge volume of fully manufactured goods imported into Canada."

"Canada has gone too far in reducing customs duties under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, and further reductions should be made at the current GATT conference to allow for increases in tariffs on imports competing with Canadian-produced goods.

"We contend that it should be possible within the present framework of GATT to adjust Canadian tariff rates to levels which will give adequate protection industries the major share of the domestic market.

Steps should be taken to prevent dumping of foreign surplus goods in Canada, faced with the disadvantages of a small population and high wages, must have lower tariffs than its larger competitors since taxes are Canada's principal source of costs.

Tax incentives should be offered to provide greater employment, including incentives to encourage capital, not now produced in Canada.

Cohen, the first Jew ever to run for the post in Montreal.

The civic election probably be the last under the city's present 20-year-old administrative system.

Since 1940 Montreal has had a mayor and 66 councillors, one which a seven - man executive committee is chosen. But the Quebec government plans to revise the system by October, 1962 — the time a new election is scheduled to be held.

Under the old system, elections were held every three years.

Several Houses Raided on Eve Of Election

MONTREAL (CP)—Squads of provincial police raided several houses Sunday night on the eve of Montreal's municipal elections.

Mayoralty candidate Jean Drapeau held about 200 persons at an east-end rally the raids had rented "positive evidence" of the existence of "a giant telegraphing network" designed to steal victory at the polls.

He said he personally accompanied police to a raid on one rooming house in which fake ballots, cards and other documents were seized.

Four persons were in the house but none was arrested.

Provincial police confirmed the raid on the rooming house but said they were not taking charge in the election. They were only acting on complaints brought by private citizens.

OBTAINED WARRANT

Provincial police director, Jos Ernest Dorais said Mr. Drapeau obtained a search warrant signed by Judge Marc Andre Bisaillon then visited him.

Mr. Drapeau said he would go to court today to demand arrest warrants for some individuals and would ask that night city acting police to suspected localities.

Maps and other cards and documents seized place the raid graph 697 votes in a section of Electoral District 6.

He claimed cards found in the said bore the names and descriptions of voters who were known to stay away from the polls and whose votes could be "passed fraudulently."

SHOWS MAP

Unfolding a large electoral map of Montreal Mr. Drapeau said it bore markings showing more than 4,000 votes were supplied in the same district in 1957, "almost enough to have returned me to the mayoralty."

He was defeated at the election by Mayor Sarto Fournier.

"When I said in 1957 that there had been 20,000 stolen votes they laughed at me. Now I've proven in one small part of one electoral district there were 600 votes to be stolen."

Provincial police have jurisdiction in city elections because all municipal regulations are chartered by the provincial government.

A SIXTH ELIGIBLE

A total of 345,676 voters roughly one-sixth of Montreal's population, are eligible to select a municipal administration for a restricted two-year term.

The voters will choose between five candidates for the mayoralty post and between 238 candidates in 11 districts for 6 election council seats.

They will also be asked in a plebiscite referendum whether 33 appointed "class C" councillors should be abolished or retained. These are appointed by various bodies such as universities, labor groups and business organizations.

The mayoralty candidates are Incumbent Senator Fournier; Mr. Drapeau; Lucien Tremblay, Union Nationale member of the Quebec legislature for Montreal-Maisonneuve; dentist Dr. Gerard Albert, and lawyer Ralph

Two Abandoned Infants Returned To California

TORONTO (CP)—Two infants, abandoned in Toronto by their mother last month, were returned to their father in San Francisco Saturday by two consular employees.

Mrs. Dianne Sternberg, 28, of Oakland, Calif., left Michelle, 22 months, and Theresa, seven months, with a baby sitter in a downtown hotel and disappeared after leaving her money at a race k, police said.

The Catholic Children's Aid Society raised the father but he could not afford the fare to get the children home.

Cynthia Cochrane and Barbara Hobson of American Airlines volunteered to take the infants to California by jet, using most of their annual 7,500-mile free air travel allotment to get them there. There was no charge for the tots; since children under two travel free if accompanied by adults.

Quads Born In Detroit All Healthy

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Mary Glunnane gave birth to quadruplets — all boys — here Sunday.

A nurse at Providence Hospital reported the 30 - year - old mother was doing well and the father, Gerard, 29, is thrilled.

Doctors told Mrs. Glunnane some time ago she would have quadruplets. They are named Peter, Paul, Vincent and Gerard.

The glunnanes live in suburban Highland Park. The father earns $40 a week at a machinery manufacturing firm.

Possibility Result of U.S. Vote Not Known Until Dec.

WASHINGTON (AP)—If next month's election is as close as some experts think it will be, the identity of the president of the United States may not be known until Dec. 13, or even later.

The electoral college meets Dec 19 to make official the results of the Nov. 8 election.

Should the 537 electors representing the 50 states fail to produce a majority for anyone, the House of Representatives of the 87th Congress, which convenes until Jan 3, will elect the new president.

It wouldn't be the first time that the electoral college has been locked and threw the election into the lap of the House. The last time it happened was 135 years ago.

The electors will be chosen by the voters in their respective states. Each state is now entitled to one elector for each member it has in the House and Senate. Generally, the strategist say and traditionally they cast their votes for the presidential nominee who received the largest vote in their state, they don't have to.

As recently as 1956, an Alabama elector refused to cast his vote to Adlai Stevenson, although Stevenson was the choice for the 5,000 votes ever President Eisenhower.

Nor do the electors of a state have to vote as a unit The rebel in 1956 pledged to vote either Nixon or Kennedy could determine the outcome. They could vote for a third person.

If the electors cast votes for the two principal parties receives an electoral vote majority, the election then would go to the House. There, each state would have only one vote. The vote of each of the 50 state delegations would be determined by a majority of the delegation.

Normally, the party with control of the most state delegations in the House would elect its man president. The present House lineup gives Democrats control of 34 delegations and Republicans eight, with the remaining eight tied. The lineup could be altered in the new Congress which would do the voting if the election went to the House.

In 1801, the House elected Thomas Jefferson over Aaron Burr, after each man received 73 electoral votes. It took the House seven days and 36 ballots to settle on Jefferson. Burr became vice-president.

In 1825, Andrew Jackson received the most electoral votes but didn't become president. His electoral vote, 99, was short of a majority. John Quincy Adams had 84, William Crawford 41 and Henry Clay 37. There were only 24 states then and Adams received the vote of 13 House delegations and became president.

Construction Assoc. Suggests Incentives to Builders To Keep Activity in Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Construction Association today suggested incentives on industrial and commercial construction to maintain activity in the industry and combat winter unemployment.

A brief presented to prime minister's Conference on Employment by Jack M. Soules, association president, said the response to such employment-incentive plans as the municipal winter works program would be equally successful if applied to industrial and commercial building.

Incentives should be primarily directed at the purchasers of construction since the building industry is a field most responsive to variations in demand, Mr. Soules said.

PROPOSES INCENTIVES

Among the forms of incentive proposed:

1. Accelerated depreciation or capital cost allowances offered by the federal government to encourage owners to make capital investments wholly or partly in winter months.

2. Compensation for extra expenses involved in winter building, including at least exemption from federal sales tax of heating, fuels and shelters.

3. Extension of the winter building activity provisions to cover municipal services contractors are required to install in their developments and which are subsequently operated by municipalities.

4. Consideration of a rebate on personal income tax returns in the case of houses built during winter.

BIRTH RATE BOTHERS

The brief said potentially one of the most serious unemployment problems is the high birth rate during the Second World War and postwar years.

"Increased emphasis on training programs at all levels will henceforth be necessary . . . European countries spend 10 times more per capita than Canada on apprenticeship.

URGES FLAN COURSE

The Canadian Universities Foundation urged that the conference chart a course for long-term solutions to employment problems.

"Something is radically wrong with Canada's economy if every year the country has to look to government at the federal, provincial and municipal levels for winter palliatives," the foundation said in a brief.

"It would be a pity if the only result of the meeting were the compilation of a list of works which might be launched to soak up Canadian manpower now idle in unemployment.

"However, if such a list were to be prepared the universities and colleges had a $428,733,000 construction program which should be done by 1963 and for which they lacked the cash.

TAKE SOCCER CROWN

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Italia downed Montreal Canada 4-2 Sunday to win the National Soccer League championship, taking the best-of-three series with two games tied.

U.S. College Football

NEW YORK (AP) — A fresh play by a third-string centre and a last-gasp field goal saved the kicks of mighty Iowa and Mississippi as 11 of the major U.S. college football teams passed the season's halfway mark Saturday with unspoiled records.

Except for these two pace-setting giants, Nos. 1 and 2 in the rankings, most of the big teams came through rather handily.

Iowa won its fifth straight game with a 22-14 victory over Purdue—and the crowning blow was an 86-yard scoring run with a fumble by a lowly sophomore sub, Dayton Ferry.

Mississippi squeezed out a 15-7 triumph over Arkansas on a 29-yard field goal by Allen Green which barely beat the closing gun.

The other nine teams with unbeaten-united records are Navy, Missouri, Utah State and New Mexico State, six triumphs each, and Syracuse, Minnesota, Baylor, Yale and Rutgers, five each.

Syracuse, the defending national champion and ranked third nationally, mauled West Virginia 45-6.

MAY BE PROSECUTED

WINNIPEG (CP) — The attorney-general's department has empowered police in Flin Flon, Man., to prosecute the Flin Flon community club for holding a paid - admission hockey game Sunday, Oct. 16. The community club will be prosecuted as the operator of both the northern Manitoba town's arena and Flin Flon Bombers. Members and Regina Pats played a Saskatchewan Junior League game for a paid crowd that Sunday.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (CP) — Harmonizing, a 37-to-1 longshot claimed for $3,300 last year, whipped bold Bald Eagle and Sword Dancer in the $110,300 Man o'War Stakes at Belmont Park Saturday.

In the other top U.S. race Saturday, Bowl of Flowers won the Gardenia Stakes at Camden, N.J., and virtually sewed up the championship for two - year - old fillies.

Harmonizing's first place was worth $70,000 to owner Sadie L. King. The six-year-old son of Counterpoint swept off the head of the stretch a quarter of a mile out, cut through on the rail and went in the wire 2¼ lengths ahead of Bald Eagle.

Sword Dancer, next to last much of the way, barely beat out Wolfram for third. Bald Eagle was second by four lengths.

The 1¼ - mile event, run in 2:32 1-5, had been billed as a duel for "horse of the year" honors between Bald Eagle and Sword Dancer. The Dancer had the title last year.

Harmonizing paid $77.30, $14.90 and $5.40. Bald Eagle, coupled with Tooth and Nail, returned $3.40 and $2.70. Sword Dancer paid $2.70.

STORMED FROM BEHIND

In the Gardenia Stakes Bowl of Flowers came from deep last at the halfway mark past 15 other entries to win by a length over Angel Speed. Prominent Lady was third.

The victory was worth $90,623 to Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane.

Bowl of Flowers, a 4-to-5 favorite, returned $3.40, $2.60 and $2.20. Angel Speed $9.80 and $5.40 and Prominent Lady $16.20.

Night Dress ($3.40) and Rose's Gem ($8.60) won the split division of the $15,000 added Scarp Handicap at Sportsman's Park.

Royals Win Soccer Cup

VANCOUVER (CP)—Westminster Royals won the Dominion soccer cup for an unprecedented eighth time Sunday by shutting out Toronto Goicen Mite 4-0.

Only poor shooting on their own part prevented Royals from defeating the Eastern champions by a greater score in the game played in rainy weather.

Royals, who lost the Canadian championship to a Montreal team last year, led 1-0 at the end of the first half and dominated play in the second half.

The Trots

BATAVIA, "N.Y. (CP)—Andy Byrd, owned and driven by Harold Wellwood of West Dearborn, Mich., outlasted Armbro Express at the wire in the $3,000 invitational pace at Batavia Downs Saturday night.

Newport Admiral was third. The time was 2:04 4-5.

Les Echo C, owned by Jack Muhlenbecher and Neil McLean of Port Elgin, Ont., won the second race.

Eagles Nudge Browns 31-29 In Thriller

NEW YORK (AP)—Detroit Lions, winless in three tries, upset the champion Baltimore Colts 30-27 Sunday and left Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears in a virtual tie for the Western Conference lead in the National Football League.

Houston Oilers and Denver Broncos retained their leads in the two divisions of the American Football League.

While the Lions cracked the Colts with the help of three tremendous field goals—for 52, 31 and 40 yards—by Jim Martin, the Packers beat San Francisco 41-14. The Bears, down 17-10 at the end of three quarters, rallied for a 24-24 tie at Los Angeles against the winless Rams.

It was the third straight success for the Packers since an opening upset by the Bears, who now have a 3-1-1 won-lost-tied record. Baltimore is third at 2-2.

In the Eastern Conference of the NFL, Philadelphia Eagles moved past Cleveland into second place behind idle New York by beating the Browns 31-29 on Bobby Walston's 38 - yard field goal with 15 seconds remaining.

In other NFL games, Washington Redskins tied Pittsburgh 27-27 on Bob Khayat's 43-yard field goal with 44 seconds left, and St. Louis Cardinals defeated winless Dallas 12-10 on a 15-yard field goal by Gerry Perry with 45 seconds remaining.

Denver, down 24-3 in the third period, whipped Boston Patriots 31-24 to retain the Western Division lead in the AFL. Houston clobbered the second-place New York Titans 42-28 to hold onto the Eastern lead. Buffalo Bills topped Oakland Raiders 38-9 in the only other game scheduled.

Western Hockey

Keith Allen of Seattle Totems is one of a long list of hockey coaches who believe in having an extra goaltender around at the start of the season.

Jim McLeod is Allen's goaltending insurance this season and has been worth his weight in gold during the early stages of the Western Hockey League schedule.

McLeod was in goal Sunday night at Seattle where the Totems blasted Winnipeg Warriors 7-2 before 2,000 fans. The win was Seattle's fourth straight—good enough for a first-place tie with Edmonton Flyers.

Totems had won their third straight game Saturday night, 7-5 over Spokane Comets.

At Calgary, left winger Gord Pashawy jammed his own rebound past goaltender Lucien Deschene midway through an overtime period to give Portland Buckaroos a 2-1 win over Calgary Stampeders. Friday night game saw Victoria down Winnipeg 4-3.

Redmen Trounce Blues

Gaels Blank Mustangs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Queen's University Golden Gaels clinched a playoff berth and took possession of first place in the senior Intercollegiate football league Saturday by crumbling University of Western Ontario 36-0.

In the other league game McGill University trounced luckless University of Toronto Blues 27-17.

Going into Saturday's game Western and Queen's were tied for first place with four points. A week earlier Mustangs had handed Gaels a 21-10 beating at London.

McGill's win moved them into a second-place tie with Western with four points while Toronto, with only one win in five starts, wallowed in the cellar with two points.

TEMPERS SHOW

The Queen's - Western game threatened to erupt into open fighting late in the fourth quarter as tempers reached the ragged edge in tough line play.

Scoring leader Robbie Hilshie and Mike Wickham each scored a pair of touchdowns for Gaels while Cal Connor added one. Hilshie had a big afternoon, boosting his points total with four converts and a single, Terry Porter rounded out Queen's scoring with a single.

Quarterback Tom Skypeck was the star of the Montreal game, throwing three touchdown passes and scoring one himself.

The Redmen took the lead early and smashed all Toronto attempts to recover.

COUNTS FIELD GOAL

Harry Haukkala opened McGill scoring with his first of three field goals. Skypeck broke away for his touchdown in the third quarter from the one-yard line. Then he heaved passes to fullback Bob Milligan and halfback Willie Lambert for touchdowns.

Quarterback Norm Turner led Toronto's attack, passing to Ed Rush and Doug Wyles for touchdowns, converting both and kicking a field goal.

McGill gained 133 yards in the air compared with 219 for Toronto. On the ground McGill made 202 yards to 81 for the Blues.

HOLD RUGGER TITLE

MONTREAL (CP)—University of Toronto Blues won the intercollegiate rugger championship Saturday as they battled University of McGill Redmen to a 6-6 tie and held their three-point lead in the two-game total-point series. Blues, defending champions, won the first game 8-5 in Toronto.

Leader Jam In American

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield's powerful Indians have scored more goals (43) and allowed fewer (16) than any other team in the American Hockey League, but all they have today is a three-way tie for first place.

Cleveland Barons, getting a shutout from masked goaltender Gil Mayer, tied the idle Indians with a 3-0, victory over Providence Reds Sunday night. And Quebec Aces made it a jam at the top by beating Buffalo Bisons 5-4 on Don Hogan's tie-breaker with seven seconds left in regulation time.

Hershey Bears defeated Rochester Americans 3-2, the Bears' first road victory of the season, and gained a fourth-place tie with the Amerks, who suffered their first home defeat.

On Saturday the Indians blanked the Americans 6-0, the Bears edged the Reds 3-2 and the Barons beat the Aces 3-2.

Mayer's shutout at Providence Sunday night was backed by goals by Jim Mikol, Bill Dineen and John Ferguson.

NOTCHES PAIR

At Buffalo, Jean Marie Cossette scored twice for the aces. Hogan, Jackie Leclair and Alain Caron got singles. Gerry Wilson, with two, Dick Gamble and Doug Barkley counted for the Bisons.

Two goals by Mike Nyaklak paced the Bears at Rochester. Claude Laforge, Bob McIntyre and Ray Kinasewich added singles. Paul Hanigan registered both Rochester goals.

Netminder Marcel Paille of the Indians turned in his third shutout of the campaign in baffling the Americans Saturday. Bob Kabel fired two goals to pace Springfield. Bill Sweeney, Jim Anderson, John Hanna and Bill McReary accounted for the others.

Jack McIntyre scored in the third period at Hershey to give the Bears their victory. Gord Hollingworth and Kinasewich chipped in a goal each, Bo Elik and Bob Beckett scored for Providence.

Cal Gardner snapped a 3-2 deadlock at Cleveland as the Barons beat the Aces. Dineen and Eddie Mazur got the other Cleveland goals. Michel Harvey and Bob Bailey picked up Quebec's goals.

Extra Buck Would Pay For Travel

HAMILTON (CP) — Ralph Cooper, president of the Canadian Football League, suggested Saturday a premium of not more than $1 on each ticket to bring about an interlocking schedule.

The extra charge would apply only on tickets to games in which Western and Eastern teams are involved.

The proposal, he said in an interview, is being put before every team in the Canadian Football League in an attempt to solve the interlocking problem which has frustrated Canadian football for three years.

Cooper said the main stumbling block has been travel expenses and that his proposal would solve that. All that remained, he said, was a solution to the television money issue.

As it stands, the West receives something like $100,000 for television rights while the East gets three times that much.

Under the league president's system, the maximum additional charge would be $1 a seat, adjusted according to seat position. After deducting hospital tax and park rental, the net would be turned over to the visitors' league for that league's disbursement.

"Many season ticket holders have been questioned on this proposal for an additional two dollars on the season ticket price. Their general reply has been 'The idea sounds good—let's see the Western clubs, it will give us some idea of their strength,'" Cooper said.

His proposal would be, in effect, a partial interlocking schedule to continue for at least two years.

Tabbed With Extra $100

MONTREAL (CP) — An additional $100 fine has been slapped against Reggie Fleming, the hardrock rookie defenceman who set a National Hockey League record for penalties when his Chicago Black Hawks bowed 2-0 to the Rangers in New York Wednesday night.

The fine was announced Saturday by NHL president Clarence Campbell and is imposed in addition to $75 a minute-penalty the American defenceman must serve automatically.

Fleming received a total of 37 minutes — a game misconduct, misconduct, three five - minute majors and a two-minute minor.

TOWEEL LOSES

NEW YORK (AP)—Emile Griffith of the Virgin Islands unleashed a two-fisted body barrage to stop Willie Toweel of South Africa at the end of the eighth round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Saturday night. Griffith weighed 147 and Toweel 144.

Riders Crush Argos, Larks Oust Cats

Grab Big Points Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If ever a weekend of football was destined for stirring up a cauldron of mixed emotions the one just completed by the Big Four Football Union was it.

First there was humiliation for Toronto Argonauts, league leaders all season, when they were unceremoniously trounced by Ottawa Rough Riders 36-1.

It was a great day for 10-year Ottawa veteran Bob Simpson who came out of obscurity on the day his fans set aside for him and led his team's steamrolling victory.

And then there was deep gloom for Hamilton Tiger - Cats, the team that has ruled the Big Four for the last three years and hasn't been out of the playoffs for 11 years, Montreal Alouettes humbled them 30-22 in a fumbling game.

OTTAWA AHEAD

The weekend left Toronto and Ottawa with identical 9-4 won-lost records, but Riders are in first place by virtue of 62 points more scored.

Montreal clinched third spot with their win and left Hamilton firmly in the cellar. Hamilton is third-place teams at the end of the schedule play off to meet the winner from the east's Grey Cup contender.

Argos couldn't get a hand on Simpson as he went over for one touchdown and caught key passes leading to three more. The passing by quarterback Ron Lancaster was outstanding.

Halfback Ron Stewart, playing with an injured heel, galloped through for two touchdowns. Other Ottawa touchdowns were scored by end Bill Sowalski and halfback Joe Kelly. Gary Schreiber converted all five touchdowns while Gerry Nesbitt added a one - yard single and scored a safety touch.

TICATS COLLAPSE

Hamilton took an early lead but then fell apart as the Larks rolled up 30 points in the second half. Earch team fumbled five times and there were six interceptions, four by Montreal.

Don Clark, Bill Bewley, George Dixon and Herb Cobes scored Montreal touchdowns and Bewley converted three. Quarterback Sam Etcheverry kicked three singles.

Halfback Barrow, Gerry McDougall and Tommy Grant scored touchdowns for Hamilton and Barrow added a convert. Fullback Bernie Faloney kicked a single.

In the only other professional game Saturday London Lords whitewashed Sarnia 21-0 in a Golden Seal 15-0 in an Ontario Rugby Football Union contest at London. Halfback Ernie White scored two touchdowns while fullback Bill Harold Lake had one and quarterback Jerry Thompkins kicked a single.

Bulldogs Nip Maroons 5-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Allan Cup champion Chatham Maroons, soon to leave on a tour behind the Iron Curtain, suffered their first loss of the season Sunday as they bowed 5-3 to Windsor Bulldogs in the OHA Senior A Western Division.

Windsor's victory un their home rink was their second straight win and left them the only unbeaten team in the division.

Windsor marksmen were Lou Bendo, Les Speak, Bob Brown, Joe Zorzia and Joe Klukay, who also picked up two assists. Chatham countered with Ernie Dick Cooper Leyte and Frank Battagale.

ARGUER PENALIZED

Windsor took eight of the 13 minor penalties, and both of the major penalties when referee Lou Mashio gave Bendo a misconduct and a game misconduct for arguing a kneeing.

Three OHA Junior A exhibition games during the weekend gave Peterborough and St. Catharines a win while Hamilton and Toronto-St. Michael's tied 3-3.

In Hamilton, Larry Keenan's goal with 26 seconds left to play saved the day for St. Michael's College mates. Keenan's break through came after the goalie was removed for a sixth attacker.

First period goals for the Red Wings came from Wayne Rivers and Pit Martin. Bruce Draper scored two for St. Mike's, but John Minard put Hamilton out in front in the second.

GET IN DOWNTRODK

In Peterborough Saturday, Toronto Marlboros toppled in a rough and tumble game which went to the Petes 4-2. A second period free-for-all led to 31 min for penalties. Both goalies took misconducts for abandoning their nets.

Petes sharpshooters were Hugh McGonigal, Keith Wright, Claude Larose and Wayne Boddy. Karl Wintersteen and Don Westbrooke scored for Marlies.

Win, Tie Over Weekend

Hawks Share Lead With Canadiens

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chicago Black Hawks have come up with a new forward line which is largely responsible for the Hawks being tied with Montreal Canadiens for first place in the National Hockey League.

It is made up of Stan Mikita, a sophomore, Ken Wharram, starring this third full season with the Hawks, and Ab McDonald, a Montreal castoff.

The line was responsible for three goals Saturday as Black Hawks beat Canadiens 4-2 at Montreal.

It also figured in one goal Sunday as Hawks played a 3-3 tie with Bruins at Boston. Canadiens beat New York Rangers' 4-2 Sunday to create the two-way tie for first place.

SPLIT TWO

Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs split two other weekend games, The Wings beat the Leafs 5-1 at Toronto Saturday but lost 3-1 at home Sunday.

On Saturday McDonald and Mikita broke through for a goal apiece. Mikita added a beautiful pass to Eric Nesterenko, who scored from close range with little more than two minutes remaining in the game, for another.

Wharram picked up two assists and McDonald one. Ron Murphy and Chicago's other goal while Phil Goyette and Jean Beliveau scored for Canadiens.

Mikita also set up the first of Eddie Litzenberger's two goals at Boston Sunday. Guy Gendron and Don McKenney scored for Boston.

HIT BY BULB

McKenney's goal came with less than two minutes remaining in the game, a fraction of a second before Hall was hit by a light bulb which shattered on it as it bang on the ice in front of him.

Hall was clutching his head when McKenney popped the goal behind him. The light bulb, falling down from the seats, glanced off the side of his face.

Hall's angrily brandishing his stick, protested the goal to referee Dalton McArthur but coach Rudy Pilous indicated no official protest was planned.

Andre Pronovost, Marcel Bonin, Goyette and Beliveau scored the Canadiens goals against Jack McCartan, rookie goalie who had only allowed seven goals in five previous NHL games.

ALMOST A SHUTOUT

Hank Bassen, making only his second appearance of the season in the Detroit nets, had a shutout going for 47 minutes before Ron Stewart beat him with the Leafs' only goal Saturday.

Bassen replaced MacDonald, who has alternated between the NHL and the American Hockey League for the past eight years, and rookie Howie Glover scored for Detroit.

Regular Red Wings goalie Terry Sawchuk was back in his post Sunday at Detroit but George Armstrong, Bert Olmstead and Red Kelly scored goals in an eight-minute stretch of the final period for the Toronto victory.

HIT BY BULB

Norm Ullman, who has figured in at least one goal in each of Detroit's last nine games, scored for the Wings in the second period.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

Well, whatever happened to "the most versatile, effective, explosive, magnificent offence this side of Winnipeg . . . and the Grey Cup?"

It petered out, simmered down, faded away and was almighty lucky to escape without the ignominy of one of those striped-kitty tabs.

For the Ottawa Rough Riders, with their walking wounded in the middle, practically herded the erstwhile powerful Toronto Argonauts plumb out of the Connaught Park corral on Saturday.

The galloping Riders, showing no fear of "Two-Gun" Reis, the Argos' top passer, led 2-1 when the chuck-wagon call sounded. Then they mounted up and box-canyoned Reis, rushing him off his feet and giving him no chance to find his outriders.

The clinic in the Argonaut armor was getting to Reis and the Riders made no mistake in plugging that hole. They turned nearly every Toronto miscue, and there were plenty of them, into scoring plays or scores, and practically ran away with the game in the second half.

And perhaps adding to the smile of victory that wreathed Coach Frank Clair's face after the holocaust was the fact that the Big Four turned down his request to settle the league standing on games' standing and adhere to the regulation points system.

? For the Riders now hold a 23-point advantage over Argos in the five games between the clubs and will automatically get the bye into the league final if they win their last scheduled game against Hamilton next Saturday.

* * *

However on the league standing if Argonauts win over the Montreal Alouettes next weekend and the Riders lose, the Double Blue will end up in top slot alone.

Right now the Riders are favored to take over top perch because the Larks, showing their sparkling victory over the Tiger Cats last weekend was no flash in the pan, rose to their second straight win over the Bermala on Saturday behind the pin-point pitching of "The Rifle," Sam Etcheverry. The Ti-Cats, three year Kings of the Eastern football jungle, were eliminated from the playoffs for the first time in more than ten years.

The Montreal-Hamilton game was not top-flight calibre and was featured by pass interceptions and fumbles by both sides. However, Etcheverry won his second golden key to the city by his magnificent quarterbacking and tossing in the gripping minutes of the fourth quarter.

HOCKEY

The Montreal Canadiens may have the power but other teams have given notice they don't scare easy.

Chicago's high-flying Hawks trounced the mighty Habs in their own lair Saturday night for their third straight setback, but the Habs eased the situation with a Sunday victory.

The Hawks came up with a new scoring threat and with Litzenburger on the beam—who knows—this could be the year.

½ AWAKE Nights ½ ASLEEP Days..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed, then are dull and listless during the day. When kidneys slow down wastes and excess acids stay in the system. Disturbed rest, tired feeling and backaches often follow. If you don't rest well at night—if you feel dull in the daytime—try Doan's Kidney Pills. Then you feel better—rest better—feel better. You can depend on Doan's Kidney Pills.

The individual scoring championship of the Western International Football Union should be decided tonight when last-place Saskatchewan Roughriders invade Winnipeg to meet the Canadian champion Blue Bombers.

Fullback Gerry James of the Bombers has 99 points compared with 107 by quarterback Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos. Halfback Normie Fleming of British Columbia Lions is in third spot with 84 points. The 16-game regular schedule ends next Saturday with the Roughriders at Vancouver.

Bombers hope to be the first WIFU team to win 13 games in the regular season. Bombers have won 14 and lost one this season.

The league's playoff lineup was settled by Calgary's 22-20 win over the Lions in Vancouver Saturday night. The second-place Eskimos came from behind with 15 seconds left in the game to beat the last-place Saskatchewan Roughriders 23-11.

EASTERN PLAYOFF BERTH

The Stampeders' win ensured them third place and a berth in the playoffs. Calgary will be in Edmonton Wednesday, Nov. 2, for the first game in a two-game, total-points series.

The second game is in Calgary Saturday, Nov. 5. The winner meets Winnipeg in a best-of-three final starting Saturday, Nov. 12.

The Stampeders clashed through rain and mud for their victory before 22,329 fans in Vancouver. The wet-ball passing of quarterback Joe Kapp and the running of fullback Earl Lunsford featured the Stamps' drive into their first playoff spot since 1957.

Kapp, 32, tossed two touchdown passes to halfback Gene Filipski. Lunsford scored the other Calgary touchdown on a one-yard run and guard Doug Brown converted two of them.

Stampeders' other two points came when Ernie Danjean blocked a British Columbia punt and Calgary counted a safety touch when Lions' Earl Keeler booted the ball out of bounds in the end zone to prevent a touchdown.

FANS PLAY PATS

Lions scored a touchdown on a 56-yard pass-and-run play from quarterback Jim Walden to halfback Bob Jeter. Rookie George Grant kicked the convert and also booted a 35-yard field goal.

Before 6,000 fans at Regina, Eskimos were behind until Johnny Bright's touchdown on a four-yard plunge. The other Edmonton touchdown was scored by Parker. Vic Chapman kicked a 41-yard single to complete the Edmonton scoring.

The lone Rider touchdown was scored by fullback Ferdy Burket who plunged over from two yards out. Halfback Jack Hill converted it and kicked a 15-yard field goal. Burket also kicked a single.

The games decided the league rushing title, with Lunsford ending Bright's three-year reign. Lunsford rushed for 99 yards to boost his season's total to 1,343. Bright picked up 76 yards for a season's total of 1,268 yards.

Horse, Hawks Win

Jim Norris Had Big Day

BY JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Jim Norris, who dabbles in horses and hockey players, probably figures he should make more weekend trips to Canada. His hired hands came up with winners for him.

The Chicago millionaire-sportsman arrived in Toronto early Saturday and within hours he was $36,000 richer when his Eng-lish-bred Rocky Royale won the $50,000 - added Canadian Championship stakes at New Woodbine racetrack. That was just the beginning.

The bushy-browed Norris was still celebrating that come-from-behind victory when his Chicago Black Hawks spilled on the ice diens 4-2 in a National Hockey League game at Montreal. Things just couldn't go wrong for him.

The four - year - old Rocky Royale, overlooked by the bet-ting, charged home in front to win its first North American race by a head in a driving finish over American - bred Nobel Sel owned by Dr. F. F. Bacin of Miami, Fla. And the few in the 17,740 crowd who put their money on the Norris horse received good dividends — $19, $12.30 and $6.80.

SETS RECORD

To make Norris' day complete, Rocky Royale covered the 13-furlong distance over a grass course in record time. The dark bay son of Rockefella and Narcissa was clocked in 2:42.2 This was 4 1-5 seconds faster than the previous set by Jack Ketchi, 1958 winner of the autumn classic.

Rocky Royale was held in reserve throughout by jockey Ken Church, a native of Windsor, Ont. Church followed instructions given him by Norris.

The English-bred apparently is is inclined to pull up when he gets in front and Church was told to hold back until the wire was in clear sight.

When the 13-horse field of for-eign-bred thorough-breds moved into the straight, Only Nobel Sel was ahead of Rocky Royale. Church made his big move about 75 yards from home to nip Nobel Sel at the wire. In the stands enclosure Norris received his money and a $3,000 gold cup.

PROMPT HERO PAYOFF

Nobel Sel returned $12,500 to his owner. Prompt Hero, owned by Peter Del Greco of Toronto, was third and earned $7,500. Fourth place went to Stratus, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto.

Fifth was Calais II from the Toronto stable of M. J. Boyle and General Arthur, the favorite who ran out of gas after leading for the first mile was sixth.

Tall Chief II, English - bred owned by Max Bell of Calgary was seventh.

Wolves Whomp Wednesday, Spurs Idle

LONDON (Reuters)—Sheffield Wednesday's unbeaten record was dented in the mud of the Molyneux when Wolverhampton Wanderers' home cold Saturday in the top game of the English Soccer League schedule as the Wolves won 4-1.

The Wolves now great gaps in Wednesday's celebrated defence, which had allowed only seven goals in the team's previous 13 league games this season.

League-leading Tottenham Hotspur, which has 25 points, did not play Saturday because it had players in the international game at Cardiff, in which Wales beat Scotland 2-0.

Sheffield Wednesday's defeat cost the team the chance of pitching ground between it and the Spurs. Wednesday is second in the first division with 21 points.

Rain and mud brought a glut of goals and Charlton Athletic and Middlesbrough fought to a 6-6 tie in the Second Division. Brian Clough, with three goals for Middlesbrough, strengthened his claim to an England cap. Dennis Edwards got three for Charlton.

Other clubs to hit the six-goal mark were Burnley, which is third in the First Division with 20 points, Aston Villa and Grimsby Town.

Celtic's resurgence in the Scottish First Division continued with a 3-0 away victory over Clyde.

Close Race In E.P.L.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winning and tying in their two weekend games, Sudbury Wolves advanced from a last-place deadlock to a third-place tie in the Eastern Professional Hockey League. Only five points separate the top and bottom teams in the six-club circuit.

Sudbury smothered Kingston Frontenacs 8-3 at Kingston Saturday night with six last-period goals and then moved on to Kitchener - Waterloo Sunday to earn a 3-2 tie with the second-place Beevers with a goal only 25 seconds from the end of the game.

Sudbury is tied for third with Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds who blanked the Royals 5-0 in Montreal Sunday. But Sudbury has played two more games than the T-Birds.

REBOUND FOR TIE

A pasting from...Sudbury, the Frontenacs, now tied for last place with Montreal, managed a 4-4 tie Sunday night with the league-leading Hull-Ottawa Canadiens at Hull.

At Kingston Saturday, Frontenacs held the lead twice in the first two periods but Sudbury plastered them with six goals in the last period. Pete Morton scored three times for the Wolves and singles went to Sam Bettio, Ken Girard, Tom McCarthy, John Hendrickson and Gene Ubriaco.

Buddy Boone, Real Cheverfils and Bob Blackburn scored for Kingston.

At Kitchener - Waterloo, Bettio scored in the last minute of play to give the Wolves the tie.

HEADS OLDEST THEATRE—Mrs. Norma Springford brings a wide background of theatrical experience to her new position as general manager of the Montreal Repertory Theatre. The theatre, formed in 1929, is the oldest repertory group in Montreal. Mrs. Springford has been director of the McGill University Players, chairman of the Quebec regional drama festival and an executive member of the Dominion Drama Festival. (CP Photo).

Will Stage 6 Productions At Montreal's Moyse Hall

By WILLIAM HARTLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal's oldest repertory theatre has started its new season with plans for a variety of innovations expected to offer something to still almost every level of interest and experience in drama.

In operation since 1929 when it began as the Moyse Hall Entertainers, the Montreal Repertory Theatre is presenting six major productions. Outside the regular schedule will be four experimental dramas for students of theatre.

And there are even special classes for housewives who haven't time to pursue their interest in drama on a full-time basis.

The season opened v th Maxwell Anderson's Bad Seed, described by the group's new general manager, Norma Springford, as a "good opener."

ACTOR'S SHOWCASE

The second production is being co-ntinued by Jean Gascon and Powys Thomas, directors of the National Theatre School of Canada.

The Montreal Repertory Theatre school is planning an Actor's Showcase where experienced players will have an opportunity to rehearse together under the direction of Robert Vernicos, actor and teacher, and then perform before an audience.

This group will do at least two productions and representatives of radio, television, films and the stage will be invited to the performances in the hope they will see their way to use some of the actors.

The series of special classes for housewives is to be called Savoir Faire. They will stress poise, exercise and vocal training.

EXPERIENCED GM

Mrs. Springford, who predicts a "highly successful season," comes to MRT with broad experience in Canadian theatre. She spent nine years as director of the McGill University Players and for the last two years has directed drama for Sir George Williams University.

She has served as language coach for a weekly CBC series, as chairman of the Western Quebec Regional Drama Festival and as adjudicator of the Dominion Drama Festival.

Mrs. Springford is also founder and director of the Mountain Playhouse, an intimate building in the centre of Mount Royal which has offered summer theatre to Montrealers for the last nine years.

Russian Critic Votes 'Nyet' On Sex Kick in Movies

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Hollywood may be on a sex kick with its movies, but the Russians vote "nyet."

That's the word from Alexander Karaganov, one of Russia's leading film critics and a judge at the current San Francisco International Film Festival.

"Human love—yes; sex—no," was Karaganov's opinion of acceptable fare for both the native film product and foreign imports.

"We Russians do not like to see the intercourse of sex on the screen. It is degrading. When I see such things, I do not feel comfortable with my loved one."

That does not mean that the Russians have no appreciation for the screen's sex queens.

"Brigitte Bardot is quite popular in my country, and so is Marilyn Monroe," Karaganov added.

"This kind of attractiveness is not limited in its appeal to any particular nationality. It is universal."

IS PUBLISHER

Karaganov, 45, speaks university-quality English and shows no hesitation in expressing his views on artistic matters. He runs a publishing house as well as concerning on films and plays for several Russian publications.

Hollywood favorites in Russia? He mentioned past idols Douglas Fiarbanks and Toronto-born Mary Pickford, who happens to be here as hostess for the festival. Also Winnipeg-born Dianna Durbin, whose films still are shown over there though she is retired a dozen years. Marty and Bambi have been particular favorites among American films.

Sunday Evening TV Shaping Up as Great Night to Travel

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Sunday evening in television is shaping up as a great night for armchair travellers.

There's Ed Sullivan leading an escorted tour of U.S. cities, Sullivan's technique is to give the audience some shots of his city of the week, let his comic do the monologue in front of the skyline and a girl singer warble in front of a handsome view or landmark. But, at base, it's the same vaudeville show, with changing background.

Dinah Shore is on a globe-trotting kick. As you probably know, the producers decided it was time to get out of that old box-office rut—a song, a sketch, a production number—all done in a studio.

The result is—or at least it was Sunday night—a variety show with the native dances of Fiji and Tahiti. Woven through all this was Miss Shore, dressed up like Nellie Bly and obviously photographed in Hollywood, trying hard to inject a bit of cohesion into the proceedings.

Everybody was trying hard, but frankly when I yearn for a travelogue, I'll tune in Expedition, not a musical variety show.

Jack Benny, that smooth old pro, is back with a weekly half hour show this season, and he fills the 30 minutes as if they were hand tailored to his talents. His guest Sunday night was Dick Clark and the theme was teenagers.

Shirley Temple's effort Sunday night was Little Men, which in book form was a weak successor to Louisa May Alcott's Little Women. Dramatizing this saccharine, stodgy and cliche-laden story didn't help it any.

Lakers Seek Allan Cup

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — The Lakers, of the tiny Minnesota border town of Warroad, have taken the preliminary steps to become only the second United States team in wooden, to go after the Allan Cup.

The Thunder Bay Amateur Hockey Association, in session here Saturday, gave the green light to the 1961 season in the Ontario - Minnesota Intermediate Hockey League — joining the Thunder Bay Senior Hockey League championship race.

Warroad, on the southwest tip of Lake of the Woods, is 200 miles by road from Kenora, Spokane, Wash., last year was the first U.S. team in recent times to enter the hunt for the Canadian amateur senior hockey trophy.

"HE'S gonna play quarterback? Last time I saw him he was back at lunch today an' he dropped 'em!"

Record Entry In Big Race

NEWMARKET, England (AP) — A record - equalling field of 30 horses, including one American-owned entry, were listed as probable starters Sunday for Wednesday's 118th running of the Cambridgeshire Handicap.

Only once before have 43 horses gone to the starting post for the 1½-mile galloy over the narrow Newmarket turf course. That was in 1902.

Thousands of people around the world — those holding Irish Sweepstake tickets — will watch the race anxiously. It's their big opening rich fast. A lucky holder of a sweepstake ticket on the winner picks up $140,000.

Ides of March, winner of his last two outings, is the betting favorite at 12-to-1. Fagus and Jeanne Michelle are the main challengers.

Fulshaw Cross, Running Blue, St. Mark and Thames Trader are rated behind the favorites. Then comes Goldig Vision, Guitarist, King's Troop, Spring Madness and Mountain King.

AT THE PARK — Lovely Kim Novak and Kirk Douglas are co-starred in "Strangers When We Meet", Columbia CinemaScope romance-drama which opens new drama school martial infidelity. The Richard Quine production in CinemaScope and Eastman Color also stars Ernie Kovacs, Barbara Rush, Walter Matthau, Virginia Grey, Cara Williams and Helen Gallagher. The First Belleville and District showing of their new attraction opens tonight at the Park Theatre for a limited engagement.

Marksmen Bow To Electrics

After losing three in a row, Northern Electric Handgun Club came back to beat the Quinte marksmen by a score of 1222 to 1206 on the range at Redneersville yesterday. Bert Waters was high for the winners scoring 272. Dave Carlson 270, Miss L. Hincher 256, Dave Duffus 234 and Real Beaudin 229.

The marksmen were led by T. Cavers scoring 265, A. Day 250, S. Millard 245, J. Hinchey 232 and D. Parks 214.

The final shoot of the season will take place next Sunday when the Quinte League Cup will be presented to the winning team.

Cooke Pushes Toronto Entry

NEW YORK (CP) — Pushing Toronto's bid for entry to the American League, Jack Kent Cooke has written a letter to league officials saying Toronto has more to offer than any other city.

Cooke, owner of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, in the letter asked that Toronto be given preference over the Texas bid by Dallas-Fort Worth and the Minnesota bid by Minneapolis-St. Paul.

"I believe Toronto and the Maple Leaf baseball organization has more to offer the American League than any other of the Continental League cities, . . ." he said.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatio

High School Activities

By SYLVIA SCHWAB and JIM STANSFIELD

Miss McLaren last week expressed the wish that the entire student body be endowed with the eternal gifts of youth and happiness. The occasion was the presentation of a television set and aerial by the staff and students of Bayside Secondary on her retirement.

Following this, the Keyettes presented their annual assembly, "Grand Nine on Parade." Pantomimes, the spirited song, and the entertwining exhibition provided a most interesting half hour. Congratulations to the BCIVS Treasurer.

The program was concluded with a Miss Manners regarding blindness and its prevention given by Mr. P. I. Timmins of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

BCI's "grid iron gressi" are well on their way to victory. The seniors, although beaten in their first game against Picton 24-6, rallied sharply to defeat Trenton high school with a score of 24-6. To date both bantams and juniors remain undefeated. Keep up the good work, boys!! Next Thursday, October 27, the entire student body will have an opportunity to show their pride in our teams and their school spirit as BCI plays host to Picton high school at the home playing field. Let's all get out and support our teams!

A novel approach to our Wednesday morning assemblies was taken this week by Grade 10-D under the direction of Miss Lyle P.* (not J. Fl) Pryce. The pattern being one hopeful harmony as the students sang such familiar sons as "Vive la Compagnie," "The More We Get Together," and "I'll Walk the Line." Perhaps singing is the key to program success?

Naturally the teachers were smiling as they gave the grade 10's timely interim report cards last Tuesday—the teachers don't have to take them home! Oh, well, "we'll be home next time."

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party." What party? None other than the Student Council's "Graduation Ball" on Friday, October 28, at BCIVS. The theme "Moonlight" with the help of the service clubs, is busily preparing for the transformation of the dull, drab gyms into the beautiful realms of the Devil and Mr. Juvenile. Devil or angel, whichever you may be, we assure you of a memorable time. RSVP (really something worth the price!)

To borrow a term from the world of racing, "we are rounding the far turn and coming into the home stretch" on the first lap of the school year. Initiations are over and extra-curricular activities are running smoothly. It's time for everyone to buckle down—exams are due in four weeks!

QUINTE

Once again our corridors at Quinte are filled with the gay chatter of exuberant students ready to further their education.

Many signs are in evidence at Quinte, including the grade 9 boys' and girls' rounds-of-forty (or fifty) of them)- and the eight new teachers. We "mid-timers" hope that Quinte will live up to all of their expectations.

Our football season is in full swing this year and again we have high hopes of bringing the $25.25.2.5. Trophy to Quinte. At present we have an undefeated team. Unfortunately, at one of the recent games, "The Little Saints" were defeated by a small margin by "that new school". But that's all in the game! Best of luck in future games, boys and congratulations to your coaches Mr. Sisson and Mr. Mutter on their fine job of coaching. Girls' sports, too, are now underway. Our junior and senior girls' volleyball teams won their first games. Congratulations and best of luck in the future.

"Don't be Blue," be Gay, Vote Grey." This and many other slogans were heard recently in Quinte's corridors as Student Parliament elections were held once again. Lynne Brown and Bob Smith of the Grey Party were opposing Jane Gill and Merrill Beeby of the Blue Party. In the recent election the Blue Party won and for the first time in Quinte's history, we have a Madame Prime Minister, Sherrill Beeby. We hope that the Blue Party's members will not end up in the bottom of their lockers.

School spirit is reigning at Quinte these days. The reason? We're the best school, that's why. At one of the football games, this one observer would like to say that she has never seen so many grey and blue supporters in one place at the same time.

May this long student remind one and all that there are 31 more days left before Christmas exams. Study now and avoid the last minute rush!

build the greatness of Canada by tearing it down in that way.

"For the past few years, while we have had our difficulties in connection with unemployment, they have been the best three years economically in Canadian history."

Eighty per cent of Canadian taxpayers now pay half what they did under the previous Liberal government, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

"But we are not satisfied," he added.

He said Canada had a strong voice in international and Commonwealth affairs, a Bill of Rights to preserve quality under the law and a high degree of stability in international trade with inflation kept in check.

Automation, arrival of wartime babies on the labor market now, immigration and increased productivity per man-hour had caused unemployment. But on the basis of projected labor and working force, unemployment today was not as bad as before the Second World War.

Unemployment in the United States was one per cent higher than in Canada, he said, but it was not an issue in the presidential election campaign.

On international affairs, the prime minister said relations with China should be drawn into disarmament discussions. Canada has been acceptance of a disarmament formula by the United Nations.

Sierra Leone's Hopes Lie In Educating Its People Of Whom Most Illiterate

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (CP) — much to be done.

More education. Better crops. Improved transportation. Eradication of disease. More electricity. Better housing.

All these problems face Africa. Nowhere are they more apparent than in Sierra Leone, a thumbprint on the map of the west coast of Africa.

In fresh, ugly, red-necked vultures scavenge in the streets. They are protected by law because they help to keep this city — and a city at all by any Western standard though 120,000 people live here — clear of refuse.

MOSTLY ILLITERATE

Only seven per cent of Sierra Leone's population of 2,500,000 can read and write. The natives sit at night on the shabby curbs with nothing to do. Even if they could read and write they would strain their eyes doing so by flickering candles and kerosene lamps.

And Sierra Leone is scheduled to become independent of British rule next April.

"Our chief problem is education," said an earnest young Negro government official, looking despondently at the peasants' thatched mud cottages along the road from Lungi airport to Freetown.

"There our hope lies," he said, brightening, casting his eyes to the top of the green hills overlooking the port and city. At the crest of the ridge are the new buildings of the university.

NOT LIKE GHANA

There are about 2,000 whites in Sierra Leone, many of them Lebanese traders.

Many of the British here have little apparent interest in the progress of the protectorate—a sharp contrast to the British attitude that helped Ghana and Nigeria to achieve independence.

"I'm better off here financially if I can stand it for another two years," one British official said as he sat at a tiny bar in the humid heat sipping his whisky.

"I can save money and my wife and I can afford a nurse for the children, something we can't do in England."

MALARIA COMMON

"Certainly only money would attract many whites here. The average temperature is 80 degrees. It rains from May to October. The countryside and rivers are alive with mosquitoes, lizards, snakes, crocodiles and sharks. The perpetual smell is one of mustiness, like that of a long - closed cupboard. Malaria and dysentery are common.

Sierra Leone — the lion mountains — was named by the Portuguese in 1460. British seized in education, transportation and housing.

FACING INDEPENDENCE

Sierra Leone, designated by Britain in the 18th century as an area for freed and destitute Negro slaves, is scheduled to become independent next April. Map locates the tiny territory with a population of 2,500,000 on the west coast of Africa. (CP Newsmap.)

ECONOMIC PROBLEMS — Serious economic problems face the small African territory of Sierra Leone, due for independence from Britain next April. Improvements are needed sible only in daylight.

This, naturally, is immaterial or unintelligible to the peasant near the field grinding out a living on his small, harsh plot. In the night his cooking fire glows through the open mud doorway of his house—while the electric lights of the university beckon from the hill.

FIND RELICS

HALIFAX (CP) — The transport department's survey ship Labrador returned from a four-month 16,000-mile northern trip Friday with relics of an arctic exploration 130 years ago—parts of a steam engine, two canoes and a broken anchor. They are believed to have been from Sir John Ross' ship Victory which spent four years in the area beginning in 1829.

dog Sir John Hawkins landed here in 1562 to gather slaves.

In 1787 the British decided to make the territory a home for freed, destitute slaves from England and thus Freetown was founded. In 1807 Britain outlawed the slave trade and Sierra Leone was designated as a base from which to enforce the act.

SMUGGLING

Though Sierra Leone is mostly agricultural, diamonds are its best economic friend. In some years more diamonds have been smuggled out of Sierra Leone through neighboring Guinea and Liberia than have been exported legally.

Freetown has one of the largest natural harbors in the world and during the Second World War convoys as big as those assembled in Halifax sailed from here. But only a few tramp steamers call now, mainly, to carry iron ore, palm kernels, coffee, cocoa and kola nuts to Britain.

Lungi airport is classed as an international field. But refuelling of aircraft has to be done by hand. And there are no runway lights so that landings are pos-

Black Bear Has Bad Reputation In Nova Scotia

HALIFAX (CP) — The Black bear has an unsavory reputation in Nova Scotia.

People call him a sheep-killer, cattle-killer or worse. The lands and forests department thinks the province is better off without him and pays a bounty to anyone who shoots him.

But Clarence Mason, conservation director, thinks the black bear can make money for the province and plans to see what he can do about arranging it.

Mason, an enthusiastic hunter, says a season should be opened for bear. "We should stop this foolishness" of paying bounties and start charging hunters to shoot them.

An open season, possibly in the spring, would keep the bear under control better than bounties, he says.

The provincial government, matching bounties paid by various counties, handed out $46,000 during the last 20 years. Bears bring about $40 apiece in most places.

Mason is convinced that with advertising of an open season and a fee for the privilege to hunt, hunters would come from the United States as well as from around Nova Scotia.

He has approached municipal and provincial governments several times and says he plans to do so again.

Brief By Ontario Says Auto Firms' Exports Banned

Freedom to Sell Abroad, Fewer Models, Suggested

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ontario government said today Canadian - made cars should have greater opportunity to compete in overseas markets as part of a plan to safeguard the Canadian economy from jolting collisions with European and United States motor vehicle imports.

An increase in the Canadian content of Canadian - produced cars, more satisfactory market for Canadian car parts and greatly expanded auto research in Canada supported by present U.S. firms were other actions suggested to moderate the economic impact of car imports from Europe and across the border.

The province's views were contained in a brief submitted to Professor Vincent Bladen of Toronto, one of two Commissioners studying the ills of the Canadian automotive industry—the industry's falling share of the domestic market and subsequent layoffs of auto workers.

The brief said some Canadian automobile companies are prevented by their U.S. head offices from competing in world markets a story it said is true as well in other branches of secondary industry.

"We believe that this is inequitable and that this practice should be remedied."

The Ontario presentation expressed the belief that unit production costs could be reduced in Canadian plants—which are centred in Ontario—by a reduction in the number of basic models and variations within each model.

"We recognize that consumer patterns in Canada are greatly influenced by U.S. advertising programs beamed into myriad ways into Canadian homes and that there is a danger that the stimulation of some models would divert purchases to imports.

"To avoid this, we would recommend that such steps be taken as are feasible to moderate the effect on the Canadian economy of both U.S. and European motor vehicle imports.

"The 'really frightening' possibility that overseas manufacturers will turn their production resources to the manufacture of North American cars, as has been presented to the royal commission is another field for full discussion today.

"Such a move coupled with no change in Canada's present policy could well mean virtually the complete elimination of Canada's automobile - manufacturing industry," said G. E. Grundy, president of Studebaker-Packard of Canada Limited.

A spokesman for American Motors (Canada) Limited called for a review of the protected position Britain holds in the Canadian market under which United King-

JEAN DRAPEAU MONTREAL MAYOR BY WIDE MARGIN

New Civic Party Swept Into Office

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Drapeau, 44-year-old lawyer in and out of public office, he was re-elected mayor of Montreal Monday as a royal commission probe hearings on the problem.

Professor Vincent Bladen of Toronto, one of two commissioners, indicated he takes a dim view of recommendations leading only to higher Canadian prices and won agreement that the motor industry will take a look at another possibility.

General Motors of Canada Limited, the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited and Chrysler Corporation of Canada Limited agreed under questioning to canvass their United States parent companies about the feasibility of the proposal.

Dr. Bladen was told it would take three to six weeks before studies could be made. The principles involved in commercial efforts to sell more Canadian production into the pattern of an industry now dependent on U.S. research, styling and mass production of more expensive consumer goods are quite transmissions.

MORE TAX UPVAIL

The big three of the auto world in Canada were agreed that the best way to expand the export trade is unfair and discriminatory but a different approach.

Rhys M. Sale, president of Ford, took the most cautious note from the point of higher duties to ward off competition from foreign car manufacturers and European imports. Means to reduce landing costs of vehicles from these foreign ones should be explored first, he said.

E. H. Fuller, president of General Motors, said the base of calculation of the 15 per cent value added should be adjusted so that it would bear equally on Canadian and foreign cars.

Motor militant was Ron, W. Todgham of Chrysler who urged that the 17½-per-cent duty rate on imports in the automotive field that duty be made to apply to Britain now enjoying duty-free under the Commonwealth preferential tariff negotiated in the 1930s.

LACKS SUBSIDIARY

Chrysler, unlike Ford and GM, lacks a British subsidiary which can compete in the Canadian market with other small cars.

Mr. Bladen told Mr. Todgham that the point he had made in his brief was highly protective and that he finds it hard to take seriously any recommendations that unduly raise Canadian Prices. He said he doubts Canadians want secondary industry at all costs.

Mr. Todgham said the alternative is clear. There is no problem if there are no consumers for finished products made in Canada.

28 Are Unhurt As North Star Lands on Nose

Seventy-eight persons escaped injury Monday night when a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star DC-4 airliner landed on two wheels and its nose after its fuel tanks ran dry.

The four-engined aircraft, on a flight from St. John's, Nfld., with 74 passengers and a crew of four lurched forward and skidded to a stop.

The passengers were taken off through a door in the pilot's cabin and examined by a doctor who said none of them "had it scratched".

After 28 Years Police Again Probing Death of Writer-Producer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—After 28 years, the district attorney's office is again investigating the death of writer - producer Paul Bern, husband of the late Jean Harlow.

Bern's death in 1932 was listed officially as suicide. Miss Harlow died five years later, at 26, of uremic poisoning following a gall bladder attack.

'You Have Him on Run, Jack,' But Nixon Is Still Slugging

MOLINE, Ill. (CP)—Out of the stilled, attentive audience came a hoarse shout from the back: "You've got him on the run, Jack." The crowd cheered its approval.

The friendly interjection, uttered during the last of a dozen speeches delivered by John Kennedy in his jolted machine-gun style, seemed to reflect the thinking of Kennedy's campaign team.

The surging crowds that had responded to the Democratic presidential candidate's magnetic appeal "to help me move this country forward" indicated that Kennedy had cracked some of the political resistance he has met in Illinois area.

The response seemed to be recreated Monday night as Kennedy's motorcade made a 32-mile tour of the Democratic cities of Moline, Rock Island and Davenport, Iowa, where total street crowds of about 100,000.

DROWNED OUT

In Davenport, downtown street corner, the western boundary of Illinois, the crowd was so dense that police had to force a path through for the motorcade. Kennedy stood up in the street-corner speech but motorcade police had to force a path through for the motorcade.

Kennedy discovered no signs of letting up. The gruelling day began at Peoria, Ill., in the heart west of Chicago, and ended near midnight in the western Illinois river belt. Everywhere he was received responsive.

The campaign, about 200 miles to the south, the Kennedy threeplane caravan headed for Indiana.

De Gaulle Nuclear Policies Pass Crucial Assembly Test

PARIS (Reuters)—Charles de Gaulle early today emerged with the biggest majority of his seven-year-old presidency with pro-government forces in command over his Algerian policies.

In a crucial debate extending through the night the National Assembly gave 207 votes—70 short of the absolute majority needed officially—to a censure motion ostensibly aimed against his atomic test explosion but actually a rallying force. There are 331 seats in the Assembly.

Failure of the motion saved the 21-month-old government of Premier Michel Debre and gave de Gaulle's atomic approval to de Gaulle's plans for a French nuclear deterrent.

It also strengthened the personal position of the 69-year-old president.

Even more agitation and clamor were expected in the coming weeks from right-wing opposition groups incensed for political talks with the Algerian insurgents in Switzerland.

In addition, heightened efforts to kill his self-determination policy were expected from ultra-nationalists.

Supporters of de Gaulle's Algerian policies found common ground in opposing the Socialist five-year, $2,400,000,000 defence

UN Blocks Mobutu's Troops Trying to Enter Leopoldville

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — United Nations troops today blocked strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu's attempt to bring armored cars and trucks into Leopoldville.

The UN troops dug in with bulldozers at key points to halt Mobutu's reinforcements from entering the capital. Mobutu has ordered the armored cars and men from Thysville, 100 miles away.

Faced with the new crisis, Mobutu postponed plans for a trip to New York today on a protest mission to UN headquarters.

The Belgian army today reported Mobutu cancelled the trip because of the crisis—a "pilot" aimed at restoring suspended power) Patrice Lumumba to government.

Gen. I. Rikhye of India, the Swedish officer reported missing since Monday in Thysville Monday, and Mobutu's chief of staff, met to move the armored cars and troop reinforcements into the Leopoldville area. Rikhye informed the 30-year-old strongman the UN had flown in heavy equipment in the last few days to forestall Mobutu's move on Leopoldville.

Congolese troops in Thysville received their training in the use of armored cars from four Belgian officers. The UN ordered the Belgians to leave. The Congo

Pare Taxes, Boost Benefits, Conscript Or Train Youths Suggested To Cut Jobless

Labor Wants More Money Circulating, Industry Seeks Tax Concessions

OTTAWA (CP) — Twenty-one top representatives of labor, industry and other national bodies produced a welter of suggestions, some conflicting, Monday on how to cure Canada's unemployment problems.

The whole audience was nine federal cabinet ministers headed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who called the conference.

With the items presented and classified by subject, the conference was to get down to roundtable discussion of them today.

The most common suggestion appeared to be that the government adjust its tax policies to encourage more new Canadian industries, centred mainly in manufacturing, to help end heavy unemployment.

Most of the ideas fell under two broad headings: Labor's suggestions of increased welfare benefits to put more money into circulation, and industry's proposals for tax concessions and other fiscal measures to encourage expansion.

Here are some new and contentious.

COMPULSORY CONSCRIPTION

The Investment Dealers' Association proposed compulsory national service training for all boys to absorb some of the flood of young men coming into the market, and train them in skilled work.

The Canadian Retail Federation suggested reducing the rate of payroll withholding income taxes during the winter months, to encourage retail spending, and raising it in the summer months to balance the yearly take.

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture said unemployed youngsters — supporting 11 per cent of the unemployed in winter — should be given further training and schooling to prepare them for trades and college education.

The Canadian Legion proposed an intensive program of basic academic and trades training similar to that implemented for veterans of the Second World War.

The National House Builders Association suggested income tax exemption on mortgage interest and municipal tax payments to increase public interest in

West German Planes Had Brush With Queen's Jet

LONDON (Reuters)—Two jet airliners with Queen Juliana—the markings of the West German Air Force—today had a narrow brush with Queen Elizabeth's airliner over the Dutch-German frontier.

The Queen and Prince Philip were flying back to Britain after a visit to Denmark when the "near miss" occurred.

Lieut. Klaus Lorenz, co-pilot of the royal Comet jet airliner, said two Boeing 707 "Great Iron Crosses underneath the royal aircraft" forced him at about 30,000 feet altitude.

"They turned in as a pair and passed only about 100 feet above us," he said. "I don't know whether it was deliberate evasive action."

However, the only man aboard the Comet to see the two planes, said: "There is no doubt those aircraft should not have been there."

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser said today that economic growth in the United States in that the United States is heading into a recession despite the $2,000,000,000 increase in the gross national product.

"I think the American economy is today in a good position to make another major advance," said Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the president's council of economic advisers.

His speech was prepared for the convention of the Iowa Bankers Association in Des Moines but the White House distributed text to reporters in advance.

The Democratic presidential nominee, Senator John Kennedy,

REDS WILL SEEK QUICK DEBATE ON CUBAN CHARGE

Allege U.S. Prepares Large-Scale Invasion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The Soviet bloc was expected to press in the United Nations steering committee today for quick General Assembly debate on Cuban charges that the United States is mounting a large-scale invasion against Fidel Castro's regime.

(In Havana Monday night Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos warned an audience of young people to be on guard against a U.S.-sponsored invasion of Cuba.)

In a memorandum requesting the charges, Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa cited the Soviet Union's threatened recently for their part in an anti-Castro campaign being waged in Cuba's Oriente province. He also cited Soviet charges that bases dropped in central Cuba by a four - engined plane with U.S. markings.

The memorandum said Cuban authorities had reliable information that a large-scale U.S. invasion against Cuban soil would be launched soon.

Such an invasion, it said, could lead to a situation "full of dangerous unforeseeable consequences," as apparent reference to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's threat to use rockets to defend the Castro regime.

HOPE FOR CANADA PLAN

Meanwhile, Canadian diplomatic sources considered engaining fairly wide support for advancing Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposal for a UN "food bank" for underdeveloped countries.

Arthur Irwin, Canadian ambassador to Mexico, presided a draft resolution to the General Assembly when the economic committee Monday which would have the UN's Food and Agriculture Organization draw up a system of distributing food to needy countries "when and how it should be paid for.

Irwin told Canada, Haiti, Liberia, Pakistan, Venezuela and the United States, co-sponsors of the resolution, that the problem of the world's hungry millions is a matter of great urgency." India, Ghana and Sudan spoke Monday in support of the resolution.

Amendments were accepted to earlier demands for legislation to protect the economies of countries dependent economic prices of food exports. This added Australia, Burma, New Zealand and Thailand to the ranks of supporters.

New Belleville Flying Club Formed and Now Developing Small Airfield Near City

A group of local businessmen have formed the Belleville Flying Club (1960) and now are developing a small airfield about two miles northwest of the city.

Principals in the ventures are Ald. Jack Ellis, Bert Fitzgibbon, Cord Roblin, Bill Sterkery, Carm Caverley, Charlie Wilson and Stan Wilkinson, who have bought a single - engined Piper Tri-Pacer on a co-operative basis.

Mr. Ellis said today that the club has received notice that its charter has been granted and that yesterday Department of Transport officials had indicated that one or two proposed airstrips could be licensed. He said the transport department will consider licensing a 2,100-foot north-south airstrip first. By tonight, will be rough graded, Earlier, a 1,800 - foot east-west airstrip was graded and eventually will be extended to 2,500 feet. Future plans also call for construction of hangars and a club house.

Location of the field is about 1,000 feet south of the 2nd concession of Sidney Township, where it crosses the CNR tracks, two miles west of Belleville. The field is adjacent to the Reid Sideroad and is enormously known as Potter's Field.

The group have leased about 40 acres from Ernie Potter, of Sidney Township farmer, and plan to use the field permanently as a place for district aircraft owners to keep their planes.

CANNOT TRAIN STUDENTS

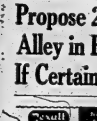
One of the stipulations the transport department has laid down is that the club must not train students pilots.

"We don't want to get into pilot training anyway," said Mr. Ellis. "We do not want to run competition for the Prince Edward Flying Club, which trains pilots."

Work on developing the airfield will soon be hurried by winter but today an H. J. McFarland bulldozer was finishing up some heavy work on the north-south airstrip. Mr. Ellis said it probably will not be until spring that flying can begin "seriously" on the field.

Mr. Ellis announced the development of the airfield at last night's council meeting. He said today he hoped the city will advertise that Belleville now has an airfield and that this will be an added attraction to potential new businesses and industries to locate here. "We also hope that Belleville can become a popular private aircraft will use the field."

He said negotiations with the city are "nearing completion" in connection with air safety measures. One of the stipulations the air force has made is that all aircraft using our field must be equipped with radio receivers.



So far, interest shown locally in the flying set-up has been "gratifying" said Mr. Ellis. "We are confident that many more owners in the Belleville-Trenton-Picton area will take advantage of our field. It is of course available to transient pilots and we assume to know that Toronto pilots are now only one hour away by air."

The field will not be used by a commercial airline company in time the Belleville Flying Club plans to rest aircraft to licensed pilots.

Council Approves Plan to Buy New Road Grader

City council yesterday approved the purchase of a new road grader at a cost of $21,370, with payment deferred until March of next year.

A week ago, chairman of city public works Ald. Jack Ellis had said the present city grader was scheduled for replacement in 1961, but due to the age of the machine, he was recommending replacement this year in preparation for what might be another hard winter. The matter was referred back for further consideration and yesterday received formal approval.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said that purchase of the grader in line with payment deferred until next year was permissible under the law.

Alderman Don Whalen suggested council might also consider other worthwhile projects in a similar light.

He was replied to a recommendation tabled in council some time ago which called for installation of a sprinkling system at the arena. "Cost of such a system could be written off in three years in lower insurance premiums," he said.

Effective January 1st, the rate paid to burial companies for indigent burials will be increased. The rate for adult indigent burials will be increased from $95 to $125.

Canvassers Asked To Return Kits In Near Future

Executives of the Belleville United Appeal met last night at the Y.M.C.A. where the leadership of president Archie Lewis and discussed the progress of the campaign now under way to raise this year's objective of $50,000.

It was noted that while canvassers have been reporting in all except in the residential areas where a one-night blitz will be held on Nov. 2nd, that the "every few" kits have been turned in to campaign headquarters is making it "very difficult" to get any idea how the drive is progressing.

Campaign chairman A. S. Robb said he was most anxious that the canvassers turn in any kits which they have completed, by Saturday night so that he may give a "fairly clear" picture of progress at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the executive.

It was reported that the Yardley Mills Company, with 46 employees, have entered the payroll deduction plan which has resulted in 109 per cent participation by its employees.

Gerald Wishart, chairman of the payroll deduction division of the Appeal, said that another company participation had increased 10 per cent over last year because employees had joined the payroll giving plan.

Last night Mr Robb said at the annual meeting of the Belleville Boy Scouts District Council that he hoped members of the Council would at every opportunity promote the United Appeal, not by canvassing, but by favorable propaganda. He also said the Scouting movement could assist the Appeal by urging more membership in the payroll deduction plan whereby more money is realized because it is extracted from donors painlessly in small weekly amounts throughout the year.

BRIEF

dom vehicles are not subject to duty.

"If the goal of the free world is multilateral as opposed to bilateral trade, throwing one nation over another would seem to defeat this purpose," it added.

The Ontario brief said the Canadian automotive industry produced about 800,000 different models in 1960 although market experience indicated that only a large segment of the Canadian population that either preferred or is able to afford cost efficient, economical transportation.

And despite the mass of models it said, the automobile companies now operating imports capture almost one-third of the available market.

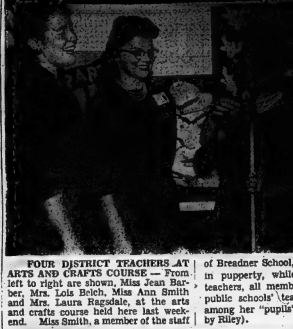
TOO SLOW TO CHANGE

Slowness of the response of Canadian automobile manufacturers to changing consumer demand may prove, in Ontario's view, one of the most serious impediments in the way of recovery.

Ontario said a greater effort must be exerted to increase the Canadian content now being used in Canadian motor vehicle operations if the parts industry is to be brought to a healthy state.

Canada's export of motor vehicle parts to the U.S. totalled $7,000,000 last year while imports totalled about $400 million and components from the U.S. totalled $200,000,000. Nearly it is said beyond the ingenuity of the industry to overcome or achieve a "close" balance."

The brief said while it is recognized that a great deal of research will inevitably be carried out in the major U.S. motor vehicle plants the companies involved should encourage expansion of their research organizations in Canada and assign them special projects.



Mr. Grundy, the Studebaker-Packard president, said a particular danger was posed to the Canadian industry by manufacturers who are based in or who may move to the United Kingdom with preferential duty-free privileges.

The government should take steps to induce foreign automobile manufacturers to set up operations in Canada—"We would welcome that kind of competition."

The American Motors brief carried a similar statement: "When a foreign company has been successful in establishing a market in Canada we feel that it has a responsibility to review its operations with a view towards establishing manufacturing operations here. Again, government policies should be directed towards providing inducements to this end."

At the recent PWTAO in-service course in arts and crafts, held at Queen Elizabeth Public School here on Friday and Saturday, teachers were welcomed by, left to right, Miss Margaret Ferguson of the Women Teachers' Federation head office, Toronto; Mr. James Ritchie, chairman of the Belleville Public School Board, and Mrs. Muriel Nightingale, president of the Belleville Women Teachers' Association. Belleville Women Teachers Sponsor Arts, Crafts Course

The Belleville Women Teachers' Association members were delighted by the response to the first half of the in-service course on arts and crafts.

Friday evening approximately 170 teachers of Belleville and area were gathered at Queen Elizabeth school. Teachers were present from Madoc, Stirling, Tweed, Consecon, Picton, Brighton, Cobourg and Amelisburg. There were also teachers from the Belleville separate schools and the Ontario School for the Deaf. Mrs. Muriel Nightingale, the president of the Belleville Women Teachers' Association, welcomed everyone to the course and introduced the leaders of the six workshops.

Mrs. Dolly Cain of Belleville, who has a class of gifted children in art, led the workshop in pottery making.

Miss Ann Smith of Belleville who teaches in Broadner School, Trenton, conducted the workshop on puppetry.

Florence Hart, the art supervisor for the city of Oshawa, conducted the workshop on paper sculpture.

Roger Headrow, an assistant to the art supervisor of Peterborough, and who also is principal of King George School at that city, led the workshop on mural making.

George Buckland the chief supervisor of art for Ottawa, conducted the workshop on poster making.

Fred Shaw, the supervisor of art in North York, headed the workshop on design.

The teachers were divided into six groups according to grade and each group went to its respective workshops. Each workshop lasted two hours and under the capable leadership of the six speakers each group acquired many new ideas. It is hoped that credit will be given to all those who took the workshop to improve their professional qualifications.

SATURDAY PROGRAM

Saturday morning a second workshop was held. At noon all went to Tabernacle United Church for dinner. Miss Margaret Ferguson from the head office of the Federation in Toronto, was present. She said she was very interested in the course and wished it success.

Mr. James Ritchie, the chairman of the Belleville Public School Board, also was present and expressed his pleasure at the number of teachers who were taking the course. He also congratulated the women teachers who organized such a fine in-service course.

The members of the in-service course committee were: Mrs. L. Ragsdale of Queen Mary School; Miss P. Beatty of Prince Charles School; Miss P. Wallbridge of Queen Elizabeth School; Hildred Hodgson of Prince of Wales School; Miss B. Gibson of Prince Charles School and Mrs. M. Nightingale, Prince of Wales.

The weekend was a success, owing to the complete co-operation received from Queen Elizabeth School teachers, Federation representatives and the committee who spent considerable planning the course.

The second part of the course will be held on November 18-19.

Tony Beaumont Of Cherry Valley Severely Burned

PICTON — Sprayed with gasoline when a car rammed the rear of the car he was driving, Tony Beaumont of Cherry Valley, six miles southwest of Picton, was severely burned and is a patient in Hotel Dieu hospital at St. Catharines.

The young man was driving to Thornhill to join a lake freighter. While proceeding on the Queen Elizabeth highway between Bramsville and Vineland, a car driven by James Watson, 200 Maplewood drive, Burlington, crashed into the rear of the car. The car was crushed together like an accordion and immediately filled with tank exploded. Beaumont was sprayed with gasoline and his hair and clothes ignited. He was able to free himself from the flaming car and set out on the ground to extinguish the fire in his clothes. He burned his hands badly as he attempted to put out the fire which burned in his hair.

A passing motorist, Jack Abel of St. Catharines stopped to help and rushed Beaumont to hospital, where his condition yesterday was reported as satisfactory. Beaumont suffered burns mainly to the face, back, arms and hands. Driver of the other car, James Watson suffered a cut tongue, facial lacerations and a bruised chest.

In addition to losing his car, which was totally gutted in the spectacular blaze, Beaumont lost a variety of clothes and also his wallet, with money and papers which he had placed on the seat beside him after purchasing gasoline.

Beaumont is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Beaumont, of Cherry Valley.

Gold Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

PICTON — Messages from The Governor-General of Canada, the Prime Minister of Canada and the Premier of Ontario were received by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Fennemore, who marked their Golden Wedding anniversary Sunday. A family dinner at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, was the night marked the occasion. It was also Mr. Fennemore's 75th birthday and the seventh wedding anniversary of their son, Morley and Mrs. Fennemore. The couple was married in the Church of England, Picton, by Rev. L. Fennemore and Mrs. Fennemore was formerly Elma Leavens and both were born and brought up at Cherry Valley. They have a son, Morley and a daughter, Mrs. John Fox, Bloomfield. Both are the last surviving members of their families.

Dismiss Action Without Costs

PICTON — An action for damages against Mrs. Cole, 22, Picton was dismissed without costs, following a hearing in Supreme Court June 30 before a jury.

While the jury assessed damages of $25,783 for Helen Diane Arsenault, a minor, and Mary Arsenault, mother; Mrs. Margaret Arsenault, administratrix of the estate of Frederick J. Arsenault, Hon. Mr. Justice Ferguson, who presided, dismissed the action for damages against Cole. The jury stated that the defendant had satisfied them that the loss or damages sustained by the plaintiffs did not arise through the negligence or improper conduct of the defendant Cole.'

The girl was struck by the car driven by Cole earlier in the year, and a severe leg injury sustained. As a result of complications, on which much medical evidence was given, the girl's foot was amputated.

Some kind of a definite policy of municipal assistance, possibly toward the installation of services if required, could prove a good investment in the way of attracting industry to the city.

This was told to city council Monday afternoon by Alderman Jack Ireland, member of the city industrial committee, who said that when such request for assistance is received in the future it would be well for council to weigh the matter carefully before turning it down.

"I am convinced that if you want industries to locate you have to do something for them," he said.

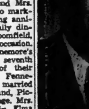
He noted that this did not always mean financial assistance, but could mean council action in amending by-laws or other assistance.

"We will just have to take a long look to see if it is not worth while to invest possibly up to the first year's income," he said.

ASSISTANCE IN PAST

In recent years either city council or the Industrial Commission has provided assistance for several firms locating in the city, he noted.

Several years ago assistance was given to a concrete block manufacturing firm to the extent of helping provide services and again last year the Commission assisted in providing services to a building in the same general area. And last week council turned down the request when it was referred to that body.



Alderman's Ireland's comments yesterday were both a defence of the Industrial Commission's action last year and a questioning of council's turning down the request this year.

The Industrial Commission needs some instruction from council on the policy to adopt" he said.

KENNEDY

ers, technicians and reporters at the climate warming up. A University of Illinois outdoor student rally of some 10,000 almost crushed Kennedy with affection.

But it was during the motorcade tour of Davenport, Moline and Rock Island that Kennedy received his most pleasant surprise. Amid the sea of Kennedy placards was a hand-printed banner held by a young boy, bearing these words: "Re-elect Kennedy in 1964." The boy hat taken Kennedy's election this year for granted.

Kennedy seemed indefatigable. He moved swiftly and punched hard — attacking Vice-President Richard Nixon, the Republican candidate, on what he called the "phoney gap" between Nixon's pledges and his performances.

He said Nixon had voiced pledges of better pay for teachers and yet had voted against federal funds for higher teacher salaries.

Nixon had pledged federal grants to expand medical, dental and research schools, "but as Republican senator he voted against that very same program," Kennedy said.

In a high school gymnasium on nearby Rock Island, Kennedy allowed himself to relax for a moment. He recalled that Nixon had blamed him for the goldfix rise on the London market.

"Mr. Nixon, if you are listening," he said with a chuckle, "I did not do it, I promise you."

The audience laughed and applauded.

To the University of Illinois students, he maintained that an example of how the United States is standing stiff is in lack of American help to students of new countries.

A Sentimental Turncoat

Of no importance whatever from the standpoint of international politics, but nevertheless interesting as a portrait of one man's mental processes and personal problems, is a report by Reuters, the British news agency, of an interview with Guy Burgess. Burgess was one of two British foreign office employees who defected to Russia in 1951. The other was Donald Maclean.

The interview is a mass of apparent contradictions. "It comes to everybody to feel he has made a mistake and you can quote me on that," said Burgess. But he also said: "I'm more happy after 10 years (in Russia) than I was after five years. I have no sense be made of this, or is it just evidence of an illogical mind? One would have to know how much more than these two brief quotations reveal to obtain an accurate picture, but it is possible to reconcile the two statements. Burgess says when he had never gone to Russia, but he may not regret this decision as bitterly today as he did five years ago.

Similarly his remark about his mistake and his apparently contradictory assertion that he will not return to Britain as long as the Cold War continues are not necessarily at odds. It would have been one thing to remain in Britain, admitting to return there after having played a part which most people regard as that of a traitor. Burgess, incidentally, does not see himself in this light—he denies that he was a Soviet agent. He may be telling the truth. The mental processes of man are much more involved than many of us are apt to admit. There is today a much too prevalent tendency to view the world in sharply contrasting blacks and whites, while there are men in all countries who can see it only as a conglomeration of an infinite number of shades of grey.

Since it is the thing that stands out clearly in this interview, it is that Burgess is not the kind of a man who, in Scot's words, has "a soul so dead, who never to himself has said, this is my home, my native, land."

He evidently fervently wishes to be able to see once more "this England" after wandering on a foreign strand. This is said in the strange when one considers that there are thousands of Britons, in every clime, who only infrequently have this nostalgia and who, if Scot is right, will go down "into the vile dust from which they sprung, unwept, unhonored and unsung."

Is Eisenhower Still Big Magic?

Senator John Kennedy's cohorts seem to be unduly touchy about anything connected with President Eisenhower. Senator Kennedy, after taking a reasonable and logical stand on Quemoy and Matsu, hastily suggested that discussion of this phase of foreign policy should be abandoned, as soon as President Eisenhower came to the defence of his different approach to the question. One of Vice-President Nixon's assets has been that he could claim credit for the results of the eight years during which he has served as an important member of the Eisenhower team. The natural counter was for Senator Kennedy to contend that this team has not been playing a very brilliant game—and this he did. But when President Eisenhower called suggestions that U.S. prestige is today at an all-time low a debasement of the truth and irresponsible, the Kennedy camp immediately maintained that the President was attacking the Democratic candidate and demanded equal free radio and TV time for a reply.

Kennedy apparently would like to enjoy the privilege of attacking the Eisenhower administration without having to attack Eisenhower—an almost superhuman task of verbal legerdemain.

The only explanation is that the Democrats still think that the Eisenhower legend retains its original vote-winning magic.

From this distance, across the border, one cannot help but wonder whether this supposition may not be an error.

Eisenhower went into office at a time when his prestige as the commander of the Allied forces which crushed Hitler was still bright. Years have diminished that memory for many—and there are today voters who cannot even recall VE-Day.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
GOOD FOUNDATIONS

A man we know of who lives biggest flood in all the last century a piece of high ground near but has not even touched the a river awoke one spring morning foundations of his house. "I to find himself on an island. wasn't worried."

A bad flood had occurred during the night, and his house, though still untouched was entirely cut off on all sides. Electricity and telephone were off; he had no boat; there were no other houses in sight. For two days, until the waters receded, he lived alone, eating such food as was on hand and drawing precariously in a flood of calamity water to drink from the pressure tank of his pump.

Asked later by his friends whether he had not been frightened by his isolation and threat of rising water, he replied that he had not. "My grandfather told me," he said "that not even the flood of Noah could wash a house away if it was well-founded on a rock."

Jesus said "Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock."

Sound building is a folly of such magnitude that we should flee it as we would the plague.

Miracles of the Universe
Earth's Neighborhood Between Earth and Sun

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Canadian Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with matters of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 3

Earth lives in a neighborhood called the Solar System. It is made up of one Sun, 9 planets, 31 moons, over 1,500 asteroids, thousands of comets and billions of meteors.

The Sun is a star. Billions of years ago it had kittens. These little kittens keep circling around old mother Sun attracted by her love and warmth (don't you love this domestic touch —who said science was cold?)

Earth's neighborhood is very small or very big, depending on how you look at it. Earth and Sun is in the centre of the circle and the outer edge of the Sun's family is only 7 billion miles away. Is that big?

To us on earth 3 billion miles is beyond our imagination, but it loses more of its significance when we realize that the closest star to the Sun is 25,000,000,000,000 miles away (25 trillion); that the Sun is an average star in a group of 100 billion stars, which comprise the Milky Way galaxy; that the Sun is a large star in it is 860,000 miles in diameter — the star Epsilon Aurigae is 1,400,000,000 miles in diameter) and the Sun is not a bright star. (An unnamed Super-Giant star is believed to be 10 million times as bright as the Sun). There are over 100,000,000,000,000,000 stars in the universe. The most far-flung known star is thought to be 24,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles away.

In the neighborhood of 7,000,000,000 miles across as compared to 24,000,000,000,000,000,000 is relatively small. (In fact, it is a grain of sand on the beaches of the universe).

OTHER SYSTEMS

There are likely other planetary systems in the universe. Our sun surrounded by planets; but the idea and the succeeding article, let us confine ourselves to the Sun's Solar System.

The Sun and all the members of the Solar System accompany it by a drawing showing the orbits of the planets.

THE SUN

Here is a real ball of hot gas! Gas, absolutely gas and nothing but. It's temperature is 15,000,000 degrees C. in its centre and 6000 degrees C at the surface. Heated by nuclear reaction it gives off a great spray of energy, only 50 per cent of which man sees as visible light. The balance is in terms of heat, radio waves, ultra-violet and other rays. The Sun is 85,000 miles in diameter and because of its mass, "holds by gravitation, bends over the nine planets which circle it" even out beyond three billion miles. When the Sun dies, as it will and must die the earth, its itinerant guest, and indeed all its neighboring planets.

MERCURY

This is the smallest and closest planet to the Sun and helped to confirm Einstein's Theory of Relativity which we will discuss in another article.

Unlike most of the other planets, Mercury has no satellites or moons. It is too small to hold an atmosphere and likely has no inhabits like little gents. (Scientists insist on all these terrible things!) Mercury's face faces on one side it's an air-conditioner salesmen's paradise (800 degrees C. — on the other side, electric underwear wouldn't help a person — it's 460 degrees F. below zero — anyway any life that can survive that is welcome to it).

Mercury like the moon, revolves just at the same rate as it revolves around the Sun, thus the Sun does not expose the same surface to the Earth. In the same way as our Moon always exposes the same face to the Earth.

Mercury is 40 per cent the size of the earth, but 50 per cent larger than our Moon.

Mercury's orbit is not circular. Sometimes it is 15,000,000 miles closer to the Sun than at other times.

Mercury has no atmosphere, either. Stars do not twinkle, the sky is black, (not blue), there are no clouds, no water, no thunder storms; there is no erosion, so what is the use of rain.

In summary Mercury looks like a "forbidden planet" not meant to overlook if you are planning to take out into space.

Venus is a planet almost the size of the earth. It sometimes appears as a crescent in the sky and sometimes as a disk. It is covered by dense clouds of disputed composition which make surface observation impossible.

There is likely there, we go again) no plant or animal life on this planet because it's too hot (822 degrees) (as if that wasn't hot enough, some say it is 500 degrees F.) and the percentage of carbon dioxide too intense, (also disputed).

It is impossible to tell how fast Venus spins because we can see no visible markings by which to time its rotation.

We will be no rush to get to this planet either, unless your name is Buck Rogers. Depth of Magnet of Highways, through the Province will cost more than fifty per cent of $22,500. This is equivalent to more than twice the dollar of the city's assessment.

Theatre 2,300 Years Old

National Geographic Bulletin

A 2,300-year-old theatre at Epidaurus, Greece, is still packing in the crowds to watch the hit plays of 400 B.C.

The 14,000-seat theatre was called the "most perfect in all of Greece by the geographer Pausanias, who visited it in the 2nd century A.D.

Today, it is not only the best preserved of classical Greek theatres but one of the best outdoor theatres in the world. Its acoustics are superb. An actor's whisper can be heard in the last row.

Built in the 4th century B.C., the theatre was abandoned in the Dark Ages and gathered dust for centuries. Then, beginning in 1892, and in 1938 the National Theatre of Greece inaugurated the Epidaurus Festival. Each Summer now, theatre audiences witness revivals of ancient plays.

Epidaurus, which is about 100 miles by road from Athens, seems to have been a rather unimportant town on the Peloponnesus until a healer named Asclepius (Asclepius in Latin) arrived. He saw the advantages of Epidaurus as a centre of healing, for it lay on a well-traveled route and had a spring famed for its medicinal properties. Asclepius turned Epidaurus into the biggest medical and faith-healing centre in Greece. He died every year, against disease — herbal lore, surgery, auto-hypnosis, faith-healing and even suggestions of modern psychoanalysis.

As thousands poured into Epidaurus to be healed, the city boomed. A race course, a club a library, a temple and the famous theatre were built. From Epidaurus the worship of Asclepius spread over the ancient world. The cult reached Athens in 420 B.C., electrifying the city. Sophocles composed a paean to Asclepius.

Children Need A Pet They Can Boss

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

Over the summer, in the country, Michael and Barbara must have collected a few hundred specimens of small animal creatures — snails, toads, tadpoles, ladybugs, thousand legged worms, and one young snake that the woman of the house promptly exiled to the woods.

You may call this "curiosity," or "love of animals," or some other proud and sentimental term, but I am convinced that the child's attraction to these creatures gives us a clue to some of his deepest emotional needs.

What appeals to the child about these ugly, moist and repulsive creatures is their dependency upon him for existence. For the first time, the child has sovereignty over a creature he can manipulate.

Until the age of four or five, the child himself is manipulated incessantly — fed and changed and washed and clothed and put to bed and forbidden and punished and toilet-trained.

Even the most docile child of the most loving parents eventually begins to chafe under this control and rebellion against this rigorous discipline.

The first small or tadpole representative of power that he can bring to the child! He assumes the parental role, in feeding the creatures, and in keeping them, allowing it time and room to play in, and then popping it back into its cell. For the first time, the child exercises the wonderful and gratifying feeling of authority.

This is the true meaning of all pets to children; the affection and sense of companionship come later. — but, initially, the child wants a pet to direct and control as he is directed and controlled by his "masters."

Thus we find that very soon the child is satisfying two needs in one action. He is pleasing his elders (as a girl does with a doll, or a boy with a weapon) and the drive to "be the boss" (which they often try with younger brothers and sisters).

Pets are often recommended for a variety of sentimental grounds, but a child is the least sentimental of humans; rather, he possesses a cold eyed realism about himself and his relation to the world. He has a surplus of love and a deficit of power — and any pet, even an enlivening snail, provides him with a natural and easy way of maintaining his emotional balance in the looming, incomprehensible world of adults.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

FIBROUS TUMORS TEND TO DECREASE IN SIZE AFTER MENOPAUSE

"Dear Dr. Molner. Please write about fibrous tumors. I am 40 and have been told to have mine removed, including the uterus.

"I have no menstrual troubles and my general health is good. I have been checked by two gynecologists. One took a cancer smear, and the report was negative. I am confused. I have heard that fibrous tumors are rare, are not turn cancerous and that once a woman reaches menopause, they tend to dry up. What is your opinion?" — Mrs. C.D.V.

Fibrous tumors — also called just "fibroids" — do, as you were told, tend to decrease in size after menopause. I remember the phrase "tend to." Sometimes they do, sometimes they don't.

Location of the tumors makes a difference. Those on the inside portion of the uterus may cause excessive menstrual flow; those on the outside wall may cause pain and pressure.

Thus the location — and hence the symptoms — may change — can dictate whether to remove or not to remove. In addition, when fibroids are present, that is a signal that removal is in order.

How let's see if we can't clear up the confusion over fibroids becoming cancerous. Again you are correct — fibroids usually are not malignant. Usually, they does not rule out the possibility that malignant changes and cancerous changes have been found inside these tumors.

The cancer smear taken by your gynecologist probably was not malignant. It only indicated the condition of the fibroids. Instead, the smear failed to detect, in its earliest stages, cancer which may be found in the uterus, where cancer is relatively likely. Relatively, I repeat.

Yesterday afternoon, a cancer smear or some other method is used on every lady over 40 before it has spread. Found early this way, it can be cured by having large percentage of cases.

Tomorrow, I will answer to another reader's letter. Till I do, more into the subject of the cancer test. Mrs. Dulmage on Charles Street.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My boy drinks two or three cups of cocoa for breakfast daily. Lately he has been having a lot of nosebleeds. Friends have said not to give him cocoa because this is what causes the nosebleeds. Is cocolate thins the blood. Is there any truth to this? — Mrs. R. D."

No, chocolate does not "thin the blood." Nosebleeds are usually old-fashioned sulphur and molasses. Cocoa is not a "spring tonic."

In a case like this, it is good for an area in the nose that is ulcerated and the small blood vessels are open. I am certain I doubt that the cocoa has anything to do with it.

Mrs. J. R. T.: Psoriasis is one of the most common of all skin diseases and is not at all uncommon at your daughter's age of 12. The cause remains complicated, unknown. Both medical and error dermatologists have specialists have spent a number of ways of alleviating it.

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Long years ago, we ruined the railroad approaches to our cities by allowing industry to squat on all the property along the right of way. Our industrial policy right was a major item of the railroads' land holdings and had to be located alongside the railroad tracks. The result was that to cross from one side of the city to the other you had to pass through a half to three quarters of an hour of the most dismal spectacle imaginable, miles of dirty, tumbledown factories, yards, warehouses, coal, abandoned-looking, a sad industrial no man's land.

By the time the motor age arrived, and industry adopted the trucking of goods, the newer factories and plants no longer had to squat by the railroad tracks. They could be scattered over the desert and dingier.

We are now in the process of ruining our highway approaches to our cities. Industry appears to be determined to duplicate the great through-ways as it was the railroads, step by step by little, our approaches to the cities have become a city rail, you have every bit as ugly, no doubt, as were the ruins along our railroad lines in the early days. It is a few years, thanks to the complete innocence to appearances which in the course of time characterizes all industry, its directory grow old and crabby, our high ways approaches are likely to be as depressing as are our railroad approaches.

Big Variety In Lakes' Fish

Owen Sound Sun-Times

Many are inclined to the idea that Great Lakes fishing is a pretty cut and dried affair, that there are only a couple of varieties of fish of commercial note, the whitefish, lake trout and perhaps, perch, pike, lullibee. On the other hand ocean fishing is a romantic business with an endless varieties. Well, perhaps it is, but there are only a few of species, but here are the ones listed in a report on commercial fishing: Blue pickerel, bullhead, carp, catfish, chub, tullibee, eel, herring, lake trout, ling, northern pike, perch, pikey.

Suckers, rock bass and crappies, saugers, sheepshead, smelt, sturgeon and pickerel, sunfish, white bass, white perch, whitefish, yellow pickerel, dogfish, goldeye, alewives, gar pike and shad.

Now just don't ask us what many of them look like!

Oil Firms' Costs High

Port William Times-Journal

When some among us are inclined to look askance at the huge sums which the oil companies whose operations are measured in the many millions of dollars, it might be salutary to take a look at the huge sums which they have found necessary to spend in order to keep going.

Latest example of such expenditures is seen in a report on how they intend to get rid of the sands of northern Alberta. The director of the federal mines branch states that oil companies have spent between $100,000 and $150,000 each on the project thus far — without results to date.

This suggests a thought: If and when some or all of these companies find a way to get the oil from the sand, the cost will be so great that before they attempt to get back their money they will have to spend another dollar to early development?

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FORGET IT

There are two simple, though long and full of complicatiqu... powerful, words that have often changed an entire life. Here they are; forget it! When resentment, anger and in anger, do we add to the feeling? Are we adding to the fire?

Forgetting, of course, it is to add to the other person's source of control. We all have our misunderstandings. Many lead to heart hurts that leave scars behind.

A good test of character is to stop and consider and then to decide to forget it. Silence is also powerful medicine, even when in need of re-adjustment.

I once thought that life was severe cases. A minor case (five small spots, such as you mention) may not warrant any treatment at all.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. L. G. 'Monty' Monteith To Head Scouting Assoc.

The growth of Scouting in the Belleville district during the past year was described last night by F. J. Lancaster as "steady, if not spectacular."

Mr. Lancaster, who completed his second year as president of the Belleville Boy Scouts District Council, said at the Council's annual meeting in the Kiwanis Centre that while Cub strength has remained about the same as in 1959, the number of Packs has increased to 16 from 24.

"Scout numbers have risen more than those of Cubs, which is an encouraging sign," he said.

Mr. Lancaster, who began his 11th year as an officer of the District Council, was re-elected as president by L.G. (Monty) Monteith, who for most of his life has been closely associated with Scouting, both on the uniformed and non-uniformed sides.

Other officers elected and installed by Regional Commissioner Archie Lewis were W. O. (Bud) Walters, vice-president; W. Hodgson, who has started his fourth year as secretary; F. L. Andrews, treasurer; and executive committee members Dr. Robert Allore, R. D. Arnott, QC, A. W. Athey, Mrs. Eleanor Blaker, Ron Bonsor, G. R. Burley, Major John Carr, Fred M. Clarke, D. E. Kennedy, F. J. Lancaster, Thomas P. Lally, Chris F. Leggat, Morris J. Martin, Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, Rev. William McGee, Andre Mercier, George Mellouth, Lee E. Morrison, Oliver E. Owens, A. S. Robb, Dan Stewart, Rev. R. F. Sherwin, Bruce M. Thompson, Percy K. Pickering, Capt. J. W. Watson, and Mrs. P. C. Geisthorpe.

TRIBUTE PAID

Mr. Lancaster paid tribute to his committee chairmen, the district commissioner and his staff, the other executive officers and to all who have worked so willingly." While he was relinquishing the president's chair, he would "always stand ready to help in the cause of Scouting."

Chris F. Leggat, member of the district for many years and a builder of the Scouting facilities now enjoyed by the district, presented the district's annual report. He said:

"Living outside this area is Malcolm Campbell, who, as you remember, was one of the founding members of the Belleville district," he said.

Seventeen district Scouts last year attained the Queen's Scout ranks and this year about a dozen are expected to. Two district Scouts — David Forte and Ed Franchuk, both of 1st (St. Thomas') Group — attended the 5th World Jamboree last summer at Colorado Springs, Colo.

END WITH SURPLUS

The treasurer's report showed that the Council ended September with $675 in the bank. Treasurer Walters said the Council netted approximately $1,000 from the "Fine public response" on Apple Day which was held Oct. 2-3.

In the absence of P. H. Alcorn, Assistant District Commissioner Bob Williamson submitting the District Commissioner's report which noted that Scouting is essentially an outdoor activity. "Its success is dependent on this. It is, therefore, no wonder that it has been found that our weaker groups are those where no camping is done." (President Lancaster urged more use of Camp Sagonaska in the Co. Roscoe Vendetnar Conservation Area at Thomasburg.)

The report said that Governor-General Vanier, Chief Scout for Canada, had announced the granting of two awards to the Belleville District. Cub Steven Charge of the 1st (Queen Mary) Group was awarded the Gilt Cross for gallantry at moderate risk for rescuing another lad from drowning last Boxing Day. Mrs. Lillian Ashley, Assistant District Commissioner for Training, last night was presented with a citation from Regional Commissioner Lewis for her invaluable services to Scouting over the years. Mrs. Ashley will receive the Medal of Merit from the governor-general later in a ceremony at Ottawa.

MANY PASS TESTS

The water safety committee's report, read by Mr. Lancaster in the absence of F. L. (Leo) Andrews, noted that the YMCA swimming pool has been used 24 Saturdays between Nov. 14, 1959, and May 28, 1960. Total attendance was 784 boys, giving an average of 33 per week.

The report said that 17 Cubs passed their swimmer's badge, 66 Scout swimming and seven rescuer badges were passed. Mr. Lancaster said Mr. Andrews had asked him to say that it was hoped this year boys will go with their leaders to the pool by patrols, packs or partial packs in order to make supervision an easier job. Water safety training is available to all boys and Mrs. Andrews would like to see every Cub and Scout with their water safety badge.

L. G. Monteith, chairman of the Sagonaska Camp committee, reported that nine different camps were held this year at the Conservation Commission Area. This was an increase of four over 1959.

FIELD COMPLETED

"Considerable progress was made during 1960 to develop the camp and training area according to plans set up by this committee in 1959," he said. "Rustic signs now indicate the camp and each of the four subcamps. An excellent drilled well was completed and trees planted at various locations are doing very well. The lease - agreement has been received from the Department of Planning and Development. We are very fortunate to have this option. It is to be hoped that no one will do anything in it that he would not do in his own back yard."

President - elect Monteith, on assuming office, renewed his pledge to help Scouting to the best of his ability.

Mr. Monteith said he wanted to make the coming year "a good year for Rovering. Let's make this a challenge for next year. Let's also develop better liaison between our groups, executive council and leaders."

NEW TO DISTRICT

Larry Wilcox, new Scout field commissioner who succeeded Art Jackson, said that since he was new to the district it would take him a while to become familiar with the 460 Scouting units in the district.

Queen's Scout Allen Heard of the (Kiwanis) Group officiated at a flag - breaking ceremony which opened the meeting. Later, four Scouts of the 16th (OSD) Group staged a brief display on how flower meetings are conducted at the Ontario School for the Deaf. The meeting ended with Queen's Scout David Forte showing colored slides of his trip to the 5th American Jamboree, and refreshments served by the Council's Women's Auxiliary.

No Parking Extensions Bring Word of Caution From Mayor

The prediction that further extension of no parking in the downtown business area could well be the straw that "would break the camel's back" was heard in city council yesterday as regulations preparing for the new-year traffic system were put into effect.

Mayor A. M. Haig said he was "more than a little" concerned over the no-parking extensions in the downtown area, suggesting that until the city could get to the point of managing controlling traffic many of the no parking regulations were serving no purpose.

The discussion arose with the introduction of recommendations from the parking committee calling for no parking on the north side of Campbell Street, on both sides of Pinnacle St., 200 feet south of Station, and on the north side of East Bridge St., 100 feet east from Pinnacle St.

Mayor Haig said the situation was such that downtown merchants could stand little more interference from parking regulations. He said business could be affected resulting in lower assessment and taxes.

Alderman Robert Temple, chairman of the traffic committee, said the original recommendation from the DeLeuw, Cather firm, consulting engineers currently doing a traffic survey in the city, was for elimination of parking on both sides of Bridge St.

IN EFFECT NOV. 6

"The traffic committee will not emphasize any no," Alderman Temple said.

He asserted that the traffic committee did not want to eliminate any more parking spaces than was absolutely necessary.

Belleville's one-way street system will go into effect in the early morning of Wednesday, Nov. 6th. After that time traffic will proceed south on Front Street and north on Pinnacle.

Westbound traffic only will be in effect on Campbell Street; present one-way traffic on McAnany and Bartlett Street will be reversed, and eastbound traffic will be in effect on Dundas Street between Front and Pinnacle.

City public works crews are now erecting the necessary signs, and all things are ready for inauguration of the one-way street system.

The Canadian Universities Foundation said it could contribute a big boost to the construction industry if the government would make National Housing Act loans available to universities for their multi-million-dollar expansion needs.

SPLIT ON TARIFFS

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said tariffs should be raised to give Canadian industry the major share of the market now supplied by imported manufactured goods. The Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association, on the other hand, said that tariffs should not be raised except in particular and unusual circumstances.

The Canadian Labor Congress and the Confederation of National Trade Unions—formerly the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor—said there should be an immediate special session of Parliament just to deal with unemployment.

The CLC said there should be a big boost in welfare benefits, a shorter work week, and increased pensions.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who said he had been consulting various leaders privately on the unemployment situation since Aug. 25, announced the conference "most co-operative, helpful and beneficial."

FORSYTH — HALES

St. Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, October 8, at 2.30 p.m. for a lovely autumn wedding when the Reverend Canon A. S. McConnell united in marriage Diane Jane Hales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Hales, to Mr. John Donald Forsyth, of Detroit, son of Mr. Matheson Forsyth, also of Detroit, in a double-ring ceremony.

The choir boys entered the church singing "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven," accompanied by the church organist, and during the signing of the register sang the 23rd Psalm, the hymn "Immortal, Invisible," accompanied by the congregation.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was radiantly lovely in a full-length gown of white peau de soie, fashioned on princess lines and embroidered with white seed pearls and sequoting. The gown had a pointed bustle back accented with a large cabbage rose of the material. A tiara of pearls held the bride's fingertip veil and she carried a bridal bouquet of white lilies, stephanotis and ivy in spray effect.

She was attended by Miss Mary Catharine Clare, Reg. N., of Kingston, as maid of honour; Miss Penny Grills of Toronto, Miss Margaret Arnott of Kingston, as bridesmaids. Renewed Faith in God's Promises Only Security Against World War III Says Dr. J.R. Mutchmor

"The purpose and destiny of men and nations, present and future security against World War III will be accelerated not by a higher price of gold or by stockpiling of H. but rather by renewed faith in the promises of God," said Dr. J. R. Mutchmor, of Toronto, United Church secretary of Evangelism and Social Service, at the anniversary service at St. John's United Church, Campbellford, on Sunday.

"It is tragically clear that man has developed his life too exclusively on the secular level," he said. "Let us applaud the wonderful achievements of science and technology and admit that 'Organization' is the key built for himself and society a wonderful world of machine production, begun to explore outer space and by some accounts made the nation-state an obsolete thing.

"It must also be admitted that man is mounted on a bigger horse than he can ride. His tools are taking over the tool-makers. Man's ingenuity has brought him to the end of his tether and in his fear he seeks security foolishly in gold, not in God.

CHURCH'S GREATEST CHALLENGE

"This situation," said Dr. Mutchmor, "is the greatest challenge faced by the Christian church in all her long and varied history. Until recently the Christian Church was forced at its live-in-the-world level to admit four possible human relationships: enemy, stranger, neighbour and brother.

"Now the enemy relationship is unthinkable. To accept it would be utter lunacy. To engage in it would be world suicide.

"The stranger relationship is not much better. To build world situations on this pattern will mean the addition of millions to the present high totals of refugees. Including the near million of them in the Middle East and mounting thousands in every area of jewish and particularly in strife torn Africa.

"By the neighbourhood idea appears to be the answer, that we are all one in the United Nations was born following World War II at San Francisco. This body has a membership of 99 nations. It is by the hope that the U.N. since can give purpose and meaning to life and guarantee security grows dimmer every day.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOT BROTHERHOOD

"The neighborhood that scirence has made the world a neighborhood. It has not, however, created brotherhood. From the point of danger and growing tension in the Middle East particularly the Western European rush to the U.S. and on the free market is one day forecast of a 50 per cent per ounce by nearly five dollars.

"Confusion of the tragic and tragic needs of man and society today is the Christian Church must be proclaim Christ as the answer to the ultimate questions of life and death. It must call on men and nations to establish brotherhood in terms of God's will for our time. It must oppose racial discrimination. It must denounce the sins of Communist China into membership in the United Nations. It must challenge say strategy based on nuclear weapons.

"Positively the Christian Church must say that in God's love revealed in Jesus Christ there is the only answer to sin including the terrible sins of arrogance, pride, selfishness, deceit and dishonesty.

HIGH MORAL STANDARDS NECESSARY

"The Christian Church must hold high the moral standards of the good life calling on men and nations to make real the teaching that strong help the weak and that differences be solved by negotiation and arbitration and never by

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Leland Ostrander of Picton, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Hugh Conley, of Avondale, cousin of the bride, were gowned alike in shell-pink organza in waltz-length, with bouffant skirts, having petite hemline, draped bodices with cowl necklines; forming tiny sleeves. They wore white mohair picture hats with pink bows; white accessories, and carried bouquets of white and blue tinted 'mums mingled with ivy in cascade style. The bride's mother, wearing a sheath gown of embroidered silk organza, in deep rosewood color, featuring a deep neckline and three-quarter sleeves, while the graceful skirt was enhanced by back and front panels and bow, in plain rosewood organza; wore blue accessories, and corsage of yellow rosebuds, received the guests.

Calgary Lady Paints Teepees For Trail Riders

CALGARY (CP) — The art of painting teepees, once the distinctive domain of the Indians, is being invaded by Mrs. A. M. (Bunny) Robins of Calgary, a very attractive blonde.

Seven authentically designed teepees to which Mrs. Robins has painted her brush will be used next summer by the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, an organization which sponsors annual back-to-camping expeditions.

The Indians have not only used painting teepees, they also print on making them to their local text and awning firm supplies them.

To preserve authenticity—and to help trail riders distinguish their temporary homes from those of their neighbors — Mrs. Robins drew on what knowledge of Indian folklore to give each teepee an original, symbolic painted story.

WESTERN CULTURE

Mrs. Robins completed three of the seven teepees on a trail ride herself. For the remaining four she simply spread the canvases out in her living room.

She wasn't anxious to take on the job in the start "but I felt that because so many people come from all over the country for trail rides, they might as well be exposed to as much of our Western culture as possible."

"Every painting, of course, tells a story. I don't make an outright copy of the original paintings. Their paintings are symbolic of their religion and culture.

"Every little thing in the painting has a meaning. An Indian painting may tell of the deeds and accomplishments right down to how many horses were stolen."

Born into an artistically - inclined family, Mrs. Robins has taken a four-year fine arts course, "rounded off" with several months of touring art schools in New York. She has been a trail rider since the early 1940s and has ridden some 1,000 miles with the organization on the regular four-or five-day trips.

St. Margaret's Little Helpers' Hold Party

On Saturday afternoon the Little Helpers' and their mothers met in St. Margaret's Sunday-school Church hall for their annual service and party.

The Rev. L. A. Page conducted the service. The children joined in singing "Jesus Loves Me," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Bruce Bishop.

A story entitled, "The Light of the World," was told by Mrs. Hubert Grew about the life of the boy Jesus, until He was seven years old; the boys when babies and girls graduate from "Little Helpers."

As each birthday was mentioned, a candle was lighted to represent that year. These candles were lighted by the following Little Helpers: John Lindsay, Julie Bishop, David Rosebush, Sandra McGrath, Deborah Welch, Patti McKnight and Michael Grew. Then the candles shone forth, all joined in singing "Jesus Bids Us Shine."

PRESENT MITE BOXES

Mrs. Grew explained briefly, why the children were encouraged to put into their mite box and for what the money was used. The children brought their mite boxes forward in age groups, where they were received by two members of the Junior Auxiliary, Lynne Mountford and Margaret Bolton. Mr. Page dedicated this money to the work of missions.

The Junior Auxiliary Beginners, led by Linda Bennett, delighted the audience with a ballyrun.

Mrs. Walter Roblin, secretary of the "Little Helpers", presented graduation certificates to all who attended their seventh birthday in 1960.

On the president of the senior W.A. welcomed all mothers to the meetings, held on the second Monday of each month and in an interesting manner spoke of the work done by the United Nations for children, and how they might help by supporting UNICEF.

Mrs. Roblin expressed thanks to the W.A. for its support throughout the year, and appreciation to her assistants, Mrs. S. Bishop, Mrs. D. Boyce and Mrs. H Grew for their capable help.

Mr Page closed the service with prayer.

Refreshments were served by members of the W.A. under the convenership of Mrs. J. Bennett, and Mrs. P. Pickering.

While in Edmonton she met Miss Phillips, who had been on the Maynooth charge and wished to be remembered to all the ladies in the district.

Mrs. Dobbs urged the W.A. to look on the job to be done as an opportunities for service.

Peace on earth depends on our personal peace with God and our devotion to God."

On January 1, 1962, the WMS and WA will unite. Each organization has much to contribute to the union which aims to unite all the women of the church in a fellowship and service.

The Rev. J. Burns of Bancroft introduced the Rev. Groups may choose their special programs.

St. Ola W.A. extended an invitation for the 1961 rally to be held in that area.

Following the close of the afternoon session, the Bancroft ladies served refreshment tea.

Mr. Dean Asselline read an address to the honored couple, Arden and Dorothy, who later opened their many lovely gifts and thanked their many friends and neighbors for their kindness.

Salad Cons and Pros

By Mary Moore

Widely read and quoted Dr. Walter Alvarez states that man is a carnivorous (meat-eating) animal and has no ferment in his stomach or bowel to help digest vegetable matter. Hence his well-known stand against salad-selling food fadists and quacks who labor under the erroneous idea that man was built to be a vegetarian. He is quoted as saying that much indigestion and stomach trouble so prevalent among civilized mortals is due to the fad for "rabbit food"—spinach, greens, salads, raw fruit, celery, cabbage and bran," and that it is "All right for a person who has the digestion of an ostrich."

These blunt statements are controversial indeed and to argue against them the opinion of Dr. George Benton, Associate Professor of Nutrition at University of Toronto School of Hygiene, was enlisted.

It is with great comfort that I quote Dr. Benton's world agree that man, unlike the ruminant animal or the rodent, is unable to digest cellulose. This is the "vegetable matter" that Dr. A. refers to. No one has ever questioned this. In fact, many of us point out the benefits of this indigestible fiber" to vegetables and cereals (with certain exceptions in digestive disorders). The remainder of the food value — the other carbohydrate, the minerals, the vitamins — are easily digestables just as they are from meats.

"A man can eat and handle a piece of raw carrot by masticating it to finely divided pieces and then digesting (dissolving) the minerals, the vitamins and the carbohydrate other than cellulose.

"I feel that Dr. Alvarez has misrepresented his facts by talking about all fruits and vegetables only in terms of their cellulose content. While I, personally, would not want to go on a vegetarian diet, it is a scientific fact that vegetarians who will eat cheese and eggs and drink milk and who eat a variety of fruits and vegetables, can obtain all of the nutrients they require and can remain in good health. Relatively few people are attracted by the relatively high cellulose content of such a vegetarian diet."

Dr. Benton goes along with me on lettuce and cabbage and cucumbers and carrots, etc., and all the beautiful fruits available. Important proteins are the most important nutrients for health, but fresh raw foods and beverages them to the relaxe and complement to high metabolic efficiency.

The People of Hungary' Begins Kiwanis Travelogue Series

Next Thursday evening in the Collegiate auditorium the Kiwanis travelogue will again present to the citizens of Belleville, and neighboring districts, another series of travelogues, when Gene Wiancko, photographer and narrator, will show one of the most notable travel-documentary motion pictures of recent years, entitled, "The People of Hungary." Mr. Wiancko spent 12 years as an exploration geophysicist, and was responsible for the discovery of the world's most northern gas field at Point Barrow, Alaska. He also directed a scientific exploration expedition in the Arctic Ocean, where he took pictures of the wonders of this strange land.

"The People of Hungary," depicts the tumultious history of this beautiful country from the Roman and Turkish conquests to the revolutions of modern times. Budapest, most remarkable city of the world; famous national dance of beautiful Lake Balaton; the Danube; Gypsy life; the ancient castles and fortresses; mountain grandeur, and the fishermen of Balatonszali, are among the many pictorial scenes to be shown.

Gene Wiancko is a graduate of the University of California and a member of the Exploration Geophysicists, a skilled speaker, who specializes in scientific pictorial of different ways of life in other lands.

Mrs. N. — He gets home later and later.

Martin C. — What's there to come home to?

• • •

Rose C. — We've been married nine years and have three young children. You'd think my husband would realize how hard it is for me and hurry home to lend a hand. Instead, he's the last one to get home to get home from the plant. I think he purposely stalls to make sure I have the kids in bed and he doesn't have to help me.

Then, of course, he wants his dinner when I'm so tired I can hardly drag myself to eat my own meal. It's the same thing the same old hash. Then he goes fishing. You'd think my husband would realize how hard it is for me to entertain children. He's obviously avoiding me and the children. It's so unfair. The last time he took me out was before we had the children. I'm sorry, after I made all the plans and went to the trouble to get the only time he's content to be with us is when there's a crowd around. You'd think my husband would realize how much I'd appreciate a night out with him once in a while. I'm almost ready to give up. I'm getting fed up with the same old hash. Then he tells me I'm getting too much overweight. I'm not overweight, I'm just big boned.

What's wrong with a man who marries, has a family, and then makes himself so scarce as possible?

• • •

Martin C. — Do you know what it means to put in a long day servicing sewing machines — then have to come to complaints, screams and disputes? I'm fed up, too.

Rose admits she nags and it wasn't just about going out for an anniversary dinner. She was using size but nag and whine.

Martin C. — I'm busy time, but so do I. At least she doesn't have to worry about the bills. And I do her marketing every Saturday. She could make things easier for herself if she planned better instead of sitting around sulking and feeling sorry for herself. She has every kind of electric gadget ever invented. That's no tough shock pushing buttons!

After the first boy came I tried to help. But she scolded that I was attacking things right or I was giving too much gas or I was scaring him. So I decided to keep out of the way and just support them all.

She nags, nags. She doesn't bother with her looks. Her talk is always the same. So whom have I to talk to

• • •

The Council: What has happened to Rose in the nine years since her marriage, to blind her to the attractiveness he found in her at first? What has vanished? We'd guess it's a sense of humor!

She seems to have fallen into the trap of taking herself and her responsibilities too seriously. In human terms, her plaintive account has "insufficient data." Martin feels he comes home to a pallbearer. So Rose's first step in brightening the emotional tone of the family headquarters is to aim for the humorous. Perhaps, as Martin suggests, more efficient housekeeping would provide patches of free time for her to cultivate her mind, her looks and Martin's friendship.

Some of the most successful wives we know are the ones who can coax a smile, a laugh, even lips of their husbands — no matter what the worries and problems each must discuss after work. One night start by planting an apt cartoon under Martin's plate each evening.

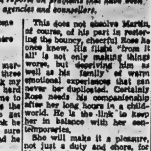
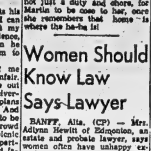
Women Should Know Law Says Lawyer



BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Mrs. Adlynn Hewitt of Edmonton, an estate and probate lawyer, says women often have unnecessary perplexes in property matters because they do not know the law.

One of 50 Alberta and British Columbia lawyers here to study the effect their profession has on family life, Mrs. Hewitt said in an interview that a basic knowledge of provincial laws dominions against illness.

She said the fault lies with the wives. If they do not take the trouble to find out enough about the law as it affects themselves. their husbands may not pay unnecessary and burdensome income taxes. Or a husband's will may be ruled invalid because it does not have been executed properly.



"If she had found out in time," she said, "that she should have been a simple matter to add the necessary codicils to her husband's will or the wife's, thereby protecting herself and her children."

As further protection, Mrs Hewitt suggested estate planning between husbands and wives while they are still young and have relatively little. In this way it is a simple matter to add to their accumulable goods rather than perform a complicated division of property later.

QUESTION BOX

Question . . . I am not a youngster, and have lived in two large cities besides Chicago, but I became here I had never heard of a bride-to-be having shower in honor of her by members of her family. It happens all the time here, and I always feel sorry, as I particularly wanted to hear because of this. Can you tell us something new, or is it done here only in Chicago?

Mrs. N.B.

Answer . . . Many communities have their own customs, but it is understandable that you have not one of them. It is a delightful way everywhere, as far as I know, that no member of a prospective bride's family entertains for her in this way. The reason is a good one. Guests are expected to arrive bearing gifts. It is very nice to ask people to bring gifts to one of your own, if it is a friend of the bride should give such a party, never a relative.

Question: My husband and I are very interested in all the political to-do that is going on about the selection of our new President. We spend many nights while we can listening to everything about the campaign, both on the radio and TV. Some of our friends in the neighborhood who drop in all the time. They don't like either radio or TV and come out frankly and tell us to turn them off. We have missed several lectures that we particularly wanted to hear because of this. Can you tell us something new, or is it done here only in Chicago?

Mrs. P.R.M.

Answer . . . Be tactful, but explain that you enjoy these programs very much, and, as they are not interested, you would suggest that they call before coming so you can tell them whether or not there is something on that you wish to see or hear. If this doesn't work, the only thing to do is to let them sit while you go ahead with the programs to which you are interested.

RENT CONTROL

QUEBEC (CP)—The municipal councils of Matane and Ste. Marie de Beauce have decided to retain rent control regulations. The provincial government recently announced that municipalities could shelf such controls if they wished.

PICNIC SPOTS

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Board of Trade has asked the provincial government to set up a network of picnic spots, beaches and camping grounds saying that neighboring provinces are much better organized in this respect.

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PEGGY'S COVE, N.S. (CP)—Tourists usually outnumber the 500 residents of this rocky tip of the Nova Scotia fishing village.

No. 1 attraction is the scenery — massive boulders, pounding surf and fishermen's weather-beaten sheds. No. 2 is a gentle-artist named William deGarthe.

Peggy's drew throngs of artists, especially artists and photographers, even before the 30-mile road from Halifax was paved. But since deGarthe and his Newfoundland wife Agnes moved here five years ago the tide has become a flood.

COLORFULLY GARBED

They come to buy his paintings of Atlantic surf, boats, fish sheds and rugged coast, for Bill deGarthe has won an international reputation as a marine painter.

They also come to watch him at work, drawn by his colorful appearance and exuberance as held by his swish, deft application of oils to canvas.

DeGarthe, 53, lives up to the popular idea of what an artist should look like — graying, twisting, grey moustache and goatee, bright plaid shirt, old slacks and blue beret or wavy panama.

Almost any time any day from spring to fall he can be spotted through the open door of his fish shed studio or by the surf along the granite rocks, painting or talking to visitors with sprightly gesture.

DeGarth is a transplanted Fine with aristocratic Swedish blood but he has been a Canadian citizen for almost 30 years. Most people would say his settling in Nova Scotia was an accident. He says that it was fate, with a little help from "Aggie" — his tough-but-cricket and hardest-working supporter.

LIKED CANADA

"I arrived in Halifax in 1926," he recalls. "I was going to travel around the world. I got as far as Montreal, liked Canada and decided to stay for awhile."

His return to Nova Scotia in 1930 was not intentional either. He was on his way to Brazil, supposed to call on a Halifax advertising executive, was offered a job as a commercial artist and stayed.

One thing led to another. He discovered Peggy's Cove, loved it and began painting the sea in his spare time. When commercial art permitted he studied under some of the best artists in this country and the United States.

Gradually painting became a full-time effort. In 1936 he bought a fisherman's cottage and moved to the cove to live. Since then he's added a studio and gallery.

TEACH TO LIVE

Can an artist make a living in Canada from his art alone? "No," says deGarthe, "although he probably can by teaching art and doing other work on the side." This is an arrangement he followed.

He says young people show a greater interest than oldsters in art today. He'd like to see better facilities for teaching art in Canada. He thinks another "Group of Seven" could do a lot to promote distinctively Canadian art.

As for his own style, critics say he is frankly representational. The average person can easily recognize his subjects. Forceful composition, diagonal line and a frantic quality mark his work.

His "Approaching Storm," a painting of surf on a rocky shore, was one of the most popular canvas among 125 entries at a Maritime art show in Fredericton last year. He paints the sea in all its moods—even as a mild pond, sparkling in the sun, shrouded in fog and lashed by hurricanes.

ONE-MAN SHOW

He says the high point of his career to date was a one-man show in Montreal last year. He has also had one-man exhibits in Halifax, New Brunswick and Barbados, where he spent three recent winters.

DeGarthe has boundless enthusiasm for his art. He never tires of talking about it, pointing out features he particularly likes on his latest canvas. He is never satisfied, always striving for something better in technique or subject. Tals winter he'll study in Paris and Rome and do some painting in Portugal, Spain and Italy.

Although painters are in fortune's gallery displays such varied subjects as autumn woods, West Indian Negroes and nudes.

He's an admirer of Salvador Dali, the noted surrealist, and calls him "the greatest genius living today."

Next Friday he'll be back at Peggy's Cove. "It's a painter's paradise," he says. "For rugged-ness and natural beauty you can't beat it."

CIVIC DAM

CHANDLER, Que. (CP)—This Gaspe Peninsula town is building its own dam on Lake Valpy to replace a 37-year-old structure washed away by floods last year. The $1,500 dam, started last August, should be completed in November and the lake then will become the town's reservoir.

PAINTS THE SEA — William deGarthe, leading Canadian marine artist, adds final touches to a canvas showing the surf spraying over rocks along the Atlantic coast. The bearded, colorfully garbed painter and his studio at picturesque Peggy's Cove, N.S., lure almost as many tourists as the ocean he paints. (CP Photo).

Chrysler Urges Protection for Canadian Firms

OTTAWA (CP)—Protection for Canada's auto industry, hard pressed by foreign imports, was urged Mon. by Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, before the royal commission on the automotive industry.

Chrysler was the last of the big three to present its brief Monday as the one-man commission Prof. Vincent Bladen, opened weeklong public hearings here. Ford and General Motors were first on the list.

"The salvation of the Canadian automotive industry lies in the hope that the government of Canada will decide to conform to a pattern of fostering the growth and development of its own existing automotive industry," the Chrysler brief said.

The brief had four main points. One urged a complete review of duties and tariffs on all United Kingdom and foreign imports "up to a level which would permit Canadian - made vehicles to be more competitive in price."

BUILD IN CANADA

Second was encouragement of British and foreign auto producers to manufacture in Canada. Unlike Ford and GM, Chrysler has no British subsidiary to turn out cars which enter Canada duty-free.

Third was a suggested "Canada content" production requirement that would provide added protection for the Canadian manufacturer who must sell in a market featuring low imports.

Fourth was the elimination of the 7½-per-cent excise tax on autos.

The Chrysler brief said most countries with an auto industry provide protection for it.

It added this remark about labor: "So long as the destinies and major policies of Canadian auto workers are dictated from the U.S., there seems little hope for an end to the constant pressure for spiralling wages in Canada's automotive plants."

Production of the North American compact, now going into its second production year insofar as the big three are concerned, had made little impression in Canada on the market held by European vehicles. That market trip was to some measure responsible for the present high level of unemployment in Canada."

Pastoral Letter Causes Criticism In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN (AP)—A pastoral letter by three Roman Catholic bishops forbidding Puerto Ricans to vote for Governor Luis Munoz Marin's Popular Democrats in the Nov. 8 United States elections was read in churches throughout this predominantly Catholic U.S. commonwealth Sunday. There were protests, but no disorders.

Archbishop James Davis of San Juan, one of the signers of the letter, was both jeered and cheered as he arrived and left San Juan Cathedral.

Munoz Marin's wife walked out of San Felipe Church while Msgr. Edward J. Kingston was reading the pastoral letter.

Munoz Marin himself again denied the pastoral letter, calling it a political manifesto.

The priests was the liveliest outside the cathedral.

About 200 youths shouted: "Down with clericalism . . . Why don't the bishops criticize the C.I.P. petition frauds?".

The letter was a reference to a charge made by the Popular Democrats that the Catholic Church-backed Christian Action Party fraudulently gathered names to get the 70,000 needed for petitions required to put the party on the ballot—for the election of an island governor and legislature.

A group of supporters of the pastrel letter who declined to give their party affiliation shouted back: "Long live the Pope . . . long live the church."

LAND BRIDGE THEORY — Dr. C. C. Lindsey, University of British Columbia scientist, says he has found fresh evidence that a land bridge connected Asia and North America before the Ice Age.

The theory has long been held that people and animals migrated from Asia to North America by this route.

Dr. Lindsey, who spent the summer in the north, says his belief in the land bridge has been strengthened by discovery of fresh-water fish on a barren island in the Bering Sea. The island is believed to be a remnant of the land bridge between the continents.

Dr. Lindsey and an associate went to the island and found three kinds of fish which, Dr. Lindsey says, could not have got there except through fresh-water channels of a land bridge.

Map, based on a sketch by Dr. Lindsey, shows his estimate of the land bridge outline. (CP Newsmap.)

Hoarse Cry of the Diesel Locomotive Healthy Sound In Rocky Northern Manitoba

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—At a time when railroads in most parts of Canada appear to be in decline, northern Manitoba is the scene of growing rail activity. The hoarse cry of the diesel is a healthy one.

The continent's newest branch line—52 miles of track punched through forbidding rock cuts, scrub timberland and over muskeg of almost quicksand consistency — has just gone into business, linking a group of zinc and copper mines in the Chisel Lake area with this long-established mining centre. It is the third branch line built by Canadian National Railways in northern Manitoba in the last seven years.

Completed in less than two years, the Chisel Lake branch is providing a new transfusion of ore to the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company's Flin Flon operations. One mining company official says the ore reserves brought by the new line to within a few hours of the smelter equal in their potential metal content the 18,000,000-ton potential that brought Flin Flon into being in the late 1920s.

ORE RESERVES

Every day now the long trains of ore cars, their newly-painted sides already grey with rock dust, carry an average of 1,000 tons from the mines at Chisel Lake and Stall Lake.

Oddly, the ore just mined from the stubborn pre-Cambrian rock goes underground again as soon as it arrives here—into a 650-foot-deep abandoned stope where it is conveyed to the smelter as needed. In this way a permanent reserve is built up to keep the smelter in constant operation regardless of weather conditions or possible holdups to traffic from the mines.

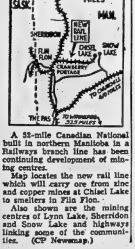
Building of the new branch followed joint agreement between the CNR and Hudson Bay Mining, when surveys showed that the mines had years of production ahead. And completion of the rail link brought by both to Flin Flon and Snow Lake, until just lately a ghost town following the end of a worked - out gold mine in 1958.

NEW-MADE TOWN

Chisel, four miles from Chisel and Stall Lake is a ready-made community in its years as a gold town. Now it's going to be bigger than in its gold heyday when planes were its only link with the outside.

The Hudson Bay Mining firm is building 45 new houses in the $13,000 range for the extra employees who will man the zinc and copper mines. The present five-room school is being doubled in size. Hotels, restaurants and stores are open again in the community of about 1,000, thanks to the discovery of the base-metal deposits which company officials call "a treasure chest of striking proportions."

Flin Flon is rejoicing too with the prospect of the huge reserves available to keep the smelter operating. There is a noticeable belief that the town of some 14,000 has even more of a future than it has had of a past, when its smoke plume blossomed all through the depression - ridden 1930s and swelled through the demands of the war years and the post-war boom.



HOLIDAY OCCASION

So the occasion of the formal opening of the branch line, with its traditional last - spike ceremony, was a holiday event for the two communities some 90 miles apart. The new line runs 32 miles from Optic Lake, on the CNR's branch running north from The Pas to Lynn Lake and built in 1953. Twelve miles south of this junction and just north of Cranberry Portage it joins the old established line from The Pas to Flin Flon.

The third branch built in recent years in the northern Manitoba area runs to International Nickel's new development at Thompson, where a town of 8,000 has sprung up from the wilderness.

The continued settlement of this area has resulted in calls by some of the residents to give the area its correct geographical name of central, rather than northern Manitoba. The frontier to the north is steadily being pushed back and the rumble of ore trains sounds the note that the development is no fly - by-night affair. Where the railroads are, an air of permanency prevails.

RAIL EXPANSION

A 52-mile Canadian National built in northern Manitoba in a Railways branch line has been continuing development of mining centres.

Map locates the new rail line which will carry ore from zinc and copper mines at Chisel Lake to smelters in Flin Flon.

Also shown are the mining centres of Lynn Lake, Sherridon and Snow Lake and highways linking some of the communities. (CP Newsmap.)

Cuba's Ability to Pay Seen Limiting Factor in Canada Attempt to Capture Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States embargo on trade with Cuba has presented Canadian businessmen with a golden opportunity to expand their foothold in the Cuban market, observers here say.

They are quick to add, however, that much depends on Cuba's ability to pay.

It has been nearly a week since Washington severed trade ties with Cuba following a series of provocations and insults from Fidel Castro.

One government official said he has heard reports that already there has been a wave of new orders from Cuba, mostly centred in capital goods and equipment.

An official of a large export insurance firm said business in certain lines began picking up about this time last year, apparently as a result of reorientation in Cuban purchasing, dictated by the expectation that the US up and embargo, trade officials say.

The official however, believed that exporters should protect themselves against the possibility of non-payment. A letter of credit issued by a Cuban bank should be confirmed by a Canadian bank.

Cuba's dollar reserves last week were placed at $175,000,000 but there was no way of knowing, he said, how much of this was "clear" — without charges against it. He also described the Cuban market as unpredictable, subject to the whims of the revolutionary leaders.

R D L Kinsman of Montreal, president of the Canadian Exporters Association, also felt that payments might present a problem, but added that the opportunity was great. He was supported by John McHenry of Montreal, general manager of the Exporters Association.

Items most often mentioned for increased export to Cuba are automotive parts and accessories, agricultural equipment, spare parts and equipment for Cuba's oil and sugar refineries Also mentioned are chemicals used in processing and manufacturing.

Canadian exports to Cuba last year totalled $15,833,000. Principal export commodities have been newsprint, malt, salt cod and wheat flour.

Exports for the first eight months of 1960 totalled $6,800,000 —against $10,000,000 in the same period last year. But business in the last month or so has perked up noticeably, trade officials say.

Imports from Cuba last year totalled $12,046,000—more than half of the value being in sugar. Trade officials say the subsidiaries of American companies observe the embargo while the up to 50 firms themselves, it is pointed out, The supply order which Washington imposed to subsidiaries covers only goods of US origin.

Much depends, it is said, upon a man for Canadian subsidiary, Sherritt Gordon Mines, said he was sure that company would not turn down a bona fide order from Cuba.

QUADRUPLETS NO SURPRISE TO PARENTS — Quadruplets—all boys—born to Mrs. Margaret Mary Gustine in Detroit Sunday. Mother and the quintet, weighing from five pounds, 15 ounces to five pounds, two ounces, are reported doing well. Mrs. Guinnane, 30, and her husband, Gerard, 39, were told two months ago by their doctor to expect quads. The couple were married in their native England and already had two boys, Stephen, 8, and Anthony.

Inter-Union Feud Takes New Turn

TORONTO (CP) — An International union feud that could tie up several Toronto building projects took a new turn Monday when the Toronto & District Labor Council asked permission to prosecute the plasterers and masons union.

The application to the Ontario Labor Relations Board came after the exchange had threatened legal action against building unions engaged in a boycott against Local 230, International Brotherhood of Bricklayers (CLC).

The 31-union Toronto Building Trades Council voted to boycott the Teamster Local after drivers of ready-mix concrete trucks refused to recognize organizing picket lines established by the building unions in a recent strike.

The boycott temporarily halted construction work on Toronto's east-west subway Monday. The walkout ended when Teamster drivers were replaced by owner-operated trucksters.

Permission to prosecute was sought by the builders' exchange after members of the International Association of Operative Plasterers and Cement Masons (CLC) refused to handle ready-mix concrete at a downtown garage project.

The teamsters have maintained their agreement with the cement companies required them to cross the picketlines through organizing picket liner.

Price of Gold Is Not Fixed And if Any Revision Made It Will Be Surely Upward

By FORBES RRUDE
Canadian Press—Business Editor

There's nothing sacred about the $35-an-ounce official price for gold.

At the same time, if and when there is a change it is unlikely to be downward, but almost surely to be upward.

These factors make gold spectacularly good, especially for money that can wait.

The present $35 price dates from the early 1930s when the United States raised it from $20.67.

Because the US brought about the last change by its own action, it has the legal right to expect that any future change will also be by its action. This is unlikely.

A change would likely be the result of some international action, presumably through the International Monetary Fund (IMF) which recognizes the $35 price. Such action probably would be preceded by an examination of the entire international system of monetary reserves and the place of gold in it.

There would be a very complex examination. Under certain circumstances it might even decide that the price of gold is too high, but it would be unlikely to recommend a decrease. Considerable opinion holds that it would find an increase desirable.

Factors operating against single action by the United States include the following:

The present administration has repeatedly stated it is against a gold price increase.

Even if a new administration fell differently, any action would have to be approved by Congress, and a long Congressional debate would bring about a run on the American dollar.

If any one country raised the price of gold, it would thus devalue its currency in terms of other currencies and put itself into an advantageous trade position. Other countries probably wouldn't stand for this. They could be expected to similarly devalue their currencies and a free-for-all of currency devaluation might result.

Under the International Monetary Fund agreement, no country may change the value of its currency more than 10 per cent without IMF approval.

Single-country action would be against the general principles of international co-operation which is regarded as one of the IMF's main objectives.

Request Barbers Be Broken Down In Association

OTTAWA (CP) — Apparently RCAF personnel are pulling rank on their fellow parents in home and school associations on military establishments.

Members of the association at RCAF Station Rockcliffe, nearby, complained about it at a district conference of home and school associations here during the weekend.

A Rockcliffe delegate said it is an official ruling that rank structure be maintained in all organizations. "It discourages people from speaking for fear of treading on the toes of superiors and it makes it difficult for anyone to take executive positions," he said.

Despite opposition from Kingston delegates, the conference passed a resolution asking the RCAF department to "break down the rank barriers" in home and school associations.

Told Husband 'Good Dynamiter' By Union Head

QUEBEC (CP)—The wife of a union expert said Monday she was told by a union official during the 1958 Gaspe Copper strike that her husband was a "good dynamiter."

Mrs. Nestor Henley, 27, testifying in the $5,200,000 Gaspe Copper-Mines damage suit against the United Steelworkers of America-Mines Union, said union official Bruno MacDonald made the remark during a campaign rally. Claude Cote expressed worry while their husbands were on strike in dynamite a company tank.

Later, Mrs. Henley testified, USWA representative Roger Bedard told her not to visit or help her husband in a Rimouski, Que., hospital after Henley had been injured examining a company tailing pipe. Herve Bernatchez, an engineer, testified, was killed in a premature blast.

Two-Year-Old Girl Killed, Still Explodes

MONTREAL (CP) — A two-year-old girl was killed and six other persons were injured, some severely, when a still exploded early Monday in a basement of a bungalow in suburban Pointe aux Trembles.

Carole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Chicoine, apparently died when the still exploded directly beneath the bedroom where she lay sleeping.

The blast, followed by flames that caused heavy damage to the split - level bungalow, ripped through the floor of her bedroom.

Her parents, three other children and Guy Robert, 25, a border, had cuts and bruises.

In a house next door, owned by J. R. Mercier, the eight-year-old girl was thrown to the kitchen floor and showered with broken glass from a window.

Indian Doctors and Nurses Run First-Class Hospital Says Canadian Signalman

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — Indian doctors and nurses have started providing medical service for the United Nations force in The Congo and first indications are that they'll run a first-class hospital.

That's the belief of Cpl. Jean-Guy Merineau, a Canadian signalman from Montreal who has become a big booster for the Indian field hospital unit that has set up shop in a modern, if only partly completed, hospital.

"If they keep on spoiling me the way they have I won't want to leave," said Merineau, in hospital with sinus trouble.

"We're treated like princes," said the 30-year-old soldier whose wife lives in Oromocto, N.B., Camp Gagetown's married-quarters area. "Perhaps because I'm a Canadian I get all kinds of little extras."

Merineau was the only Canadian among 26 UN soldiers and civilians admitted in the first three days following the opening of the hospital, Oct. 10. All were minor cases.

The hospital has 200 beds and will have room for 200 more when completed, he understood, by riots last July, is completed.

Lt.-Col. N. B. Banerjee, a surgeon and commander of the military field hospital unit, estimated it would take another nine months more of work to complete the 1½-storey hospital.

His staff of 384 includes 19 medical specialists ranging from a dentist to a psychiatrist and from a dermatologist to an eye doctor, as well as Red Cross welfare officer and dozens of service orderlies and medical assistants.

Most of the doctors have taken post-graduate courses in their specialties in British, Canada and the United States.

The high medical standards of the team have impressed Wing Cmdr. Robert Walch of the RCAF senior medical officer with the Canadian contingent and a constant worrier about the health of the Canadian signalmen.

The service provided by the Indian nurses and orderlies is almost embarrassingly attentive. During a half-hour period, an orderly came in three times to empty Merineau's ash tray. A medical assistant came to see how he was, a nurse brought him medicine and finally Major Dewitar, an Indian Red Cross welfare worker dressed in a blue sari, came in for a chat.

One night, Merineau said, he couldn't sleep because of a headache and a nurse and three orderlies came in to see what was wrong.

"The nurse gave me a pill and then an orderly stayed behind to talk with me until I fell asleep again," he said.

"They wake you up in the morning with a cup of tea in bed. That's the Indian custom that appeals to me."

Merineau's ranking as a signalman was helpful to Miss Hasnur, an Indian of Persian descent who said she was promoted to be short-wave radio receivers and transmitters. She wanted more to set up in the patients' lounge.

Would the corporal help her? The corporal said he would.

Up in the penthouse lounge, which has a water tower, there's a spectacular view of the area around the Leopoldville, Merineau adjusted the dials on a radio set and tuned in to the Canadian forces.

Then he set up a record player, put on a recording of Cole Porter tunes, leaned back in his chair and sighed:

"Boy, this is the life."

Should Co-ordinate Land Use Decisions in One Plan

HAMILTON (CP) — Provincial government departments should co-ordinate land use decisions under a master plan, a Saskatchewan expert advocated Monday.

Earl Levis, director of the Saskatchewan Planning Branch, Department's community planning branch, said the role of provincial planners, now negligible, should become more important.

Mr. Levin was a panel speaker at the Community Planning Association of Canada's three-day national planning conference which opened here Monday.

Provincial government departments make important land use decisions, he said, but it is unlikely that each department is aware of the overall objectives. It is illogical to co-ordinate them under a master plan.

Britain's Sales Of Cars Drop In September

LONDON (CP)—Britain's overseas car sales last month plummeted to their lowest level in more than three years.

The board of trade, the country's trade department, reported Monday that exports in September totalled 29,975 units, a drop of 11,000 from August and almost 22 per cent less than in September, 1959.

This is the lowest level they have hit since February, 1957, a time of recession in North American.

Last month's drop resulted almost entirely from drastically reduced exports to North America. Sales to Canada doing the month dropped by more than half and to the United States by two-thirds.

The export performance in recent months is a source of grave concern, not only to the government, but for industry as well.

Earlier this month Selwyn Lloyd, chancellor of the exchequer, told the Conservative party conference there would be no early relaxation of the credit squeeze that makes it difficult for Britons to buy more consumer goods. He warned that the British will have to use less at home and sell more abroad if they are to pull out of difficulties ahead.

OLD HABIT

Early explorers in North America found the Indians chewed spruce resin as a thirst quencher.

There may be some grunts and groans over this, but it isn't nearly as difficult as it looks.

Inquest Into Fatal Fire Opens Tuesday

PORTLAND, Ont. (AP) — A coroner's inquest into the fire that killed 19 members of the Masonic Order has been called for Tuesday.

Kenneth Johnston, coroner for Leeds county, said Monday he will preside at the inquest.

The fire destroyed the Masonic Temple in Portland Saturday night.

Johnston confirmed Monday that a letter on Scottish Rite stationery bearing his signature was sent to 6,200 members in Ontario. He said other Lodge officers had done the same in other parts of the country.

'Great Debates' May Have Raised More Questions Than Candidates Have Answered

NEW YORK (CP)—Television's "great debates" between Republican Vice-President Richard Nixon and Democratic Senator John Kennedy may have left more questions than they answered.

Through the discussions, the two candidates for the US presidency have made many promises, some questions but their penchant for generalities left a muddle coupled with a format that some critics provided no time for rebuttal, must leave the average United States voter wondering as to their true position on issues and other areas.

For example, was it Kennedy or Nixon who had the correct figures on the number of schools built under the Eisenhower administration, the rate of economic growth or the cost of helping the farmer? And did Kennedy or Nixon believe the Communist Mao Tse-tung that the vice-president said he did?

A principal cause of the confusion was the format. As one commentator has remarked, they were neither great nor debates. Some attempt to feel it was a mistake to have panels of reporters fire questions at Kennedy and Nixon. Others believe it was better, these critics say, to have let the moderator bring up a subject and let the candidates argue back and forth in informal discussion.

Also, the preoccupation with the sixpack was disconcerting. Will we ever hear, for example, the answer to Kennedy's challenge to Nixon Friday night "to deny that the administration has sent at least several missions to persuade Chiang Kai - shek to abandon" from Quemoy and Matsu?

The camera immediately switched to the moderator who was giving the candidates the agreed rules, gentlemen, we've allotted you the time for questions . . ."

The broadcasts didn't always help. Time and again, they kept jumping from question to question, like a game I inadvertently helped the candidates out at light spots.

For instance, Nixon said Friday night:

"I can do (with Cuba) what we did with Guatemala. There was a Communist dictator that we inherited from the previous administration. We guaranteed that there would not be any invasion of the Guatemalan people by them. Eventually rose up and they threw him out."

On the contrary, many Latin Americans believe that the US did in Guatemala what Kennedy has suggested be done — help provide arms and money to opponents of the regime in power.

Kennedy let the opportunity pass and tilted a few reasons why Mr. Nixon showed himself misinformed." The senator's first reason was that most of Premier Fidel Castro's arms and resources came from the United States. Apparently the interviewer was that it is just as legitimate how to provide help to Castro's foes.

Again, the audience was left wondering when Kennedy said:

"You yourself said, Mr. Vice-President, a month ago, that if we had provided the kind of economic aid five years ago that we are now providing, we might never have had Castro. Why didn't we?"

Nixon did not reply.

Jobless Become Chief Issue in All Byelections

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Current unemployment has become the chief issue in the campaigns for the Oct. 31 federal byelections in Peterborough and Niagara Falls.

All three parties threw their big guns into the fight Monday. Liberal Leader Lester Pearson spoke twice in Peterborough and is to speak in Niagara Falls tonight. At Niagara Falls Monday External Affairs Minister Green spoke, as did the retired CCF leader, M. J. Coldwell.

Mr. Pearson, speaking in support of Liberal candidate Donald Munro, criticized Mr. Diefenbaker for not calling an early session of Parliament to debate the unemployment question.

He said Parliament should deal immediately with the problem the government has for unemployment."

Mr. Green spoke in support of Ker L. Dougherd, Progressive Conservative candidate at Niagara Falls, a riding that has been held by the Liberals for seven years.

He accused Opposition speakers of wringing their hands and tearing their hair about the fate of the unemployed. What was needed was for Canadians to have faith in Canada's economy.

Mr. Coldwell, supporting New Party candidate Lyall Hartwell at Niagara Falls, said the problem of unemployment was not new. It had existed for years, but the government had no policy with which to deal with the problem.

He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker, instead of calling various groups together to discuss the unemployment, should be prepared to present a policy to deal with unemployment.

The former CCF leader also criticized Canada's role at the United Nations. He said it was "disgraceful" that Canada, with the United States, France, Britain and Australia trying to bolster the effect of Indian Prime Minister Nehru's plea for an Eisenhower - Khrushchev summit meeting.

Yugoslav Bride Will Not Be Asked to Leave

WINDSOR (CP) — A young couple was optimistic Monday they will not have to break up their marriage by one of them to comply with a federal deportation order.

Frank Lewis, 27, and his Yugoslav bride Milka Zorojevich, 22, were married with immigration officials for 1½ hours presenting a formal application to allow Mrs. Lewis to live in Canada.

The two were married Friday, after a one-year visitor's permit for Mrs. Lewis expired. Immigration officials told them she would have to leave the country. The couple returned home for a honeymoon.

"All we want to do is live quietly as man and wife right here in Canada," said Mr. Lewis, an employee of the unemployment insurance commission.

Harry Mansfield, head of the immigration department here, said details of the case will be forwarded to Ottawa.

"Meanwhile the wife is entitled to stay in Windsor."

CPR Expects To Seek Higher Freight Rates

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway said Monday it expects to seek higher freight rates on export grain moved via Montreal and Vancouver to ocean terminals at West Saint John, N.B.

Decision to seek a rate boost from the board of transport commissioners was made at the CPR said it found it was losing money on the grain hauls from the Georgian Bay area to the east coast.

J. M. Roberts, CPR general traffic manager, in his brief to the Maritime freight rates commission on transportation said during the 1959-60 crop year it shipped about 12,656 carloads of grain to Montreal, Saint John, Que., Quebec City and West Saint John. It produced an estimated gross revenue of $2,241,700 for the CPR.

A check of the cost of moving the grain to the various points showed the cost to Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec were making a small contributior to the general overhead, the rate to New Brunswick was not compensatory.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A decision by the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association to re-enter a team in the senior ranks for the Memorial Cup, emblematic of Canadian junior hockey supremacy, is underscored by two thoughts.

Primarily, it provides the province's 8,000 minor hockey association players another level of proficiency.

Secondly, officials want to soothe some of the sting of past failures. Only twice in 19 attempts between 1928 and 1951 has the province's junior representative team been able to get by the first preliminary interprovincial playoff.

The representative next spring will be the first in a decade. On past performance it probably will come from the Kootenay district —a hockey hotbed which on 15 occasions produced previous provincial junior champions.

TALENT EXPORTED

The BCAHA has set aside funds to finance a junior playoff next spring. Just what system will be used has not been definitely established.

The hope for the future has been summed up by Lou Allwell of Vancouver, immediate past-president of the BCAHA, in an interview he said:

"Our minor league teams have consistently beaten their counterparts in Alberta in exhibitions Our reasoning follows that if our minor league stars are good or better, junior teams using these graduates will also be as good or better.

"We can't expect too much from the current junior crop because the best have been snapped up by other Canadian teams. About 30 left the province this year.

"But next year teams in other provinces will hesitate to use these boys because with B.C. as the Memorial Cup race, B.C. players signed by out-of-province teams will be classed as imports. Any club is limited i nthe number of imports it signs."

DEPENDS ON CAHA

How quickly B.C. will develop into a Memorial Cup threat is open to debate.

"It" says Atwell, "the CAHA allows us to strengthen by six players for interprovincial playoffs as it did in the past, we'll be a contender from the start.

"If it doesn't, our teams will improve more gradually. The rate will depend on how fast our junior leagues jell."

The BCAHA hopes to establish junior teams in centres now without senior clubs, in larger coast cities this wouldn't be a problem.

This, said Atwell, will make the two classifications complementary and not competitive. Both divisions are costly operations. Alternative would be to assign junior clubs to interprovincial leagues as is the case with several Prairie teams.

TRAIL REACHED FINAL

In past Memorial Cup play, only Trail Tigers in 1936 and Trail Smoke Eaters in 1961 got by the first interprovincial playoff hurdle.

In 1936 the Tigers lost to Saskatoon Wesleys in the western semi-final. In 1944 the Smoke Eaters went to the Canadian final.

It was a notable road for the Smoke Eaters. In the western semi-final against Regina Commandos they won the first three games, but all were thrown out when it was discovered one of their players—Paul Mahara—was over-age. Regina took the next three games before Smoke Eaters came on to win the five-game series.

In the western final Trail whipped Port Arthur three straight before running into Ottawa Generals in the Canadian final and losing out in four straight, each by a one-sided score.

Canadian Guides Discover Tables

Loon Bay Lodge, 25 miles from St. Stephen, New Brunswick, Canada, is owned and operated by George N. Weiock. George was born in those parts and has lived all his life in St. Stephen and in Calais, Maine, on the opposite side of the St. Croix River. As much time as he can spare was devoted to ramblings through the woods and on the waters of that delightful country.

George showed us to our room when we arrived and we found ourselves faced with all the discomforts of the Waldorf-Astoria. Three-quarter twin beds, cross ventilation, plenty of Hudson Bay blankets, and a private bath with tub and shower. No use talking — you really rough it at Loon Bay.

That evening, when we were relaxing before the huge living room fireplace, George joined us. We talked of fish and fishermen, game and hunters, as fellows will who have spent much time in the outdoors. Gradually George worked his way around to the Solunar Tables.

"I was glad to get your letter," he said, "asking for reservations. For a long time I have been anxious to talk to you about your Solunar Tables. In a rather general way many of the fellows I know hereabouts have been using the Solunar theory ever since I can remember."

MOON SYSTEM

Quite naturally I pricked up my ears. Then I remembered that the Algonquin Indians knew about the "sun-up, moon-down" system that the old market hunters used. Margaret Rawlings, in her delightful book "South Moon Under" talked about the same thing. George went on.

"When the moon is low," he said, I interrupted him, asking what he meant by the moon is being "low".

George smiled. "That's our way of saying 'new moon' or 'dark of the moon'. We have noticed that for three or four days during this phase of the moon all wildlife — fish, birds, animals — is more active than at other times during the month." I smiled in agreement and waited for George to continue.

"Then was," he said, "when I used to tell our guests here at camp that the best fishing and the best hunting would be had around noon, when the moon was low. They wouldn't listen, of course, so I stopped talking about it. I was afraid they would think that I was urging them not to come in for lunch, thereby cutting down on camp work.

"Driving back and forth to town every day as I do, I always have a pretty good idea where the big buck deer are using. Our cook drives to camp early every morning and she tells me when and where she sees any deer. So I pretty well where to look for them.

"There is a crossing just around that first bend in the road. A good many times, when the moon is low, I will take down that rifle on the wall there while our guests are having lunch and announce to all that I'm going out to get a deer. I assure them that I will be back soon. More times than I can count on my ten fingers I am back at camp, dragging a buck deer.

SAME WITH FISHING

"The same thing is true of fishing. I know that when the moon is low in May or June the trout will be active and feeding around noon, so I announce to our guests, busy eating lunch, that I'm going down to the river to pick up a mess of trout. I don't say exactly that I'm going fishing; I tell them that I'm going down to get a mess of trout.

About without fail I'm back within an hour with a good catch of big squaretail.

"Now I notice in your book that the major Solunar periods come in around noon when the moon is low. Have you had the same experience?"

"Yes," I replied, "better than 90 per cent of the record catches each year are taken during the bright midday hours at the time of new moon, during those same major periods. That is the time of the best fishing of the month. Also, that is when you find the game to be most plentiful."

When I showed up at camp, I brought with me an ample supply of Solunar Tables. George gave one to each of the eight guides. The boys accepted these books with reservations. All of them knew about George's beliefs about what happened when the moon was low. Over in the guides' quarters they read the little books and talked about them.

Fortunately those bass in the St. Croix River seemed to carry watches. Day after day they responded to the promptings of the Solunar periods with a right good will. Toward the end of my stay the boys were asking me questions. Moreover, I decided that in the big pocket of each would be the telltale tip of the Solunar Tables.

It is indeed most heartening to have the Solunar Tables weighed in the balance by that group of able woodsmen and found to be not wanting. Come Christmas time, I can see that a shipment of books will go north to Loon Bay Lodge. I know that once you use the Solunar Tables and rely on them, you feel lost without them. We can't let that happen to those eight new converts.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Young Belleville, along with Young Ontario, is up and clamoring at the hockey gates.

Eager and anxious, some 4,000 youngsters in this part of Ontario will take to the ice lanes within the next two weeks, some of them headed for stardom, others just young, eager Canadian kids with a natural yen for their favorite winter sport.

In Belleville some 1,400 moppet hockey cells will go to the barrier. Some thirty-six teams, embracing calesercies from squirt to juvenile, are now in the process of formation. Coach, manager and administrative personnel of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association are working hard to get their puck-chasing legions in order.

In the outlying areas of the district from north to east and west, officials of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association are rallying their assistants to aid in organizing the mass movement to the lesianes.

Doug Patterson, OMHA third vice-president, of Stirling, and Albert Watkins, second vice-president of Peterborough, organizers of some 1,000 hockey-minded youngsters in the district from Peterborough on the east to Gananoque on the east, have been busier than a three-legged dog with a surplus of fleas.

Their's is a big job. And each year, as the seasons bring larger numbers of youngsters into the hockey fold, their task gets harder. But they have surrounded themselves with a fine group of loyal, enthusiastic workers, who toil not for personal gain, but for the love of the game and a natural urge to help the small fry.

Here in Belleville, too, are good men and true, who annually give their time and effort to minor hockey. Most of them are veterans of the movement whose ranks need reinforcements badly. But they do not grumble—merely do the best they can under the circumstances.

Such men as conveners Fred Poole and Fred Jones of the squirts; Harry (The Senator) Rollins and Stan Boyd of the pee-wees; Bob Forhan and Neil Hallam of the bantams; Art Lucas of the midgets and Russ Soule of the juveniles. Then there are the coaches, managers and referees, unselfish fellows all, who form some of the main cogs in the minor hockey machine.

Speaking of referees there is an urgent need for whistle-blowing officials in the minor hockey ranks, president Bill Brennan and executive director "Red" Storey have reverted to the referee-in-chief system and have appointed Gordon Gregory to this capacity. Anyone who feels like helping out in this department is asked to contact the officials or Mr. Gregory.

Playing dates also have been changed this season. The squirts and midgets will take the ice on Monday schedules instead of Wednesdays, while the juveniles will play on Wednesday nights as usual, but at 8-7, instead of 10 p.m. The peewees and bantams will hold forth on Saturdays, starting 8.30 p.m., through to two p.m.

Parents as well as Uncle Tom and Aunt Margie are urged to win the same on the dates the offspring is showing his hockey wares. Parental interest not only gives the youngsters an incentive, but a touch of pride. Their appearances at arena games also gives a "lift" to the men who are working so hard to give the youngsters of the city the opportunity to learn and play the game and in so doing helping them to become good citizens.

For the first time in its fifteen-year existence, the Belleville Minor Hockey Association will enter squirt teams in the OMHA playdowns. Eight teams of some thirty players each take to the ice next Monday in a winter-long battle for group honors.

Who knows? Among them may be another Bobby Hull. For this is the organization that gave last year's NHL scoring champion his start on the road to the Big Time and his attendant glory and gold.

Fights Gilroy

Halimi Seeks Title

LONDON (AP) — France's Alphonse Halimi arrived by plane Monday hoping to beat Britain's left-handed Freddie Gilroy and become world bantamweight boxing champion again.

Halimi and Gilroy tangle at London's Wembley indoor stadium tonight. British and European boxing officials recognize the fight as for the vacant world title.

But whoever wins will still have to convince the American National Boxing Association that he's champion. Eloy Sanchez of Mexico and Elder Jofre of Brazil are scheduled to meet at Los Angeles Nov. 17 and promoter George Parnassus is calling that a world title bout too.

Halimi was world champion from April 1957 to July 1959 but lost the crown to Mexico's Joe Becerra, retired two months ago and left the championship vacant.

BIG PAYOFF

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) — Pandate, winner of a two-mile hurdles race for three-year-olds, paid a pari-mutuel price of 216-1 to win and 104-1 to place at the Nottingham track Monday.

Lark Star Holds Lead

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Stewart, the great, little Canadian halfback with Ottawa Rough Riders, once more is in a position to challenge George Dixon of Montreal Alouettes for the Big Four individual football scoring championship.

With the last games of the schedule on Saturday, 12 points separate the two players. Dixon is aiming to crack the record of 26 touchdowns and 120 points set by Pat Abbruzzi of Montreal in 1956 and Stewart is bidding to become the second Canadian in nine years to win the scoring crown.

The last Canadian winner was Bill Bewley of Montreal in 1956 and before him Tip Logan of Hamilton and Ike Stewart a former Queen's University star, in 1951.

The Canadian Press statistics show Dixon, the pace - setter since early September, with 21 by 12 points over Stewart who regained second place from last year's champion by a 7-6 Christ of Toronto Argonauts.

13-POINT LEAD

Dixon, a second-year import, scored a touchdown in Montreal's 30-22 win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday and now has a total of 13 for 108 points. Stewart picked up two touchdowns in Ottawa's 38-1 walloping of the Argos but run his touchdown total to 16 and a point-total of 96. Stewart has played in 13 games, two more than Dixon who was out two games with an injury.

Gilchrist, scoreless Saturday, slipped to third with 88 points and Dave Mann, who scored Argos' lone point, held on to fourth place with 79 points.

Bewley, adding a touchdown and three converts, is fifth with 75 points and Gerry McDougall of Hamilton is sixth with 72 after a touchdown and three converts. Riders dominate in rushing statistics but Montreal's Sam Etcheverry-to-Hal Patterson combination and Toronto's Tobin Rote-to-Dave Mann set-up share passing honors.

Riders' Dave Thelen, in 11 games, carried the ball times for 1,346 yards, six better than his league rushing record set last year. But he has only three touchdowns.

Stewart carried only 132 times, but got 15 touchdowns along the ground while rolling up 1,015 yards. Dixon has 18 touchdowns evenly split running and passing.

Rote has the most passes thrown at 423 and the most completed at 234. His 3,837 yards gained through the air and 21 touchdowns are nice tops. But Etcheverry has a completion percentage mark of 554 and an average gain passing mark of 14 yards to Rote's .558 and 9.1 yards.

59 CATCHES

End Patterson has caught the most passes—59 to Mann's 54. But his total yards gained off passes is 1,027 compared with 1,286 for Mann. Patterson's touchdown mark is six, well behind the leaders. Mann is in front with 11, one more than Shatto.

Toronto's Bob Dehlinger and Jan Rouzrea have picked off eight enemy passes each.

Mann's name comes up again atop punting statistics—his 94 going for a total of 4,184 yards, with the longest sailing 90 yards. His average is 44.3 yards. Hamilton's Cam Fraser's average is one yard short of Mann's.

Stewart crops up again as punt-return leader. He has hauled 42 punts back 231 yards for a 5.5-yard average.

Lemar Lee of London Lords won the minor Ontario Rugby Football Union scoring title with 69 points on four touchdowns, 25 converts, five field goals and five singles. Lee, only a single point in front of Ed Vereb of Sarnia Golden Bears the previous week, scored 13 points in London's 32-0 win over Sarnia in the final game of the schedule Saturday to finish 24 points ahead of Vereb.

Russ Tour Is Held Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kremlin apparently has tripped up plans for a team of Soviet gymnasts to visit the United States.

U.S. officials are mystified as to the reason.

State department authorities said Monday night they do not know whether the proposal for a tour of the Soviet athletes will be carried through later. They said the Russians still are invited to come if they can agree with their U.S. sponsors on a new schedule.

Under the U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange agreement, a team of 12 Soviet gymnasts was to start a competition and exhibition tour of the U.S. Friday.

Sasky Riders Upset Bomber Plans

WINNIPEG (CP)—Saskatchewan Roughriders, already out of the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoff picture, turned spoilers in a big way Monday night.

The last-place Riders beat the league - leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers 23-17 to stop Bombers from winning 15 games this season. Bombers ended the regular 16-game campaign with a 14-2 mark. Riders have two wins, two ties and 11 losses with one game left against British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Saturday night.

Saskatchewan also held Winnipeg from setting a record for total points. The Bombers needed 40 to better Edmonton's 475 in 1957.

Bombers managed to salvage some personal glory. Gerry James needed nine points to pass Edmonton's Jackie Parker in the individual scoring race and virtually clinch his second title. The charging Canadian fullback scored 15 points, six on a last-second touchdown after Saskatchewan had sewn up the victory.

James has 114 points, seven more than Parker and 30 ahead of Willie Fleming of Lions, in third place.

Clair Branch sparked the Riders with two touchdowns. Fardy Burket added the other touchdown and Jack Hill converted all three. Riders got a safety touch when Leo Wilson tackled Charlie Shepard of Winnipeg in the end zone in the first quarter.

James got his points on two touchdowns and a field goal. He missed on both convert attempts. Shepard counted two singles for Winnipeg's other points.

FIRLE TO RETIRE

LONDON (AP)—Gordon Firle, Britain's biggest Olympic disappointment, said Monday he is retiring and emigrating to New Zealand — for the second time. The 1 year - old, 2,000-metre world record holder said he will go to New Zealand next summer, probably to coach there. Firle said the same thing in 1958 but after a year in New Zealand he returned to Britain. At Rome he failed to qualify for the final of the 5,000 metres and finished well back in the field in the 10,000 metres.

Lords, Raiders Play Series

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A two-game, total-points series for the Association championship will open here Nov. 1 between London Lords and Port Huron - Detroit Raiders.

The second game will be played at Port Huron Nov. 5.

Raiders this year became the first United States team to finish the season in first place in the three-team league, winning five of their eight games.

Lords won six of their 10 games and Sarnia Golden Bears, also playing 10 games, won three. To adjust for the Raiders' shorter schedule, their wins, points for and points against were multiplied by 10.

This gave them 12.5 points, 12 for Lords and six for the Bears.

Wilson Enters Leaf Fold

TORONTO (CP)—Johnny Wilson, 6ft.-2in. who played 360 consecutive games in the National Hockey League, ended his holdout against the Toronto Maple Leafs organization Monday.

A Leafs' official said Wilson has agreed to report Friday to Rochester Americans, Leaf farm team in the American League.

At season's end Wilson said he would rather be traded to the NHL's Detroit Red Wings than report to Rochester. Leafs insisted he play for Americans.

Fail To Get Goalie

Whitby Drops From League

The eastern division of the Ontario Senior Hockey League will be a four-team circuit.

Whitby announced last night that it will not be unable to ice a club. This leaves Belleville, Galt, Welland and Oakville in the field.

A meeting of the eastern division will be held in Toronto Saturday to revise the schedule. The Welland-Belleville game scheduled for Friday night now will go on as slated.

Sandy Air, Freddie Risher and Ray Jones, Whitby business man did a valiant job in trying to organize an entry. As of Saturday they had a team ready with the exception of a goalie.

OHA representatives went to Whitby to help get but the committee efforts, failed to produce a nucleus of the required calibre.

Johnny Albani and Broderick were approached but both said jobs and could not be had. Efforts in other quarters also met with no success.

The withdrawal of Whitby leaves several good hockey players "on the loose".

It is believed the active total in the league have agreed their quotas of eight senior "A" players, as required by group regulations.

McFarland coach Gordie Bell said this morning the Macs would not be able to use their two ex-Whitby players since he has signed the required "eight".

Bell is driving the Macs hard in preparation for the opener here Friday. Welland is reported to have a strong club. It was in the first start against Oakville by 9-4 score.

The Macs practice again tonight starting 7.45 and again tomorrow night starting 6.30.

With a 2.57 average, Eddie Johnston of the Canadiens has allowed 18 goals in seven games.

Points Collectors Took Week Off

MONTREAL (CP)—The pick-ings were so poor in the scramble for scoring points in National Hockey League action last week that Montreal Canadiens' Dickie Moore, who was shut out completely, found himself today still leading the early season parade.

With 14 points on nine goals and five assists, Moore had a two point margin over his closest pursuers.

The NHL's official statistics, released today, show only two players among the first dozen or so leaders could squeeze out three points for the week's work.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal scored two goals—most in that department for any of the top men—and one assist. Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings collected one goal and two assists.

Beliveau and Ullman separated themselves from the rest—with third-place tie of a week ago and moved into joint occupancy of second place, at 12 points, with Canadiens' burly Bronco Horvath. The Boomer has seven goals and five assists and the others a 4-8 record each.

Henri Richard of Montreal is alone in fifth place with 11 points. The Little Rocket scored one goal and one assist last week for his total.

Gordie Howe of Detroit, with a 7-4 record last week, remains in sixth place. He has 10 points on three goals and seven assists.

Dave Keon of Rangers follows with nine points each. Two of them—Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers and Billy Hicke of Montreal—failed to score a point last week. Marcel Bonin of Montreal pulled even with them on the strength of a single goal.

Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks, last season's scoring champion, was blanked and is bracketed at eight points with Brian Cullen of New York who picked up one assist.

Alex Hebenton of New York and Doug Harvey of Montreal have seven points each. Nine players are grouped at six points. Among them is Phil Goyette of Montreal, who outdid the top men by bagging three goals and one assist for four points.

BCI Beats Trenton Twice

By PETER CARVER.

Belleville Collegiate Institute and Trenton High School swept two games from Trenton High School in the Bay of Quinte COSSA football fixture played yesterday at Trenton. The losers suffered a close three point defeat, 9-6 at Trenton, while BCI's juniors upset their opposition 44-0.

JUNIOR GAME

Trenton Kick off to a fast start. A short BCI punt gave the Tigers the ball on BCI's 40-yard line. Georges Briggs drove to the twenty, and on the next play Jason Clements was waiting for the ball in the end zone. The convert was no good. Again Briggs' pass play clicked as Briggs took a pass on Belleville's 25-yard line. Cole plunged over on the following play. Again there was no convert.

BCI's Lyle Adams lofted a forty-five yard punt to receive Trenton in their end zone for one point. Belleville started to move and bottled up the Tigers in their own zone. BCI quarterback Bob Jeffery then hit Adams in the end zone for the major. The convert attempt was wide, leaving the score at half time 12-7 in favor of Trenton.

BCI moved on the ground to the Trenton forty. A holding penalty placed the ball on the twenty-five where Lyle Adams scored his second touchdown, taking a twenty yard pass. The convert was no good. Several times BCI moved within Picton's thirty yard line but could not click. Lyle Adams scored all BCI's points, Clements and Cole had the Trenton touchdowns.

Comeback Player of Year

Musial Adds to Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Musial, whose brilliant playing career appeared to be coming to an end four months ago, was named Monday as the National League comeback player of the year for 1960 in the annual Associated Press poll.

For regaining his position as one of the circuit's most respected batters, Musial received 55 votes from among 123 baseball writers participating in the balloting. Southpaw pitcher Curt Simmons, Musial's St. Louis teammate, was second with 44 followed by pitcher Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, 30, and outfielder Richie Ashburn of Chicago, 11.

Musial, a seven-time batting titleholder, was hitting only .225 with four homers and 13 runs batted in on June 11. This performance on the heels of his 255 batting average of 1959 led to speculation that he was in his 18th year with the Cardinals—it would be his last.

After riding the bench for two weeks, he returned to the regular lineup. His batting average climbed and on July 4 the Cardinals in the standings. Over the final 105 months of the campaign, the 39-year-old outfielder-first baseman batted .302. He finished with an average of .275, 17 homers and 63 RBI. The Cardinals ended up in third place.

His 1960 showing dropped his lifetime batting average two points to .335. However, it boosted his hit total to 3,294 and his home run aggregate to 426. Manager Fred Hemus already has announced that Musial will be used as a spot starter next season.

Hurt Player Comes Home In Daze

TORONTO (CP) — Tom Stewart, 20-year-old centre with Milwaukee Falmos of the International Hockey League, turned up at his home here Monday night in a dazed condition, with a 13 stitch cut on his forehead and two black eyes.

"It's a case of the kid being fuzzy from his hockey injuries and he has come home for a rest," said Stewart's father, Gratham.

Stewart suffered the cut and a concussion during an exhibition game Oct. 16 and was hurt again when he crashed into the boards during an IHL game against Minneapolis Saturday night.

Stewart was taken to hospital and will remain there under observation.

"He apparently is suffering a mild concussion," the father said. "He doesn't remember leaving Milwaukee but he presumes he hitch-hiked."

Stewart played the last two seasons with Toronto Marlboros of the OHA Junior A series.

Every Fall Expert Shooter Jimmy Robinson Returns To Favorite Boyhood Haunt

By PETER FRASER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. AMBROSIE, Man. (CP)— Sports celebrities, millionaires, movie stars, playboys—all are treated with the same homespun informality accorded less-famous duck hunters when they go after game birds in Manitoba's famous Delta Marsh with Jimmy Robinson.

A hunter, sharpshooter and sportsman for 50 years, Jimmy Robinson has travelled thousands of miles to stalk beasts and birds in Africa, Cuba, the United States, the Canadian Prairies and northwestern Ontario.

But every fall he returns to the scene of his boyhood for duck and goose shooting in the Delta Marsh, one of the best breeding and resting places for waterfowl in North America.

Jimmy's camp in St. Ambroise is near the shores of Lake Manitoba about 60 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

EAGLE EYE

Associate editor of Sports Afield magazine, he has hunted with Clark Gable and Robert Taylor, former New York Yankees stars Eddie Lopat and Bill Dickey, and Bits Donnelly, St. Louis Cardinals pitcher and 1944 World Series hero.

"Hollywood was never like this," said Taylor when he got his first brace of Delta canvasbacks.

Jimmy once again picked off a Bluebill leader and two others in flight with one volley in a 70-mile-an-hour wind. The late Fred Miller, Notre Dame football captain in 1927, watched the exhibition in amazement.

On the suggestion of friend Ernest Hemingway, Jimmy went hunting in Africa with the author's son Pat as guide and got himself a lion. And he once fell asleep in a blind while on a Texas turkey hunt with Jack Dempsey.

LOVABLE CHARACTER

Friends and hunting companions of the 63-year-old Robinson, who makes his home in Minneapolis between hunting seasons, include sports executive Red Dutton of Calgary and baseball slugger Ted Williams.

He has shot quail at the Hope plantation in South Carolina of the late Major Max Fleischmann of yeast fame, and has hunted ducks with hotel magnate Conrad Hilton.

Smith says Jimmy is "a perfect poker player, will bet on anything, knows more millionaires than any other man in North America, but can't stop spitting."

GIFT SPITTOON

Last August reporters covering the annual American Trapshooting Association meet in Vandalia, Ohio, presented him with an appropriate gift, a spittoon. The quick-witted Robinson said: "Gee fellas—that's more than I expected."

Robinson said "the shooting in Manitoba this season is the poorest in years—most ducks still are up north." He has been at his St. Ambroise camp since Sept. 1 and will remain until Nov. 1.

His wife Clare operates the camp while Jimmy hunts and prepares weekly duck reports for a group of newspapers and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Albert Huard of Montreal, one-time timber tax-evader, has an invention he hopes may cut the heavy fire toll in Canada's forests. It's a pocket ashtray.

Huard and his partner, Alfred Desclerers, feel that if cigaret-smoking outdoorsmen put out butts in their ashtray, built into the end of an aluminum cigaret case, one cause of forest fires will vanish.

A flat package of 20 cigarets slides neatly into a metal pocket that folds into the case after the safety tray has been slid shut. Over-all the metal case is about one-quarter larger than the package.

Huard, who worked 14 years with the Montreal factory of a now-snaking firm, is an ardent angler familiar with the woods. He says he's of an inventive turn of mind and the idea of the forest-safety case just came to him.

He lives in the Montreal district of Ville Emard, and Desclerers, who owns a bicycle business, is the production man at nearby Cote St. Paul district.

In the design of their case they got advice from the Aluminum Company of Canada which recommended extruded aluminum. They have production models and are looking for commercial outlets.

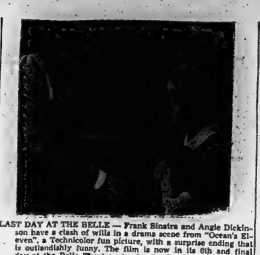
Movie Moguls in Hollywood Are Ignoring Film Festival

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—What is a film festival?



It is filled with major and minor crises, such as the last-minute pull-out of the Italian entry, The Sweet Life, Federico Fellini's view of low life amid high society in Rome. There were dark hints that Fellini was afraid of the competition, which the Italian consul denied. Harried festival chief Irving Levin was ready to fly to Italy for a substitute, managed to have Roberto Rossellini's Night in Rome flown in just in time.

It isn't decorated with Bikini-clad starlets. But no one could have drawn more attention than the festival's editorial hostess, 49-year - old-Toronto - born Mary Pickford. Her words to the opening night audience: "The motion picture is the greatest ambassador on earth . . . If there is hope for peace, this medium can help bring that hope nearer."

It is where the cold war thaws a degree or two. Russia has sent a young actor and actress, a director and a critic. On the bus back from a wine-tasting barbecue, the Russians serenaded the Americans with folk songs and balalaika. The Americans responded with Sweet Adeline and Old Mill Stream.

It is a gathering of those who feel that the motion picture is an art, not a business. For instance director Jean Renoir told the festival the solution for the film medium's ills: "We don't need to improve the picture business; we need to improve audiences."

It is also a place where you see movies. They come from everywhere but Hollywood. Though the film capital is but 400 miles away, the movie moguls have not come to join this salute to the cinema art.

Past Presidential Campaigns Well Done in The Right Man

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—There will be no grumbling in this corner today about the low state to which television has fallen.

Between Monday night's The Right Man on CBS and Shangri-La on NBC, the two networks turned out two satisfying evening of pure entertainment the likes of seen in a long time.

First, there was the often amusing, sometimes inspiring review of past presidential campaigns. CBS' Garry Moore took us on a tour around the parades to the edge of the hustings, into the smoke-filled rooms and right on the convention floor without regard to chronology.

There was Martin Gabel reciting Williams Jennings Bryan's Cross of Gold speech on the issue of silver with all the oratorical flourishes. Edward G. Robinson played Teddy Roosevelt and looked just like him. Art Carney caught the infectious grin and manner of speech of Franklin D. Roosevelt perfectly. Richard Boone as Abraham Lincoln, leaving the battlefield for Washington, did a moving scene from John E. Sherwood's play. And there was much more.

NBC's first Hall of Fame special of the year was an adaptation of James Hilton's best selling Lost Horizons. It was the story of five travellers whose plane was wrecked in the mountains of Tibet and who were brought to a lamasery in a beautiful hidden valley. Shangri-La was a place of no age where it was always spring, where there were no deaths and where the people remained forever young, happy and beautiful.

AT THE McCARTHY — When the phony, self-righteous Elmer Gantry stages a raid on a small town bordello, he encounters an old friend, played by Shirley Jones. Artie M. Hirschfeld here depicts the scene from "Elmer Gantry" The picture ends, today at the McCarthy Theatre through United Artists release. It is in Eastmancolor.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Shrinks At Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this new healing substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in many cases during observation period. Piles were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make this astounding statement: "I have ceased to be a problem!" And most amazing of all, results were confirmed by reports from sufferers over a long period of years!

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form under the name of Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Seniors Lose Exhibition

Moira Juniors Nip QSS

By BILL BURLY

Quinte seniors defeated Moira 27-0 while the Moira juniors downed Quinte by a close score of 8-6.

SENIOR GAME

In the senior game yesterday Moira conceded to the Quinte seniors after last week's overpowering victory by Quinte. However, Quinte sent a substitute team, about equal to the millers of the Moira seniors, for an exhibition game.

In the first quarter, Moira looked like they might be able to take Quinte, but Quinte quarterback, Steve Thompson, soon dispelled this idea by kicking a towering punt into the Moira end zone. Wayne Wallis of Quinte intercepted a pass and had rolled down the field for the touchdown.

Still in the first half, Waite put on another demonstration of speed for Moira as he received a pass from Thomson and jetted over the line for the second touchdown. Mike Stubbert got in the act by kicking the convert. Then in the last quarter, Stan McCullough of Quinte charged through Moira tacklers to score a touchdown.

Gary Davis then ran 28 yards where he was stopped on Moira's 7 yard line. Quinte then made a long run of 37 yards where he was stopped on the Moira four yard line. Wardle went across for the major and Stubbert convert- ed to end the scoring 8-0.

JUNIOR GAME

The junior game started with Moira kicking to Quinte but the Quinte offensive didn't seem to get up par in the first quarter of the game. Then Moira threw a surprise at Quinte in the person of Bobby Baker, Baker, as all round player for Moira, booted the ball into the Quinte end zone where the Moira backing kicked all efforts of Quinte to get the ball out.

About the middle of the second quarter the Quinte backers started to operate and the Quinte running quartet of Lewis, Fair, Fisher and Burley ran a series of successful ground plays. But the Moira team held fast and so ended the first half with Moira leading 1-0.

In the third quarter Moira threw a punch into the Quinte midriff by sending Jerry Jones bombing over the goal line for the second time. Jones also kicked his own convert.

Still in the third quarter, Moira tried to top their score by hitting Collin Allenby into the Quinte defensive almost every other play. Allenby, one of Quinte's smaller but gutsy players, was a constant threat.

Ron Fair, Quinte's quarterback Wayne Gilroy and his Quinte teammates failed to get Moira into Moira goal line and it ended 8-0.

Dr. Dooley Thinks Missionary Programs in World Have Failed

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Thomas Dooley, whose jungle practice is centred in a small Laotian village along the border of Red China, said Monday he believes that "missionary programs have failed" throughout the world.

Dr. Dooley gave a address the Newcomen Society before flying back to Asia, said he agrees that missionaries are necessary to the spread of the word of God, but he disagrees with the forms some of the teaching has taken.

"You can teach with the flow of cheap words or with the thunder and power of your own example," he said at a press conference.

Dr. Dooley was in the United States for his six-month checkup following a cancer operation. "The doctors found no extension of my cancer at this time."

The 32-year-old bachelor from St. Louis practises medicine in the jungles of Laos and runs Medico, a program for the treatment of the sick in backward areas of the world.

CANADIAN AIDE

While he is away, the Muong Sing Hospital is being tended by Dr. Ron Winstrob of Toronto, who applied to work with Dr. Dooley.

Dr. Dooley spoke of his village as being within spitting distance of Red China — "we frequently spit"—and of the witch-doctor problem.

"My people believe in witchcraft. I come as an outsider. I flod the witch-doctors and get them to join my staff. They wear white gowns and rubber gloves. I put a cast on and they wrap it in a leaf.

"Then the patient gives me four coconuts and I turn two over to the witch - doctor—the American Medical Association calls this fee-splitting."

Showing Films Unfair Says Liberal Leader

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson says the Board of Broadcast Governors erred in not informing everyone concerned of what constituted a dramatized political announcement.

He was referring to a BBG decision that allows station CHEX-TV to continue showing 13 Progressive Conservative films which follow candidate Harold Matthews on trips through the riding.

Mr. Pearson made the comment in a speech in support of Liberal candidate J. Donald Munro in the Oct. 31 federal by-election here.

Mr. Munro earlier Monday said the BBG was placed in the position of giving the Conservative candidate an unfair advantage.

Last week a BBG solicitor advised the station a broadcast ban was on dramatized commercials both Liberal and Conservatives wanted to use, Allister Grosart, national director of the Conservative party, applied formally to the board and received sanction for the films from BBG chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart.

Mr. Munro said in a statement that he objects when changes in the effect of broadcasting regulations are allowed to be presented through a political party and not by a direct notice to all affected by the regulations.

He said the importance of the incident is that the board's ruling was given only to Mr. Grosart. It should have been given immediately to all TV stations.

"The delay in doing so placed the board in the position of giving an unfair advantage to the political party that appointed it."

Would Resign If Requested To Sit Again

KINGSTON (CP) — Magistrate J. B. Garvin said Monday in court he would resign rather than preside again at a court in the jurisdiction of Magistrate Gordon Jermyn of Gananoque.

Magistrate Garvin's remarks resulted from criticism by Magistrate Jermyn of the methods used by Garvin in assessing court costs. He made the remarks in a statement at the end of court sittings.

Magistrate Jermyn had substituted for Magistrate Garvin while the latter was on vacation. Jermyn had reduced court costs presented to him Oct. 4 on a traffic case to $39.50 from $71.50 because he said all costs involved in the case were too high.

Magistrate Garvin said in his statement he has "no apologies for these costs." He said his method of assessing them was of benefit to the citizens generally.

He said if he was ordered by the attorney - general's department to go and sit in Magistrate Jermyn's jurisdiction he will refuse because "it is a simple way to get my resignation."

Brief Maintains Drug Prices Increase Slow

TORONTO (CP) — The price of drugs in Canada has increased at a slower rate than any other form of health care, the Ontario government's select committee on drugs was told yesterday.

S. N. Confer, general manager of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association said in a brief to the committee that at the end of 1959, the consumers price index for all commodities was 126.5 and for drugs 124.1.

In an 88-page brief, supplemented by a 49-page report on the drug industry by Professor Brian Dixon of Queen's, University, Kingston, Mr. Confer supported a "hands off" policy on drug prices by the provincial government.

Texts of the briefs were released to the press in advance.

SURVEY SHOWS LESS

He said a recent survey by the International Labor Organization covering the United States, Canada and nine European countries showed Canadians spend less in relation to their incomes on drugs than all but one of the other 10 countries.

Dr. Dixon's report, written as an economic analysis of the pharmaceutical industry in Canada, found "a substantial degree of competition" in evidence. He said the industry's average rate of profit after taxes over the last five years, 10.1 per cent—"is not surprising or extreme."

Dr. Dixon found prices of new drugs bear "little if any relation" to costs, but he argued that under the circumstances this was necessary.

New drugs tend to be expensive, he said, because on the one hand consumers are more concerned with improvements than cost savings, and on the other, firms try to recoup research costs before their competitors produce a similar or improved product.

He suggested the government should encourage competition by revoking laws which require cross licensing (shifting) of patents, as such laws tended to discourage research work by drug firms.

CHECK RUBBLE FOR CASUALTIES — Rescue workers check through rubble for casualties after explosion knocked out the rear wall of the Metropolitan Store building in Windsor yesterday. Eleven persons were killed and at least 80 injured in the blast. The support from the roof and second floor gave way and both collapsed. (CP Photophoto).

Disaster Comes At Peak Afternoon Shopping Hours On Main Business Street

Hospitals Filled With Injured, Cause of Explosion to Be Probed

WINDSOR (CP) — Grimy rescue workers still were digging for bodies today in the rubble of a blast-shattered department store where at least 11 persons died.

Eight bodies have been recovered and three more are known to be buried in the wreckage of the two-storey Metropolitan Stores Limited building.

More than 80 persons were sent to hospital Tuesday when the store, crowded with afternoon shoppers, blew apart with a thunderous roar.

Digging work was held up several hours this morning while rescue crews shored up sagging sections of walls and flooring with steel beams.

Seven bodies, all women, have been identified.

The blast, believed triggered by natural gas, punched out the rear wall of the reinforced-concrete building on busy Ouellette Avenue and collapsed the upper storeys into a basement pyland.

The disaster came at the height of the afternoon shopping hour on Windsor's main business street. Shoppers were picking out Hallowe'en costumes on the first floor, a lunch counter at the rear of the store.

The explosion came without warning. As its reverbrations died out, a deep silence fell across the area. The cries of the injured broke from the wreckage.

STORY TOLD

Passersby who had run for cover at the blast ran back to help the rescue and salvage crews. Some stopped to aid people fallen in the street or thrown into a gutter by the blast, which blew out the front windows of the department store on Ouellette Avenue.

A cloche hat, price tag dangling, lay in the street. A bobbed helmet perched on a one-headed mannequin. Thick, sharp glass lay everywhere.

Police, firemen and volunteer rescuers moved in quickly.

A. E. Crozier, chairman of the Ontario government's energy resources board, in which he has jurisdiction over gas supplies, called a meeting of investigators for today.

Seven of the dead were taken from the scene to the morgue. A middle-aged woman died in Hotel Dieu Hospital.

Henry Bird, civil defence director, said three other bodies were known to be in the wreckage.

COMPLETE COVERAGE

Hours after the explosion, conflicting reports circulated placing the number of missing between five and 14.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian book that outsells them all—the Bible—has been in demand for centuries.

The Canadian Bible Society came off the government presses here in 1960 in a run of 150,000 to meet the demand for immediate assembly debate on the forecast. It would also get the assembly to overturn the committee recommendation. Diplomats gave the Canadian little chance of success, however.

CUBAN CHARGE MAY BE HEADED FOR LONG DELAY

Minister Claims U.S. Plans to Invade

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Fidel Castro's charge that the United States is preparing an invasion of Cuba appeared described today for debate after long delay in the UN political committee instead of immediate discussion in the General Assembly.

Demanding urgent consideration for the invasion charge, Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa also accused the United States Tuesday of planning a "manufactured provocation" at the U.S. presidential election.

Despite Soviet backing for Roa, the assembly steering committee voted 12 to 3 with five abstentions to send the complaint to the 99-nation political committee, where the U.S. said it be heeded. Canada supported the move.

The political committee already is bogged down with a heavy work schedule, and the Cuban charges appeared fated to wind up near the bottom of its agenda.

Cuba had served notice earlier that if the steering committee rejected its demand for immediate assembly debate on the charges it would ask to get the assembly to overturn the committee recommendation. Diplomats gave the Canadian little chance of success, however.

PRIME MINISTER PROPOSES END OF TAX SHARING

Suggests Provinces Levy Own Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today proposed an end to tax-rental system of sharing the valuable fields of income tax and succession duty between federal and provincial governments.

Instead, he suggested to the 10 provincial premiers, the provinces would levy their own personal and corporation income taxes and succession duties.

The prime minister's sweeping proposal, which if adopted would take effect following the expiry of present tax-sharing arrangements Dec. 31, 1962, was made at the opening of a three-day conference of provincial finance ministers here.

Mr. Diefenbaker also proposed allocating $620,000,000 of a surplus facing the five years 1962-67 in equalization payments to less-wealthy provinces.

A summary of the federal proposal, issued to the premiers and later to the press, said this amount is approximately the same as the total now paid in equalization payments, the special Atlantic provinces adjustment grants and the $8,000,000 special grant to Newfoundland.

Another new proposal was the prime minister's announcement that, if the provinces agree unanimously, the federal government will surrender a constitutional amendment permitting the provinces to levy indirect sales taxes at the retail level.

This indirect retail sales tax was sought by Ontario. Seven provinces now levy a retail sales tax but it is a direct tax collected on each retail sale. Presumably an indirect form of the tax would be levied on a retailer's over-all sales.

Public Dispute By Magistrates Brings Criticism

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Kelso Roberts said Tuesday he is displeased by a public dispute between two Ontario magistrates and promised a government investigation. The decision to determine if one of them has been over-charging in court costs.

The rift began in Kingston Monday when Magistrate Arthur B. Garvin charged that Magistrate J. Gordon Jermyn of Gananoque reduced costs by secretly substituting for the Kingston magistrate and failed to dispose of several important cases. The magistrates had complained to each other during their vacations.

Magistrate Jermyn has not commented on the matter.

Magistrate Garvin said he was displeased the matter had become public. "Magistrates shouldn't wash their dirty linen in public," he said, "There are ways of settling such matters without having it appear in the newspapers."

Woman Died Because She Stayed In Store to Have Tea and Muffin

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Comedy and bizarre incident were mixed with the tragedy of an explosion which shattered a busy Metropolitan store here Tuesday.

A policeman, his nose and mouth bleeding, toiled for hours in the wreckage to free a baby's cry, unsure whether it came from an injured child or from a talking doll.

Constable Robert Horne directed the removal of piles of rubble in a fruitless search. District Fire Chief Emmett Byrnes said the sound of crying led the legs of some were visible, "I don't know how many I dragged out. There must have been scores in there."

"It's eerie in the basement." District Fire Chief Emmett Byrnes said. "There is no light and you stumble through the black . . . Then you step on a toy doll that cries out . . . You stop and listen and there is nothing.

"She was looking for a hat, but I knew she would go to the lunch counter for her cup of tea and muffin," said Mrs. Yvonne Knowles, who worked with Mrs. Myles at a city ice cream store.

"When I was told there was an explosion at the store I knew Marie was in it."

Lyle Bialay was standing within 100 feet when the building blew up.

"People were strewn all over the street, screaming and covered with blood," he said. "People were under piles of bricks, cement, and steel. Only

Sending Story, Learns Wife Among Victims

WINDSOR (CP) — Charles Board, Canadian Press operator-mechanic, was sending out the story of the explosion in a downtown department store Tuesday when word came that his wife was in the shattered building.

"I was getting toward the bottom of the story when the switchboard operator called my name," he said. "When I didn't go to the phone, she came in and said there was a call for me. I told her to take a message.

"Then she said 'It's the hospital, your wife was in the Metropolitan store.'

"I don't know how I finished punching out that last paragraph. "For the last hour, while I was sending out the story, she had been lying in the rubble."

Mrs. Board suffered burns, cuts and a broken leg.

From her hospital bed, Coreen Board said:

"I must have been buried for more than an hour. I could hear people digging and tossing rubble all around me, but I couldn't call out. When I tried, nothing came out. Then they found me. It was a miracle that any of us lived."

More Integration With U.S. Auto Industry Urged by UAW

OTTAWA (CP) — Serious consideration of the merits of more integration in the Canadian and United States' auto industries was urged today by the United Automobile Workers (CLC).

The objective would be to remove trade barriers, allowing Canada the choice of mostly produced in either country while giving Canadian manufacturers in return the two-country market, volume necessary for lower-cost production of cars and components.

This was the main idea in the UAW brief to the royal commission on the automotive industry headed by Prof. Vincent Bladen of Toronto. It is a proposal first put forth this year by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, chairman of the British Columbia Power Commission, and prominent in the line of questioning being conducted by Dr. Bladen.

Dr. Bladen has obtained agreement by auto makers in Canada that they will ask parent U.S. companies what they think could be done on this line.

The UAW, claiming 60,000 Canadian members and half of those in the auto-producing field, said such a program should substantially reduce production costs and broaden Canadian output at a time when foreign imports have been deep into Canada-car sales and contributed to production layoffs.

A majority submission from Windsor Local 444 of the UAW opposed integration and proposed

Agree Productivity Council May Be Answer to Problem

OTTAWA (CP)—The best way to find a solution to the nation's unemployment problems is to adopt the build-a-better-mousetrap formula.

This was agreed to in principle by the government and 21 leaders of national labor, industry and business today behind the end of a 1½-day conference on employment.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who presided, said all delegates —despite their opposing views on such policies as higher or lower tariffs and deficit financing— agreed the government should establish a national productivity council. It would be an advisory body.

Legislation to put the idea into effect will be submitted to Parliament, possibly at the forthcoming pre-Christmas session.

The council, consisting of perhaps 25 leaders of labor, management, government and public will sponsor the formation of productivity committees in key industries across the country. A similar body in the United Kingdom has 100 advisory committees.

Its central office will co-ordinate the work of the committees and publish reports, pamphlets and books, in a drive to find ways to produce more efficiently turn out better quality goods, and meet competition.

OTTAWA (CP)—Reasons why British and industrial manufacturers prefer to stay at home while pouring cash into the Canadian market were examined Tuesday before the Bladen automotive royal commission.

Canadian - based manufacturers who have watched United Kingdom and European cars capture one-sixth of the domestic new-car market, are arguing that the government should take immediate steps to induce overseas automobile manufacturers to set up operations in Canada and compete with them on an equal footing.

The counter - argument came out of questioning by Professor Vincent Bladen of Toronto, the one-man royal commission, of a Volkswagen representative and a spokesman for the British automobile industry.

The conclusion of British spokesman Brian Rootes: "We would like to come here but there would be no good in doing so if the consumer couldn't afford to buy the product."

Werner Jansen, managing director of Volkswagen Canada Limited, said toppling the list of obstacles to the German firm manufacturing or assembling in Canada is the blunt, basic fact that Germany is, comparatively, a low-wage country.

The average hourly true of British, he said, remarking that the British spokesman had avoided playing up the point.

New German Army to Enter France, This Time as Allies in Training

PARIS (AP)—The spearhead of the new German army arrived in France next week, this time as allies, the French defence ministry said today.

A ministry spokesman said that units of the West German Bundeswehr will take up training positions in eastern France beginning Nov. 3, for an initial period of three weeks. A total of about 2,400 troops will be in the spearhead.

The Germans are coming here under an agreement with France signed Tuesday night, whereby the French are to make training installations available to their West German allies for training purposes. The exempt remain part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization under French command.

The defence ministry announcement meant that the two sides are losing no time in putting the agreement into effect before opposition can crystalize. Many Frenchmen still remember with bitterness two or even three wartime German invasions and occupations.

The defence ministry said the Germans will train on French camp at Sissonne, near Laon in the Aisne department, and on another at Mourmelon, near Chalons-sur-Marne in the Marne department. Both areas were the scene of bitter fighting in the First World War, and Sissonne also figured in the campaign of 1940.

There will be two battalions of West German troops in each area.

The assumption was that other units will be sent later from Germany for further periods of training, but defence ministry officials would not comment. There was speculation that about 35,000 troops will be trained in France each year.

As one gesture to French feelings, it was reported in Paris that the West German uniform similar to those worn by the British, British and American troops, and not the field grey which French men associate with Nazi occupation.

The Germans already have reached agreements for setting up bases in Holland and Belgium. They also have received offers of certain bases from Britain, Norway, Denmark, Portugal and Greece.

Cold weather apparently holds no fear for a small raspberry patch in the city.

The canes yielded a quart last week and Mrs. Luke states there is plenty of evidence of more to come.

Rubbish Fire Discovered Just In Nick of Time

A rubbish fire at the rear of the White Hardware on Front Street, was discovered just in the nick of time Tuesday afternoon before it spread under a loading ramp.

Fire Department officials said if the fire had not been discovered when it was, a serious fire in the downtown area could easily have resulted.

The rubbish fire got started was a mystery, firemen said.

This morning the fire reels were called to the Barrigas saw-mill, Sidney Mills on North Sidney Street near the 401 highway. Asphalt in big mixing chamber of the plant had caught fire as it was being heated.

Deseronto, Rathbun Family Subjects of Talk at Society

The Hastings County Historical Society held one of its most successful meetings recently in the Corby Public Library, auditorium in Deseronto.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mr. T. Dale Martin of Belleville, who spoke on the subject "Deseronto and the Rathbun Family."

Mr. Martin began by recalling the importance of the lumber industry in the early days, in the growing demand in the British Isles for the development of a greatly increased timber business, especially in the Algonquin Park area. Timber was shipped in foot square sections, often 80 feet long. These were floated down to Quebec by four or five men who lived on the raft for several days.

The Rathbun enterprises began in the Deseronto area, a region which had its origin with the Mohawk United Empire Loyalists.

In its early years, the settlement was known by such names as Bowen and Point as well as Deseronto.

Mr. Dale Rathbun was the founder of Deseronto as a commercial and industrial centre. He ran a lumber business almost many years until 1863 when his sons, Walter and Edward joined the company.

In 1866, the business was incorporated with a registered capital of $2,000,000 — an enormous sum in those days.

About the same time a school was built at a cost of $1,400. This commodious building served a population of about 2,200.

In the year 1870, the Union Protestant Church began in Deseronto. Mr. Dale Rathbun was an Anglican service in the morning, a Presbyterian service in the afternoon, and a Methodist service in the evening.

By the late 1870's, the Rathbun Company had grown to the point where it employed about 2,000 persons in its many enterprises.

MANY ENTERPRISES

Among the many enterprises operated by the Rathbun Company were lumber mills, railways, cement works, a salt mine and door factory, a flour mill, blacksmith shops, railway shops, gas works, a printing plant publishing the "Tribune", a model farm, general stores, and a telephone exchanges throughout eastern Ontario.

In 1899 the company built a smelter, in addition, the Rathbun enterprises owned and operated two lake freighters, two tugs, and a Passenger steamer, an achievement in itself.

On May 26, 1890, fire started on the timber docks while most of the town's people were on a weekend excursion to Kingston.

Belleville, Napanee, and Kingston fire departments responded to the call, but much of the Rathbun Company's enterprises were lost.

The Company did recover to a large extent, and the Gayfers Iron Works was persuaded to set up a works in Deseronto in 1890. Their ore dock held three hoists and the works covered seven acres. Charcoal for the furnace was supplied by the Rathbun Lumber Company.

This company, like the Rathbun company, soon had to close down because of depleted local supplies in Quinte area. After the death of E. W. Rathbun in 1903, business was carried on but only on a reduced scale.

Kiwanians Told Great Challenge Faces Schools

"In this very year 1960 there is a gr eat challenge facing our schools," declared the education Jan ever before," Mr. Leslie Reid, principal of Quinte Secretarial School here, in an address to the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon meeting Tuesday. Mr. Reid was introduced by Kiwanian Dr. Lawrence Kells, administrator of public schools in Belleville and Thrasher, head of the Drydale, chairman of the meeting. Introducing the speaker Mr. Reid went on to say, "it is the duty of every citizen to know some of the present day devel,opments in education that I may be able to appreciate the challenge is and how it affects our schools.

"First we have the physical development and second the non-physical developments. The first and perhaps the most obvious development during the past the face today is t'e fact that our educational facilities are faced with exploding school enrollments which seem to be increasing annually. In elementary schools for example, from 1946 to 1960 the enrollment jumped from 800,000 to over 2 million in the province of Ontario alone. The reason for this increase are not hard to discern. First we have a high birth scale of immigration. Second, by law all children are entitled to go and boys to remain in school longer today than formerly. Third, we are a rising birth rate, especially since 1944, especially since 1944, which has placed a heavy load on people in the western world have been forced to keep pace with general education; which means that everyone is not a select few and is entitled to an education. Society must be an educated society if it is to survive and progress, to grow, even to survive. This unprecedented rise in school population has created problems. One a physical education problem for both pupils and two, a serious teacher shortage.

NEED FEDERAL AID

"This brings me to the problem of the cost of education and I firmly believe that educational facilities must be related to the greater extent by the Dominion and Provincial governments. Provinces are spending only 3 per cent of gross national income on education whereas the United States is spending nearly 7 per cent and Russia something around 13 per cent.

What is needed most in education today is a better basis for learning, because unless the school systems keep pace with trends with the desire for education and with the desire to keep learning after school years will have wasted our enormous investment in education. While the demand for highly trained personnel has never been greater, the drop out of students in Canada, school continues to grow at an alarming rate. Four main reasons are given for the high level of drop-outs: one, inability of students to finance a university course, two, lack of proper motivation and appreciation of the value of higher learning; three, the desire for financial independence at an early age; and four, the lure of good times, which a relatively prosperous public can afford."

LACK OF MARKS

Mr. John Withers, R.M.T.

"Is closing may I suggest one other reason for the marked failure of many of our young people to succeed in high school. Our educational institutions, particularly our high schools and universities, are getting away from what seems to me most of necessity be their main objective — that is intellectual competence. And finally may I suggest that all of the services demanded of schools which are not directly concerned with education and good teaching be left to other more appropriate agencies and that the main objective of the school be maintained as intellectual competence."

Carlyle Allison Addresses Canadian Club on 'Television'

"No industry in Canada has ever equalled the phenomenal growth of the TV industry," declared Mr. Carlyle Allison last evening as he spoke to the Women's Canadian Club in Queen Alexandra School, on the subject of "Canadianism and Other Things in Broadcasting."

Mr. Allison, a member of the Board of Governors, is also a graduate in Political Science of the University of Manitoba. He was editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg "Tribune" until 1950 when he resigned to become one of three permanent members of the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Television saw its greatest growth in Canada in 1952 when 94 per cent of all Canadian owned TV sets to a total of 2,340,000, and in the past eight years Canada stands sixth in the world in TV sets with the United States leading with 53,000,000; England second; Japan third; Germany fourth; Russia fifth, and Canada sixth. There are 32 TV stations in Canada with Quebec having 92 per cent coverage, 17 TV stations and 49 radio stations.

IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES

Mr. Allison said television are the most important industries. In the U.S. last year a survey was made and it was found that 160,000,000,000 hours were spent in viewing TV and in listening to radio.

The BBG is not a part of the CBC. The BBG has the control of both the private and public broadcasting stations, with members from all of geographical wards.

In speaking of the objective of the Board Mr. Allison mentioned good service, with the programs being predominantly Canadian in character. It also looks after the network operation, and regulates the ratio between the two public and private broadcasting. After making a survey of the eight prominent cities of Canada, Mr. Allison said, as a conclusions, they agreed to the 55 percent of the Canadian content of programs.

A criticism that might be offered was that the programs were not necessarily cultural, but were more on the line of entertainment.

Entertainment is the thing primarily, the content would be gradually raised. "But," said Mr. Allison, "you can't please all the people all the time."

The responsibilities of broadcasting include varied programs of high standard, to ensure a broadcast system from coast to coast, with video film exchange.

FUTURE OF TV

Looking to the future for television, Mr. Allison said that color TV was coming, although in fact though the United States has had it for the past seven years, with 500,000 being in use as contrasted with the 53 million sets in black and white. Among the reasons for holding back the manufacture of color TV is rivalry in the manufacturing. The RCA had spent millions but the real reason was that the owners of the homes were not convinced of the difference, especially regarding price, as a color set sold for $495 in the U.S. and would cost $795 in Canada. Another reason is the high cost of building the stations. Canada is waiting for color TV 'cubicles on' in the United States before making it here. It Canada does come to build color TV it could do so in six months.

He also mentioned trans-Atlantic TV which might be functioning in five years; but the present slow screen process for use under the ocean take too long, requiring one hour to transmit one minute's picture.

Television appears to be viewed in some cases as a sort of "escapism," especially for the lesser programs; while it was noted that at the first panel between Vice-President Nixon and Senator Kennedy, it was viewed by 73,000,000,000; the second panel by 80,000,000,000, with an increase to 70,000,000,000 for the third.

In closing, Mr. Allison's personal opinion regarding TV was that improvement is taking place in Canada's programs, with its news coverage superior to that of the United States. The CBC has not middle advertising in broadcasts. It will become a one-world concept, a national and international news; a finer merging of journalism; and make for national unity.

The speaker was introduced by the president, Mrs. J. D. Arnott, and thanked by the secretary, Mrs. S. Jons.

Zone Commander Special Guest At Legion Meet

Zone Commander Dr. D. C. McVicker of Deseronto, was the special guest at the regular monthly meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

Dr. McVicker spoke briefly regarding the charter night for the new service women's branch which is to be held Saturday night.

Branch president Norman Spencer reported that three bursaries will be awarded to honor students of the local secondary schools. These bursaries were in addition to the $400 scholarship awarded to a local student by the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion.

A report was received by the members from the building committee. The branch is planning an extensive building program to further facilitate the expanding membership and work of the Legion in Belleville. It is expected that the new service women's branch will share the enlarged Legion quarters.

All members are being asked to actively support the Belleville Poppy Campaign in its Poppy Day endeavors, and were urged to attend the Remembrance Day ceremonies and the Legion memorial banquet on November 11.

Paper and Printing Subject Of Talk at Foremen's Club

The graphic arts industry is enjoying of life to the full comes the largest in North America through the individual applying and, in the case of Canada, it is his duties and responsibilities responsible for 33 cents of every and experiencing the "true" life, expert dollar, said members of Mr. Spearman said.

770 A.D. when a Japanese introduced printing via a form of type, the speaker showed how the spread of printing brought learning "out of the monastery" for the first time and allowed for the dissemination of knowledge to everyone who could read.

This, he noted, is the greatest use to which paper and printing is put. Local printers are the hub of a community in North America and the dissemination of knowledge through the printed word continues to flow each year. He was the increasing demand for paper because of this factor that led to the development of the sulphite process, which allowed the use of wood fibres in paper making. This process allowed for the production of paper in quantity, which was not possible under the old hand-made cotton and rag content process, when these only could produce 2,400 sheets of paper a day.

Modern methods and machinery can now produce newsprint in 300-inch widths at the rate of one mile of paper every two and a half minutes, Mr. Herron said. Pointing out how much paper is needed today and how its demand has increased, the speaker noted that in 1949 331,1 pounds of paper per capita was adequate whereas in 1959 422.8 pounds of paper per capita was lined the production of paper precipitate.

QUESTION PERIOD HELD

This was followed by a very active question and answer session which proved most interesting to the members. Much interest was shown in the manufacture of banknote paper which, Mr. Herron advised, was available only to the government; its production being closely guarded each sheet produced being closely accounted for. The technique of watermarking also proved of interest to those present and the speaker described this process also.

Mr. Herron was introduced by Len Taylor of The Canadian Intelligencer and was thanked by Nick Danelisk on behalf of the club members.

Reverend J. S. A. Speerman delivered a sermonette on the theme of what constitutes happiness for a person. He advised that this was not gained through direct action but actually was a by-product of right living. The

High Schools May Join Forces To Form Army Cadet Corps

Lack of interest in cadet training may result in students from Belleville Collegiate and Moira Secondary School joining forces to form an army cadet corps.

At the monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte District High School board held Tuesday evening, principals of the above two schools were authorized to give consideration to the possible formation of a joint cadet corps. If the plan is carried out it is possible there would be cadet companies at both schools going to make up the same corps.

The three Belleville high schools will co-operate in industrial heads visitations during education week.

The plan would be for heads of local industry and businesses to visit the schools on November 9th. During the day visitors would be given the opportunity to learn how the schools are run and in turn would be invited to make suggestions regarding the training of students, who in the near future would be entering the business world.

The program is under the direction of Mr. Jay Hutchinson, head of the commercial department at B.C.I.

Moira Secondary School principal James Musgrove will make arrangements for the re-lighting of certain night angle curves on the school parking lot to allow for easier turning of school buses.

Effective January 1st, 1961, additional teaching qualifications obtained by teachers through summer courses and which call for additional salary, will be recognized only twice a year — at the beginning of the school year in September and in January.

Despite this considerable was given at the time notification of the increased qualification came through, but the practice has resulted in considerable additional work on the part of office staff.

Board members concurred in the request of the city public utilities for the construction of a new road to their Sidney Road sub station. The road construction will be done under local improvements with the board agreeing to assume its share of the cost.

Payment of transportation costs for six students who attended summer school courses in Kingston last summer, have finally been worked out.

The six Belleville students travelling to and from Trenton and Trenton officials requested payment from the Belleville Board. The cost to the Belleville board will be refundable through 1961 grants.

And also on the subject of transportation, agricultural class students, who took tractors to the plowing match at West Huntingdon several weeks ago, will be paid $10 toward transportation costs.

A letter of appreciation will go out to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce for its part in arranging for the commencement awards for students at Moira school.

The Northern Electric 'Hank' Gus Club was given permission to use the playing range at Quinte Secondary School on one night per week, conditional on safety regulations being observed.

William Ward was named full time caretaker at the Quinte School, while Mrs. Dorothy Thomas has been hired as secretary at the Moira school.

The board has agreed to study a pension plan for non-teaching employees with the view of possible inclusion in a budget for next year.

Central Ontario High School Principals will meet at Moira Secondary School on November 14. The board agreed to provide one meal for the visiting principals.

Four new sewing machines will be rented for the Moira School with option of buying next year.

Gdog progress is being made on construction of the new high school on Bell Trust Limited property on College Street. The foundation of the building has been completed and structural steel is scheduled for erection next week.

Prof. Lower Tells Of World Four At Meeting

Approximately thirty persons interested in the preservation of historic sights and scenic attractions in the Quinte district attended the annual meeting of the Quinte Historic Sites and Parks way Association held last week in Napanee.

Representatives from several interested organizations in the four Quinte counties were present at the meeting, which was chaired by Dr. A. R. M. Lower, noted Canadian historian.

Professor and Mrs. Lower were the guest speakers at the meeting. They described their recent trip around the world and showed slides of New Zealand, Australia, Singapore, India, Pakistan, and East Africa.

Among the several items of business dealt with at the meeting were the following:

The name of the organization will be changed to the "Quinte Association."

Mrs. N. Hutchison of Napanee reported on the statue of the McPherson house at Napanee, surviving in almost original form from the 1830's. The Lennox and Addington Historical Society is interested in the preservation of the home, frequently visited by Sir John A. Macdonald.

Dr. Lower spoke on the proposed development of Highway 33 between Kingston and Adolphustown as a parkway or scenic drive. The Quinte Association supports the view that a new road north of Highway 33 should be built from Millhaven in the general direction of Kingston, thereby leaving the present highway as a scenic drive. It was also emphasized that a north-south route from Millhaven to highway 2 and 401 would be desirable for heavy traffic.

It was also announced that the association is planning a radio series Sunday afternoons at 3.30 p.m. in Kingston. The speaker this next Sunday is Judge Gerald Smith of Napanee.

Mr. David Boyce of Belleville reported briefly on the prospects of a Hastings County museum in the registry office at Belleville. He expressed optimism at the project.

Dr. Lower then spoke of the Quinte Association for the past as evidenced in recent developments in Hastings County and elsewhere.

Believe Fires At Q.A. School Deliberately Set

An investigation by an inspector from the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department is being made at the Queen Alexandra Public School where yesterday two fires of undetermined origin broke out in different parts of the school.

The fires, one in a closet adjoining a Grade 1 classroom, and another in a basement storeroom, occurred during the noon recess. It is believed that the fires were deliberately set.

Belleville firemen raced to the scene following the alarm and one of their trucks had returned to the station after extinguishing the ground floor fire when the blaze in the basement storeroom was discovered.

The entire school was filled with smoke from the two blazes and taking no chances all pupils were led out for the remainder of the day.

Lawrence Kells, schools administrator, said indications were that the fires had been deliberately set while fire officials district fire inspector Al Williams would make an investigation into the cause of the fire.

Young Mother Leads Children To Safety as Fire Burns Through Frame Dwelling

TRENTON — A 21-year-old mother carried her month-old baby and led her two other small children down a smoke-filled stairway and through a doorway to the safety of a neighbor's home yesterday, put in a call to the fire department, then collapsed from shock.

Mrs. Vincent Defoase, who, with her husband and children, Sherry, 3; David 2, and Patty Anne, one month, occupied an apartment in a house at 42 Dominion Street, was descending the stairs carrying Patty Anne. Sherry and David, in pyjamas, were following their mother. Suddenly the oil burner "seemed to explode," said Mrs. Defoase.

"Sherry and David started to cry. But I told them not to be frightened and got them out of the house, quickly."

Mrs. Defoase is the former Fern Spiller of Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cronkwright, occupants in the other side of the house, were at work when the fire broke out around 10 a.m. Mrs. Defoase, who looked after the Cronkwright children, Ricky, 4, and Sandy, 5, while Mrs. Cronkwright worked, had dressed the children and sent them to school.

Efforts of the firemen to control the blaze were hampered by a high wind, which fanned the flames through the large frame building, resulting in damage to the inside of the dwelling being completely gutted. The loss is estimated at about $8,000. Neither family had insurance on furniture or clothing lost in the fire which was owned by a Mrs. Pew of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Mr. Cronkwright's mother, Mrs. W. Cronkwright, fell over a fire hose at the height of the excitement and suffered a broken arm.

MAKES APPEAL

The local Salvation Army has issued an appeal for blankets, cooking utensils, dishes and furniture. Clothing has been supplied by the Corps out of stock, which families lost all personal possessions.

"People have been very kind," said Mrs. Defoase. "I was given a supply of gowns and diapers for Patty Anne right after the fire."

Mrs. Defoase and then children are staying with Mrs. Defoase's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Spiller, 50 Alberta St. Mr. Spiller was installed to enter Trenton Memorial Hospital today for a medical examination. The Spiller house is small, the Defoases hope to find new living quarters soon.

The Cronkwright family is staying with relatives.

Mrs. Cronkwright, called from work at the start of the fire, arrived on the scene after the blaze was under control and was taken to a neighbor's home.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said the cause of the fire has not been determined.

Efforts Fail To Get Land For Project

TRENTON — Welfare Officer A. Gordon Davis is convinced no one in Trenton, with the exception of a few people, has a conscience or a sense of responsibility for the town's older citizens.

Mr. Davis has made arrangements with government agencies and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for the construction of from two to three, 11-unit apartment buildings for the use of elderly people. Efforts to secure suitable land for this project have fallen through.

Some time ago, Mr. Davis approached the Board of Education with the request that a lot, west of the Dufferin Ave. school grounds, be given for this purpose. The Board could not see its way to giving up this land because of a possible future need for school expansion. Furthermore, citizens living in the area petitioned against the erection of an apartment block.

Efforts to get a lot in the Queen-Division area, district also failed because of the refusal of the property owner to sell.

The apartments must be built within walking distance of the downtown area and the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches, making available churches on the east side of the river unsuitable.

Senator W. A. Fraser has offered to donate a suitable lot but the land will have to be found before building for a year at least.

Seek Merchants' Ideas Regarding Nov. 11 Holiday

TRENTON — H. B. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is requesting ideas as to local merchants asking for their reaction to a suggestion advanced by the Legion branch and backed by the chamber, that Armistice Day, Nov. 11, be proclaimed a civic holiday by Trenton council.

Members of the Legion believe that Canadians have lost sight of the significance of the day. They believe that many people would attend services on the centotaph if the day were a holiday.

An alternate suggestion has been provided for the merchants' approval. It is proposed that if the merchants feel they could not close their stores for the whole day, they might approve of giving their employees from 10:45 a.m. to noon off in order that they might attend memorial services.

Visitors' Night

TRENTON — Thursday night is to be visiting night for parents of students who this year entered Trenton High School.

Grade 9 teachers will be on hand to meet the parents and discuss the students' progress. It is emphasized, however, that it is no early day for students to visit the students' over-all progress.

Compassionate exercises are scheduled to take place Nov. 25.

A Fine Way to Strike

Down in Miami, Florida, they have just had a strike which made more people happy than sad, an unusual achievement.

The Miami Transit Company was arguing with its bus drivers about a demand for a 30-cent increase in the men's $2.16 hourly pay. The bus drivers decided to strike, but at the union's suggestion it was agreed they would work without pay and the company would collect no fares.

For a week Miami residents, and visitors to the city, rode the buses free. "The buses have since stopped running," reports the Christian Science Monitor, "but the experiment was worth trying and should be considered in other cases."

Indeed, it should. There is, for example, the pending strike of "non-op" workers on Canada's railroads. Instead of having the government step in and order a settlement, how about testing free railroad service? Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, warned recently that in the event of a strike business would be diverted to other carriers and that experience proved some of the business during a strike was never recovered. The Miami formula, a "strike" which involves work without pay and service without charge, would not drive business away—it might even attract additional customers who would continue to use the railroads once the strike was over.

Consider the possibilities. There might even come a day when, faced with a slump in business, management would decide to plead with the union to strike, in order to benefit by the advertising value of free samples for all.

Seriously, with what enthusiasm Mr. Average Man would greet news of an impending strike in the auto industry. A good strike every four or five years ought to keep him well stocked with family chariots. If ice cream manufacturers could co-ordinate their workers' strikes with the vacation period, the consumption of ice cream ought to be tripled and the surplus milk problem solved.

Most important of all, there would be a new twist to all those statistics we read about the "cost" of a strike, in lost wages and lost profits. True, wages and profits would still be lost, but production would go on and somebody would benefit. Those who emerged at the end of the year as the big winners would be those who did not strike and who therefore maintained their take-home pay so that they could acquire the goods provided at no cost. Why would they have to pay for goods which cost them nothing? Don't be silly, man—there would still be taxes on the goods which would have to be paid.

A Bright Spot in the News

Every so often a perusal of the newspapers restores one's faith in human nature.

Just when the torrent of reports of political bickering, international back-stabbing and domestic crime seems overwhelming, there emerges a bright little gem of a story about every-day people.

Such a story was one out of Toronto, about the two American Airlines employees, Cynthia Cochrane and Barbara Hobson, who came to the rescue after two infants were abandoned at a Toronto hotel by their mother. The Catholic Children's Aid Society traced the father—but he was in San Francisco and could not afford the fare to get the children there. Cynthia and Barbara had an annual 7,500-mile free air travel allotment. They decided to use it for a trip to San Francisco. They took the babies along—they travelled free because they were accompanied by adults.

San Francisco would be an interesting city to visit on a Sunday and we don't doubt the girls felt too badly done by. Still, the story could be given a perfect ending if American Airlines were to announce that Cynthia and Barbara had had their travel allotment doubled—for as good a public relations job as could be wished.

Miracles of the Universe
Earth's Neighborhood

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 2

Earth lives in a neighborhood about 7,000,000,000 miles across inhabited by one Sun, nine planets, 31 moons, over 1,500 asteroids, dozens of comets and billions of meteors.

All of these circle around the Sun under the command of its iron discipline.

MERCURY — is a small planet closest to the Sun with no life on its. Its surface temperature ranges from 300 degrees below to 600 degrees above. (The temperature range of the average bridegroom). One side always faces the Sun.

VENUS — is about the size of earth. Its temperature may be as high as 600 degrees F. and is covered in dense coats of unbreathable atmosphere. (Some writers suggest it is another disorder). As with Mercury there is no life on Venus. (Scientists would prefer to say likely there is no life judging by our present knowledge of the planet).

EARTH the 3rd planet in the family. The series of articles started with an article about earth, so we will pause but briefly.

MARS — from afar, the earth would appear very blue due to its atmosphere. The earth would not appear very clear due to atmospheric haze, but the lights of the brightest cities might be distinguished by powerful telescopes. The earth's moon would appear yellow and the dust reflection would be mirrored very brightly by the oceans.

It would be easy to see the clouds which develop and propel, and to follow the creation and path of the cyclones.

The earth looks like it might be compatible to life and mighty interesting to visit sometime—if we can get there before its inhabitants blow it up.

From the 4th planet out from the Sun. It is one-half the size of the earth. It takes nearly two years to go around the Sun and it has a noticeably elliptical orbit. Sometimes it is approximately 35,000,000 miles closer to the Sun than the earth, sometimes 234,000,000 miles.

Size of the planets in relation to the Sun.

1. Mercury, 2. Venus, 3. Earth, 4. Mars, 5. Jupiter, 6. Saturn, 7. Uranus, 8. Neptune, 9. Pluto.

It is a dusty planet with a thin atmosphere. Its surface temperature is about the size of earth's. Its temperature may be as high as 80 degrees F. and as low as 200 degrees below zero.

Its surface is similar to the earth's desert areas. There are traces of green which may be primitive vegetation such as lichens. There are polar caps on its poles which are larger in winter than summer—they may be frost and not ice.

Mars atmosphere contains carbon dioxide and it may also possess nitrogen and argon. There are some traces of water but very little oxygen has been detected. All the water on Mars wouldn't fill Lake Erie. The temperatures, the dust and the satisfactory as that on earth is a moderate 50 degrees F. dropping sharply at night to 100 degrees below zero.

The lines on Mars called canals are most certainly not canals but what they are, cannot be said. Mars has two moons, one of which is 10 miles in diameter, and the other five miles. The inner moon revolves so fast that it goes around Mars three times in one Martian day. The outer moon rises once a day and therefore a day on Mars and a day on Mars' gravity is about one-third of that of earth so that a person weighing 100 pounds on earth would weigh 38 pounds on Mars.

JUPITER is the 5th and largest planet in the Solar System. It takes 12 years to circle the Sun. Jupiter revolves once every 10 hours, so that a day is not long. Jupiter is 483,000,000 miles away from the Sun and its diameter is 86,000 miles. It is about 390,000,000 miles to 576,000,000 miles around.

It has a great red spot about 30,000 miles long on its surface. The surface is streaked with dark and light lines, which are probably cloud formations.

The shape of Jupiter is flat at its poles and bulges at the equator with which it rotates, (at about 21,000 miles per hour at the equator).

Jupiter has 13 moons some of which are huge, one measuring 4,000 to 60,000 miles per hour and can be seen by the naked eye from earth.

The temperature is 200 degrees below zero F. and the atmosphere is probably methane and ammonia gases as well as hydrogen and helium.

NO LIFE ON SATURN

SATURN is the 6th planet. It is visible to the naked eye but is much fainter due to its great distance. (886,000,000 miles from the Sun.) Saturn takes 29 years to go around the Sun.

Saturn consists of rings of rings circling it, first seen by Galileo. These rings consist of billions of bits which may never have formed into a moon. The rings extend out about 200,000 miles and are abut 10 miles thick. It was once suggested that Saturn may be what is left of a moon which has been torn asunder by Saturn's gravitation. (Some astronomers say the rings are composed of frozen gases).

Saturn has nine moons, one of which is larger than our moon and has an atmosphere.

The atmosphere of Saturn is hydrogen, methane and ammonia and its temperature is about 170 degrees below zero F. and 200 below zero F.

Saturn is lighter than water and would float like a cork in water. Like Jupiter it is probably mostly methane, ammonia and helium.

There surely can be no life on Saturn.

URANUS is the 7th planet. It can be seen by naked eye but only under most favorable conditions. It was discovered by accident in 1781. It is a planet about four times the diameter of earth and the gravity pull is considerably stronger. It takes Uranus 84 years to go around the Sun once and it spins on its axis once in 11 hours. It has a top speed of 8,500 miles an hour at the equator.

The temperature is about 200 degrees below zero. The atmosphere is 20 per cent methane and some ammonia. There is probably a solid core in the centre of the planet, then, thousands of miles of frozen hydrogen, helium and ammonia, and then, a thick atmosphere. Uranus is the only planet that can be said to rotate sideways as seen from the ecliptic. The planet nearly lies on its side.

Uranus has five moons which move perpendicular to the plane of the orbit and the axis. There is again another fact that living in Uranus.

NEPTUNE is the 8th planet. Neptune was discovered in 1846 when Uranus failed to follow its predicted course. It was predicted that it must be affected gravitationally by a planet unseen planet. In looking for the unseen planet in the predicted location, astronomers found Neptune. It is over three times the diameter of earth and is much heavier, with a stronger gravity pull than earth. The only other Neptune which was pulling Uranus out of its predicted orbit.

Neptune takes 165 years to go around the Sun and it rotates once every 15 hours.

The composition and atmosphere of Neptune is probably similar to that of Uranus described above. The temperature is 330 degrees below zero.

The Sun, from Neptune, All physical things belonged to

ACCEPTING THE UNIVERSE

"I accept the universe," is a fine remember that life is famous say'ng of the New England transcendentalist Margaret Fuller. Many people, on the first face of it, tends to make us smile — we are amused at their independence, even arrogance. It implies, as if the universe were something which could be accepted or rejected according to one's wish.

And yet, many people never accept the universe. They put up with life. They go along with it reluctantly, particularly because they are here and must take part, but not because they want to. They obey the laws of life, more or less, but they do so as an irksome duty which must be performed.

Happiness never comes this way. People who live by making the worst of things, not making the best of them, cannot enjoy life. To get joy out of living, we must put joy in — by Lincolnshire, England in ing in Lincolnshire, England in the Domesday Book it is spelled Enderbie. The word, means "the dwelling or village of Ender."

basically bigger and better than we are inclined to regard it.

Truly religious people find this happiness in living because God's world and serving Him is a delight and not a burden. They do not admit to life — they welcome it with enthusiasm. This is the only way to be really alive.

They increased their subscription to the exhibition from twenty-five dollars to fifty dollars. The Thirteenth annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association called to held in conjunction with the British Empire Dairy Show will be staged in Belleville in the city hall on December 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

Those tall plants growing in the garden of Robert Otis at Bayside, R.M.C., are not evening primrose but tall sunflowers which have reached abnormal growth.
